FIRST BABY OF 1994 - Corey Andrew Bosley earned the distinction of "first baby of the new year" on January 1, 1994, at 9:42 p.m. The six-pound, one and one-half ounce baby boy was born to Victoria Gaigler and Cletis Bosley, Bayard, W.Va. Dr. Todd Tritch was the attending physician and Charlene Bennett, R.N., was the nurse on duty. Ms. Gaigler's due date was January 9, but she was thrilled to have the first baby of the new year. A number of local businesses donated baskets of welcome gifts for the little one.

Hunt Valley Youth Dies In Skiing Accident Saturday

A Hunt Valley youth died Saturday night after reportedly sustaining injuries in a skiing accident at Wisp Ski Resort, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

David Morris, 14, was pronounced dead at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 7:50 p.m. accident.

Witnesses at the scene said Morris was attempting to do a "back-scratcher," which involves becoming airborne off of a jump or mogul and then attempting to touch one's own back with the tails of one's skis. Morris apparently did not obtain enough height to complete the maneuver and the tips of his skis caught in the snow, causing him to fall prone into the slope with great force.

According to Jerry Geisler, operations manager at the Wisp, members of the Wisp Ski Patrol responded to the accident, which occurred near the intersection of Wisp and Roadrunner trails. They immediately began resuscitation efforts, which were later continued by the Northern Rescue Squad and at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The cause of death is being determined by an autopsy, the results of which were still not available this morning.

Geisler said the youth was reportedly skiing with his sister, Jennifer, when the mishap occurred.

"We emphasize safety on a daily basis here," Geisler said. "One of our biggest safety problems is young people doing aerial maneuvers, which are not permitted at the Wisp."

Icy Road Mishap Sends Two To Area Hospital

Two persons were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle mishap Wednesday evening where they were treated for minor injuries and released, according to a hospital spokesperson. The accident occurred at the intersection of U.S. Rts. 40 and 219.

Vicky Kamp, 27, Grantsville, and her 11-year-old passenger, Malcolm Simmons, were both treated following the 6:18 p.m. mishap.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry, Kamp was driving west on Rt. 40, approaching Hilltop, when her vehicle was struck head on by an eastbound car that slid on a patch of ice while attempting to turn left onto Rt. 219. The operator of that car was Blaine Resh, 54, Grantsville. He was reportedly not injured.

Resh was charged with failure to drive right of center and Kamp was charged with a seat belt violation.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the injured.

THREE INJURED

Three persons received minor injuries in a single-vehicle accident on U.S. Rt. 50 near Red House Friday evening.

Sheridon L. Mcie, 35, Romney, W.Va., operator of a 1984 Jeep Wagoneer, and Shannan D. Barnes, 5, and Joshua P. Barnes, 7, also of Romney, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. They were reportedly treated and released.

Complete details of the mishap were not available at the state police barrack.

Emphasis On Safety Justified As Dreaded Statistic Hits Wisp

by Don Sincell

After operating for nearly four decades without a fatal accident, the statistics caught up with the Wisp Ski Area on New Year's Day when 14-year-old David Morris of Hunt Valley attempted an acrobatic maneuver on Wisp trail and was killed when he was unable to successfully complete an aerial known as a "back-scratcher."

It was the dreaded mishap that Wisp officials and members of the National Ski Patrol who serve at Wisp hoped would never come, but knew in the back of their minds that it was probably inevitable. Out of the literally millions of skiers who have enjoyed the slopes of the Wisp these past 40 years, only a tiny percentage of them have ever experienced any injury whatsoever, and until this past Saturday evening, not one had ever become a fatality, as has been the case with skiers at many other area ski resorts.

Even White Tail resort near Clear Spring, which opened just three years ago, had its first fatality last year.

Jerry Geisler, operations manager at the Wisp, credited the area's extensive safety program, and the members of the Wisp Ski Patrol who are most responsible for enforcing it, as the primary reason that the Wisp has maintained an outstanding safety record.

"This is why we harp on safety every single day here," Geisler said. "This is why we have rules that are designed to protect our skiers and make their skiing experience enjoyable. Unfortunately, many young skiers don't realize the dangers that are involved with these aerials. They see experts doing them on television, or other kids doing them, and they look so easy. But they are not easy and they are dangerous."

Geisler said that the members of the ski patrol who attempt to enforce the rules against unsafe skiing have paid a price for doing so, as they are being labeled as police officers or watch dogs, not only by the young skiers, but in some cases also by their parents.

"But now it should be perfectly clear to everyone

Rash Of Breaking, Enterings Reported On Mosser Road

Several vacation trailers and/or outbuildings located in the Morris Subdivision on Mosser Road, McHenry, were reportedly broken into in the past month. Propane gas tanks were stolen from several of the residences, and one trailer was apparently lived in by the perpetrator for some time. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating.

Eugene Davis, Johnstown, Pa., contacted the police when he found on Jan. 1 that his trailer had been entered. He had not been at the trailer since October, and found that the door jamb had been split in the culprit's effort to get inside. Several long distance phone calls were then apparently made by the perpetrator.

After investigating and reporting the crime at his own property, Davis then decided to check area trailers and discovered that several outbuildings at the residences had also been illegally entered. Owners of the properties are Charles Rager, Johnstown; Frances Kristoff, Kissimmee, Fla.; and Don Graham, Johnstown.

"GET OUTTA MY FIELD," said the horse to the crow as they played in the snow. While out taking snow pictures this week, photographer Craig Phillips stumbled upon a field of crows. When the crows suddenly flew away, Phillips noticed that they were being chased by a horse - a territorial horse, no doubt. Perhaps all the snow caused some "barn fever" for this horse and crow tag was a way of alleviating that cooped up feeling. Students in the county were also out sledding and skiing in full force this week as they were dismissed from school Monday at 1 p.m. and did not return until after a two-hour delay this morning. State and county road crews have been working diligently and nearly non-stop this week to keep ahead of the snowfall and gusty winds. More snow and freezing rain are predicted later today.

Bradley Manor Demolition Closer; Town Sets Sights For "Glades West"

The dilapidated Bradley Manor housing development in Oakland could be demolished as early as late January, according to Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, as the agreed-upon 40-day waiting period ended on Dec. 26. The waiting period was the result of finalized plans made between the town of Oakland, the Oakland Associates of Baltimore (headed by Mortin Sarubin), and HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) several months ago. The arrangement has been the result of years of negotiations, spurred on chiefly by McCain. What the mayor hopes to be the final wrap-up meeting is set for January 12 in Baltimore.

"If all is well on January 12, we could theoretically begin demolition by the end of January," McCain said. "But realistically, we will most likely start in April because of all the drainage and excavating work we have to do. The weather won't permit us to do much until spring."

The new development at the site will be named Glades West, McCain said, and has been designed by Devlin, Inc. Other area businesses/agencies involved in the project are Community Action and Garrettland. The Oakland Associates - now named the New Limited Partnership - will still own a tiny percentage of the development, McCain said.

"The Oakland Associates - which consisted of 10 Baltimore businessmen headed up by Sarubin - originally owned about 99% of the project," McCain said. "With this new agreement, they will own 1%, which will be divided among them. They have agreed to pay the back taxes owed the county, and have donated three acres of land previously owned by Sarubin. The Associates did these things in turn for protection against any future lawsuits concerning the project."

McCain went on to explain that previous reports of the Garrett County Commissioners lending the town $60,000 for the demolition have been misleading.

"That is not really accurate," McCain said. He explained that the Oakland Associates owe the county $60-80,000 in back taxes, and have agreed to repay it. While the town council of

Edwards Speculates About Focus Of This Year's General Assembly

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week offered his predictions about which issues will dominate the 1994 Maryland General Assembly, scheduled to commence in full on January 12. After indicating that the state's financial problems will finally be minimized after several years of substantial budgetary concerns, Edwards speculated that legislators would turn their attention, instead, to issues such as crime, gun, control, and welfare reform.

"The state is in a lot better shape economically," he said. "We won't be dealing with two budgets this year, anyway."

With state revenues increasing in the form of sales and income taxes and lottery revenues falling short of last year's predictions, Edwards said the overall projections for fiscal Year 1994 are "slightly up."

Monetary concerns have now taken a back seat to issues that were presented to the legislators in recent years but that failed to command their full attention because of the pressing budgetary concerns.

Edwards projected that the issue of crime will probably come to the forefront, noting that "people are getting fed up with criminals - especially repeat offenders - who are not sufficiently punished."

"You'll probably see a number of bills this year that deal with stiffer penalties for repeat offenders," he said. He added that there has always been conflict between the legislative and judicial branches concerning just treatment for criminals, and that part of the problem is the increasing crowded conditions of jails. He did note, however, that construction will probably start in late summer on the proposed Western Correctional facility, scheduled to be built at the old Celanese site.

Edwards then said that because the Brady Bill has now passed, the state will again take up gun control issues, even though Maryland is one of the states that already requires a seven-day waiting period for handguns.

Moves by the Schaefer administration in the past few years to ban certain assault weapons have not even made their way out of

of the blanket of crisp, fresh snow on the landscape is unmistakable. Winter weather is apparently here to stay for awhile as more snow and freezing rain are predicted this evening.

"ON THE ROAD AGAIN," has been the theme song of Maryland State Highway and Garrett County Roads Department employees this week. Crews have been working around the clock since this last storm front that began late Monday afternoon. Their efforts paid off as traffic appeared to be back to normal this morning, except for those who have yet to dig out from the latest 20 inches or more of snow. Not much rest is expected, however, as more snow and freezing rain are again in the forecast. Many county citizens have commented on a "job well done" by road workers. Applause! Applause!

SHOVELING WALKS to earn extra money or to simply be nice to an elderly neighbor was one way students passed the last two and one-half days of yet another "vacation" from school. Kids of all ages were spotted shoveling, blowing, or plowing snow, not to mention playing in the fluffy mounds of winter delight. More of these delightful mounds are expected to hit the area again this evening. Unfortunately, freezing rain is also predicted. The shovels and salt shouldn't be stored away yet.

Edwards

committee, he reported, explaining that the manner in which the bills are phrased frequently keep them from moving through the assembly.

The third major item on the agenda for lawmakers this year, he said, would likely be welfare reform in the form of bills that will attempt to discourage welfare recipients from "playing the system." More laws are needed that "motivate parents and benefit kids," he said, explaining that a bill that passed last year requiring welfare parents to immunize their children and attend school has been successful because it carries a penalty if the requirements are ignored.

Two years ago, Edwards sponsored a "workfare" bill that provided a plan to get welfare recipients into the workforce and out of the welfare system. That bill was not successful but it did help to stimulate the formation of a governor's commission to study the issue for the state.

Edwards will concern himself this year with the close-to-home issue of allowing private enterprise to reclaim abandoned mine sites, mine the contents, and actually improve bad water quality being caused by acid mine drainage at these sites. Currently, he said, the state discourages such a takeover because a coal operator would be responsible for guaranteeing that a certain level of water quality be maintained (in accordance with the new federal Clean Air Act).

In contrast, if the state were to take over the same abandoned site, it would not have to maintain the same stringent standards of water quality.

Efforts to correct that inequity are already underway by Edwards and District 1 Senator John Hafer, who are currently investigating the issue and who will probably be cross-filing bills in the House and Senate to correct the situation.

"It's a win-win situation," he said. "The water and land will be cleaned up, the resources will be tapped, and all at no cost to the taxpayers. It's ridiculous the way it is now because the water is running dirty."

Edwards also intends to pursue the issue of flag desecration, hoping that Maryland will join the other 35 states which already penalize citizens who desecrate the flag.

"We have to have some respect for our country's symbols," he said.

As far as any local legislation goes, Edwards has not yet heard from the Garrett County Commissioners about any legislative requests they might have. Commissioner Brenda Butcher, however, recently stated that requests for legislation would probably be forthcoming from the commissioners' office.

Edwards also commented on the recent appointment of District 2-A Delegate Casper R. Taylor, Cumberland, to the position of Speaker of the House, saying, "I think it's great that someone from this region has been appointed to that position. He knows our concerns here."

OCPD Probing Major Theft Of Computer Items

Chief John Sines of the Oakland City Police is currently investigating an apparent theft at a local computer business, Doug Sisler, owner of Innovative Concepts in Electronics, or ICE, reported the theft of over $25,000 in cash and merchandise that took place on the night of Dec. 22.

Sines reported that Sisler was at the business until 10 p.m. on the 22nd, and found the next morning that someone had cut burglar alarm wires and had entered the store via a back door. Scanners, VCR's, computers, and computer accessories were among the reportedly stolen items. Also missing was approximately $833 in cash, taken from two cash registers. The total loss has been set at $25,756, Sines said. An extensive investigation is underway.

Education Board To Meet Tuesday

The regular meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education will be held Tuesday, Jan. 11, at the education board offices in Oakland. The meeting will begin at 1 p.m. with approximately one hour allotted for public session with student council representatives from the county's middle and high schools. The executive (closed) session will take place from approximately 2:43 p.m., at which time the public session will resume.

Topics to be covered at the meeting will include the yearly re-organization of the board and approval of the board's attorney, legislative issues of the General Assembly, discussion of a four-period school day, a dress policy issue, and a clarification of the bus driver drug testing policy.

The public is invited to attend the meeting. For more information, persons may call the board office at 334-8900.

SNOW REMOVAL PARKING REGULATIONS

Parking will be permitted Monday, Wednesday, and Friday between the hours of 5:00 PM and 7:00 AM on the north and east sides of the streets.

Parking will be permitted Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday between the hours of 5:00 PM and 7:00 AM on the west and south sides of the streets.

These regulations apply only during times of heavy snowfall (4 inches or more) and only between the hours of 5:00 PM and 7:00 AM. These regulations apply to all streets that are plowed by the Town of Oakland and will remain in effect during the winter season.

No parking at the meters from 12:00 midnight until 7:00 AM, either side.

DEED Says Maryland Economy Takes Positive Turn Into 1994

The Maryland economy ended 1993 on a much more positive note than it began.

According to Maryland Secretary of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) Mark L. Wasserman, the Maryland economy "picked up steam" in the second half of the year and "turned the corner into 1994" with higher employment levels and increased productivity levels and buoyed by a holiday boost in retail sales.

Governor William Donald Schaefer commented that "the Maryland economy is now showing signs of real growth that should continue in 1994."

"We are encouraged by the cyclical improvements in our economy brought by the end of the recession," Secretary Wasserman said in DEED's annual briefing on the state's economy. "But the challenges still are great. We have learned that there are gaps in the Maryland economy and that longer-term restructuring is still taking place."

"At DEED, we are operating from a framework that focuses on manufacturing -- both commercialization and modernization -- and on workforce development, international trade and tourism. We are trying to prepare the Maryland economy for the 21st Century by helping Maryland businesses and workers gain the competitive edge they will need."

The national recession lingered long in Maryland, with the first half of 1993 continuing to show limited or no growth. Many manufacturers continued to downsize, particularly in durable goods industries. Some, however, maintained their employment levels, including industrial machinery, food and kindred products, chemicals and printing and publishing.

Many manufacturers, even while downsizing, continued to increase or maintain production levels. Average hourly earnings and average weekly hours rose.

Maryland's employment by place of work has rebounded to 1992 levels, signalling the end of a downward trend, and employment by residence rose strongly during the latter part of the year and surpassed the 1992 level by 1.5 percent.

Maryland's unemployment rate was 6.0 percent in October 1993, down from 6.2 percent in October 1992. From October 1992 to October 1993, the state's civilian labor force grew by 1.3 percent and the number of employed persons grew by 1.5 percent.

READY AND WAITING - The new bridge on Oak Street, Oakland, is reportedly ready for traffic structurally, but because of the recent snows, builders have had to delay the project. Lines have yet to be painted on the bridge, and technically it should not be opened for traffic until this can be done. Another reason for the delay has to do with electronic problems, as the lampposts and the stoplight have yet to be installed. The weather is the culprit in both cases, according to Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, and the opening of the bridge is contingent upon what the clouds bring in the next several weeks.

Sectors of the Maryland economy losing jobs in 1993 included construction, wholesale trade, and transportation, communications and utilities. Employment in retail trades stabilized, remaining only 0.6 percent below 1992 levels.

On the positive side, employment in the finance, insurance and real estate sector was slightly above last year's level.

The services sector continues to drive employment growth in the state, with 9,400 jobs added from October 1992 to October 1993. Within this sector, business services and health services have provided the majority of new jobs.

Housing permits issued in Maryland were 12.5 percent higher in October 1993 than in October 1992, compared with 11.5 percent nationally. Total permits issued for 1993 should be slightly below 1992 levels, but significantly above 1991 levels.

Maryland's business failure rate continued to increase in 1992, the latest period for which information is available, but had slowed considerably compared to 1991. Maryland's business failure rate increase in 1992 was 14 percent, down from an 83 percent increase in 1991.

In 1992, Maryland's per capita personal income was $22,974, up 3 percent over 1991 -- 16 percent above the national average and still fifth highest in the nation. The state's median household income in 1992 was $40,260 -- 21 percent above the national average and seventh highest in the nation.

Retail sales in Maryland from October 1992 to October 1993 rose a strong 7.7 percent, compared with 4.5 percent in the U.S. Preliminary data indicate that 1993 holiday sales were running above year-ago levels and that 1993 total retail sales will exceed 1992 levels.

During the first nine months of 1993, general cargo moving through the Port of Baltimore's public terminals increased 5.7 percent over the same period in 1992. This increase was the fifth consecutive quarter during which general cargo has increased at the Port.

At Baltimore/Washington International Airport, passenger traffic totalled 8.6 million from January through November 1993, up 4.7 percent from the 8.2 million during the same period in 1992. Sparked by the entry of Southwest Airlines in September and more than doublefold increased by Continental Airlines, BWI traffic jumped 36.7 percent in October and 30.8 percent in November. Air freight volume, on the other hand, decreased 3.8 percent during the same time period.

The economic consulting firms of WEFA and DRI/McGraw Hill both predict that the Maryland economy will resume slow, but steady growth in employment, income and housing starts during 1994.

Marylanders have more reason to feel optimistic about their economy in the coming year because:

*Earnings per worker in Maryland are growing faster than inflation and faster than in the nation due to an above-average education level in the state and rising self-employment.

*Retail spending is increasing, which will further raise employment and earnings.

*Maryland corporations have already downsized and restructured their debts, as have Maryland citizens, and are once again in a position to hire and spend.

*The state of Maryland has remained fiscally responsible by streamlining spending in line with revenues, balancing its budget and retaining its AAA bond ratings.

*Inflation remains low and under control.

*Low interest and a high index of housing affordability should help the housing and construction sectors.

Prevention Of Under-Age Drinking Meeting Scheduled

The Maryland Under-age Drinking Prevention Coalition will hold regional meetings for persons interested in the issue of under-age drinking. Allegany, Garrett and Washington county residents are encouraged to attend Friday, January 7, at 10 a.m., at the Allegany Health Department Community Room on Willowbrook Road, Cumberland.

Topics of discussion will include local grassroots efforts and the 1994 proposed legislation which includes keg registration, misrepresentation or false statement of age, and possession or consumption.

"We need the support of the entire community to successfully make changes that will save the lives of young people," said a spokesperson.

More information may be obtained by calling Sally Boone at 334-8116. Persons interested in obtaining

DNR Plans Mtg. On Forest Conservation

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the state advisory group on forest conservation will hold three public information meetings to announce and gain public comment on the advisory group's status report and recommendations on modifications to the Forest Conservation Act of 1991. The group's status report and recommendations were submitted to Governor William Donald Schaefer and the General Assembly on Dec. 1.

The closest meeting to Garrett will be held on Monday, Jan. 10, from 7-10 p.m., in the first floor Hearing Room of the Frederick County Building at 12 E. Church St. in Frederick.

The recommendations are grouped into three principal topics: forest conservation site planning issues; local and state implementation; and tools and techniques. A status report of on-going revisions by DNR and an ad-hoc committee to revise the Forest Conservation Technical Manual is also included.

The meeting will include an initial half-hour for informal mixing with members of the advisory group, with questions and review of written materials available. Subsequent half-hours will be devoted to each of the principal topics with short question-and-answer periods. Opportunity will be provided for persons to submit written comments during and shortly after the meeting.

The advisory group was created to encourage the effective protection and replacement of Maryland's forest resources; promote innovative and efficient local and state implementation of the Forest Conservation Act of 1991; improve coordination with local land-use policies and procedures; and minimize costs to local jurisdictions and affected industries.

The group includes representatives from the Maryland Association of Counties, Maryland Municipal League, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Maryland Chapter of the American Planning Association, Maryland Builders Association, Maryland Farm Bureau, and others recommended by the secretary of DNR.

It is Their Nature...

The teenage years of their children's lives are usually the most trying for parents, as previously sweet and innocent youngsters for the first time come face to face with various hormones that tend to derail the best of us. They are the years of rebellion, of confrontation, of confusion, of change, and of extreme peer pressure.

They are also dangerous years, as teens have this mistaken impression that they are somehow invincible to bodily harm. This impression leads them to take all kinds of risks, with varying degrees of jeopardy, whether it is taking their first puff on a cigarette or seeing how fast their automobiles can go. Fortunately, they usually come away from these often foolhardy activities unscathed, or with only minor injury at worst.

However, occasionally these risks that are seemingly harmless in their minds result in absolute tragedy, as was the case Saturday night at the Wisp Ski Area. Fourteen-year-old David Morris was doing nothing more than scores of other teenagers do at the Wisp on a regular basis, despite the fact that it is against the safety rules of the area. Thousands of aerial maneuvers have been performed at the Wisp by youth not trained to do them, from which there have been relatively few injuries, and certainly no fatalities; until Saturday night. The odds were probably one in a million that David Morris would be killed when he did his aerial. There was a much greater possibility of his being killed in a car wreck on his way to the Wisp. But it still happened; and it could happen again.

Every effort we know of has been utilized at the Wisp to stop young skiers from breaking the rules, as both negative and positive reinforcement measures are in place. Most likely many injuries have been avoided, and perhaps a few lives saved, because of these efforts.

But it is simply the nature of young people to take risks, and most will always do it, no matter what is attempted to prevent it. This certainly does not mean that we should throw in the towel and cease all efforts to control the problem. Indeed, we should continue to strive for new and innovative methods that might have some positive effect. But as long as teens are teens, we will never completely eliminate their risk-taking.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family of David Morris, as we parents can only hope and pray that our children will survive these years -- their most dangerous -- as teenagers.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Members and staff of the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission visited Garrett County on Thursday, Dec. 16, 1993, to meet with officials and individuals involved with substance abuse programs throughout the county. The Commission initiates these meetings so that it can hear about new and ongoing programs, track trends, and discuss problems. In addition, it gives Commission members and staff an opportunity to share information that may be pertinent to the county's efforts. It also gives the Commission an opportunity to recognize individuals and various organizations for their ongoing efforts to fight substance abuse.

The meeting gave the Commission a chance to update those in attendance regarding the efforts of the Maryland Underage Drinking Prevention Coalition. The Coalition is an alliance of organizations and individuals statewide who are supporting legislative efforts to consolidate certain underage drinking laws so as to make enforcement easier, make adults who purchase alcohol for minors responsible, and to pass a keg registration law for Maryland.

Garrett County should be proud of its endeavors and the many people who are making various programs and activities happen. The Garrett County Highway Safety Project is currently using the majority of its funding towards prevention efforts, and over-time funds to support more vigorous drunk driving activities.

Community outreach continues through Garrett County Prevention Coordinator Sally Boone and includes the annual Red Ribbon program, 3-D Month, Hooked on Fishing project, and summer bike rodeo, to name a few. Parenting programs are being implemented and outreach to seniors for medication review are all working to involve community members in programs that are relevant to them.

Outpatient treatment for trustee inmates in the prison system is now possible and DARE programs are operating in both Northern and Southern Middle Schools. The Garrett County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse is involving more and more groups and is able to do more programming. The Drug Free Schools programs is in the second year of its QUEST Program and is working with the Maryland State Police in its Operation Night Ride, which has students riding with patrolmen on Friday and Saturday evenings during April and May.

While there is always more to be done, the Commission wishes to commend Garrett County for its continuing efforts. We recognize how hard it is to sustain the enthusiasms and energy necessary to build successful programs. Garrett County continues to build on its firm foundations, meet new challenges and introduce more and more positive programming activities.

We wish to thank all those who took time out of their schedules to meet with us and congratulate all who work so tirelessly to keep your county's substance abuse prevention efforts going strong.

Sincerely,
Floyd O. Pond
Executive Director

Those bluish-gray vans running around Garrett County may appear to be government vehicles, but they are not. They belong to and are operated by the Garrett Transit Service, which is part of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.

The impact these vehicles are having on our county is growing on a daily basis. They represent mobility to those who otherwise would be homebound in a county without public transportation. These vans are the equivalent of transit systems in the metro areas. They enable Garrett County residents to obtain medical treatment, job training, skill improvement, children to experience a Head Start learning environment, mobility to seniors, and those with physical limitations, grocery shopping for those without transportation, meals to shut-ins, and many other opportunities that mobility can provide.

The bluish-gray vehicles mean a lot to those who depend upon them for essential services. These vehicles traverse the county north to south, east to west many times a day. They are operated by professional, courteous, caring drivers who take great pride in helping those needing transportation. Most of these drivers have been with Garrett Transit for many years, and they perform their duties under all weather conditions because they realize people are depending on them and their vehicles.

In 1984, Garrett Transit Service was formed with a station wagon and a van, and they have been providing transportation to the people of Garrett County ever since. At present, Garrett Transit Service operates a total of 17 vehicles, including four wheelchair vans, a mini-bus, several mini-vans, and six 15-passenger vans. The services of Garrett Transit are available to all residents of Garrett County needing transportation. They prefer advanced scheduling, but do provide "on call" service when available.

There is a small charge for this service, with discounts to seniors, persons with handicapped, and children under 12 years of age. Those with current Medicaid cards can ride free, providing the trip is for a valid medical reason.

Garrett Transit is available to everyone - a trip to the store, doctors' offices, airports, tours, or special occasions. They get around. When you see these bluish-gray vehicles, don't think of government transportation, but when you need transportation, see the people movers - Garrett Transit Service.

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Health Department's Prevention and Community Outreach Departments would like to extend our thanks to our local media for all of the help we received to promote December's National Drunk and Drugged Driving (3-D) Prevention campaign. Both The Republican and the Cumberland Times-News Garrett County Weekender printed awareness pieces and advertisements throughout the month to help educate the public on the dangers of drinking and driving and the consequences of underage drinking. Mary and John McHenry of The Republican designed an effective, full-page of non-alcoholic drink recipes for the Dec. 23 issue for the readers to use for holiday entertaining. In addition, radio stations WKJJ, WM-SG-WXIE, WAJ, and WFRB all provided public service announcements with the message for residents to "Take a Stand, Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk."

Without the continued support of our local media, the Garrett County Health Department would be unable to reach out to residents in our area and make them aware of our programs, services, and campaigns. Thank you all again. Joelle Plauger and Sally Boone

To the Editor:

How can I say "Good Riddance" to a year that brought so many blessings? Among my nine employees, five had their first child in 1993. My own son learned to walk and talk, and he told me for the first time, "I love you." December brought news that we're expecting our second child next summer. My own health improved, as did the health of three close friends who have been challenged with stress and illness.

The past year saw thousands of my neighbors reach out to help fellow humans. Houses were built for some without shelter. Food and clothing were collected and distributed to those in need. The spirit of Santa lived on through donated gifts to children who would otherwise have had none. Every week, your paper brought news of volunteers and donors giving their time and money to make the world a better place.

And in the last week of the year, a man who understood that we must act to relieve suffering of any kind gave his life to save a bird from death. Others risked their lives and used all the skill they had to save his. These people are a testament to the goodness that surrounds us -- goodness that can be found in heroic acts of firemen and the simple acts of "regular folks."

Dear Editor, 1993 was a year filled with countless blessings and examples of human kindness. If we choose to focus only on the tragedies that make national headlines, we're left feeling helpless, that the world is filled with hatred, murder, and despair. But that is not the world. The world is what exists in our hearts.

To all those who have seen ways to ease suffering and acted, I thank you. Each such act makes my world and that of my family and friends that much better. To those who have given a smile to those who have lost theirs, I say, "Bless you." Your joy and laughter are contagious and brighten the greyest of days.

To all of you, may 1994 bring you peace and happiness, even amidst the challenges that are a natural part of this life on Earth.

Sincerely,
Richard P. Wilkes

It was with a great sense of grief and loss that I heard of the passing of Ed Lewis. He and I grew up in the same community as neighbors. I am sure that I am not the only one to have these feelings. He will be sadly missed by all.

I am sure I'd was doing his job to serve the people of Maryland to the best of his ability. This case will be no different than usual; there will be those who will blame themselves. This is both natural and unfair. Tragedy strikes without our understanding; I have been there.

This unfortunate event seems indicative of a society gone awry. A society that would sacrifice a man's life for a bird, a society that would kill millions of unborn children and save the whales. This is not an indictment of anyone. The only person that is to bear the blame is the person who would advocate such an ideology.

To the editor:

I think it's sad the way deer season has been dragged out in Garrett County this year. What has it been? Five years now?

What about the amount of deer each hunter could have killed had he gotten all permits? Five or six or maybe more?

Statistics show that the deer population is dropping at a rapid pace. Last March's snowfall played a role in high death rates, I'm sure. There's no way they can continue to survive under these conditions. Opening deer season for a week or longer at a time is just plain crazy. Every time a doe goes down, how many deer are really being killed if she had been bred? Just one? Very doubtful.

It hasn't been all that long ago that there were no deer to have a season in Garrett County. Between 1925 and 1930, I remember Granddad speaking of this. I only hope this massive slaughter slows down and does not continue at this rate. I do realize the importance of deer season to prevent starvation, inbreeding, and disease to the herds, but come on, enough is enough.

I'm sure there are people who don't agree and want to keep killing and want now are laughing at what they are reading, but I'd be safe in saying that they would be the first to complain when all the deer are gone. Don't get me wrong. There are some true, honest-to-God hunters out there who still care. They kill one or two bucks per season, which is their limit, and stop.

There are just as many idiots who want to keep going. I couldn't find much sport in killing a doe walking less than 50 feet away, yet some do even when the doe's young is nearby. The does do not want to leave their young behind and they do not realize the danger.

I realize it's important to keep nature balanced out, but why kill everything that moves just to watch it die. In my heart, this separates the true hunter from a killer. If you are a killer, take a long look in the mirror and you'll see the reason they'll be no deer season tomorrow for someone's kid to enjoy.

When I was little, most kids had dogs and cats for pets. Well, I had a deer. She wasn't from Garrett County. I realize now it's wrong and illegal to have wild animals for pets. We had her for two or three years until one day she was taken from us. As I stood and watched them take her away in a crate, I never told anyone, but I cried as I stood by helpless and

The Solitary Bush

Not far from a busy roadway, there is a large tuft of slender-stemmed bush. Slightly taller than a formidable man, it is perched on a hillside just outdoors. The grassy knoll on which it resides is covered with a white blanket of snow. On an overcast afternoon, the luminous backdrop of snow as seen through the spray of limbs of this bush suffuses light into an aural blush of pastel brown. The limbs are sparingly covered with small, dry leaves. It is yet able to reveal a scattering of tiny buds from the formative year.

The thick part of the growth, with stems still distinct at the base in sharp relief against the snow, support slender branches that are bowed gently outward in tapered increments. The increments are a common remind of seasons past. The branches diminish in size to the present stage of sinuous spires that sweep gracefully upward toward the sky. These topmost spires are the delicate ends which sway gingerly in the wind. In punctual rows on high, the buds held there are quite visible in thin silhouette.

The live bush appears very patient and resigned to wait outdoors. It has no explanation for its place or being. The bush and I have a circumstance which I perceive to be close. Amid the confusion of this cold season, I too wonder if one should not stop seeking a reason for being and patiently wait the cold without explanation or complaint. To this end, there seems to be no better example than the bush.

As solitary and detached as it is, the lowly bush instills a reassurance to life with its mere delineation of slender stems. In spite of being in vacant air stripped-dry of aroma and rain, it remains alive and resilient. Its fulfillment seems to be as much lodged in this kind of waiting as it is in the blossoming of summer. Its recourse is to be just where it is, unabashed and unapologetic to the circumstance of its pedestrian place.

It is conceivable that someday, someone may impose the indignity of cutting the bush down. Only then would its delicate and stately spires fall to the ground. The greatest indignity would be to have such happen with the biting austerity of winter. I think that such indifference would be a disappointing find for the return of summer as well.

It seems ironic that in this most stifled part of the year a dormant bush could offer as much hope as it does. Through the most rigorous days of winter, it is outside staunch in company to encourage. It proffers nothing more than the simplicity of its vibrant posture and proud collection of clinging buds. It waves with simple dignity to a passing world. Its response to the buffeting winds is slight as it too endures the most diminished of days.

With a few spry birds and a choice hour, I peer at the pastel scene in wonder, occasionally imbued with a burst of sunlight. Together we are poised to consider the precious minutes of the coming year. Each cherished minute now applied will herald the return of the vernal day.

Wishing All a Happy New Year,
Edmund Paul . . .

Ski Safety

why we have to do this," Geisler said, "and it has been very successful for over 30 years."

Wisp has had its share of accidents, but the number of mishaps continues to be below the national average. Plus, the great majority of injuries that have been sustained throughout Wisp's history have been minor, especially during recent years, because of the safety improvements in ski equipment, the fine grooming of the slopes that is done on a regular basis, and the greater overall emphasis on safety by management.

Enforcement of the safe skiing rules by the patrollers has, for the past several years, involved giving warnings and ultimately pulling ski passes of repeat offenders. However, this year the patrol has also initiated a form of positive reinforcement through a cooperative effort between the Wisp Patrol, Wisp management, and local McDonald's restaurants. Patrollers are handing out to young skiers who exhibit safe skiing habits two-for-one coupons that are redeemable at McDonald's.

"We started this program at the beginning of the season," stated Carl Rebele, a member of the Wisp Patrol. "Not only do we hand these coupons out on the hill, but we give one to every young person who is on a group bus the moment they arrive at the Wisp. We

SAFETY IS STRESSED by the management of Wisp Ski Area in McHenry so that all skiers may enjoy their day on the slopes and return home without injury. Helping to promote safety are the members of the Wisp Ski Patrol, who are also trained to handle those situations when injury does occur. Patrollers pictured below are engaged in one of their many training exercises that are crucial to maintaining their first aid and rescue skills.

bindings, the piece of equipment which is most significant in the cause or prevention of skiing injuries.

"The entire ski industry is devoted to recognizing and, hopefully, retiring the older bindings that are unsafe," stated Bob Rudy, owner of the shop. "Whenever a member of our staff works on an older binding, he recommends replacement of it with a newer, safer model. Also, every single binding that we sell or repair is adjusted according to the weight and skiing ability of the user, and is function tested before leaving our shop."

Rudy added that from time to time there are also recalls of older bindings that skiers can take advantage of in order to obtain a safer model.

Geisler said that the members of the management staff and Wisp Ski Patrol were "devastated" with the loss of life that occurred Saturday night. But he said that he hopes the young David Morris will not be in vain.

Skiers Responsibility Code

There are elements of risk in skiing that common sense and personal awareness can help reduce:

1. Ski under control and in such a manner that you can stop or avoid the skier below you.
2. When skiing downhill or overtaking another skier, you must avoid the skier below you.
3. You must not stop where you obstruct a trail or are not visible from above.

colorful table "tents" at McDonald's restaurants that bear the skier's responsibility code and advise all to "Ski Safe - Ski in Control."

A "Welcome to Skiing" program, designed by Wisp management, is also presented to the members of every new group just after they arrive. The program contains a video that provides safety information, as well as general information about skiing, equipment, and the Wisp.

Young skiers whose season passes have been pulled for repeated unsafe skiing, accompanied by their parents, are also required to view the film before management returns their passes and gives them another chance to ski safely.

Geisler was also quick to give credit to the members of the Wisp Patrol, not only for their handling of the tragedy Saturday evening, but also for their continued efforts at the Wisp.

"The Morris boy received absolutely the best possible care he could get and had every chance to survive under the circumstances," Geisler said. "Unfortunately, his injuries were apparently so severe that there was literally no way to save him."

"The members of our patrol include doctors, lawyers, dentists, and other volunteers from many walks of life," he added. "They are a highly trained and dedicated group of people who love the sport and want to help others enjoy it as much. While they must spend time treating injuries, they also do a lot to help prevent them from happening in the first place."

Also involved in the safety effort at the Wisp is the staff of the equipment rental shop, as well as Rudy's ski shop, who are trained and certified in the proper adjustment of ski

Food Service Workshop Slated Jan. 13 at GCC

The Garrett County Health Department, in conjunction with Garrett Community College Continuing Education Department and Morris M. Young, Inc., are sponsoring the first food service workshop of 1994. The workshop, to be held January 13 from 10 a.m. until noon, will focus on meat slicer operation, repair, and sanitation.

Personnel from Morris M. Young Company, Inc., will be demonstrating proper techniques on a variety of slicers. In addition, new technology in hand washing and sanitation will be presented. Gayle Miller, local representative for Morris M. Young Co., Inc., will demonstrate an automatic hand washer/sanitizer, the latest equipment in the area of personal hygiene in the workplace.

All food service facilities are urged by the Health Department to send personnel to the workshop. Any interested individuals, currently employed in the industry or not, are welcome to attend. Pre-registration may be made by calling the Continuing Education Office at GCC at 387-3069. There will be a nominal fee charged for the workshop. Participants will receive a certificate.

Deer Park Area Homemakers Meet

The Deer Park Homemakers met at the Deer Park fire hall on Tuesday, Dec. 14, with 18 members and one guest present.

There was a short Christmas program, with Janet Browning reading the scripture and Betty Thrasher reading poem. Games were played.

Seven members received perfect attendance gifts: Margaret Ammann, Nina Callis, Betty Thrasher, Betty O'Brien, Janet Browning, Precilla Bell, and Ruth Calderwood.

The club had a collection of food to present to the House of Hope. Cards were signed by all the members and sent to the shut-ins: Mabel Hauser, Mary DeBerry, and Genevieve Paugh.

Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were shared.

DONATION TO FOUNDATION - Debbie Welsagerber, right, of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, recently presented a donation to the Garrett Community College Foundation. Dr. Steve Herman, president of the college, accepted the gift on behalf of the Foundation. "The Junior Woman's Civic Club is a strong supporter of the college and its Foundation," said Welsagerber. The Foundation works to provide scholarships, endowment funds, and other fiscal resources to enhance Garrett Community College's learning and educational resources and to support special community service projects. Persons desiring additional information about the Foundation and the support it provides, may call Dr. Herman at 387-3056.

Vitez Scholarship Recipient Named

Karl E. Lindner, son of Rev. Ernest and Carolyn Lindner, Cove, has been awarded the Michael Vitez Memorial Scholarship to continue his studies at Garrett Community College.

Lindner is a 1992 graduate of Northern High School where he was a member of the yearbook staff and the Poet's Corner Club. He served as a teacher's assistant and was a contestant in the Citizenship Bee, Fantasy Baseball, and S.H.O.P.

He is enrolled in the transfer program at GCC with an emphasis in English. The student plans to be a librarian and is currently working in the college library.

Lindner has been named to the Dean's List and has had his work published in Seedfruit, the GCC literary magazine.

Tax Offices To Be Open Jan. 14

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says all state income tax offices will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Friday, January 14, when most other state offices will be closed in observance of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday.

All state income tax offices will also remain open Monday, January 17, which is designated as the federal recognition of Dr. King's birthday.

Taxpayers can get questions answered over the telephone or in person, pick up forms, or even have their state income tax returns completed free of charge if they have a completed federal return with them.

The addresses and telephone numbers of Maryland taxpayer service offices are listed on the back of the state income tax booklet and in local telephone directories.

The statewide toll-free number for Maryland income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Two Arrests Noted By GCSO

The arrests of two Oakland men on the strength of bench warrants were noted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week.

Curtis L. DeWitt, 20, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with violation of probation. He was originally convicted of felony theft.

A bench warrant was issued and served to Todd W. Riley, 18. He was charged with failure to appear in court to face the charge of assault and battery.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, will hold a regular communication Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, Wilson Street. Installation of officers for 1994 will be conducted. Worshipful Master-Elect Melvin D. Sines II invites all Master Masons to attend the communication and stay afterward for refreshments and fellowship.

Senior Citizens Congregate For Holiday Dinner

The Mary Browning Senior Center hosted a Christmas ham dinner in its new dining room on December 22. Some 66 seniors and their friends received the blessing of Father Martin Feild of St. Peter's Catholic Church.

After dinner, those attending were treated to a musical offering of Christmas songs by a quartet composed of: Clifford DeWitt, judge of the Orphans Court; Joe DiSimone, register of wills; Father Feild; and Dave Martin, clerk of the Circuit Court. The quartet gave spirited renditions of some favorite songs of the season, winding up with their own humorous version of "A Partridge in a Pear Tree."

Wellness Together Offering Smoke Stoppers Course

The Smoke Stoppers Staying Stopped course, developed by the National Center for Health Promotion, is being offered through the Wellness Together Program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department.

The course will begin Tuesday, January 11, and meet every Tuesday through February 8 from 5:15-6:15 p.m. in the hospital boardroom. The cost for the course is $55.

"This program provides behavioral support for individuals interested in quitting smoking by addressing weight control and stress management issues," said Debora Nichols, Wellness coordinator. "These two factors play major roles in keeping people from staying stopped and we want to help to confront these problems."

The course will be co-facilitated by Kelley Nestor, Wellness instructor for Garrett Memorial, and Nancy Rhine of the Health Department's community outreach team.

Persons interested in registering for the course or in obtaining more information may call 334-2155, ext. 443.

NO TAKERS THIS WEEK - Even though Mighty Distributors, a local business, put a sale on snow, there were no takers this week. Actually, business owners were just having a little fun. After the snow covered up everything on the sign but "We Take Credit Cards," a second sign was placed on the top of the sign. Ha! Ha! These guys receive the humor award for the week of the big snow.

The Food SHARE registration will be held at the basement of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, this Friday, Jan. 7, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The next meeting of the Youth Group of Rush Baptist Church will be held Sunday, Jan. 16, at the church following the worship service there. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a packed lunch to eat before the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Miller were among the callers at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, on Sunday evening following the death of a cousin, Mary Oester, Springs, Pa., who died Thursday, Dec. 30, 1993, at the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Grantsville. The funeral was held on Monday at the funeral home, with interment in the Salisbury, Pa., cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Friend, Friendsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringer returned to their respective homes after spending a vacation in Florida for the holidays. They visited Disney World, Epcot Center, Kennedy Space Center, and other places of interest. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rush and Mr. and Mrs. Louis DelMonte at Titusville, Fla. Donald visited with his father, Charles Ringer, on Sunday at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where he was admitted Monday, Dec. 27. Mrs. Ringer visited her husband, along with other relatives during his hospitalization because of pneumonia. Mr. Lambert Bernard and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bernard, Swanton, were in Cumberland this past Monday where the latter visited with her father, Charles. Mrs. Lambert Bernard, mother of Richard, was admitted to the same hospital that day, where she remains a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Reichenbecher were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Ruth Hillegas, Salisbury, Pa., and Charles Ringer at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charly Ahern have been among those visiting at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, with the latter's grandfather, Charles Ringer, and were in Winchester, Va., on Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wolff. Mrs.

A COMMON SIGHT - Snow blowers and shovels have been a common sight around the county this week as over 20 inches of new snow fell on the heels of a Christmas snowstorm. State and county offices were closed on Tuesday and were on "liberal leave" status on Wednesday. Students were "set free" from school on Monday at 1 p.m. with the storm predictions and finally returned to school this morning after a two-hour delay. A good deal of thawing occurred last night, but freezing rain and snow are in the forecast again.

Ahern's grandmother, Mrs. Lena Giotfelty, Accident, returned to this area with the Aherns after spending the holidays with a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wolff.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff were Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Margroff and sons, Friendsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Margroff and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff were in Wheeling, W.Va., on New Year's Day to see the Festival of Lights at Oglebay Park, and were Sunday evening visitors of Clyde Tressler, Springs, Pa., at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he is a surgical patient.

Several from this community visited with Mrs. Roy (Cora) Harman, Oakland, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she has been a patient.

Mrs. Edna Bond, a resident of the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Grantsville, was admitted to the Meyersdale, Pa., Hospital on Monday morning. She is a grandmother of Mrs. Thomas Stemple.

Approximately 60 relatives attended the Miller family get-together on Saturday in the basement of the Maple Glen Mennonite Church, Grantsville. Some members of the group visit often with Timothy Miller, Grantsville, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where he has been a patient for several weeks. Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust and Julia were Miss Lois Maust, Columbus, Ohio, Miss Debbie Maust, Morgantown, W.Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Urbane Maust and family, Bel Air. Other visitors several times were Mr. and Mrs. Jason Maust, Grantsville, and they were all included in the Miller family group, and participated in the ringing of the bell at midnight on New Year's Eve at the Old Catholic Church, Main Street, Grantsville.

OTTERBEIN U.M. CHURCH NEWS

All services on December 26 were canceled because of bad weather.

On Wednesday, Dec. 29, the Bible Study and Prayer meeting group met at the new home of Amy and Artie Sweitzer and Clara,

Charles and Preston Coddington. After the devotion, led by Amy Sweitzer, Rev. Hatcher held a "house blessing" service, followed by refreshments and a time of fellowship. Others attending were Dorothy Hatcher, Ellis, Mary June, Ronnie and Ann Harvey, Freda, Glen, Mareva and Orval Teets, Harley and Betty Wildesen, Randy and Dale Sweitzer, Steven Butler, Freda, George and Barbara Rexrode and Richard Gerlach.

On Friday evening a Watch Night Service was held from 8 p.m. to midnight. Orval Teets was the devotional leader. Special music, testimonies, and hymn singing was followed by a fellowship meal at 10 p.m. After the meal there was more special music, then a brief sermon by Rev. Hatcher. The service closed with prayer at the altar.

The Youth Fellowship choir sang at last Sunday's morning worship service.

The Brotherhood will meet Tuesday, Jan. 11, 7:30 p.m., at McIlheny United Methodist Church.

The United Methodist Women will meet here Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 7 p.m.

January is the month Otterbein Church is to supply the food pantry at the House of Hope. Parishioners are reminded to bring offerings any Sunday this month.

GCC Women To Open Campaign This Saturday

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team, coached by Dennis Gibson, will open its 1994 season this Saturday at home with a 5:30 p.m. game against Catonsville CC, and then host Chesapeake CC on Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

Gibson and the Lakers face a difficult challenge this season, as three of the team's top four scorers and rebounders from last year's team were lost to graduation. The top scorer from last year is back, however, as former Southern High standout Michele Duling will be called upon by Gibson to lead the young Laker team. Duling, who was named to the second team All-JUCO Conference, averaged 19 points per game and had a 42% scoring average from the floor. She also led the team in free throw percentage with a 79% conversion rate.

Lost from the team are Heather Shepherd, Krista Keplinger, and Dana Brown, who were second, third, and fourth in team scoring last year. Shepherd, who is now starting at Davis and Elkins College, averaged 16 points per game, Keplinger hit 13.6 ppg, and Brown averaged just over eight points per outing.

Brown, Keplinger, and Shepherd were one, two, three, respectively, in rebounding, with Duling fourth.

Two other experienced players back this year are former Northern Husky Cara Wachter and Dawna Friend of Preston County.

New to the roster this season are: Missy Lawe of Preston; Wanda Swartzwelder of Northern; Sheri Adams of Southern; Dawn DeShong, an outstanding player from Westmar High School; Sue Schoonover of Phillip-Barbour High School; and LaFonda Thompson of Battery Creek High School, Beaufort, S.C.

"We will really be counting on Michele (Duling) for team leadership this year from her point guard position," Coach Gibson said. "We lost a lot of scoring and rebounding talent from last year, but we believe our incoming freshmen have the ability to eventually fill that loss."

Following the women's game on Sunday, the GCC men's team will host Montgomery-Germantown in a make-up game. The men will then play at Baltimore City CC on Tuesday and at Dundalk CC on Wednesday.

MINDS IN MOTION awards were recently presented to numerous student athletes at Southern High School. The award is presented to those students who maintain an average of at least 87 percent in the classroom during the season of their respective sports. Honored recently were those students who participated in football, soccer, cross country, volleyball, golf, and cheerleading. Pictured left to right above, kneeling, are: Jamie Bernard, golf; Paul Berkeridge, Andy Woods, and Josh Woods, football; David Peterson, cross country; Jay Ferguson, Matthew Sincell, Josh Teets, and Christian Coviello, soccer. Standing in the second row, same order, are: Jessica Murray, Rita Powell, Megan Redinger, Maggie Suess, Tatum Shomo, Hillary Garlis, Annie Ashby, Vicki Donham, Erika Durst, Teresa Nelson, Karla Miller, and Deanna McIntyre, all cheerleaders. In the back row, same order, are: Mandy Rush, cheerleader; Jenny Reams, Richa Bhatnagar, and Kere Freyman, cross country; Crystal Sines, volleyball; Shannon Dabney, cheerleader; Angie Elsey, Vicky Elliott, Jennifer Panther, Sindy Niner, and Misty Rodeheaver, volleyball; and Meghan Dabney and Lauren Newcomb, cross country. Other students receiving the same award, but not present for the photo were: Kandice Shomo, Julie Caruso, Jennifer Pariseau, and Katrina Thayer, cross country; Kevin Andrews, Nathan Rickman, and Ben Sumpter, soccer; Todd Howard, Jamie Jacoby, Dan Skipper, Charles Wesley, and Andy Craver, cross country; Jeremy Rohrbaugh and Elias Black, football; and Kellie White and Gretchen Trickett, volleyball.

Northern Keeper Earns All-Area Honorable Mention

Northern High School goal keeper Chris Elliott, who was third in the area in saves this past season with 174, received honorable mention All-Area in recent voting by area coaches.

The Huskies were winless in their first season of soccer in some 40 years, as Elliott was kept busy trying to keep opponents from scoring.

"Next year we hope Chris isn't quite as busy," stated Husky Coach Tom Ables. "But Chris really kept us in a lot of games this past season. He's a dedicated, hard-working kid who has very good hands and feet."

"We are really thrilled that his efforts were noted by the area coaches," he concluded.

Jason Helmstetter of Bishop Walsh was named overall Player of the Year, while Mike Waltz of Fort Hill was selected Offensive Player of the Year and Mount Savage's John Durst was named Defensive Player of the Year.

Molson Challenge Set For Saturday At Wisp Ski Area

The 1994 Molson Ski Challenge will be held at the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry this Saturday, January 8. This is the ninth year that Molson Breweries USA, Inc. has sponsored this national series of ski races.

According to a Molson spokesman, it is a unique race, as adult skiers of all abilities have an equal chance to win. To add to the excitement, entrants receive a gift bag of Molson-identified ski items upon registration (wherever legal).

An obstacle course, unique to each mountain, has been designed for the event. All entrants complete the course and register their times. The three winning times are picked at a random drawing held at an apres-ski event following the day's skiing. The winners receive ski-related prizes, including Elan skis and Molson ski and boot bags. The apres-ski event also includes contests where participants can win additional Molson merchandise.

The Wisp Ski Resort Molson Ski Challenge is part of a national program being held at 91 ski areas across the country in seven regions. This year's series is the biggest yet, according to Neil Kennedy, Molson Ski Challenge coordinator.

Huskies Nip Rams, 49-48, In Snowball Consolation

A steal and a lay-up by Alan Sebald with 38 seconds left gave the Northern Huskies a 49-48 win over the Southern Rams last Thursday night in the consolation game of the Rams' annual Snowball Classic.

The Huskies and the Rams were forced into the consolation game by losing their first-round contests to Frankfort and Waynesburg, respectively, the previous evening. Frankfort won the tournament championship by defeating Waynesburg, 65-58, in the title game.

The Rams were in control of the game through the first half, holding a lead of 17-6 at the end of the first quarter and on top by 10, 30-20, at halftime. But the Huskies out-scored the Rams in the third period, 15-7, to pull within two at 37-35.

After Sebald's final bucket, Southern had two opportunities to re-take the lead, but the Husky defense did not allow the Rams to convert.

Sebald led the Huskies in scoring with 11 points, while Derek Mason and Chris Wright each added nine points. Mark Elliott and Mark Dawson each scored 13 to pace the Southern offense.

The victory improved the Huskies' season mark to 3-2, while the Rams dropped to 3-3.

The Huskies were slated to play again Tuesday at Flintstone and Wednesday at home against Salisbury, while the Rams were to have hosted Keyser Tuesday.

day, but both games had to be postponed because of weather conditions. Northern is slated to host Union this Friday and play at Hancock on Tuesday, while the Rams' next contest is also set for Tuesday at home against Petersburg.

Southern Girls Win Shootout At Williamsport

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team captured the championship of the Williamsport Shootout last Thursday evening by defeating North Hagerstown, 42-30, in the title game.

The Rams earned a spot in the finals by topping host Williamsport the previous evening, 58-38. The victory upped the Rams' season record to 5-3.

Coach Don Stemple's squad took the lead for good in the second quarter and excelled in defensive play, particularly in the second half, to secure the win.

Emily Friend paced the Rams in scoring with 15 points and also grabbed a game-high 15 rebounds, while Angie Shafer scored 12 points and Josie Coviello finished with 11.

Stacy Harrison of North Hagerstown topped all scorers with her 16-point effort.

The Rams trailed at the end of the first period, 10-8, held a 20-16 advantage at halftime, and led 30-24 going into the final period.

"I really have to credit our defense," Coach Stemple said. "I think we finally wore them down in the fourth quarter, which let us build our lead up to 12 points."

Stemple commented on the play of Aaron Buser, even though she was scoreless in the game.

"Aaron did a great job on North Hagerstown's point guard," he said. "She kept her from being able to run their offense effectively."

Southern (42)
Aaron Buser 0 0-0 0, Josie Coviello 4 3-4 11, Stacy Kianer 0 2-2 2, Emily Friend 5 5-8 15, Angie Shafer 6 0-0 12, Alisha Rugg 1 0-0 2. Totals: 18 10-14 42.

MOM, I AM COMING HOME

Coming home for the holidays takes on a different appeal when the adult son or daughter states unexpectedly that he/she is going to stay for a while. If that really is possible, all family members will have to make adjustments to make it work. Far too often this arrangement is a disaster.

Parents and children may fall back into past parent and child roles and both will resent it. One is expected to do the other one's work in addition to his or her own and become frustrated and upset.

How can most of these problems be forestalled? Since this situation involves adults (at least chronologically), those involved must be realistic. A mother who always had a difficult time asserting herself will not all at once become authoritative. A child who was rebellious and assertive throughout her/his teen years will not all of a sudden become obedient. The key to working this out is communication on an adult level and as democratic as can be managed.

Any potential problem must be discussed before permission is given for the young adult to move back home. All involved must know how laundry, cooking, baby sitting, cleaning, transportation, visitors, etc., are to be worked out. The most unpleasant subjects are the most important to be aired. Past difficulties must be laid aside and not brought into current discussions.

Each person should be expected to pull his or her own weight and to respect the rights, needs, and desires of all others in the household. Writing it down in such terms is not nearly enough. It has to be detailed what specifically the rights, needs, and desires are. Brainstorming may have to be practiced to detail potential situations.

The following issues can get families started on their discussion toward better communication and a positive experience living together.

• How long do you expect to live together? This question is realistic and it needs to be understood. Having a target date provides a goal to work toward and helps both people plan for the future.

• Agree on matters such as having guests, personal and home cleanliness, and orderliness. Show respect for one another by treating each other as you would like to be treated.

• Be frank about household expenses, so that ev-everyone knows the costs. Part of becoming a responsible young adult is learning to budget for the necessities of life before the "wants." Develop a clear policy about loaning money. Some people draw up a written agreement and have it notarized; others do not loan money, but co-sign a bank loan. Be clear about where you stand and the reason for taking your position.

• Agree on who will plan menus, do food shopping, prepare meals, and clean up after meals. Will responsibilities be rotated? How will laundry responsibilities be handled? Who will clean various portions of the home? Is there general agreement about house-keeping standards? If not, can you negotiate or at least have some doors closed?

• Who will use which vehicles and when? Who will be responsible for checking oil, tires, inspections, etc.?

• If schedules differ, or if they fluctuate, how will you keep each other informed in order to plan for meals, give messages to callers, etc.?

• Will the young adults be able to use a phone with privacy or have their own line? How much information would be provided about one's whereabouts and under what circumstances? What about overnights and weekends with members of the same or opposite sex?

• What arrangements will be made for child care during the day and at night? How will discipline be handled? Who will pro-

• In your family, some of these issues will be easily resolved, while others will require negotiation. But what happens if you can't agree? Usually, since it is the parent's home, the parent's wishes should prevail.

Evening Classes Stated At PSC

Potomac State College will hold evening education registration Monday through Thursday, January 10-13, from 6-7 p.m. in the Admissions Office.

Students may register from a selection of 32 classes to be offered on a one-night-per-week basis with classes beginning January 10.

Potomac State College's evening education offerings are college credit classes scheduled for adults and other non-traditional students who desire increased opportunities in their careers and lives through higher education.

Students completing fall classes may register by phone for any of the 32 evening classes. New students must apply to the college through the Office of Admissions and Records during evening or regular weekday hours.

Evening education students will need a parking sticker to park on campus. This sticker may be purchased at the time of registration or when paying fees the first night of class. Students should bring car registration cards for their vehicles when they register for a class.

The college bookstore will also be open from 6-7 p.m., Monday through Friday, the first week of classes.

Any questions concerning registration or any of the 32 classes given during the evening should be directed to the Office of Admissions and Records at 304-788-6820.

Biggs Winner Of Wool Competition

The West Virginia Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest was held recently at Camp Dawson near Kingwood. The Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department, Preston County Wool Pool, West Virginia Shepherd's Federation, and the West Virginia Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Preston County Extension Service sponsored the contest.

According to the State Director, Pat Pinnell, 10 individuals entered the contest. The contestants were judged on the visual appearance and the construction quality of the garment.

Nancy Biggs, Frostburg, pictured above, was the adult state winner in the knitting/crocheting competition. Only junior and senior state winners advance to the national competition, but adult state winners send a 5"x7" photograph of themselves wearing the garment to the national photo competition. The winner of the adult photo competition wins a trip to the national competition to model and will receive a complimentary award. The national competition will be held in Reno, Nev., January 18-22.

The purpose of the contest is to focus attention on the beauty and versatility of wool, encourage use of this incomparable fabric or yarn in sewing, knitting, or crocheting fashionable garments, offer the opportunity to compete for valuable prizes and win recognition for sewing, knitting, or crocheting skills.

The contest is open to anyone, regardless of race, creed or sex, who meets age and other requirements set forth for the competition.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

PIONEERS MEET
On Dec. 22 the Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club met at the home of Betty Fint for a Christmas party with gift exchange, and Christmas caroling. Kimberly Fike read a poem, "Winter Peace," and Kaylan Fike read from Luke.

Reports were by Kimberly Fike on Officers'

Training and by Courtney Fint on County Achievement, both held Nov. 21 at Bructon Mills. Project books for 1993-94 were distributed.

Connor Morgan and Tina Fint led the pledges. For recreation there were carols led by the song-leaders and a game led by the recreation leaders.

The following members attended: Melissa and Jessica Callahan, Meghan, Kendra and Eric Durst, Kimberly and Kaylan Fike, Courtney, Joey and Rebecca Fint, Carla and Tina Fint, Darrell Fint, Lora Forman, Bethany Lantz, Neil Mersing, Connor Morgan, Hannah Myers, Joseph Paugh, Heather Radford, Jason Roth, Cathy Sisler, and Adrian Stemple. There were also five leaders and two guests, Leanna Shrader and Sharon Mersing, present.

The next meeting will be Jan. 12 at the home of Betty Fint. Kimberly Fike is the club's reporter.

CORRECTION
The name of the daughter born to Chad and Stephanie Judy on Dec. 19 is Brittany LaCole, rather than Brittany Nichole, as formerly announced.

PERSONAL MENTION

The body of Paul Henline, 81, of Gorman, who died Jan. 1 at his home, was brought to the Accident Cemetery for burial on Jan. 4.

Visiting Thursday to Sunday for the New Year's weekend with their parents, Steve and Carolyn Baker, Leah and Lauren, Terra Alta Pike, and Tom and Linda Lewis, Emily and Sara Eglon, were Gary and Julie Baker of Virginia Beach, Va.

Barbara Hauser of Eglon was a surgical patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Dec. 27, and is recuperating at her home.

Mary Hauser is recuperating at her Horse Shoe Run home from recent surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Herb and Jean Starr of Stemple Ridge spent the Christmas holidays visiting with their children, grandchildren, and families in Ohio and Ft. Wayne, Ind. During their 12-day absence, they also visited Mrs. Starr's brothers in Ohio, with Mrs. Annie Starr, Herb's mother, in Twinsburg, Ohio, and with his uncle, Robert Plunket, at Cleveland.

Claud and Eidean Poling visited in Parkersburg with her son, Roger Harsh, and family. Mrs. Poling then accompanied her son to Ohio for a Christmas visit and returned home with her sister and brother-in-law, the Starrs, upon their return to Stemple Ridge, Dec. 28.

Mrs. Lydia Harsh will be celebrating her 92nd birthday on Jan. 12. Her address is: 3734 State Rt. 43, Brimfield, Ohio, 44210.

Mrs. Louella Fike spent Christmas Day with her son and family, Gary, Cleta and Brian, Terra Alta. Brian and his cousin, Kevin Fike, both Terra Alta, spent the New Year's weekend with their grandmother at Aurora.

New Year's dinner guests of Frank and Wilda Stemple were her family, Eugene and Linda Wilt, Adam and Travis, Rowlesburg; Beverly Whetstone of Arthur; Arthur, Janice and Lora Forman of Amboy; Tom and Kathy Barr and family of St. George; Dan and Martha Poling and children of Parsons; and Steven Wilt, his fiancée and children, Aurora.

A Christmas breakfast was hosted by Ron, Donetta and Dane Nice, at Amboy. Those attending were Dean and Scott Sisler, Maxine Hauser, Ernestine Sisler, Terry and Phyllis Vandevender, Mary Nice, Larry Nice, Ron, Jana, Skylar, Jasmine and Mariah Freeman, Paul and Shauna Perrine, Michael and June Sisler and family, Derrick and Cara Radford and son, Deanne and David Donnelly of Jacksonville, N.C., Linda Terrant, and Kevin Terrant, both local.

Tamara and Cody Fauber returned, Dec. 24, to their home in Okinawa, after a holiday visit in Aurora with her parents, Scott and Dean Sisler.

The Rev. Daniel Hammel, Sharon, Danielle and David of Eglon visited with relatives in Pennsylvania during the holidays.

Brian Strawser, Amboy, was accompanied by his two children last Thursday morning, when his Jeep overturned on the Fox Run Road, near Aurora. They were uninjured, but reportedly suffered some frostbite.

Sunday dinner guests of Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon, in observance of Caitlin Norwisch's first birthday, were Caitlin and her parents, Richard and Mary Norwisch, Tom, Linda, Emily and Sara Lewis, and Gary and Julie Baker.

Toni Lane Lewis spent Christmas at Aurora with her father, Tony Lewis, and his wife, Lisa, as well as with her sister, Garinna.

Bradley Manor

Oakland has secured grant money for the demolition of Bradley Manor, the monies have not yet come in and will not for several months. In light of that, McCain said, the council has asked the commissioners to lend the back tax money to the town for the demolition.

"So it's not as if they are taking the money from their budget," McCain said. "This will be money that we have attained through these negotiations. And we will repay it when the grant money comes in."

Another point McCain wished to clarify is the ownership of the new project.

"The town does not own this project. We have simply tried to do something about it, and this new project is the only solution - we know that after years of negotiations. We have had some complaints that we are favoring certain local businesses in this project, but this is truly the best solution we could come to."

"As a town council, we did file a lawsuit to keep Oakland Associates from re-constructing Bradley Manor, and we won," McCain said.

Verbal approval has been given to the local team of builders to fund the new housing project, which will be income-regulated housing units. A town park is included in the plans, which will eventually be decided by the town, McCain said. The park will provide area children with planned recreational activities throughout the summer months.

"I'll be extremely relieved when this final meeting is over, the agreement is signed, and we can begin demolition," the mayor said. He also indicated, however, that the meeting could be delayed because of adverse weather conditions.

In Loving Memory of our wonderful Dad who passed away one year ago Jan 2 1993

My Dad

He worked hard in the coal mine most of his life. He took care of ten children and a wonderful wife. He never missed a day's work and never complained. No matter if he was sick, No matter if he was in pain. He raised all of his kids on his own. Because our Mom went ahead to God's home. Now each of our hair has turned a little gray. For you see our wonderful dad has passed away. In our thoughts and in our hearts you are with us every day. Because we will be home together some day.

We Love You Dad.

Reminder Given On Maintaining Private Wells

"Since a large percentage of the property owners around Deep Creek Lake are from urban areas where there are community water systems, the care of an individual water well is a new experience," said Edgar H. Harman, R.S., director of Environmental Health Services. "The following information is provided for the proper care of an individual water well with regard to providing safe drinking water."

Harman noted that there are two factors that must be considered with a private water supply.

Physical construction of the well to exclude surface water is essential. The top of the well must be tight, so that surface water is not permitted to enter the well. The area around the well should be graded to drain.

Inspection of the top of the well to ensure a seal or cap that is securely in place is also important. It is recommended that buried wells and wells that are located in pits be remodeled so that the casings extend one foot above the ground surface. A licensed well driller can perform the work. Space around electrical wires must be sealed or covered in a fashion to exclude surface water, according to Harman. He further noted that there should be no open space between the ground and the well casing.

Sources of contamination should not be located near water wells. Sources that should be considered are sewer lines and sewage disposal systems, dog houses and other pet confining areas, petroleum and pesticide storage areas.

Testing of water supplies is the second factor to consider in establishing a well water monitoring program.

Water that appears clear may contain harmful bacteria. The only way to determine if there are unsafe bacteria is to have water tested. The United States Environmental Protection Agency recommends an annual test. If an annual test is not feasible, a bi-annual test, along with an additional test at any point when the water appears cloudy or changes characteristics in any way would be recommended.

The test that is used for detection of microbiological contamination is the coliform test. The Garrett County Sanitary District (387-6162) or Garrett County Environmental Health Services (334-8980) can arrange for tests. A fee is charged for the service.

"Keep in mind that the coliform test only detects microbiological contamination," said Harman. "Should there be some reason to suspect a chemical contamination, a test can be performed for the special chemical. However, chemical tests are very expensive and are done only when there is some reason for suspecting a chemical contamination."

Nitrate levels of greater than 10 p.p.m. have occurred in certain parts of Maryland and the U.S. High Nitrate levels can cause illness in infants. However, high nitrate levels have not been a problem in Garrett County, according to Harman.

The nitrate level, along with the coliform test, are checked by the Health Department on all new wells when requested by the owner. The well permit fee covers the cost of testing new wells so that persons having new wells drilled are encouraged to have the water tested for both nitrates and coliform bacteria.

"Safe water is taken for granted in the United States," concluded Harman. "However, when considering the developing world, water-related diseases are the single largest cause of infant mortality and the principal cause of illness among adults."

GOBA General Membership Mtg. To Be Fundraiser

The bi-annual general membership meeting of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), scheduled for January 11, will function as a fundraiser this year, according to Connie Margison, event organizer. The meeting will take place at the Long Branch Saloon in Mountain Lake Park and will begin at 6 p.m.

Each guest will pay $15 which will cover their admission and hors d'oeuvres. The money raised from the adnussion will go toward GOBA's continuing effort in establishing a historic walking tour through Oakland and the surrounding area. A portion of the funds may also be used in other GOBA projects.

The general public is invited to attend the social get-together. Persons should R.S.V.P. to Margison by calling 334-9211 between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Choose To Lose Course Offered

The Choose To Lose weight management class, sponsored by the Wellness Together program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department, will begin Wednesday, January 19, and meet every Wednesday through March 2 from 5:30-7 p.m. Class sessions will be held in Garrett Memorial's Community Services Center located between the hospital and the Garrett Medical Group. Kelley Nestor, Wellness Together instructor, will facilitate the course.

The Choose To Lose program is based upon the nationally acclaimed best selling book, The Choose To Lose Diet, written by Dr. Ron Goor and Nancy Goor. "Choose To Lose is a proven weight loss program that is geared toward people who want to lose weight as well as learn better eating habits. The program places an emphasis on learning to make educated choices regarding food intake and incorporates the role of exercise in weight loss and weight maintenance," explained Debora Nichols, Wellness Together coordinator.

The cost for the course is $60, which covers class and other related materials. Two individuals from the same household may join at a special cost of only $75.

For more information about the Choose To Lose program, persons may contact the Wellness Together office at (301) 334-2155, ext. 443.

Finishes Studies At Maine Univ.

Bonnie Ruston-Liller, daughter of Sarah Steyer, Oakland, has completed her studies at the University of Southern Maine and will receive a bachelor of science degree in accounting.

Mrs. Liller has been hired as an auditor for Coopers and Lybrand Accounting Firm in Portland, Maine. She will begin work in January and will participate in the May graduation ceremonies at the university.

"Won By One" Class To Begin

Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church will begin its "Won By One" soul-winning class on Sunday, January 9, at 6 p.m. The 13-week course is designed to give a Biblical how-to approach to personal evangelism.

"These lessons will motivate and equip Christians to win the lost to Jesus Christ," said a church spokesperson.

A 20-page handbook, along with outside reading, will be available to participants, and a certificate of achievement will be awarded to those who finish the course and fulfill all requirements. A class for the children of persons attending will be taught by Mrs. Dennis Leatherman, and will include a continuing missionary story, memory verses, and with games and contests.

The community is invited to participate in the class, and in all the services of Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church. Sunday school is held at 9:45 a.m.; morning services at 10:45 a.m., and evening services at 7 p.m. A nursery and transportation are always provided.

The church is located at 1005 Broadford Rd., Oakland. More information may be obtained by calling 334-3234.

PROMISE OF HIDDEN TREASURE

The term "treasure" encompasses a myriad of meanings. To some, treasure is the promise of fortune...to others, natural beauty is their treasure. Yet, fortunes are gained and lost; and even nature falls prey to pollution and natural disasters. So, what is indelible in our search for hidden treasure?

Colossians 2:2-3 gives us the answer as we read, "to have all the riches of assured understanding and the knowledge of God's mystery...in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge."

Worship the Creator this Sabbath and uncover the mysteries of His miraculous mercy and love as disclosed in God's Word. They will enrich each moment of your life with the indelible beauty of promised treasure.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

The Question Of God's Will January 9, 1994

Background Scripture: Luke 4:31-43

Devotional Reading: Mark 6:1-6a; 9:1-8

You don't hear this so much any more, but when I was younger, whenever affliction or tragedy struck someone, there were always those who would be quick to proclaim, "it is God's will." Many Christians still seem to equate human suffering with the will of God.

It is interesting to note that, according to the gospels, this is quite contrary to the view which Jesus held. Nowhere in the four gospels is there even any suggestion that He shared this idea. In fact, if you note His response to people who came to Him for healing, you'll find that He operates under the assumption that illness and possession are quite contrary to the will of God.

In Luke 4:33-37, when Jesus encounters in the synagogue "the man who had the spirit of an unclean demon," He does not question whether it is God's will for the man to be possessed; He commands the demon to come out of the man and he does. Note, too, that Jesus does not greet the demons as one who is doing the will of God, but as one who is thwarting that will. "Jesus rebuked him, saying, 'Be silent, and come out of him.'" (4:35). That is not a greeting to a colleague, but an enemy.

REBUKING THE FEVER

Note also that when Jesus went to Capernaum and the house of Simon Peter and found that the disciple's mother was ill with a high fever, He did not stop to discern whether perhaps God wanted her to be ill. Nor did He assume that God sent her this illness so that she might grow spiritually. Neither did He for one minute seek to discern if she was worthy of being healed. He does not greet this fever as a friend or ally with God, but Luke says: "And He stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her," (4:38) He rebuked the fever - is that any way to treat a friend?

In all other healing incidents in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, Jesus assumes that it is God's will for these people to be whole. He never prays, asking God to heal someone if it is your will. "He actually only prayed that prayer once and it was in the Garden of Gethsemane and had nothing to do with healing, but with His own crucifixion.)

GOD'S WILL

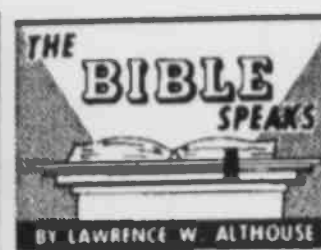

So, I have never hesitated to pray for God to heal someone, for I believe with all my heart and mind that God's will for us is wholeness. When I pray thus I do not pray so that He will do for me, but that I may join myself with His -- to make us whole. Neither, do I believe that God sends us disease to punish us or to make us grow spiritually. True, when we are ill, there is often an opportunity for spiritual growth, but that doesn't mean that God afflicts us so that we may grow.

If God wills wholeness, why are so many of us ill? Let's look at it from another angle. I also believe it is God's will for me to be a righteous person. But I am not telling you any secret when I admit that I am something less than that. Why? Is it not God's will for me to be kind, loving and compassionate? Yes, it is. God wills me to be this way, but He does not compel me to comply. In the same way, I believe He wills me to be whole, but doesn't compel me to be whole. I have free will, the power to make many choices that impinge upon my health. Others, by their own free will, may affect my health. Germs, viruses, carcinogens, exercising a kind of natural freedom, can significantly affect my health. God wills for us a healthy, wholesome environment, but He does not compel us to have one. So, our illness, our lack of wholeness, is part of the price we pay for our freedom.

Jesus knew that illness was against God's will and He spent much of His time ministering to people's physical and mental well-being. Furthermore, He knew that he had the authority to rebuke these illnesses and heal them. Even the demons knew that!

Do we?

Farming In Maryland.....
Barnice Kepple, Farm Editor

Hands-On Experience And Technology Benefit Ag Students At GCC

Students in Garrett Community College's new agricultural management program are experiencing a broad spectrum of educational strategies that go far beyond the traditional classrooms and textbooks of most college courses, according to Willie Lantz, director of the program. The students are receiving "hands-on" training at local farms, as well as benefitting from the "cutting edge" technology of computerized distance learning.

Lantz has arranged visits to local farms where students "learn by doing." At the other end of the spectrum, the distance learning computer link allows instructors from the Institute of Applied Agriculture at the University of Maryland to send information from College Park to the computers at GCC which students may access at any time. Students complete assignments and return them in the same manner. The introduction to animal science class is currently being offered through the distance learning computer technology. In the spring, "feeds and feeding" will be offered via the computer on a flexible schedule, along with a one-credit course of introduction to computerized distance learning.

Grain and forage crop production, a three-credit course, will be taught on Thursday evenings from 7:30-9:30 p.m. with a four-hour lab every other Saturday. Any person wishing for more information may call Lantz at 387-3021.

The agricultural management program is a cooperative effort between Garrett Community College and the University of Maryland, Institute of Applied Agriculture. Students who complete the program will receive an association in applied sciences degree from GCC and a certificate from the Institute.

WIC Participants Encouraged To Shop At Farmers' Markets

The Farmers' Market Nutrition Program began as a U.S. Department of Agriculture pilot project to expand the use and awareness of these markets and provide supplemental fruits and vegetables to WIC participants. Maryland was one of 10 states that was part of the original program. The pilot project was so successful that the U.S. Congress formally established the coupon effort with the passage of the Farmers' Market Nutrition Act of 1992.

The Maryland Farmers' Market Nutrition Program is jointly sponsored by the Maryland Departments of Agriculture and Health and Mental Hygiene. The U.S. Department of Agriculture awards grants that cover up to 70 percent of the participating state's program costs.

THE AGRICULTURAL MANAGEMENT PROGRAM stresses applied hands-on agriculture. Darlena Murphy, Introduction to Animal Science student, is instructed by Elaine Bailey, Animal Science instructor from the Institute of Applied Agriculture in College Park on removing needle teeth on pigs.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that in 1993, farmers redeemed some $126,324 worth of coupons from participants in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program. "This program, which began in 1989, has been a resounding success. Each year more and more WIC recipients are buying fresh fruits and vegetables at our farmers' markets. When we began only seven farmers' markets participated. This year 31 markets redeemed the coupons," Walker said.

"What is most encouraging for the health of our population is that surveys have shown that once WIC recipients go to a market with coupons, they return to shop at farmers' markets after their coupons run out," said Walker.

Bulls, heavy, $51.00 to 62.00; light, $40.00 to 57.00. TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE ESTATE OF FLORETTA R. THOMAS

Notice is given that W. Dwight Stover, 3 South Second Street, Oakland, 21550, was on December 10, 1993 appointed personal representative of the estate of Floretta R. Thomas, who died on Nov. 20, 1993, with a will.

There was a prior small estate proceeding. Further information can be obtained by reviewing the estate file in the office of the Register of Wills or by contacting the personal representative or the attorney.

All persons having any objection to the appointment (or to the probate of the decedent's will) shall file their objections with the Register of Wills on or before the 10th day of June, 1994.

Any person having a claim against the decedent must present the claim to the undersigned personal representative or file it with the Register of Wills with a copy to the undersigned on or before the earlier of the following dates:

(1) Six months from the date of the decedent's death, except if the decedent died before October 1, 1992, nine months from the date of the decedent's death; or

(2) Two months after the personal representative mails or otherwise delivers to the creditor a copy of this published notice or other written notice, notifying the creditor that the claim will be barred unless the creditor presents the claims within two months from the mailing or other delivery of the notice. A claim not presented or filed on or before that date, or any extension provided by law, is unenforceable thereafter. Claim forms may be obtained from the Register of Wills.

STATE OF MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION PUBLIC NOTICE

Publication Dates: Once in each of the weeks of December 27, 1993 and January 3, 1994.

The Maryland Department of the Environment has received an application for a State Discharge Permit Modification for Tri-Star Mining, 90-DP-2802A. Any person who wishes to review the application may do so by contacting Mr. Mark Jacobs at (410) 631-3595 to make an appointment. Copies of documents may be procured at a cost of $0.22 per page.

Notice of the application was published during the weeks of October 25 and November 1, 1993, along with an opportunity to request a public hearing. A hearing was subsequently requested and will be conducted on January 11, 1994 at 11:00 in the Allegany Community College, C.E. 6, Willowbrook Road, Cumberland, MD. Any hearing impaired person may request an interpreter to be present at the informational meeting by giving five working days notice to Mr. Mark Jacobs, Maryland Department of the Environment, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224. (410) 631-3595.

MODIFICATION NOTICE Allegany and Garrett Counties

Discharge Permit Modification Application No. 90-DP-2802A (NPDES No. MD0065188A) Tri-Star Mining, Inc., proposes to add a fifth outfall to its surface coal mine west of Barton, Md. on Caledonia Hill. The new outfall authorized by this modification will discharge a variable amount of runoff from an overburden storage area to Butcher Run which is protected for use as public water supply and for propagation of trout.

Proposed Requirements: Modify permit with the following limitations for this additional outfall: pH 6.0-9.0, turbidity 50 NTU monthly average, 100 daily maximum total iron 3.0 mg/l monthly average, 6.0 daily maximum total manganese 2.0 mg/l monthly average, 4.0 maximum, and total suspended solids 45 mg/l daily maximum. These technology based effluent limitations are sufficient to protect the water quality of the receiving stream.

COVER STORY

'Stolpa Story' on CBS is a tale of survival

BY JEFF PLASS

People who have traveled in adverse winter weather conditions know the panic that sets in when vehicles slip, slide or get stuck in the snow.

Jim and Jennifer Stolpa came to know a grossly exaggerated version of that panic.

"Snowbound: The Jim and Jennifer Stolpa Story," airing on CBS Sunday, Jan. 9, depicts their real-life survival mission through miles upon miles of snow-covered Nevada wilderness.

Neil Patrick Harris and Kelli Williams portray the Stolpas, who, along with their 5-month-old baby, were traveling to Pocatello, Idaho, to attend the funeral of Jim's grandmother.

In an attempt to avoid the snow-covered routes, they took what they thought was a little-traveled but open road and quickly found themselves stranded in one of the most isolated spots in the country. With a blizzard on the way and only a small supply of food, the Stolpas decided to venture out and try to find help.

Jim and Jennifer Stolpa oversaw all production aspects of the movie.

"Since this is our story," Jim says, "we probably are the most critical people of it. We were able to find some mistakes with it, but they're mistakes that I think the general public will never notice. Overall, I was very pleased with it."

"We basically proofread the scripts and stuff," Jennifer explains. "We didn't have the ultimate say, but if we absolutely did not like something, or really did like something, we told them our opinions and they were pretty obliging."

"When we were filming, we were there the whole time. If we saw something that just didn't go, we would tell them and they would oblige them as well."

In the film, Harris and Williams remain coldly rational throughout the ordeal. Did the real-life Stolpas stay that calm?

Neil Patrick Harris

"The only time we ever really panicked," Jennifer states, "was at the point where we discovered the road that we were heading for was not there. Then I panicked and became a little hysterical."

"I think the most terrifying and emotional part," Jim relates, "was when we had to split up at the cave. When I had to leave them there."

Jim's mother and stepfather organized the rescue attempt, using videotape and missing persons posters to help locate them. Now the Stolpas find themselves being recognized all the time.

"It's pretty neat," Jim says. "You know, sometimes it can be annoying like when you're trying to eat in a restaurant and you've got a mouthful of food and somebody comes up and starts talking to you. But for the most part, I think it's been pretty neat."

"It's very flattering," Jennifer adds, "when people come over to you and say 'We're so glad you're alive' and 'We prayed for you' and that sort of stuff. It's also very reassuring for just your outlook on people. When something like this happens, you just really can tell that people can become very supportive."

Their son, Clay, is happy and healthy at 16 months of age.

Oscar Award-winner Olympia Dukakis stars in "Armistead Maupin's Tales of the City" on PBS' "American Playhouse." The six-hour miniseries airs Monday through Wednesday, Jan. 10-12 (check local listings).

The programs are based on a series of Maupin's celebrated stories chronicling the lives and loves of a group of single people in 1970s San Francisco.

Karen Black, Rod Steiger and Sir Ian McKellen make cameo appearances.

Soap fans raise money for pediatric AIDS

BY CANDACE HAVENS

I recently had an opportunity to visit with soap opera fans at the Soap Opera Fan Faire held on the Queen Mary in Long Beach, Calif. The event was held to raise money for pediatric AIDS and hundreds of fans attended. It was a delight to meet many of you face to face and to discover how you felt about your favorite soaps and daytime stars.

There were three levels for the Fan Faire, one for each network. All of the West Coast soaps were represented: "The Bold and the Beautiful," "General Hospital," "Days of Our Lives" and "The Young and the Restless."

Fans waited in line to get an autographed picture of their favorite stars. Most of the fans I talked to felt the long waits were worth it.

"I couldn't believe how sweet Kimberlin Brown (Sheila, 'B&B') was," said Mary from Long Beach. "She was so much nicer than I could have ever imagined and absolutely nothing like Sheila. I realized just how wonderful an actress she really is. We love to hate her character on the show."

Brown, who is expecting a baby in a few weeks, was happy to set the record straight with fans. "I really don't get as much hate mail as you might expect," said Brown. "Most of the people who were here today and who write in to the show say they love to hate Sheila. They do not like what she does, but they are able to separate me from the character most of the time."

I did overhear one fan tell

Michael Sabatino

Brown that now that she had her own baby, maybe she would stop stealing other people's children! Brown told the fan that there was no need to worry.

Shelly from Los Angeles could not wait to see Scott Reeves, who portrays Ryan on "Y&R." "I watch 'Y&R' just to see him," she said.

Once Shelly reached the front of the line she was too nervous to talk, but Reeves, who is known for being kind, tried to make her feel comfortable and even posed for a picture with her.

So who had the longest line? No one was keeping count, but it looked like a three-way tie for Crystal Chappell (ex-Carly, "Days"), Michael Sabatino (Anthony, "B&B"), and ex-Lawrence ("Days") and Melissa Reeves (Jennifer, "Days," and wife of Scott Reeves).

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: What can you tell me about Bruce Campbell of "The Adventures of Brisco County, Jr." and Bill Campbell of "Momm Over Miami"? Are they related? —Louise Lee, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A: Prior to saddling up Comet, his "Brisco County" steed, Bruce was best known for his starring roles in the witty "Evil Dead" trilogy of cult horror films, including "Army of Darkness."

He also co-starred in the feature films "Crimewave," "Intruder" and the upcoming "Hudsucker Proxy." He lives in Studio City, Calif., with his wife and two children.

Bill, who is not related to Bruce, played Luke Fuller, Steven Carrington's ill-fated lover, on "Dynasty." He also co-starred in the TV drama "Crime Story," played the title role in "The Rocketeer" and was in "Bram Stoker's Dracula." He is featured in "Armistead Maupin's Tales of the City," coming up on PBS. Bill is not married.

Q: A few months ago I was visiting my daughter and son-in-law, and we saw a TV movie called "Through the Eyes of a Killer," with Marg Helgenberger and Richard Dean Anderson. We disagreed over who played the part of Ray. My son-in-law insisted it was Gary Cole. I say no way. Please let us know. We have a bet riding on this. —Carole Jensen, Fayette, Mo.

A: That was David Marshall Grant, who played Melissa's gay friend Russell on "thirtysomething" and currently is starring on Broadway in the cast of

Bruce Campbell

"Angels in America."

Q: Where can I write the cast of one of my favorite series, "Mad About You"? —David McCarthy, Holly, Mich.

A: Always good to hear from another "Mad" man. Write Paul Reiser and the wondrous Helen Hunt C/O their show, NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: Is it true that Jeanne Cooper of "The Young and the Restless" is the mother of Corbin Bernsen from "L.A. Law"? —B. Miller.

A: Yes. And she's been a guest on "Law" more than once.

Q: I am seeking a movie called "Captive Hearts" starring Noriyuki (Pat) Morita. Is it available on tape? —T. Ashikaga, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A: Yes. Ask a dealer to order it, or write to CBS/Fox Video, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, Fifth Floor, New York, N.Y. 10019.

'Austin' season premiere swings with stepsisters

BY JEFF PLASS

It's a family affair when two of country music's hottest stars give dazzling performances in the 19th season premiere of "Austin City Limits" on PBS. Saturday, Jan. 15 (check local listings).

Rosanne Cash, daughter of Johnny Cash, and her stepsister Carlene Carter, daughter of June Carter Cash, continue the family tradition of great country music.

Rosanne Cash returns to the show for her fifth appearance.

"I keep coming back," she explains, "because the people are so nice, because the audiences are really musically sophisticated and appreciative. Every time I've done (Austin City Limits) there seems to be this special rapport with the audience. They know what your work's about, they really appreciate it, they're right there with it. It's rare that you find that on a regular basis."

Cash performs the title song from her new album, "The Wheel," as well as hits like "Seventh Avenue," "Sleeping in Paris" and more.

Cash's soulful delivery is nicely complemented by Carter's brash honky-tonk style.

Carter returns to the program for her second appearance, her first as a solo performer.

"The first time I got to do the show," she says, "was with the Carter Family seven or eight years ago. Ever since then I've wanted to get back on it, but my schedule never worked out so I could get here. I know that when I was here with the Carter Family it was a lot of fun, but it wasn't as fun as doing my own show."

Carter performs songs from her latest album, "Little Love Letters," and her previous hit album, "I Fell in Love."

Neil Patrick Harris and Kelli Williams star in the fact-based drama "Snowbound: The Jim and Jennifer Stolpa Story," airing Sunday on CBS.

Richard Thomas stars in the fact-based mystery "Death in Small Doses," airing on ABC. Monday, Jan. 10.

Thomas plays Richard Lyon, a man accused of murdering his wife, Nancy.

Her brother is also under suspicion. Another possibility is that she committed suicide in a pitiful attempt to regain her husband's attention.

Poisoned vitamins, accusations of incest and anonymous notes indicating a professional "hit" add to the confusion.

Timothy Busfield

Not a week of happy, happy joyful movies

BY TED KUSIO

"Murder Between Friends" is representative of many of this week's movies. It deals with murder and trivializes it. It's also horrifyingly brutal and painful to watch.

NBC airs the fact-based film on Sunday, Jan. 9. Timothy Busfield stars as an assistant district attorney who must find out who murdered a woman, her husband, played by Stephen Lang, or her husband's friend, played by Martin Kemp. NBC's parental discretion advisory is justified.

The investigation to determine what really happened is interesting. But the murder is accepted too easily; a person is beaten to death, and it merely becomes a plot twist. And re-enacting the tragedy three different ways is simply too much.

Also on Sunday, ABC offers "Columbo: Butterfly in Shades of Grey." Peter Falk's well-known character investigates William Shatner, starring as a radio personality involved with, of course, murder. Heroes replace murder as Neil Patrick Harris and Kelli Williams star in "Snowbound: The Jim and Jennifer Stolpa Story," on CBS. The fact-based film deals with a family trapped in a snow storm.

Monday, Jan. 10, doesn't get cheerier. ABC features a trial about a woman's poisoning in "Death in Small Doses." Richard Thomas and Tess Harper star. NBC offers murder with the Bridges family as Beau Bridges plays a police chief who suspects his father, played by real-life father Lloyd, of murdering his mother, played by real-life Mrs. Bridges, Dorothy Dean. PBS offers an alternative to tragedy with "American Playhouse," featuring "Armistead Maupin's Tales of the City." The three-part miniseries deals with the residents of a San Francisco boarding house. Olympia Dukakis stars as the landlady.

Tuesday, Jan. 11, it's back to the tragedy mill, with rape replacing murder in "Error in the Night" on CBS. Justine Bateman and Matt Mulhern play campers who are kidnapped by a dangerous man who pretends to be a policeman, played by Joe Penny.

Robert Conrad and George Hamilton play fathers hunting their children's murderer in "Two Fathers Return." Friday, Jan. 14 on NBC.

Skip all this murder on Saturday, Jan. 15, with the visually stunning 1992 film "1492: Conquest of Paradise" on HBO, or the overall outstanding "Lawrence of Arabia" on TNT. They just don't make movies like this used to.

Homes, the brave spotlighted this week

BY SUZANNE GILL

The usual suspects gather at Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium on Saturday, Jan. 15, for HBO's sixth annual "Comic Relief" telecast to benefit the homeless. Hosts Billy Crystal, Robin Williams and Whoopi Goldberg welcome HBO's own Garry Shandling and perennial favorites including Alan King, Paul Rodriguez, Dennis Miller, Paula Poundstone and Bob Saget. The fund-raiser airs on an open channel in many cable systems.

Turning from the plight of the homeless to the plight of the rich and famous, A&E presents "America's Castles" Sunday, Jan. 9. The two-hour special takes a leisurely look at the playgrounds of the leisure class, from the Vanderbilts' summer "cottages" in Newport, R.I., to William Randolph Hearst's San Simeon.

TBS salutes those still climbing the ladder of success in an adventure-themed edition of "National Geographic Explorer," airing Sunday. Segments include a crash course in teamwork and bravery, with extra credit in adrenaline, as 24 corporate managers from Scotland attend adventure school, in "Exposure."

Sail away with another adventurer in "The Incredible Journey of Bill Pinkney," debuting Tuesday, Jan. 11, on The Disney Channel. Bill Cosby is host of the film, which documents the 22-month voyage that made Navy veteran William Pinkney just the second black American to sail solo around the world.

Billy Crystal

National Holiday Parade sails down the streets of Atlanta on Saturday, and TBS is there with hosts Charles Dutton, Craig Sager and Nancy Wilson. Johnita Austin, the 13-year-old anchor of TBS' "Kids' Beat," reports from her perch in a car traveling the parade route.

Pugilists past and present round out the week in cable. On Sunday, "CNN Presents" offers "Battle of the Sexes," a look at the issues in collegiate sports reforms: scholarships, equality in funding, the number of teams, etc. Friday, Jan. 14, Bill Kurtis' "Investigative Reports" dissects the Persian Gulf conflict in "Anatomy of a War" on A&E. The two-hour documentary fleshes out the highly censored coverage of the 1991 war and features interviews with King Hussein of Jordan, former White House Chief of Staff John Sununu and Egyptian president Hosni Mubarak. Saturday on ESPN, college gridiron all-stars clash in the annual East-West Shrine Game, from Stanford Stadium in Palo Alto, Calif.

ESPN college basketball is 'awesome, baby'!

BY JEFF PLASS

Talking with ESPN's ABC college basketball analyst Dick Vitale is a lot like beating the slot machines.

Insert a question, wait a few seconds and then a stream of verbiage pours forth like so many coins.

Fifteen years ago, after being released as the head coach of the NBA's Detroit Pistons, Vitale brought his exuberant personality to ESPN.

"I pride myself on being enthusiastic and having a passion for what I'm doing," Vitale says. "Not many people can work in an environment, making a living, doing something they love. I'm very, very lucky for that."

"I've been doing this for 15 years on ESPN, going on my sixth year on ABC, and I've been living a fantasy life."

"I pinch myself," Vitale exclaims. "I can't go into a restaurant or a hotel lobby without hearing somebody yell 'Hey, am I awesome baby?' or 'Better get me some P.T. baby, and I shake my head and say 'What have I created.' It's unbelievable, but you know what? I love every moment of it. I love the whole thing, and I thank God for ESPN because they've given me the opportunity for all those other things to happen."

This week ESPN kicks off its first week of conference match-up coverage with back-to-back college basketball games Monday through Thursday, Jan. 10-13.

"I think right now," Vitale explains, "the ACC, SEC, Big Eight, Atlantic 10 and the Big East would probably be your best conferences, and you can throw the PAC-10 in there as well. I think the ACC is a step above the others. There's just no easy stops. No matter where you go in that conference you've got yourself a tough battle."

Which team does Vitale see as the early favorite for the national championship?

"Well, you know, it's so early right now," he says. "Academic problems and injuries could change things, but right now I like, certainly, Arkansas and North Carolina. Those two jump right at me. And I think before it's all said and done Kentucky is going to be right there in the hunt as well. I think Kentucky's going to get better and better as the season progresses. And watch out for Temple. The only problem at Temple could be depth. I like their matchup zone defense and I like John Chaney's discipline. Then right behind those clubs you've got the Dukes and the Michigans, who will certainly be hanging on the door."

Monday, Jan. 10, doesn't get cheerier. ABC features a trial about a woman's poisoning in "Death in Small Doses." Richard Thomas and Tess Harper star. Annual Student Literacy Contest Kick-Off Slated

Governor William Donald Schaefer will kick off the sixth annual "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program's Student Literacy Writing Competition at 10:30 a.m. on Friday, January 14, at Benjamin Tasker Middle School in Bowie.

The theme this year is "Drug-Free Schools - You Make It Happen." Students entering the competition can tell all of Maryland how they plan on reaching the goal of drug-free schools by the year 2000. "The competition is a powerful and exciting way for student to truly think about how to make their schools and lives better," said Governor Schaefer.

Open to all Maryland public, participating private and institutional school students, the competition will run from February 1 to March 1. Students compete on four levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. Top entries will be judged by professional educators from the Maryland Public School system participate in a televised public service announcement promoting the 1994 competition.

Every student who enters the competition will receive free discount coupons to Paramount's Kings Dominion Theme Park. The 12 statewide finalists will be honored at an awards ceremony and luncheon with Governor Schaefer in Annapolis. The first place winners in each level will receive a weekend for four in historic Annapolis including lodging, meals and tours; plus two-day complimentary passes for a family of four at Paramount's Kings Dominion with over night accommodations. Each finalist will also receive complimentary tickets for four and special recognition by the Baltimore Orioles and the Washington Bullets, and a savings bond from FreeState Health System and CareFirst.

The competition is co-sponsored by the "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program, directed by Florane Applefield, the Maryland State Department of Education, directed by Dr. Nancy Grasmick, and the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission, directed by the Honorable Joseph Ciotola.

The competitions' major contributors are Paramount's Kings Dominion Theme Park, FreeState Health System and CareFirst, the Baltimore Orioles, Washington Bullets, WBAL-TV and WBAL-Radio.

Frantz To Speak To Senior Citizens

Brad Frantz, director of Emergency Management for Garrett County, will give a talk this Friday, Jan. 7, at the Mary Browning Senior Center on "Waiting for the Ambulance." Frantz will discuss what to do during those crucial few minutes before the ambulance arrives.

The talk, which will begin at 12:45 p.m. in the senior center dining room, is open to the public.

The new Mary Browning Senior Center is located on the first floor of the Community Action building in the renovated school at 104 E. Center Street, Oakland.

For more information, persons may call 334-9431, ext. 134.

Glimpse Of The Past ...

ABOUT 100 YEARS AGO the Oakland B&O Railroad Station, then "In its infancy," was the site of a train wreck. These photos are from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, but it is unknown what caused the wreck and whether or not there were injuries/fatalities. The photos are published courtesy of the Historical Society and The Republican.

BLOOMINGTON

There will be an evening service on Sunday, January 9 at 7 p.m. at the Bloomington United Methodist Church. Pastor Bill Brown will be preaching on the subject of divine healing. Everyone is welcome.

The Bloomington SHARE registration for January distribution will be Tuesday, January 11, 9 to 11 a.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. at the Bloomington United Methodist Church. The Distribution Day will be Saturday, January 29.

Juanita Smoot and Ronnie and Becky Baker of Romney recently visited Mrs. Frances Beard.

Frances Beard visited her son, Eddie, and family in Des Moines, Iowa, over the Christmas holidays. While visiting, Frances saw areas that had been flooded this year.

Kenny and Dowell Kooker visited with Rev. John and Janie Fazenbaker and family over the Christmas holidays.

Long-Time County Roads Worker Dies In Garage Mishap

A 32-year employee of the Garrett County Roads Department lost his life last week when he was pinned under a county truck after a support chain broke. Harold L. Brant, 60, was pronounced dead at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 3:05 a.m. January 7, several hours after the accident occurred.

According to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Brant and a co-worker, David Pysell, 44, were at the county roads garage, located just north of Oakland, attempting to replace a spring on a county dump truck. The vehicle was supported by a chain and hook, which is the customary procedure, but the chainlink connected to the hook apparently broke, and the truck fell onto Brant and Pysell.

Pysell was able to crawl out from under the vehicle, and although slightly injured, managed to raise the truck off of Brant. Brant was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he died early the following morning from internal injuries, according to the report.

Pysell was also transported to the hospital, where he was treated for his injuries and released.

Born August 9, 1933, in McHenry, Harold L. Brant was the son of the late Gerald L. and Beulah L. (O'Brien) Brant.

He attended the Loch Lynn Church of God, and worked as a supervisor for the Garrett County Roads Department for over 32 years. He was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean War.

He is survived by his wife, Janet C. (Holler) Brant; two daughters, Deborah Fulk, Aurora, W.Va.,

LIFE-SAVING FLIGHT - Two critically injured members of a local family are shown above being loaded into the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter at the scene of a Tuesday afternoon automobile mishap near Accident that claimed two lives. Paul Edward Frantz, 45, deputy chief clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court, and his sister, Pamela Rae Ashby, 42, a writer for The Republican newspaper, were both killed instantly in the collision involving a truck and a mini-van. The Frantz family was enroute to Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville at the time to make funeral arrangements for their mother/wife, Elva Frantz, who had died the evening before at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Flown by Medevac to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland were Jon Bradley Frantz, 38, director of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management, and James Edward Frantz, 48, a supervisor for the Washington County Board of Education. The father of the family, James Everett Frantz, 74, underwent surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The driver of the truck, Alvin R. Lewis Jr., 23, was also transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland with serious injuries. See story for details.

Merger Is Finalized Between WM Bancorp And Keystone

Chairman of the Board, J. Glenn Beall Jr., and Donald E. Stone, president and chief executive officer of WM Bancorp, have jointly announced that the Agreement and Plan of Merger between WM Bancorp and Keystone Financial, Inc., became effective January 7, 1994.

WM Bancorp is the parent company of American Trust Bank (Cumberland) and American Trust Bank of West Virginia (Keyser, W.Va.) and operates 21 community bank offices throughout the local region.

Keystone Financial, Inc., the ninth largest bank holding company in Pennsylvania, is headquartered in Harrisburg and has four member banks with 94 banking offices, not including the two WM Bancorp subsidiaries.

The Agreement and Plan of Merger states that each share of WM Bancorp common stock outstanding will be converted into and become a right to receive 1.67 shares of Keystone common stock. The market price of Keystone common stock at closing on January

Oakland Man To Serve 15 Years For Burglary

A 21-year-old Oakland man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to five consecutive three-year jail terms to be served in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Russell W. Slagle was convicted of four counts of burglary and one count of daylight housebreaking, and the sentence was ordered by Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Charges against Slagle arose after a police investigation into numerous thefts that occurred in March of last year. The crimes took place mainly at vacation homes around Deep Creek Lake, and the items stolen from the residences included stereo equipment, tools, guns, VCR's, and various other property.

The victims in the cases included Joseph G. Lipovich, John A. Rayne, James L. Krause, and William Baranowski. Several other charges against Slagle, such as destruction of property and theft, were not prosecuted.

According to the court document, the judge recommended restitution as a condition of the defendant's parole.

In other circuit court news, a jury found an Oakland man to be guilty of driving while intoxicated (DWI). Darrin E. Smith, 25, made a motion for acquittal in the case, but the motion was denied and the verdict was announced.

Thayer sentenced Smith to two years in the department of corrections, with all but 90 days suspended. The remaining time is to be

State, County Joblessness Falls During November

Maryland's unemployment rate dropped from 6.0% in October to 5.5% in November, the first time in two years that the rate has fallen below 6.0%. The drop in the unemployment rate was due to increasing employment, which rose in November for the third consecutive month.

"The dramatic drop in the state's unemployment rate continues a downward trend, showing the state's recovery from the recession is gaining momentum," said Secretary of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) Mark L. Wasserman. "Through the rest of the year, we expect that the state's economy will continue to grow at a slow but steady rate."

Garrett County's jobless rate also declined, from 9.7% in October to 9.4% in November. The November 1992 rate was 10.3%.

During November, 12,800 additional job-seekers found work, increasing employment to 2,495,937, an all-time high for the month and the fourth highest level ever recorded in Maryland. This expansion, coupled with a slight decline in the labor force, caused the number of unemployed people to fall by just over 13,850 to 144,775. Last November, about 51,800 fewer Marylanders were employed and 6.3% of the labor force, or 164,555 people, were jobless.

Nationally, the jobless rate also declined in November, dropping to 6.1% from 6.3% in October.

During November, hiring occurred primarily in retail trade, as employers geared up for the holiday shopping season. People were hired in general merchandise and apparel stores, furniture retailers and food stores. In addition, hiring also occurred in trucking, financial institutions, and health, social and educational services.

Other economic indicators also showed improvement, as increases were seen in employment by place of work (jobs), new auto registrations and average weekly hours in manufacturing during November.

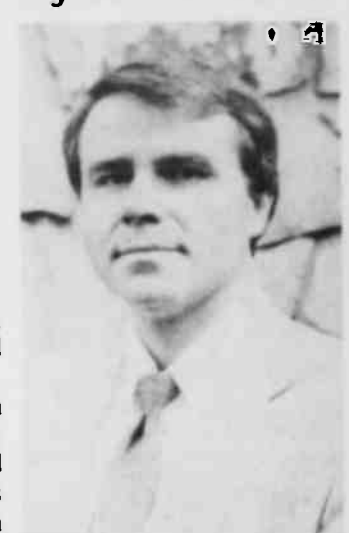

Initial and continuing claims for unemployment insurance and the amount of benefits paid showed an increase over October 1993 levels, but were down from year-ago levels.

Unemployment insurance claims edged up slightly in November, but continue to be significantly below the levels of a year ago. During November, initial claims for unemployment insurance were 22% lower, continued claims were 4.9% lower, and benefit payments were 10% lower than a year ago.

Estimated retail sales totaled $3.5 billion in October 1993, up from $3.2 billion a year ago. During this one-year period, retail sales rose 7.7% in Maryland and 4.8% in the nation.

Two Family Members Killed, Three Injured In Automobile Collision

PAUL J. FRANTZ

PAMELA R. ASHBY

Two members of a well-known local family died and three others were injured in an automobile truck mishap Tuesday afternoon on U.S. Rt. 219 about one mile north of Accident.

Killed instantly in the 12:45 p.m. collision, which occurred in front of the county roads garage near Northern High School, were Paul Joseph Frantz, 45, and his sister, Pamela Rae Ashby, 42. Frantz, of Pergen Farms, was chief deputy clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court, and Mrs. Ashby, Oakland, was a reporter/writer for The Republican.

Critically injured were two other brothers, James Edward Frantz, 48, Rockville, a supervisor with the Washington County Board of Education, and Jon Bradley Frantz, 38, Mt. Lake Park, director of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management.

Also injured and hospitalized was the father of the family, James Everett Frantz, 74, of McHenry, a former sheriff of Garrett County.

The Frantz family was enroute to Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville to make arrangements for the funeral of the mother of the family, Mrs. Elva Frantz, 69, who died Monday night at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

According to Maryland State Police reports, Paul Frantz was driving a Plymouth Voyager mini-van north on Rt. 219 when a Hyde Laundry delivery truck traveling south swerved and crossed both northbound lanes and struck the van head-on. Police said Frantz apparently swerved his vehicle to avoid the truck because the collision occurred on the northbound shoulder of the highway.

Alvin Richard Lewis Jr., 23, a resident of Terra Alta, W.Va., and the driver of the delivery truck, was also seriously injured.

The elder Mr. Frantz was reportedly riding in the right front seat of the mini-van. Mrs. Ashby was by herself in the second seat behind the driver, and James Edward and Jon Bradley Frantz were in the rear seat. Thrown out the back of the vehicle and down an embankment was Jon Bradley, who was not discovered by rescuers for some time after their arrival. The other victims were inside the wreckage.

James Edward, who sustained severe internal injuries, arm fractures, and a head injury, and Jon Bradley, who suffered a crushed pelvis and skull fracture, were both flown to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by the MSP Medevac helicopter where they were listed in serious condition this morning.

The elder Mr. Frantz was transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he underwent surgery for a broken ankle. He was listed in satisfactory condition this morning.

Lewis, who sustained fractures, was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland where he was originally listed in "fair" condition. He was later transported back to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where this morning he was listed in satisfactory condition.

The State Police said that the weather was not a factor in the mishap. They added that no charges have been filed, but that the investigation into the cause was continuing. There is some speculation that Lewis fell asleep at the wheel of

Garrett County Waste Disposal Hearing Set

A public hearing will be conducted January 18 at 11 a.m. by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to consider several amendments to its 1984 ordinance governing solid waste disposal in the county.

Some proposed amendments include: expanding the definition of materials that will or will not be accepted at the county landfill or rural collection sites; giving the commissioners the authority to impose fees for waste disposal; increasing the penalties for illegal waste disposal and prohibiting tire dumping at collection sites.

Unacceptable wastes would include explosives, pathological and biological waste, radioactive materials, foundry sand, septage, "red bag" medical waste, motor vehicles, major motor vehicle parts, agricultural and farm machinery, marine vessels, other large equipment, and any liquid waste.

The county is also trying to gain the authority to set and collect fees for waste disposal at the landfill or other collection sites.

These fees would be collected by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling.

Under the ordinance's enforcement provisions, the board of commissioners intends to increase misdemeanor fees from $100-$1,000 to $250-$2,500 plus a new civil penalty of not less than $75.

Another amendment prohibits the dumping of tires at any collection site unless specially allowed by the solid waste office. Tires from automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, and heavy equipment are not to be dumped at any site.

Tires are to be stored in the county landfill before they are transported to an approved processing facility.

A WINTER ANGEL - Covered with ice and snow, the angel sends up her prayer of hope, her prayer of solace, her prayer of peace. The winter is harsh, as is life at times. While humans struggle to make sense of things, some believe the guardian angels lift us up, remind us of joy, and breathe the whisper of new life in our ears. May they continue their prayers as we continue our existence - our adventure - on this earth.

TOP RANKED IN STATE - Pete Strawser of Southern High School prepares to record a pinfall victory against Northern's Rich Bowser in the 152-pound division of Saturday's Garrett County Invitational, held at Southern. Strawser, who upped his season record to 11-0 with the win, is the top ranked wrestler in the state 2A-1A rankings for his weight class. He earned this distinction by overwhelming a regional champion and regional runner-up at last year's state tournament by a total of nearly 30 points, despite the fact that he went into the event seeded fourth. This was the first defeat of the season for Bowser, who is one of the strongest members of the Huskies team. Northern won the invitational team title. See story and more photos on sports pages. Two Cases Of Theft Being Probed By GCSO

Two separate incidents of theft were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, and investigations into the crimes are underway.

William Roszell, owner of Garrett Automotive, contacted police on Monday to report the theft of four Subaru factory white spoke wheels and tires, one Interstate Megatron battery, and 16 lug nuts. The items were stolen from the business sometime between 10 p.m. on Jan. 8 and 8 a.m. on Jan. 10, according to the report.

The culprits in the case also broke into the Subaru vehicle by breaking the passenger's side window. The vehicle's owner is George Menser, Meyersdale, Pa. The car battery was stolen from a 1994 Dodge van, owned by Garrett Auto Rental, Inc. The loss in the case in damages and stolen property is approximately $1600, according to the report.

In a separate incident, personnel at Southern High School notified the sheriff's office to report the theft of a $1,000 anatomically correct mannequin. The item was apparently stolen from room 1242 in the school between Dec. 23-27.

As of yet, there are no leads in the cases.

Sheriff's Office Arrests Noted

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested three area men this week on charges ranging from DWI (driving while intoxicated) to battery and stalking.

Richard W. Christenopher, 38, Swanton, was arrested on the strength of a warrant charging him with two counts of battery, harassment, and stalking. The charges were brought against the defendant when Tammy Fogle, 30, Oakland, reported to police that Christenopher had been stalking her since November 1993.

According to her statement to police, she said that in the past years, the defendant has struck her, broken her nose, bruised her kidney, and entered her home against her wishes.

A warrant for the arrest of Thomas J. Meyers, 21, Oakland, was served this week. The arrest stemmed from an altercation between the defendant and George Hillsman at an Oakland restaurant.

According to the report, the defendant was fired from his job on that day by Hillsman, owner of the restaurant. Meyers apparently refused to leave the building and eventually struck Hillsman several times.

A Canton, Ohio, man was arrested for DWI on Sunday evening. Robert S. Skipper, 63, was stopped on Rt. 135 when the officer noticed a burned out headlight. The officer detected the odor of alcohol on the defendant, and Skipper was subsequently charged with the offense.

Oakland Teenager Cited For DWI After Car Wreck

An Oakland teenager received minor injuries in a car accident on Tuesday, and was subsequently charged with driving while intoxicated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Christopher A. Ford, 18, was treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital following the mishap on Rt. 219.

Ford was operating a 1988 Dodge Caravan northbound on Rt. 219, north of Foster Road, when he apparently drove off the right side of the road, struck an embankment, and overturned twice.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department responded to the 2:05 p.m. wreck, along with the sheriff's office. Det. Randy Shaffer investigated the incident and charged Ford with DWI, according to a sheriff's office spokesperson.

DHCD Proposes Plan For Block Grants Release

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) proposed last week the release of the state's plan for the distribution of approximately $5.3 million in federal funds under the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) Program for federal fiscal year 1994. The block grant funds, originally authorized under the Federal Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, will be distributed to local agencies to finance numerous programs for low-income Marylanders.

Funds will be distributed to local community action agencies, including Garrett County Community Action, and other "eligible entities" throughout Maryland. "Local agencies will coordinate funding of a number of projects designed to help children, adults, and special needs groups," said Department of Housing and Community Development Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers.

Originally part of the nation's "war on poverty," the federal funds have been used by community action agencies since 1964 to develop programs designed to address some of the causes and conditions of poverty in local areas. In Maryland, these community programs have included: Head Start educational centers for young children, health, employment, housing and weatherization programs for adults, and other special programs for young persons and the elderly.

Potomac Edison Company Seeks Rate Increase

In an application filed Jan. 5 with the Maryland Public Service Commission, The Potomac Edison Company requested an increase in the fuel portion of its customers' bills that would become effective in two parts, if approved by the Commission.

The first part of the filing covers a fuel rate increase of $5.7 million. According to a PE spokesman, this increase is necessary because of a continued decline in sales of electricity to other utilities. Profits on such sales directly reduce fuel costs incurred by Potomac Edison's customers. The company has requested an effective date of Feb. 4, 1994.

The second part of the filing is a request to increase the temporary deferred fuel surcharge now appearing on customers' bills to recover a $3.2 million shortfall in the collection of fuel costs which has accumulated since August 1993. If approved, this part of the increase would become effective April 7, 1994.

Monthly electricity costs would rise $1.03 to $69.48 for a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours, the spokesman said.

Potomac Edison services more than 187,000 customers in all or parts of seven Maryland counties.

One-Car Accident Injures Driver

A one vehicle accident in Oakland yesterday injured the driver of a van as she was traveling northbound on old Route 219 near Hillside Drive.

Leona Rinker apparently lost control of her vehicle, ran off the road, hit a bridge and warning sign, and overturned the vehicle.

She was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad where she was treated and released.

Oakland firemen responded to the 8:30 a.m. accident and the Maryland State Police investigated.

Bartlett Provides 800 Number For Garrett Residents

Western Maryland's Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has announced a new toll free number for Garrett County residents to use to call his office.

Bartlett said the 800 number has been installed so that constituents that need assistance from his office need not pay a long distance fee in order to gain access to his services. The new number is 1-800-889-3012.

Calls to this number will be routed to Congressman Bartlett's office serving Garrett County. The local number for that office is still 301-689-0034.

Leadership Skills For Managers Emphases Of New Classes At GCC

New and upgraded classes at Garrett Community College this spring are designed to provide proactive "hands-on" learning opportunities that will help managers and supervisors develop critical leadership skills. The new Leadership Skills for Managers and Supervisors series begins with five classes this semester. Each class in the series has been designed to meet the specific needs of those who manage or supervise employees in business, health, service organizations, or school settings.

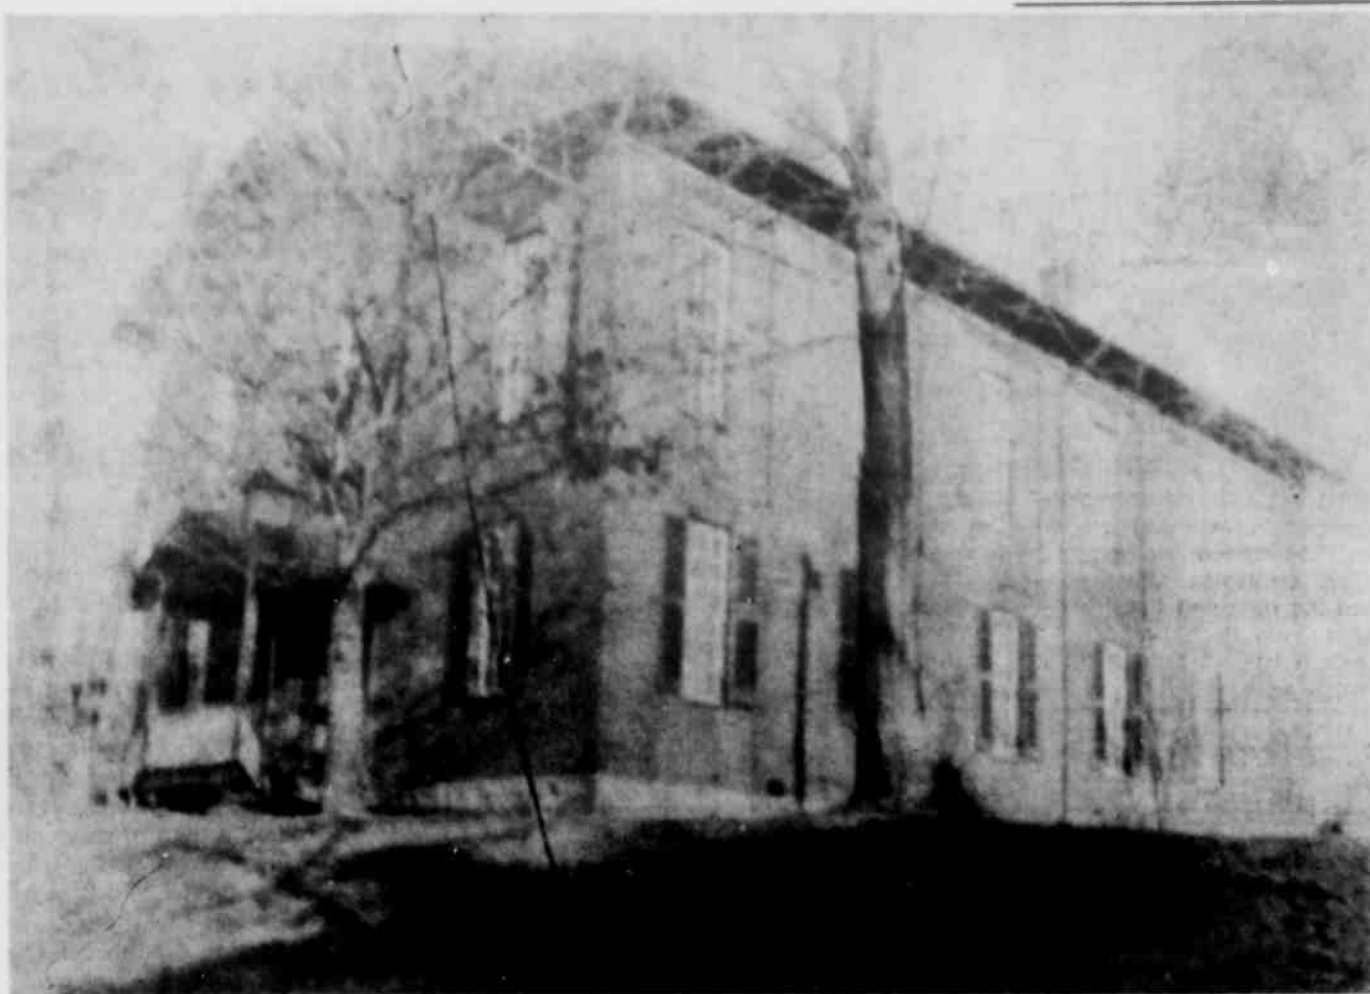

Operating successful businesses and organizations in today's highly competitive environment presents many new challenges, according to Sandy Major, Business Programs coordinator at GCC. "Conventional ways of managing are no longer effective. Today's leaders need to be doing all the right things 'right' in order to enable performance that attracts, delights, and keeps customers. Companies and organizations that succeed have managers and supervisors who have skills in the area of understanding and instilling vision, practicing personal quality, enabling change, empowering employees, and achieving positive outcomes," Major said.

"Making the Time To Manage" is the first class in this series. This class will enable managers and supervisors to discover ways to manage time that will help them handle stress and enjoy their jobs. Practical individualized learning experiences will be focused on: values, goals and priorities; time management techniques; getting past procrastination and personal time wasters; increasing and using prime time; and conducting effective meetings. The class will meet February 3 and 10 from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m.

"Building Productivity Through Teamwork," the second class in this series, will meet on three consecutive Thursdays from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m., starting February 24. The class focuses on developing leadership skills that will enable each participant to transform his or her workforce into a highly productive coordinated team. Supervisors and managers will learn: the dynamics of effective leadership; how to build commitment; how to use low-cost incentives; delegate skills; ways to empower employees to take responsibility; how to give meaningful feedback and measure results; how to get others to direct and motivate themselves; and ways to build confidence and self-esteem.

The third class in this series will be "Strengthening Your Assertiveness and Communication Skills." This class will help participants build skills in communicating effectively to build trust and to empower others. It is designed to help participants build confidence, personal power, and super-

GARRETT COUNTY'S FIRST COURTHOUSE was built in 1877 along Fourth Street in Oakland. Although the county was formed in 1872 from the western half of Allegany County, the dispute over where the county seat was to be located was so intense that the courthouse was not built until the county commissioners were issued a writ of mandamus by the circuit court to authorize the building of the same. In a county-wide election to select the new county seat, Oakland narrowly won out over Grantsville. Many years after the present county courthouse was constructed, the first courthouse was incorporated as the

visory effectiveness, by learning to communicate assertively. Managers and supervisors will learn to: assess and strengthen assertiveness skills; use motivational communication techniques; focus on listening to understand; give and get positive feedback; and coach and counsel. The class will meet on March 24, March 31, and April 7 from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m.

"Hiring and Developing Committed Employees" will focus on hiring, developing, and keeping employees that are committed to delivering quality services and products. Supervisors and managers will learn to: select and train employees who will focus on quality; develop job descriptions and policy manuals; create performance evaluations; meet legal responsibilities; identify and deal with problem employees; conduct counseling and termination sessions; and practice effective supervisory techniques that motivate. This class will meet on two consecutive Thursdays from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. starting April 21.

The final class, "Planning, Organizing and Controlling," will help students focus on continually improving the quality of products and services. Participants will develop valuable skills in developing strategic and operational plans; improving processes; implementing and measuring control techniques; and effective decision making. The class will meet on May 12 and May 19 from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m.

All classes will be held at the McHenry Campus of GCC. While participants may register for any one of the classes, they will gain the most from each class by enrolling in all classes. The content of each of these classes is interrelated to the content of the other classes. CEU's will be awarded for those who participate in and attend at least 80% of the class or classes for which they're registered. In order to address the individual needs of each participant, each class is limited to 12 participants.

Since space is limited, those interested in these classes should register immediately, Mrs. Major said. To obtain information on any of these classes or other business classes, persons may call Major or Ann White at the GCC Small Business Development Center at 387-3101 or 387-3080.

Joblessness

During the first 10 months of the year, retail sales rose 5.9% in both Maryland and the United States.

The number of housing permits in November 1993 increased 6.8% over November 1992. Overall, housing permits for 1993 are estimated at 30,000 units. This figure, coupled with 32,500 permits issued in 1992, indicates two years of moderate recovery for Maryland's residential construction industry.

Employment expansion, coupled with a decline in the labor force, lowered Western Maryland's regional unemployment count by just over 675 people and the jobless rate from 8.2% to 7.6%. In Garrett County, while temporary layoffs in manufacturing caused employment drop, the withdrawal of workers from the job market eased the jobless rate to its 1993 low of 9.4%.

Statewide, unemployment rates in November ranged from a low of 3.2% in Montgomery County to a high of 13.4% in Worcester County.

What Would She Want?...

Using mere words to fully reveal the level of devastation experienced in the hearts and minds of our staff this week does not seem possible; at least such a task is well beyond the capabilities of this writer.

The sudden, violent death of our co-worker Pam Ashby Tuesday afternoon, coupled with the similar death of her brother, Paul, and the serious injury of two more brothers and her father, all just 15 hours after the death of her mother, has stretched our emotions and our very stability to the limit. Few of us here, regardless of our ages, have ever experienced or been so close to tragedy of this magnitude. The sadness, the helplessness, and the hopelessness have wounded our spirits so severely that, right now, we wonder how in the world we are going to get on with our lives.

As severe as it is for us, the close friends of Pam, and for similar friends of Paul, how much greater is the pain for their families. While our hearts ache because of what their deaths have done to us, our hearts bleed for the members of their families.

Our grief is so painful now, and as we seek so desperately to find some way to climb out of this mire, it suddenly struck this writer just this morning that, out of all the fine qualities that Pam possessed in this life, having the ability to make people laugh was absolutely one of her finest. And we are not talking about a smile or a chuckle; we're talking about knee-slapping, rolling-on-the-floor laughter.

It is our belief that Pam would want us to remember that about her, and more importantly, to keep on laughing and enjoying this life that is so fragile and often so short. She would be overwhelmed with the tremendous outpouring of love and sympathy for her family that has occurred this week, but she would also be anxious for us to get on with our lives, and she would remind us that in a relatively brief period of time, we will all be together again in a far better place, to laugh and have a great time together forever.

In the meantime, we must pick up the pieces. Fortunately, another of Pam's gifts was an incredible talent for writing, and through her many wonderful columns throughout the past nine years that she compiled just over the past few months, we can still hear from her and laugh with her. She had even written a preface to her collection, and it is our hope, and that of her husband, Joe, to have her columns published in book form.

In closing this piece for today, we turn to an anonymous poet, who expresses far better than I what Pam would want to say to us.

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free.
I'm following the path laid for me.

I took his hand when I heard him call;
I turned my back and left it all.
I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work, or play.
If my parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss;
Ah, yes, these things I too will miss.
Be not burdened with times of sorrow;
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I've savored much;
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.
Perhaps my time seemed all too brief;
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me,
God wanted me now; He set me free.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Last night she was in my dreams and waking thoughts all night long. A vision of what happened played itself out over and over again. One moment she is a vibrant, live human being—mother, daughter, sister, wife, friend, writer, reporter—the next moment she is gone.

It all happened too fast to comprehend, which is why these words spill out of my pen... to say goodbye and to provide therapy. So sorely missed will be her musings about her family, her pets, her pests and pet peeves, and her philosophy. So sorely missed will be her wit and intelligence, her caring, and her exuberant laughter. Darn it all, I feel cheated, don't you?

So long, Pam. You leave a big hole in Garrett County's heart.

Love,
Donna Aspinall

To the Editor:

We are writing this letter to thank all of the people who helped to remove snow from the alleys, driveways, and sidewalks in the town of Friendsville during our most recent snow storm.

We live in the town of Friendsville, but our home is right beside an open field. So with any amount of snowfall or any wind, our alley blows shut, as was the case during our last snow storm.

We would like to say a special thanks to Herschal Allen and Allen Friend for coming over to our alley with their snow removal equipment and opening up the alley. As soon as these two men heard that our alley needed plowed, they were both there to get the job done.

Also with their help, our town streets, sidewalks, and the walkway across the bridge are in better shape than what they have been in past years.

Thanks again, Herschal and Allen, for a job well done.

To the Editor:

Wake up, America, and smell the offal, and recognize a contrived diversion for what it is. If you don't have a bloody little war to divert the voters' attention, create a diversion of your own. It doesn't take much—especially with the help of a friendly and thoroughly biased news media.

The Liberal media, at the urging of the Liberal establishment in this country, thinks it found a way to deflect the heat, and the white light of scrutiny, away from Mr. Clinton, his peccadilloes and the more serious allegations of "high crimes and misdemeanors" he refuses to address, and is unable to adequately deny. Make no mistake about it; that's exactly what they are. Don't allow the Liberals to trivialize them.

As to the matter of deflection: the radioactive testing of individuals by various government and private agencies, with or without their consent, has been common knowledge in this country for decades. The only difference now is that a Clinton Administration appointee, at the behest of his political advisors, has thrown open the files, known to all her predecessors, and for added spice (distraction) they're insisting the beleaguered taxpayers of this country, not the perpetrators mind you, pay damages of unspecified dimensions.

The political reality now, as opposed to the earlier discovery, and minimal reporting of the same facts, is that the Liberal media has issued a clarion call to action in order to save one of their own, attempting to deflect attention from the fetid swamp he, himself, created where the spectral alligators of mal and misfeasance have him by his sinistry.

I really don't think the American voter is that stupid anymore; but I've been wrong before. I suspect we'll get a hint next November, before the main event in '96.

In any event, warm up your 2x4 for 94! It's only fully functional in the voting-booth where we must finally begin to deconstruct, decentralize and ultimately, humanize government to insure it flows from the people. It's the only way we can reestablish government of, by, and for the people! And it all begins with the quality of the people we elect...or reject, which is, in and of itself, one of the strongest messages we can send under the present circumstances of non-responsible government; where responsibility and accountability are totally nonexistent and lying is not only accepted, it's expected!

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

Ice hockey is a vital sport in the Garrett County Education/Recreation Programs. Not! Ice hockey is incorporated into the current curriculum at Garrett Community College. Not!

Ice hockey is hot! It's tough! It's exciting! It's gang busters for the mountain youth who are fortunate to have frontier Garrett County as their home!

Ice hockey could be scholarship-fueled at Garrett Community College. Area high schools could feed the college with future potential pros who could find themselves skating on into the National Hockey League stadiums—and big bucks! (How 'bout those Penguins!)

With ice hockey we'd get three peppy sports in one: 1. wrestling; 2. fighting; 3. hockey! What a deal!

I vote ice hockey for Garrett County! And while we're at it, let's add some spice to the ice on Broadford Lake and Deep Creek Lake—ice boating!

Ice on the county cake! Go for it! (Like now!)

Sincerely,
Eric Jones II

the vehicle.

Also responding to the scene was the Accident Volunteer Fire Department. The mishap has stunned the entire county because of the tremendous loss to the surviving members of the family, plus the fact that the family is so well-known locally.

"Paul and I went to college together and then started working in the clerk's office the same year (1977)," stated David K. Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. "We sort of grew up together in the clerk's office. Not only have I lost my co-worker and right-hand man, but I've lost a very good friend."

Martin noted the shock experienced by the entire community at the tragedy when he said, "It literally took me over two hours just to walk to the post office today (Wednesday) because

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

(NOT JUST) RECYCLING UPDATE

by Donna Aspinall

League of Women Voters of Garrett County Here it is, January 1994, so it's time again to talk trash... or how to reduce it. Remember, we have a 15% recycling mandate to meet by July of this year!

*Christmas trees: Don't stuff them in the county dumpsters. They take up space needed for regular trash and pose a real removal problem for the trash handlers. Instead, chip them for mulch, use them for wildlife habitat (near a bird feeder, for instance), take them to the landfill, or leave them out on non-trash days if there is separate pick-up for yard waste. Those trees will be used in our lakes for fish habitat.

*Christmas wreaths: Remove the greenery with snippers or pliers and recycle the metal frame. The needles are great for mulch.

*Newsprint: Can enough be said about recycling newsprint, and properly? The white recycling bins still show all sorts of bags, boxes, and other newspaper inserts thrown in with newsprint. Since Christmas, other paper and paperboard are being thrown in as well (e.g., Christmas wrapping and boxes, kitchen trash, and beer cartons). These other paper materials -- mail included -- should be thrown out with regular trash, not in the white recycling bins. The News for Moos business that takes Garrett County's newsprint shouldn't have to remove our trash for us -- trash that still goes to landfill.

Once again, recycle only newsprint that is found in newspapers, telephone books (remove covers), and some catalogs (remove staples). In addition, much of the TV Guide publication is made up of newsprint, which should be recycled (remove covers and shiny pages).

Finally, it is quite obvious that many newspapers are being tossed out in post offices. How about committing some "random acts of kindness" by grabbing an armload of newspapers and recycling them?

*Paper bags: Use them for trash (double bagging works quite well with other paper trash inserted between the walls for reinforcement), reuse them for groceries or hauling newspapers to the recycling bin, or donate them to a thrift shop or to Community Action for its Brown Bag food program.

*Tires: For now, all tires must be disposed of at the landfill for a nominal fee per tire. It is illegal to put them in the dumpsters, because it costs the county more to haul them to the landfill, unload them, then pay a hauler to take them to Hagerstown. What costs the county more ends up costing taxpayers more.

*Other recyclables: Continue to recycle container glass, but do remove the caps and recycle those that are metal. Continue to recycle all metal, but don't put large items in the white bins. Plastic (and paper) bags can still be recycled at Food Lion. Clean cardboard (free of staples and adhesives) should be taken to Paul Dove Enterprises, located on Liberty St., Oakland, next to Appalachian Crossroads and Garrett Transit Services.

so many people stopped me to express their concern and sorrow."

Donald Sincell, editor of The Republican, commented on the loss of Mrs. Ashby from his staff. "Pam was a gifted writer and an outstanding worker," he said, "but more importantly, she was a warm, loving human being who always went out of her way to help people who were in need. She had a wonderful sense of humor and was truly one of my dearest friends, as she was to most of the people who work here. It will take a long time to recover from her loss."

Besides Mrs. Ashby, also on the news staff of The Republican is her sister, Sherry Frantz, and Mrs. Ashby's son, Jamie, who is an advertising representative.

Another sister, Mary Kay Frantz Roper, was enroute to Garrett County from her home in Silver Spring at the time of the fatal mishap. Sincell said the telephones at The Republican office have been "ringing off the wall" with calls from people from all over the county.

"Many have called to find out how they could be of assistance to the family, some called just to express their sympathy, and others called offering to assist our staff in any way they could to help us get our newspaper out this week," he said.

The Mind Wanders

by Beth Winkelvoss

A wise man once told me, "You've got to love what you do and do what you love." Obviously Pam Ashby also heard that advice at some point along the way, because she loved to write and to be with people and with that every person she interacted with she deeply touched. I am fortunate to say that I am one of those people. I was lucky enough to be influenced by her.

Pam was one of my mentors this past summer at The Republican. She, along with everyone else, had great impact on me. She taught me the guidelines of her beat, the quirks of her computer, and even the punchlines of her jokes.

I admired her writing style immensely. She had such flair. I thought everything she wrote was wonderful and I wasn't shy to tell her so. But she was certainly modest when I would tell her.

I hope to someday be half as great a mom as Pam was. Her eyes would shine when she would tell us the latest school grades of one of her girls or what their new plans were for when they grew up.

It was also touching to see a mother and son work so closely together here at The Republican every week and not be at each other's throats. Of course not every family follows a path of roses all the time. Like all families, the Ashbys had their bumps, but they survived. The strong always survive and Pam was a strong one. I hope that the family can now try to draw on Pam's strength to somehow manage to get through this.

Strength, survival, and support are things that I pray the families and friends who have been touched so deeply can find.

I spoke to Pam the morning before the accident and I told her not to worry about work because I would take care of everything I could. She said she wouldn't worry and laughed and said, "I know you can take care of things, Bethy." I hope she kept her word about not worrying, but knowing her she probably is still worrying about everyone else. Just the other day we joked about how Pam resembles a caring mother bird who worries about her young and her friends.

I will miss her silly grin, her hardy laugh, and her caring words. Most of all, I will miss Pam. Pam had a wonderful quality in which she could make anyone laugh at anytime about anything. She touched so many people in such a short life.

Why did it have to end now? Why? There are so many unanswered questions, and we realize at times like this how little time we do have. One day life can be as bright as a shooting star and the next it can be blown out like a birthday candle.

We mourn for all of the family members. It is so unbelievable to understand that life can be changed so drastically. Pam's brother, Paul Frantz, was also killed in the accident.

I didn't know Paul as well, but I got to know his wife and I pray for her and their sons.

I hope that somehow, somehow, and at sometime the family and friends of these wonderful people will find a way to go on with their lives. Pam and Paul would want everyone to carry on.

They will live on as long as we keep their memories alive. I know I will remember Pam both for her smart alec remarks, her sense of family, and her wise words.

It is hard to find the words to express these feelings. But I felt that since my job is to educate people with words I thought I would try to make some sense of all of this nonsense. I don't know if I have done any good or not, but all I know from my limited experience is that right now we need each other more than ever. We need to communicate with each other, to lean on each other, and to be there for each other.

We try to find meaning of something, anything in this chaos called life. It is hard, but still we must try. We search desperately for answers, and we know from Proverbs that "the righteous hath hope in his death" and that we should have no fear "because thou art with me; thy rod and staff they comfort me."

Those Providing HVACR Services Need Licensing

The Garrett County Commissioners have received a memorandum from the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation giving notice that effective January 1, Title 9A, Business Regulation Article of the Annotated Code requires all persons providing heating, ventilation, air conditioning or refrigeration services to be licensed by the State Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration (HVACR) Board.

This new HVACR Board, chaired by Charles Smith, will license persons in the categories of Master, Master Restricted, Master Limited, Journeyman, and Apprentice. The new licensing requirement will also affect persons living outside the state of Maryland who are providing HVACR services in Maryland.

NEW SHRINERS - The All Ghan Shrine Temple in Cumberland recently inducted 63 Masons into its membership, making it one of the largest classes of new Inductees in recent history. The new class was composed of members from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties, as well as nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania. With jurisdiction in all four Western Maryland counties, All Ghan membership not totals over 1,500. The new members are pictured above

The Garrett County Commissioners pointed out that the state law has included a provision to allow those persons providing HVACR services to secure a license without the need for examination if application is made before September 7.

Title 9A provides this licensing opportunity to an individual who 1) has lawfully provided heating, ventilation, air conditioning or refrigeration services in a subdivision of the state for at least five years immediately prior to the one year after the date the members of the board are appointed (September 7, 1994); 2) files an application for a license under this title (title 9A) prior to one year after the date the members of the board are appointed (September 7, 1994); and 3) submits with the application the prescribed fee and proof of eligibility required by the board.

Persons may still obtain a license from the HVACR Board after September 7, provided the examination administered by the state board is passed. Applications or additional information may be obtained from the board's executive director, Charles P. Kazlo, at 410-333-4517.

5, 1994, was $32 per share, which results in an equivalent WM common stock per share market price of $53.44. The fair market value is equal to 2.20 times the book value of each share of WM common stock, which was $24.26 on June 30, 1993.

On December 31, 1991, market capitalization of WM Bancorp was $23.8 million; on the closing date of the WM Bancorp - Keystone Financial, Inc. merger, market capitalization of WM Bancorp was $74.6 million.

According to Beall and Stone, the merger has provided WM Bancorp stockholders with enhanced investments and an increased opportunity for future equity growth as a Keystone Financial, Inc. stockholder.

Additionally, they said, a greater range of products and services will be available to customers of American Trust Bank and American Trust Bank of West Virginia as a result of Keystone's resources and support services.

"The Super Community Banking philosophy of Keystone readily complements and adds strength to WM Bancorp's subsidiaries continual efforts to increase their competitive positions in respective market areas and to embellish a customer focused, quality service environment," Stone concluded.

High Schools Receive Tax Course Material

"While their parents are dealing with W-2s and tax forms, students will get some tax education of their own from special course materials that will help them prepare for dealing with tax forms later in life," said Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

The Comptroller's Office has provided nearly 1,000 high school teachers and resource personnel with materials designed to help students and teachers understand Maryland state and local taxes.

"We prepared this course material to be used in conjunction with the 'Understanding Taxes' materials which have been provided by the Internal Revenue Service for many years," Goldstein said. "This is the fifth year we've provided this material to Maryland teachers, and it includes suggestions made by educators who responded favorably to last year's version."

The course module provides materials to help students understand their tax obligations and how to complete simple Maryland state income tax forms. The materials also give an overview of the sales and use tax, motor fuel tax and other kinds of taxes collected by Maryland state and local governments.

"Students are not automatically exempt from the Maryland income tax. They are subject to the same filing requirements as other single taxpayers. In addition, whenever young people get part-time jobs, buy a compact disc or pay for fuel for the family car, they play a direct role in the kinds of taxes collected by state and local governments," Goldstein said. "This course material helps them understand their responsibility and gives them experience in filling out forms that will benefit them now and later in life."

The comptroller reminded students that they can file easy-to-use Form 123 to claim a refund of state taxes withheld, if their income is below the $6,050 filing requirement for 1993. Form 123 has only five lines to complete and takes just minutes to fill out.

Teachers can obtain the Maryland state and local tax course module by contacting the comptroller's Public Affairs Office, Box 466, Goldstein Treasury Building, Annapolis, MD 21404-0466; telephone (410) 974-3885.

Heartworks Program Conducted For Local Businesses

The Wellness Together staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department recently conducted the Heartworks worksite program for the employees of Garrett Community College (GCC) and The Data Entry Company (IDEC).

The Heartworks program is available to area businesses, and focuses on the reduction of cardiovascular disease. Debora Nichols, Wellness coordinator said, "In view of the fact that health care costs continue to escalate and companies are experiencing the tremendous weight of meeting the costs of unhealthy employees, we are offering businesses a program that steps in the direction of addressing this problem."

"Coronary heart disease is the number one cause of death in the United States today and according to recent results of the Healthy 2000 survey, it continues to be a major health problem in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia counties," Nichols continued.

To help decrease the risk of coronary heart disease,

WELLNESS TOGETHER of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department recently conducted the Heartworks worksite program for employees of GCC and IDEC. Shown in the photo, Debora Nichols, right, Wellness Together coordinator, discusses ways to reduce the risk of coronary heart disease with Janice O'Brien, left, an employee at IDEC. According to Nichols, "Coronary heart disease is a major health problem in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia counties. However, through education and a supportive work environment, employees can learn new behaviors to help reduce the risk for coronary heart disease."

Heartworks participants are screened for the major risk factors that contribute to heart disease including high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure, smoking status, and weight.

Once test results are completed, participants then receive counseling about their scores. If the results fall into the risk category, participants are educated about various ways, such as eating low-fat foods, that help decrease the risks for heart disease.

Employees are then given a confidential statistical report of findings at the end of the Heartworks event to inform them of the overall health of their employees as well as an outline of suggested programs to help decrease the risks for coronary heart disease.

"Through education and a supportive work environment, employees can learn new behaviors to help reduce the risk for coronary heart disease," said Nichols. "Wellness Together offers programs to control blood pressure, cholesterol, weight, and smoking that provide employees with the necessary skills and behaviors to adopt healthy lifestyles."

Persons desiring more information about the Heartworks worksite program may call (301) 334-2155, ext. 408.

Rita Harvey And Curtis Miske Are Wed In August Ceremony

Rita Joyce Harvey and Curtis Anthony Miske were united in marriage on August 21, 1993. The double-ring ceremony took place at Deep Creek Baptist Church with Rev. Robert Jennings officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Harvey, Deep Creek Lake. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Miske, formerly of Green Glade, currently residing at Canonsburg Lake, Pa.

Social

Prior to the ceremony, groomsmen lit triple altar candelabras accented with fresh pink roses, white carnations, and a variety of greenery. Guitarist Jimmy Flanigan sang The Wedding Song during the lighting of the unity candles by the parents of the bride and groom. A rose centerpiece was placed on the unity candle table in loving memory of the groom's sister.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She chose a white satin gown featuring a high neckline of spiraling pearls and iridescent sequins with an inset of net illusion which held dangling pearl drops. An intricate array of pearls, sequins, and bugle beads on Alencon lace embellished the bodice down to the flowing peplum at the waist. The long sleeves of beaded beading and hanging pearl droplets tapered to the wrist. The scalloped veer back of Alencon lace had covered satin buttons down to the single peplum on the back which was covered with pearls and sequins on Alencon lace. The front and back of the skirt were ornately designed to flow to the wide scalloped hemline of Alencon lace. The detachable train was adorned by large appliques of Alencon lace, pearls, and bugle beads.

To complement her attire, the bride wore a tiara of pearls, shooting pearls, and beaded leaves accented with iridescent sequins which held a two-tier rolled edge of veil with a large pouf, scattered pearls and detachable blusher. She carried a silk presentation bouquet of white calla lilies, pink cabbage roses, and pink al-

Misti Foley, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Traci Neville, Gaithersburg, friend of the bride; Johnna Marple, Washington, Pa., friend of the bride; Debi Miske, McKees Rocks, Pa., and Shelly Sarubbi, Crafton, Pa., both sisters of the groom. The attendants wore iridescent teal Bill Levkoff gowns with detachable rhinestone-buttoned jackets and carried silk arm bouquets of white calla lilies and pink alstromerias.

Ashley Sarubbi, Crafton, Pa., and Megan Miske, Pittsburgh, Pa., both nieces of the groom, were flower girls. They wore pale pink satin dresses with flowing tea-length netting skirts and headpieces intertwined with silk rose buds, ribbon, and greenery. The girls carried white baskets filled with pale pink rose petals.

The groom was attired in a black Pierre Cardin tuxedo with tails and a white paisley vest and tie. Serving as best man was Doug Smith, Oakland, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Lee Livengood, Cumberland, friend of the groom; Todd Sisler, Oakland, friend of the groom; Robbie Harvey, Deep Creek Lake, and Ronald Harvey, Loch Lynn, both brothers of the bride. The groomsmen wore black tuxedos with tails and teal and black sea mist vests and ties.

Layton-Orner Couple To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layton, Salisbury, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Michelle Renee, to Kevin Lee Orner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Orner, Grantsville.

Miss Layton is a 1993 graduate of Salisbury, Elk-Lick High School. She is currently employed at Flushing Shirt Factory.

Mr. Orner is a 1990 graduate of Northern High School and is employed by Orner and Sons Trucking. The wedding is planned for June 11, 1994.

ADV Weight Loss Baffles Scientist!

WASHINGTON -- A scientist at National Dietary Research was baffled at how successful a natural food tablet had become in helping overweight people lose weight. Dr. William Morris was baffled because the original chewable tablet formula was developed to help feed the world's undernourished people.

Why the original food formula helped some people lose weight is still a mystery. However, the formula has since been improved, and the new formula's weight loss potential is not a mystery. The fortified formula, called Food Source II (FS II), is not a low-calorie food but a powerful appetite blocker that can actually decrease calorie consumption while supplying essential nutrients.

So how can people lose weight with FS II -- lots of weight! According to Dr. Morris it is the revolutionary FS II diet plan that allows you to lose weight without giving up your favorite foods. With the FS II Plan there are no forbidden foods and the special appetite control ingredient is one of the most effective available without a prescription.

Berkley Brown Lab has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS II. FS II is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Chad Harvey, Deer Park, nephew of the bride, and R.J. Miske, Pittsburgh, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearers. They carried heart-shaped pillows and wore tuxedos to match the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a dusty rose suit with a sweet-heart neckline accented with sequins and pearls. The mother of the groom wore a powder pink suit trimmed with lace and pearls. Each wore a silk corsage.

Following the exchange of wedding vows, Robert Miske, Pittsburgh, brother of the groom, gave a poem reading and the guitarist sang When I Look Into Your Eyes as the couple lit the unity candle.

The organist was Mrs. June Harvey, aunt of the bride, and Julie Harvey, sister-in-law of the bride, registered guests. Angie Thomas, friend of the bride and groom, distributed programs. Following the ceremony, Jamie Miske, niece of the groom, and Kim Miske, godchild of the groom, distributed balloons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Will O' the Wisp.

The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. George Wilt, featured three tiers set above a pale pink cascading fountain and was accented with two side cakes. The cake was decorated with Cornelli lace icing and accented with draped garland bows and iridescent pearls. Each cake layer was topped with an arrangement of sweet heart roses, ivy and baby's breath. The cake was placed upon a mirrored table surrounded by ivy and candles. A filigree heart, trimmed in pearls with a bride and groom inset, adorned the cake top. The heart-shaped cake topper was originally used by the bride's parents 34 years earlier.

Flowers adorning the church ceremony and the reception area were presented by Christopher's Flowers, Greentree, Pa., owned and operated by the groom's parents and uncle, Carl Gabler. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Deep Creek fire hall.

Balloon-accented decorations at the reception were provided by the Party House. Music was provided by Mark Stevens of Q-94. The wedding and reception were photographed by Beitzel Photography, Meyersdale, Pa., and videotaped by Vivid Video, Pittsburgh.

Following a honeymoon to Martha's Vineyard, the couple established residence in Rockville. The bride is a graduate of Frostburg State University and is currently employed as a staff accountant at Snyder, Newrath and Co., P.C., Bethesda. The groom is a graduate of Southern High School and is currently attending Montgomery College. He is employed by Laurel Adjustment Bureau.

Folk-Collins Couple To Wed

Beatrice Folk, Accident, and Floyd "Joe" Collins, Deer Park, have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Ms. Folk is the daughter of Mrs. Carrie Hoover, Grantsville, and the late Simon Hoover, and is owner and operator of Nana's Personal Care Home in Accident.

Mr. Collins is the son of Lucretia Watring, Swanton, and the late Floyd Collins, and is employed at Blackwater Mining, Thomas, W. Va.

A February wedding is being planned. The couple will reside in Accident and continue to operate the care home.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Five couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court.

Nicholas Bova, 34, Salisbury, and Louise Margaret Coakley, 25, Westminster.

Stephen Ray Bolding, 29, and Kathy Ann Reynolds, 36, both of Oakland.

Gary Wayne Wolfe, 40, Point Marion, Pa., and Rita Faye McAdden, 31, Gans, Pa.

NEW SIGN BUILT AT STATE PARK - Visitors to Savage River State Forest and New Germany State Park will be able to spot the entrance more easily this year as a new stone sign was recently built by several people. The construction was a cooperative effort between the forest and park's staff, the Maryland Conservation Corp., and Master Stone Mason Bob Brenneman. The materials used in the construction - the stone, locust post, and spruce planks - were all found within the forest and park. Pictured above, left to right, as they build the new sign are Greg Iden, Phil Kianer, Bill Wolfe, and Jim Hare. Pictured below is the entire crew. Standing left to right are Eric Savage, Larry Rodeheaver, Bill Wolfe, Mike Reese, Jim Hare, Bob Brenneman, Roger Rounds, Clarissa Harris, Keith Fike, Vernon Sweltzer, Jason Paugh, and Greg Iden. The new sign is shown above right.

In Loving Memory of Our Darling Darla Diane DeWitt 1970-1973

God looked around the garden and he saw an empty space. Then he looked down from Heaven and picked you to fill that place.

He put his arms around you and whispered, "Come to rest." His garden must be beautiful for he only picks the best.

We tried hard to save you. Prayers and tears were all in vain. Happy angels came and took you from the weary world of pain.

Why it was God's will to take you - some day we will know. For we're sure he had a reason, but how painful was the blow.

Your memory is a keepsake which will never depart. God has you in his keeping - but we have you in our hearts.

Always and forever loved,
Your Family

A grandmother, a great grandmother and a mother.

She was so great and would always rate as a mother.

There was no other great grandmother who showed the children how to cook that they didn't need a book to teach.

She would always give them a speech about smoking, drinking, drugs and how bad it was for your thinking.

Some days you can still hear her crying in that nursing home. That makes us feel like reading a poem.

We all miss her very much, but some day we'll all be a happy bunch!

Huskies Edge Rams In Annual Garrett Wrestling Invitational

The Northern High School wrestling team captured the Garrett County High School Invitational team championship Saturday, edging out the host Southern Rams with 244.5 points. Southern finished with 215 points and Fort Hill placed a distant third with 118 points.

Northern grapplers won six individual titles, as did the Rams, while Hyndman recorded one.

Winning titles for the Huskies were Aaron Hordubay in the 103-pound class, Tirrell Burdock, 112; Cody Brenneman, 135; Dean Green, 145; Lee Collins, 189; and Steve Savage, heavyweight.

Rams capturing championships were Nathan Rickman, 119; Jason Burgess, 125; Mike Liller, 130; Howard Crocco, 140; Pete Strawser, 152; and Sonny Livengood, 171. Strawser was named the Outstanding Wrestler for the tournament.

Kert Stahlman of Hyndman won the 160-pound division title.

Huskies finishing in second place in their respective weight classes were: Matt Wolfe, 119; Corey Geis, 125; Rich Bowser, 152; D.J. Durst, 160; and Todd Brenneman, 171.

Rams winning runner up trophies were Paul Tepper, 103, and Kevin Andrews, 145.

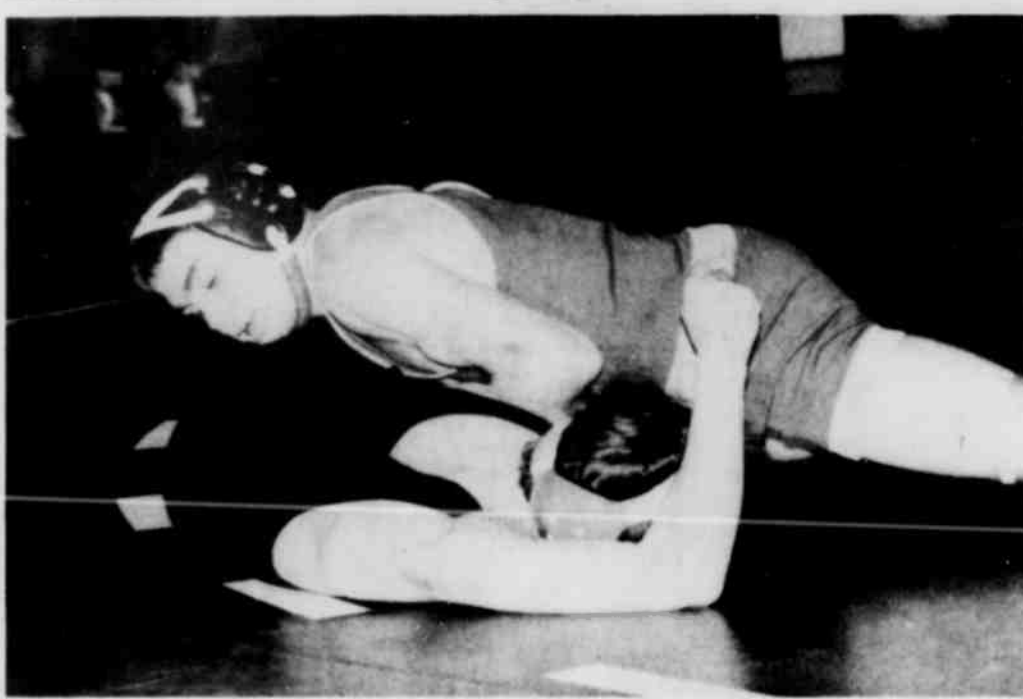

Garrett County wrestlers finishing in their place were Brandon Baumgardner, 140, of Northern, and Dave Jones, 135, Dave Crocco, 160; Jack Kight, 189, and Josh Hinebaugh, heavyweight, all of Southern.

The Rams are slated to compete this weekend in the Braxton County Tournament and then host the Huskies next Tuesday evening, while Northern is scheduled to compete in the Pepsi Tournament in Fairmont, W.Va., this weekend before meeting Southern Tuesday.

GUNNING FOR HIS SECOND consecutive undefeated regular season is Northern High School's Tirrell Burdock, pictured above as he records a technical fall victory over Howard Wilhelm of Westmar in the 112-pound division. The photo was taken by Craig Speicher during Saturday's Garrett County Invitational Tournament, held at Southern High School and won by Northern. Burdock, who finished third in the state last year, moved to 6-0 so far this season with this win. Below, Southern's Jason Burgess prepares to stretch his undefeated streak to 11-0 as he gets ready to pin Bryan English of Fort Hill in the 125-pound division. Also unbeaten so far this season for the Rams are Pete Strawser and Sonny Livengood.

160 - 1 Kert Stahlman, H. 2, D.J. Durst, N. 3, Dave Crocco, S. 2, Todd Brenneman, N. 3, G. Mallory, FH.
189 - 1 Lee Collins, N. 2, Steve Allen, FH. 3, Jack Kight, S.
Heavyweight (275) - 1 Steve Savage, N. 2, Tom Brown, FH. 3, Josh Hinebaugh, S.
Outstanding wrestler: Pete Strawser.

NHS Grapplers Split Meet At Berkeley Spgs.

After winning the Garrett County Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday in Oakland (see separate story), the Northern High School wrestling team hosted a tri-match Tuesday evening in which they defeated North Hagerstown, 35-30, but lost to Berkeley Springs, 47-17.

Earning individual victories for the Huskies against North Hagerstown were Tirrell Burdock in the 112-pound class; Corey Geis, 125; Cody Brenneman, 135; Dean Green, 145; Rich Bowser, 152; and Steve Savage, heavyweight.

Burdock was also victorious in his bout against Berkeley Springs, as were Brenneman, Green, and Jason Yost. Todd Brenneman won by forfeit in the 171-pound class.

The Huskies are currently 4-2 in dual match competition and will compete in the annual Pepsi Tournament this weekend, Jan. 14-15, at the Fairmont Armory, Fairmont, W.Va.

Lakers Win Two More Before Falling To Dundalk; Record 11-3

A three-week layoff did not seem to hurt the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as the Lakers won two games with ease this past week, but having to play a third game just 24 hours after the second one apparently took its toll.

The Lakers rolled over visiting Montgomery-Germantown Sunday afternoon, 113-85, flattened host Baltimore City Community College on Tuesday, 110-84, and then fell to Dundalk CC last night, 93-89. The results left the Lakers with an 11-3 record and a 6-2 mark in the UCCO Conference standings.

Germantown (85)
Chris Byrd 11 4-5 30, Aaron Battle 11 3-25, Solomon Campbell 5-9 15, Jamie Grocki 0-2-22, Andre Austin 2-2-6, Stewart Wilson 1-4-4, Ben Campbell 0-1-2-1. Totals: 30-21-33 85.

man contributed 12 points in the balanced effort. Scott hit four of the Lakers' nine three-point buckets.

Tubbs and Andy Scott led the Lakers 45-24 advantage in rebounding with 11 and eight grabs, respectively. Jermaine Jones was credited with nine of the Lakers' 37 assists and Kenny Gross recorded seven of the team's 22 steals.

The Lakers scored nine unanswered points early in the game to take the lead for good and held a commanding 65-35 advantage at halftime.

Chris Byrd netted a game-high 30 points for Germantown, while Aaron Battle finished with 25 and Solomon Campbell added 15.

Six Lakers also finished in double figures in Tuesday's game at Baltimore, with a 21-point performance again leading the way, this time by George Hilton.

Tubbs was second with 18 points, followed by Jermaine Jones with 17, Scott with 15, Oliver Jones with 12, and Sexton with 11.

Six minutes into the game, behind steals by Hilton, Gross, and Jermaine Jones, the Lakers went on a 14-point spurt to take a 24-10 lead. They stretched that advantage to 57-35 by halftime and did not allow Baltimore to get any closer than 14 points throughout the second half.

Hilton pulled down 11 of Garrett's 40 rebounds, while Gross and Jermaine Jones were credited with 11 and 10 assists, respectively. Gross and Jones also each had three steals.

Terrence Easter scored 21 points to pace Baltimore's offense, David Brown and Dennis Mack each netted 13, and Robert Harris finished with 10.

Larry Banks led the way to Dundalk's win over the Lakers yesterday, as he

Garrett moved out to a 22-11 lead midway through the first half; however the Lions came back to trail by only two at halftime, 40-38.

With two minutes left in the game the score was tied, until Burleson hit a three-pointer for the Lions. The Lakers got two three-pointers from Troy Sexton in the final 24 seconds, but Dundalk made good on seven of eight free throws in the final minute to record the win.

Jermaine Jones led Garrett's scoring with 21 points and rebounding with nine. Sexton and Tubbs each scored 15 points, and Tubbs also grabbed seven rebounds. Hilton blocked three shots.

The Lakers will play again this Saturday at home against Frederick Community College with tip-off set for 7:30 p.m. They will host Hagerstown Junior College next Wednesday.

Rams Roll By Vikings; Up Mark To 4-3

The Southern High School boys' varsity broke the .500 mark (4-3) Tuesday evening at home by disposing of the Petersburg Vikings, 64-44, in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

Three players led the Rams with double figures in scoring, but it was the Ram defense that accounted for most of the 20-point margin of victory, as only Tommy Routh reached double figures for the 1-6 Vikings with a 12-point effort.

Mark Elliott finished with 17 points to pace the Southern offense, Jeremy Sanders added 12, and Mark Dawson chipped in 10 points.

The Rams were on top 17-10 at the end of the first period, led by 10 at halftime, 26-16, and 40-25 after three quarters, then proceeded to record 24 points in the final eight minutes.

The Rams held just a 22-18 edge in field goals, but made good on 20 of 25 opportunities at the foul line, while the Vikings converted just five of eight free throws.

The Southern junior varsity was defeated in the preliminary contest, 50-39, by the Petersburg jayvees, as John Berg scored 13 to lead the winners. Jim Pamepinto netted 14 to lead the Rams.

Southern will play again this Friday at Mt. Savage

Duling's 40 Points Not Enough In Garrett Women's Opener

A 40-point performance by former Southern High School standout Michele Duling highlighted the season opener for the Garrett Community College women's basketball team Tuesday at Baltimore City Community College, but it was not enough, as the Lakers dropped a 72-64 decision.

Garrett came back last night, however, to record a 62-44 win over host Dundalk CC.

At Baltimore on Tuesday, Duling ripped the nets nine times from three-point range to record 27 of her 40 points.

The Lakers were down 36-30 at halftime and played almost evenly with Baltimore in the second half, but never could get the lead. It was the 10th game of the season for Baltimore (8-2).

Missy LaRue recorded six rebounds and five steals for the Lakers, while Dawn DeShong grabbed six rebounds and was credited with five assists.

Leading Baltimore's scoring were Johnnie Williams with 27 points, and Shondray Burnham and Kim Tobias with 16 each.

LaRue led the Lakers last night at Dundalk, as she scored 20 points and had six steals. Duling finished with 16 points and 10 rebounds, while Keisha Slayton pulled down a team high nine rebounds.

The Lakers held a 30-17 lead at halftime and were never seriously threatened in the contest.

Long and Salkenhan were the scoring leaders for the Lions, with 15 and 13 points, respectively.

Coach Dennis Gibson's team will travel to Anne Arundel CC this Friday.

Huskies Top Hancock For Fourth Win

A career high 25-point performance by Tim Hinebaugh highlighted a 70-56 victory by the Northern High School varsity basketball team Tuesday night, as the Huskies recorded their fourth win in six starts.

Hinebaugh hit nine buckets, four of which were from three-point range, and converted six of eight free throws for his total.

The Huskies led 19-9 at the end of the first quarter, were ahead 37-30 at half-time, and took a 51-46 advantage into the final period after the Panthers pulled to within two points, 48-46, in the third quarter.

Two of Hinebaugh's long-range goals were recorded in the fourth period when the Huskies outscored the home team, 19-10, to earn the victory.

Justin Hinebaugh also spearheaded the Huskies both offensively and defensively, as he finished with 19 points, grabbed eight rebounds, and blocked seven shots.

Chris Wright also reached double figures for Northern with 13 points.

Northern is still playing without senior point guard Rob Speicher, who remains sidelined with a knee injury.

Leading the Panthers' scoring effort was Billy Rinard, who finished with 26 points, while Randy Adams added 14. It was the fifth defeat in nine games for Hancock.

The win also upped Coach Harv Speicher's team's mark in the Mid-Appalachian League to 2-0, while dropping Hancock to Northern (7-0).

Chris Wright 5-3-13, Derek Mason 2-3-5, Tim Hinebaugh 9-6-8, Justin Hinebaugh 8-3-7, Chris Elliott 0-2-2. Totals: 24-17-26-70, Hancock (56).

Randy Adams 6-2-14, Scott Keeler 0-1-2, Chad Davis 1-0-0, James Youker 3-1-4, Zack Burnette 2-1-2, Billy Rinard 10-3-26. Totals: 22-8-13-56.

Three-point goals: Northern (Mason 1, T. Hinebaugh 4), Hancock (Youker 1, Rinard 3). Total fouls: Hancock 24, Northern 13. Fouled out: Wright (Northern), Northern 19, 37, 51, 70; Hancock 9, 30, 46, 56.

1-2. The Northern junior varsity team was also victorious in the preliminary game, edging the Hancock javees, 64-54, behind a 17-point effort by Andy Breneman. Bill Swain led Hancock with 24 points.

The Huskies will play another league game this Friday at home against Oldtown and then host Mt. Savage next Tuesday.

Whitetails Group Fund-Raiser Set For February 4

The Garrett Woods Chapter of Whitetails Unlimited will hold a sportsmen's stag fund-raiser on Friday, Feb. 4, at Point View Inn, Deep Creek Lake.

The event will feature a silent auction, door prizes, sporting equipment, limited edition art work, and WTC collectibles. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets are $35 per person and reservations may be made by contacting: Wendell Beitzel at 334-1980, Rick Wilson at 387-7883, or Tommy Thayer at 387-4611.

Whitetails Unlimited, Inc., is a national, non-profit organization with membership in all 50 states, and strongly believes in working with local chapters to address local, state, and national issues involving the whitetail deer.

Registration Set For Casselman Valley Soccer

The Casselman Valley American Youth Soccer Organization will begin its second season by registering players at the Grantsville fire hall on Saturday, January 22, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Monday, January 24, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Parents may register any child, boy or girl, aged 4½ to 18 years. The registration procedure involves completing registration forms, acquainting parents with the American Youth Soccer Organization, recruiting volunteers for the season, and sizing players for uniforms.

Since this organization is all volunteer, parents are encouraged to become involved in some way, either through team parenting, coaching, officiating, and/or managing concessions. Parents must be with their children at registration in order to sign appropriate forms and size their child for the uniform. Candy will also be handed out for players to sell, as a fundraiser to purchase needed equipment. Registration costs are $15 per child for the first child in each family, and $14 for each additional child.

Following registration in January will be the scheduling of team meetings in February. At this time, players will find out what team they are on, who will be coaching them, and who their team parent will be. Also, at this meeting they will be given the opportunity to choose a team name. More information concerning team meetings will follow registration.

Practices will begin the beginning of April, weather permitting, with games scheduled in May and June. Other regions in the schedule are Meyersdale, Berlin, and Rockwood. The season will culminate with a soccer picnic, recognizing team sponsors, giving parents the opportunity to play soccer, and sharing a meal.

The organization is seeking business involvement through sponsorship and/or advertisement in the program booklet. Each team will design a team banner with the name of the business sponsoring that team displayed on the banner. The cost for sponsoring a team will be $100. Program booklet advertisements will sell for $25.

"The Casselman Valley AYSO is committed to kids becoming involved in the sport of soccer for fun. Teams are balanced, all children play at least one half of each game, coaches use positive coaching techniques, and players are encouraged to play their hardest, do their best, and enjoy it. The emphasis is on camaraderie, not competition!" stated a league spokesman.

DON'T DEFAULT ON HOLIDAY BILLS

Hanukkah and Christmas are over. The relatives have gone home, the decorations have been taken down and the holiday goodies have been consumed. Things are finally getting back to normal. But then the credit card bills for gifts start coming in . . . bills that many people find they can't pay.

"When charging holiday gifts, people tend to buy more than they can afford," says Dr. Mary J. Stephenson, family resource management specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland at College Park. "And that means trouble when the bills arrive."

If you find yourself in the post-holiday crunch, there are some things you can do, according to Stephenson. First, add up all your bills and figure the total you must pay. If you can't make the minimum payment for each bill, ask your creditors to either extend your payments or allow you to pay a smaller amount than required.

"Most creditors would rather see a small payment than no payment and will rearrange the terms of credit rather than have you default entirely," explains Stephenson.

By letting your creditors know that you are having trouble making payments, you increase your credibility and may forestall the involvement of a collection agency.

Learn from your experience. Once you've paid off your bills, be careful how you use credit cards in the future -- don't get yourself in the same situation again.

If you need help working out credit or other financial problems, please contact your local Cooperative Extension Service office at 202 S. Third St., Oakland, MD 21550 or call (301) 334-1990.

THE TRAVELER: AN AMERICAN ODYSSEY IN THE HIMALAYAS text by Eric Hansen, photographs by Hugh Swift (Sierra Club Books $25.00).

In his latest book, Eric Hansen pays tribute to the late Hugh Swift — an intrepid and dedicated explorer who walked more than 15,000 miles through the Himalayas — and to an entire generation of Western travelers who journeyed to the Himalayas in the late '60s and early '70s. Molded by rock and roll, the Vietnam war, and the Civil Rights movement, this generation of travelers was attracted by both the rugged, otherworldly beauty of the Himalayas and the slow, peaceful, traditional way of life it found there.

Illustrated with 56 photographs culled from Swift's vast collection, "The Traveler" captures the vast allure of the Himalayas — its rich culture and gentle people and its high, hard-edged terrain — and reveals the profound changes that Western tourism and foreign aid have brought to these once-remote regions.

Pet Care

by Cleo & Brad Conrad

Q. We are the proud and happy owners of a very active 2-month-old puppy. However, we do have a problem. It seems Bonkers just loves to chew. He chews on shoes, socks, table legs, furniture, pillows, etc. While we keep him in the kitchen when no one's around to prevent such destruction, even when we're home, it's impossible to watch him every second. How can we break him of this awful habit?

A. Get Bonkers a medium-sized nylon bone. We don't recommend rawhide for such a young pup. It can splinter and be dangerous for him.

When you see him start to chew on something inappropriate, remove him or it from harm's way. Put him on your lap and introduce the nylon bone. Play a gentle game of tug of war with him, letting him pause to chew whenever he desires. Then, place him on the floor with the bone next to him. Do this every time he chews something other than the bone. Eventually, he will only choose the bone.

By the way, be very careful with electrical wires. Puppies will chew on these as well.

HUNT FOR A HIDDEN TREASURE

A stop at a yard sale meant over $2,000 for one savvy collector in Ohio. A large copper-glazed vase filled with artificial flowers was marked "Weller, Sicard." The names meant nothing to the homeowner offering it for $5, but the collector knew it was a choice piece of American art pottery made in Ohio before 1900. Pieces once used as planters, garden figures or florists' vases are now worth hundreds of dollars to collectors.

In 1974, a dealer discovered a warehouse in Biloxi, Miss., filled with pottery made by an eccentric pioneer named George Ohr. He bought more than 5,000 pieces that resold at shows for $12 to $50 apiece. Today the easily recognized Ohr pottery sells for prices from $50 to $25,000. Other works from famous factories also bring record prices. A Rookwood vase sold in 1992 auctioned at a record price of $198,000. A volcanic glaze Dedham pottery vase sold for $45,100. Other names that mean money are Grueby, Roseville, Saturday Evening Girls and Rhead.

To help the beginner recognize a hidden treasure, Ralph and Terry Kovel, well-known antiques experts, have written "Kovels' American Art Pottery" (Crown Publishers, $60), recently published and lavishly illustrated with hundreds of color pictures. The Kovels discuss 104 potteries and 95 tile factories, including the major potteries such as Rookwood, Roseville and the lesser-known firms such as Avon, Roblin and Clewett. The best works by the important artists and the average pieces that might be found in Grandma's attic are included. Lists of marks, makers, artists and the characteristics of each pottery are shown.

Turn over the vases at the next yard sale you visit. Is there a strange mark that looks like two R's back to back or perhaps two A's back to back? Each of these marks identifies an important American art pottery. Is the printed name S.E.G. or Reksion or North Dakota School of Mines on the bottom? Check further because the vase or figurine could be worth hundreds of dollars.

"The art pottery movement in America started in the 1870s," say the Kovels. "It ended in the 1930s when hard economic times affected the industry. Collectors ignored the pottery until the mid 1970s. Since then prices have slowly gone up, new potteries have been discovered, and museums now exhibit and extol the value of these American-made pieces. Art pottery is part of our history."

"Kovels' American Art Pottery"

adds a new dimension for the pottery collector. It includes not only identification information and photographs but it also dwells on unusual history, eccentric artists and nomadic potters who influenced design in all parts of the country.

News from Preston Tucker
Os Guinness To Speak At Annual Mountaintop Event

Os Guinness, "world-class" author, Bible scholar, and teacher, will be the featured speaker at the eighth annual get-away conference "Mountaintop '94," to be held March 4-6, 1994 at Lakeview Resort, Morgantown, W.Va.

Born during World War II in China to medical missionary parents, he remained until 1951 when the Communists forced most foreigners to leave. Guinness was educated in England with undergraduate studies at the University of London and post graduate studies at University of Oxford, graduating as a doctor of philosophy in social sciences. He has authored several books, including The Dist of Death, In Two Minds, The Gravedigger Files, and The American Hour.

Dr. Guinness states that America is facing a "crisis of cultural authority -- the beliefs, ideals, and traditions that once inspired, disciplined, and restrained Americans have lost their inner compelling power to shape culture." He will challenge attendees to help stop this cultural slide at a personal level in "Living in the American Hour," the conference title.

In addition to Os Guinness' five-session teaching, Richard Allen Farmer, accomplished pianist and vocalist, will appear in concert at "A Festival in Celebration of the Wisdom of God."

Three seminars will expand the weekend. They are "Home is Where the Heart Is" - witnessing at home - led by news anchor Jim Forbes; "In Search of Wisdom" - applying God's wisdom to decision-making - presented by businessman Bill Forbes; and "The M and M Controversy" - an entertaining look at the Mary and Martha story -

Grant and Mineral Counties with Joyce Watson and Anne Robinson, conference founders and directors. Mrs. Robinson is the former Anne Gibson, a native of Oakland.

The film "China Cry," the true story of a young woman's flight to freedom from Communist China, will also be shown. Other features of the weekend include the Mountaintop Bookstore, Jazzercise workouts, and the many exercise opportunities available at Lakeview Resort.

Registration fees, including all programs, two nights lodging, and four meals, begin at $135 per person (four per room). Brochures and information are available through Living for Christ Conferences, P.O. Box 217, New Martinsville, WV 26155, (304) 485-1100 (5322).

Local Physician Re-Certified In Family Practice

Dr. Robert M. Coughlin, Egdon, W.Va., has been re-certified a Diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP), the certifying entity of the family practice specialty.

Dr. Coughlin, a family physician, earned Diplomate status by passing the ABFP's certification examination, an intensive written test of the physician's abilities in pediatrics, internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, psychiatry, prevention and other aspects of family practice.

The specialty of family practice combines the latest in medical technology and knowledge with the personal and continuing care of traditional general physicians. Family physicians are trained to work in all major areas of medicine and can treat 85 to 90 percent of the health care needs of patients of all ages.

The ABFP examination is offered to physicians who have completed three years of family practice residency training after medical school. Currently, there are more than 400 family practice training programs in the United States.

ABFP Diplomates must continue to demonstrate their competence in the specialty by taking re-certification exams every six years. Family practice was recognized in 1969 as a medical specialty by the American Medical Association and the American Board of Medical Specialties, and it was the first specialty to require its Diplomates to take re-certification exams at regular intervals.

The jury found Smith not guilty of failure to drive right of center and negligent driving. All the charges were incurred by the defendant on July 10, 1993, when he was reportedly stopped by a Maryland

State policemen on Rt. 135, east of Deer Park.

A 28-year-old Mountain Lake Park man pleaded guilty last week to breaking and entering a dwelling and misdemeanor theft. David C. Ridings apparently illegally entered the home of Floyd Plessinger on Lyndale Road and removed approximately $20 from the residence.

Thayer ordered a presentence investigation and

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Henry L. Steyer, 34, Oakland, after he pleaded guilty to the manufacture of marijuana. Steyer had been indicted by the September Term Grand Jury.

Thayer continued bail for the defendant and the scheduled sentencing date is Jan. 28, according to the court document.

Health Department Family Planning Services Expanded

The Garrett County Health Department recently began project HOPE (Healthy Options for Prevention and Empowerment) which offers new options in family planning and birth control for area residents with the help of state funds.

As an addition to the current family planning program, which has been in existence at the local agency since 1971, Maryland residents who qualify may now receive either the Norplant System or Depo-Provera as a method of birth control. Some money is also available for a vasectomy program through local physicians.

The Norplant System is a unique subdermal contraceptive system that provides five years of continuous birth control. The system consists of six thin capsules that are placed in a fanlike pattern just under the skin on the inside surface of the upper arm through a small incision using a local anesthetic. The 10-15 minute office procedure places the capsules, which contain synthetic, progestin hormone. The Norplant System is one of the most effective methods of reversible birth control, according to a spokesperson for the health department.

Depo-Provera is an injectable form of contraception, given as a shot in either the buttock or the upper arm, that protects against pregnancy for three months. Its active ingredient is a chemical similar to the natural hormone progesterone.

Depo-Provera is over 99% effective and is reversible, said the spokesperson. Vasectomies are office surgical procedures that provide a permanent form of birth control for men. The health department's family planning program continues to offer birth control pills, condoms, foam, diaphragms, I.U.D.'s, and vaginal contraceptive film for residents in and around the area who qualify. The program is available on an appointment basis and includes a complete physical, pap smear, and birth control. All services of the program are offered on a sliding fee scale.

More information on the new services offered through the health department's family planning program is available by contacting Carol Clark at 334-8111.

Amateur Radio Training Class Set For Friday

The Garrett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (GCARES) will hold a training class this Friday, January 14, at the Community Center located next to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. It will begin at 7 p.m.

This is a new class and should be of particular interest to beginners, according to Jim McRobie Sr., who will be teaching the International Morse Code. Tim Gift will instruct the class on theory pertaining to Novice and Technician grade FCC licenses for newcomers and "upgrades."

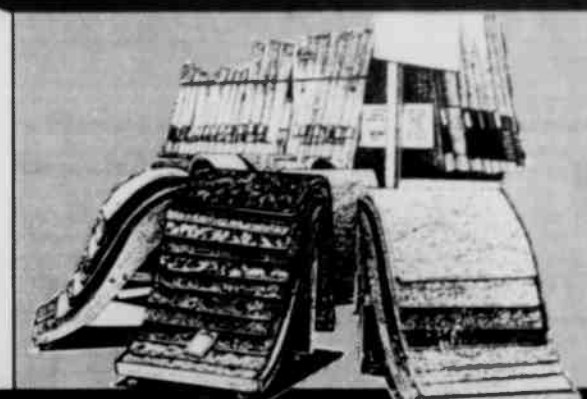

GCARES is sanctioned by the American Radio Relay League and, upon request, provides emergency communications for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, utility companies, and local authorities. Members are also active during local events, such as providing directions for visitors during the Autumn Glory parade and the Garrett County Agricultural Fair at McHenry.

For more information, persons may contact Jim McRobie Sr. at 334-2664 or Don Friend at 334-2604.

ONE MORE APPOINTMENT

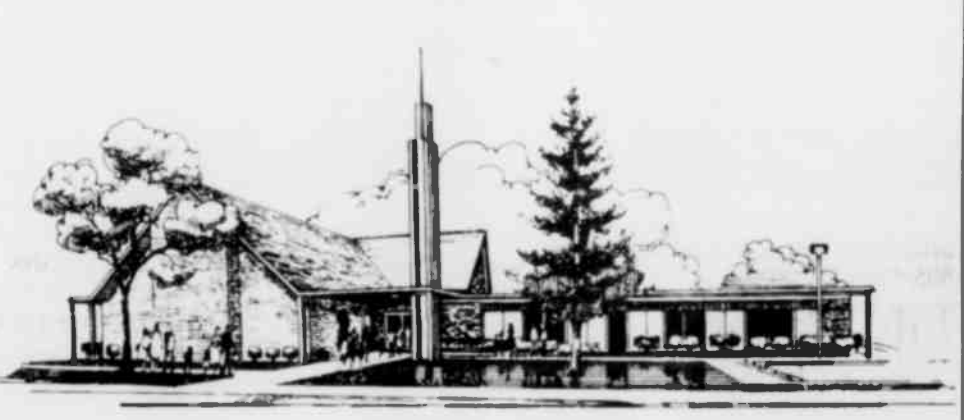

That's right. You know what's coming... "Are you caught in the same old grind?" Granted, the phrase is a bit trite, yet that "trapped sensation" affects so many of us each day that it is worthy of note.

Why not make one more appointment? "One more appointment?" you say. "I have too many now. That's my problem!"

There is an appointment available that can change your life. A regular visit to God's house each Sabbath will sustain you with the strength and the fresh focus to ease those daily pressures...to function most effectively and efficiently. It will be the most positive commitment of a lifetime!

YOUR REWARD:
NOW OR LATER?
January 16, 1994

Background Scripture:
Luke 6:17-36
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 5:3-12, 38-48; 7:12, 24-27; 8:1-4

Last spring I had to make a decision concerning my pension payments from the United Methodist Church: I could choose to receive an immediate lump sum cash payment or I could opt for a small monthly Journal or an advertising firm on Madison Avenue.

These beatitudes and woes are not the words nor the principles by which our society steers. In fact, they are so alien to the foundations of it that they are either rejected outright or relegated to the churches where no one really pays attention to them.

For, if we really paid attention to them I'm not sure the Christian churches could safely and comfortably be accommodated to our society. Christians "get along" in America today, because we "go along" with a society whose norms and values are seriously in conflict with those of Jesus of Nazareth.

The question of "now or later?" also underlines Jesus' teaching on love. The world's concept of love is almost totally different from what we find in the gospels. Worldly love tends to be the sentiment that we are willing to give in return for the sentiment we get in return. If you think of only the here and now, it will be virtually impossible to love the person who strikes you on the cheek, takes away your cloak, or steals your possessions. If you want an immediate return on your investment of love, forget it!

For even sinners love those who love them" (6:32b).

But, if you can focus on the long run instead of the short run, that is true love: "...lend expecting nothing in return" (short run) "and your reward will be great" (long run) "and you will be sons of the Most High" (eternity).

Now or later?

And really, isn't that what the gospel teaches us about life? The true reward comes later—"Blessed are you that hunger now, for you shall be satisfied, blessed are you that weep now, for you shall laugh" (Luke 6:21). Weep and hunger now, laugh and be filled later. And it works the other way, too: "But woe to you that are rich, for you have received your consolation. Woe to you that are full now, for you shall hunger. Woe to you that laugh now, for you shall mourn and weep" (6:24,25).

Jesus is not saying there's anything wrong with being well-fed and of good cheer here and now, but that the satisfaction in the here and now are nothing compared to those we will experience in the kingdom of God. If you make material pleasures your aim in life, you may get them, but that is all you will get.

Matthew Hames Wins Geography Bee In Accident

Matthew Hames, a fifth-grade student at Accident Elementary School, won the school-level competition of the National Geography Bee on Dec. 22, 1993, and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the sixth annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by National Geographic World, the Society's magazine for children, and Amtrak.

The kick-off for this year's Bee was the week of Dec. 13, with thousands of schools around the United States, the District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Matthew, will now take a written test, up to 100 of the top scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state Bees on April 8.

The National Geographic Society with its co-sponsors will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for state champions and their teacher-escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee national championship on May 24, 25. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

Alex Trebek, host of "Jeopardy!", will moderate the national finals, which will be presented by Maryland Public Television as a prime-time special on most Public Broadcasting Service stations May 25.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10-country Gallup survey conducted for the Society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18-24 -- the youngest group surveyed -- knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries in the survey.

The National Geographic Society, with 9.6 million members, has as its mission the "increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge." In addition to the National Geography Bee, the Society sponsors a number of other geography education initiatives, including summer geography institutes for teachers, the National Geographic Society Education Foundation and the Geographic Alliance Network, which is currently working in every state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Persons interested are asked to call 746-8749 or 895-5718.

Life Planning Presentations Set By Agency

In an effort to educate local senior citizens about the importance of Living Wills and Advance Directives, the Area Agency on Aging has scheduled several presentations pertaining to the Maryland Health Care Decisions Act.

A total of three presentations are scheduled, two at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland and one at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident. The presentations at the Mary Browning Center will be held Tuesday, January 18, at 1 p.m. for individuals who do not routinely participate in the Agency programs and Friday, January 21, at 12:30 p.m. for regular participants at the center. Any seniors in Oakland and the surrounding area are welcome to attend either presentation.

Seniors residing in the northern section of the county may attend the presentation scheduled at the Flowery Vale Senior Center on Thursday, January 27, at 12:30 p.m.

For additional information, persons may call 334-9431 or 746-8824.

Small Businesses Seek Relief From MOSHA Penalties

As the Maryland General Assembly prepared to open the 1994 legislative session this week, Maryland small-business owners are asking for relief from what they say are excessive penalties imposed on first-time violations of Maryland's Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

According to a survey by the state chapter of the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) nine out of 10 small business owners support legislation that would prohibit a penalty from being immediately assessed if the situation was a first violation, the violation was corrected within 30 days and it was not life threatening.

"During 1992's General Assembly session, lawmakers raised the maximum penalties for MOSHA violations from $1,000 to $7,000, and as the recession got underway, many business owners complained that enforcement had been stepped up and fines were being quickly applied," said James P. Goeden, Maryland state director for NFIB.

The ban on first inspection penalties is a top priority for the 6,500-member NFIB Maryland chapter, along with reducing the top income tax rate from six to five percent for incomes over $100,000, and enacting fundamental changes in the state's welfare system.

Goeden said the idea behind the income tax cut is to help stimulate Maryland's business economy.

"The General Assembly imposed this one percent hike in the income tax in 1992 as a temporary measure designed to help ease a shortage of revenue and an unbalanced budget," said Goeden. "Now with things back on a more normal footing, let's take the rate back to five percent and allow Maryland's small businesses to plow those funds into job creation," he said.

Two-thirds of the small-business owners support the plan, said Goeden.

A third priority for the small business group is to work with lawmakers and members of Governor Schaefer's Welfare Policy Commission to push for fundamental changes in the state's welfare system.

"We need to move our welfare system into more active areas such as job-training, day care for children if necessary, health care and reduced but continued assistance if individuals go to work," said Goeden.

Among the issues expected to be addressed by the problems are individuals who spend a lifetime on welfare, and the fact that the system discourages employment and encourages single parenthood.

Goeden said the annual

NFIB legislative survey also found that small businesses top problem in Maryland is the cost of health insurance, followed by unemployment insurance costs, state taxes on business income, worker's compensation costs and local property taxes.

Washington Art Contest Set At Fort Necessity

Fort Necessity National Battlefield is celebrating George Washington's 232nd birthday with an art contest open to all fourth, fifth, and sixth grade students. An awards ceremony to honor the winners will be held Saturday, February 19.

The National Park Service invites contestants to participate in this event by submitting an entry in one of two categories: "The Life of George Washington" or "George Washington in Fayette County." Contest entries should be on paper no larger than 9"x12". They must be postmarked by Monday, February 7, or hand delivered to Fort Necessity by close of business (4:30 p.m.) Monday, February 7. The students must include on a separate sheet of paper, their name, school, grade, home address, telephone number, and the category they are entering. All entries become the property of Fort Necessity.

The address for submission is: Art Contest, Fort Necessity National Battlefield, R.D. 2, Box 528, Farmington, PA 15437.

For complete rules, guidelines, and entry forms, persons may call 412-329-5512 or stop by the park's Visitor Center.

A panel of judges will select the winners. Winners will be notified by February 5.

Fort Necessity National Battlefield is located 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., along U.S. Route 40.

ELCA Women Cancel Meeting

The meeting of Women of the ELCA of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, was cancelled for the month of January.

A total of 10 baby quilts have been made and will be sent to Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Montana, for their layette ministry on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation.

A package of chair pads and bibles will be shipped to Pendleton Nursing Home in Franklin, W. Va.

Tribute to the memory of Viola E. Campbell was made through a gift offering to Women of the ELCA Churchwide. This gift was designated for Community Redevelopment in Appalachia.

A former member of Zion's women's auxiliary, Beatrice Glofelty, whose death occurred January 7, will also be memorialized through Women of the ELCA specific ministries.

Subscriptions are due for Lutheran Woman Today and should be given to the treasurer by January 23.

No date has been set for the next meeting.

Barley As A Dairy Feed (Comments Continued)

Comments from Dr. Ruth Blauwiel, Veterinarian, Washington State University.

"Barley is fed quite commonly in dairy rations in Washington. Dr. Ron Kincaid recently completed a study here evaluating the use of barley in calf starters. Barley was substituted for corn in the starter at 1:3, 2:2, 3:1, and 4:0 (no corn) of the grain portion of the starter. Grains were either rolled or pelleted, or a combination of the two processing methods. There were no significant differences in growth rate through twelve weeks of age. Average daily gains for Holstein calves ranged from 1.24 to 1.50 pounds per day.

"Research conducted at Washington State University has shown that rolled barley added to alfalfa forage prior to ensiling has a beneficial effect on silage fermentation.
Rolled barley was added at levels of 0, 5, 10, and 15 percent of the wet silage weight or an equivalent of 100, 200, and 300 pounds of barley per ton of alfalfa-barley mixed silage. Barley addition to alfalfa decreased the content of acetate and the pH of the silage and increased lactate content.

"Studies which have made comparisons of the feeding value of corn and barley have shown both equal and decreased performance when fed in lactating rations. In studies which fed diets without buffers and measured rumen concentrations of acetate and propionate, there was a significant reduction or a trend for lower acetate:

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor
Farming In Maryland.....

propionate ratios. In our research all diets were buffered and barley performed equal to corn for milk production.
Due to the rapid breakdown of starch in barley versus corn, it is reasonable to suggest that barley-based diets should contain buffers to minimize the effects on rumen fermentation."

Comments from Dr. Walter Guterbock, Veterinarian, University of California.

"Steam-rolled barley is routinely fed to western dairy cows. Barley is more variable in quality than corn and bushel weight is important. The starch is rapidly degraded in the rumen; less of the starch and protein are available to the intestine than with corn. This means that you need adequate degradable protein to make it work. We have no shortage of degradable protein because of our high alfalfa diets. Most dairymen I've worked with feed a 50-50 mix of rolled corn and rolled barley. This seems to work quite well."

Tax Deduction For Reforestation

And Timber Stand Improvement

Owners or lessees of forest land in Maryland may deduct double the cost of reforestation and timber stand improvement from this federal adjusted gross income for Maryland income tax purposes. To be eligible for the forestry income tax modification, you must own or lease between 10 and 500 acres of forest land capable of growing more than 20 cubic feet of wood per acre per year, which is available for the primary purpose of growing and harvesting forest trees. Christmas tree and ornamental tree operations are not eligible. Only forest management practices installed on 10 to 100 acres may receive the tax modification in any one year. For addition information on the law and requirements, contact my office.

Outlook For 1994: A Fairly Good Year For U.S. Farmers

Higher crop prices could dictate a good year for American farmers, while livestock producers may feel a pinch due to higher feed costs, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

AFBF Senior Economist
Terry Francel said record cash receipt levels attained in 1993 will likely be surpassed in 1994. Francel said the increase will be due in part to the lingering effects of last year's midwestern floods and southeastern drought.

"The prospects for 1994 look fairly good," Francel said. "It is anticipated that cash receipts will be up slightly from the record 1993 level."

Francel attributes the increase in cash receipts to higher prices caused by shortfalls in 1993 crop production levels. These shortfalls can be attributed to last year's weather pattern that significantly reduced corn and soybean production.

Farm Bureau predictions show that 1994 net cash income levels should reach the $60 billion mark, down from last year's $64 billion.

"Prospects for corn are particularly strong for the first half of 1994 due to a reduced corn crop, down one-third from 1992, and increased poultry, and livestock numbers," he said.

"At the same time, soybean prices remain strong, although relatively speaking not as strong as corn prices."

Francel's predictions translate into good news for midwestern crop farmers, who can expect higher income levels for 1994 with the high prices of corn, soybeans and wheat. Francel said some varieties of wheat be some adjustments in the livestock market, particularly for cattle and hogs in the latter half of 1994.

"The number of cattle in feedlots and hog numbers are getting rather large," Francel said. "That is an area where we may see some more adjustments and liquidation."

"We have seen cattle prices decline decidedly in the latter part of 1993, dropping to the $70 level by year's end."

Francel expects cattle prices to recover to the mid- to upper-$70 level by the spring of 1994 and then come under pressure in the summer.

Hog markets are estimated to mirror cattle prices in some respects, according to Francel.

"Hog prices are off their earlier higher levels, down to around $40 per hundred-weight by year's end," Francel said. "However, in most cases, this is still at or above the break-even point."

He anticipates that hog prices will strengthen in the early part of this year, moving back up to the mid- to upper-$40 level before coming under some pressure again by late spring of 1994.

Vegetable production in 1993 increased 5 percent from the previous year's level, to $11.4 billion, according to USDA economists.

That increase is due almost entirely to a projected 20 percent increase in the value of potatoes. Retail prices for fresh-market potatoes rose about 15 percent, while fresh vegetables rose only 2.3 percent, compared to 1992. A 21 percent increase in the average monthly farm-level price for fresh potatoes in 1993 led to the large retail increase. Also, the farm level price for fresh market vegetables increased only slightly, holding down retail increases.

In 1994, higher prices paid to growers for the 1993 crop of peas, snap beans, and sweet corn are likely to lift retail processed vegetable prices, the economists said.

Grower receipts for
"green industry" crops, including floral, nursery and related products, increased about 5-6 percent to $9.7 billion in 1993 and are forecast increase to $10.4 billion in this year. The green industry crops are expected to be ranked the fifth highest commodity group in grower cash receipts by 1995 and the third or fourth highest by the year 2000.

Ethanol Hearing Scheduled Friday

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will hold a hearing Friday, Jan. 14, on the Clinton administration's reformulated gasoline proposal.

The plan would require that 30 percent of the oxygen content of reformulated gasoline come from renewable oxygenates. Farm Bureau will submit testimony. EPA will accept comments on the proposal until
Feb. 14.

Extension Asked For Disaster Compliance

House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kila de la Garza (D-Texas) is urging USDA to develop a comprehensive policy for handling requests from farmers who may need more time to meet federal conservation compliance requirements because of natural disasters.

The 1985 farm bill requires farmers who grow crops on highly erodible land to develop a USDA-approved conservation plan and have it fully implemented by Jan. 1, 1995. Farmers who fail to do so risk losing federal farm program benefits and payments. USDA has the authority to grant extensions to farmers attempting to meet the requirements.

The Changing Face Of Farming: Agriculture, Farm Bureau Expect A Bright Future

In the year of the American Farm Bureau Federation's 75th anniversary, five agricultural experts predict Farm Bureau and agriculture will be very different 25 years from now, when the organization begins its second 100 years of service to America's farmers and ranchers.

* Fewer people will be involved in production agriculture.

* Agriculture's political clout will be diminished in numbers but strengthened through unity.

* Farms will be larger and more productive thanks to technology.

* Traditional farm programs will no longer exist, but some farm payments will be tied to environmental goals.

* A number of smaller farms will grow specialty or "designer" crops for specific end uses.

* Many more farm products will be produced under contract.

* Expanded consumer clout will lead agribusiness to work closely with producers.

* Farm Bureau will unify agricultural groups, and it also may be speaking for agribusiness.

* Overall, the future of American agriculture and the American Farm Bureau Federation appears bullish.

Offering those predictions were Lowell Catlett, agricultural futurist and professor at New Mexico State University; Robert Thompson, head of the Winrock International Institute for Agricultural Development and former dean of Purdue University's College of Agriculture; John Block, president of the National American Wholesale Grocers Association and former USDA secretary; Barry Flinchbaugh, economic and agriculture policy specialist at Kansas State University; and Don Muhm, recently retired farm editor of the Des Moines Register.

BECOMING MORE EFFICIENT

Catlett believes farmers will continue to capitalize on technology to become more efficient. There will be more "vertical coordination," but a trend away from vertical integration. He also sees a new "gourmet" or "specialty crop" agricultural sector in place in 25 years, but as a percentage it will be dwarfed by mainstream agriculture.

A number of new agricultural services will ensure the success of niche and mainstream producers, according to Catlett. That growth will also be fueled by technology.

Agriculture will produce much of our nation's energy, many industrial dyes, acids and enzymes, 75 percent of our pharmaceuticals and, as a spinoff, "foodaceuticals"—foods with prescribed nutrient contents. He says microbe technology will transform agricultural by-products into useful goods through on-farm manufacturing.

According to Catlett, agriculture and the environment will be linked. Other industries will struggle to keep costs down in light of their products' environmental impacts, and the relationship between agriculture and the environment will be "so positively strong that there will be phenomenal business opportunities."

"We may not be using the words 'agriculture' or 'environment' in 25 years," he said. "Agriculture" has been proposed.

Catlett believes Farm Bureau will grow stronger by representing agriculture and agribusiness that will have more say in farm production. He says Farm Bureau must be willing to represent this wider membership base.

"This new clientele base will be extremely diverse, but that has always been one of Farm Bureau's strengths," Catlett said.

SHIFT IN FARM POLICIES

Thompson believes Farm Bureau will become stronger as U.S. farm policies shift from traditional commodity programs toward general issues such as tax, economic, trade and environmental policy.

He says cooperation will be a key in feeding a world with 50 percent more inhabitants in 25 years. Adding to demand will be worldwide economic growth. People will be able to afford more and better food.

To meet those demands, the farmer of 2018 will be highly educated. Thompson predicts full-time, commercial farmers will have the equivalents of a bachelor's degree in agricultural science and a master's degree in business administration.

"A well-organized, well-managed farm, using state of the art technology, will be fully capable of providing a comparable level of living to that enjoyed by people in the rest of the economy," he said.

In 2018 agriculture will rely on science for efficient production that meets society's environmental demands. Thompson expects agriculture will continue to rely on modern chemicals, but he sees a "very sustainable production system." Farmers will also rely on systems that allow "prescription farming." Inputs will be tailored to changing soil and crop conditions within a field, according to Thompson.

Flinchbaugh sees technology boosting farmers' productivity, and tomorrow's greater population will be less hungry.

"You give biotechnology another 15 or 20 years and there will be a breakthrough in how we feed the world," he predicted. "Science has great promise if we can ever get over the fear and the emotion and the bogeyman theory that overzealous politicians can spread around."

Flinchbaugh also says traditional commodity programs will be gone in 25 years, replaced by a "decoupled environmental payment."

MORE POLITICAL CLOUT

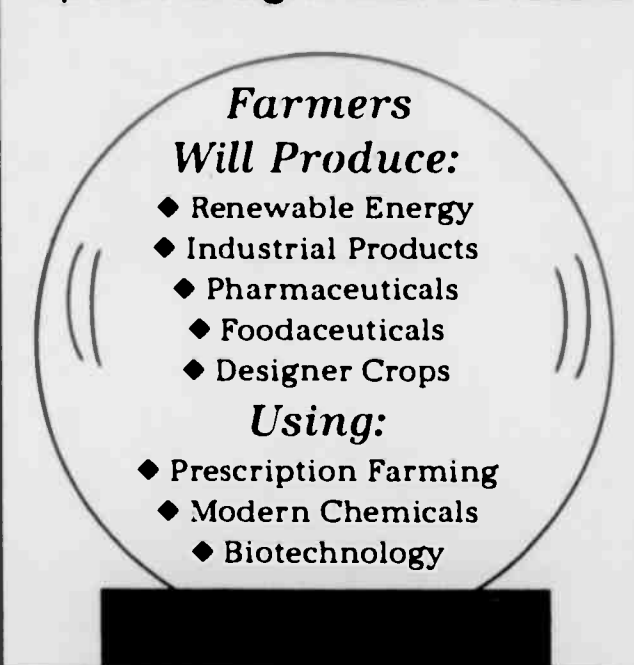

"We will see just how interested society is in preserving the environment," he said. "We will have the opportunity to put our money where our mouth is."

Farmers will carry less financial risk, according to Flinchbaugh. About 75 percent of all farm products will be produced under contract. Risk and capital requirements will be spread throughout the food chain. The average farm will be double in size. Due partially to consolidation, he says it will be easier to reach consensus on farm issues, and Congress will be more likely to listen.

"It's a huge myth that as farm numbers decline our political power diminishes proportionally," Flinchbaugh said. "By 2018 there will be damn few farmers left who don't participate in the political process. Those who don't will be gone."

Predictions of fewer farmers sound alarms within an organization depending on grassroots involvement, but Flinchbaugh says future U.S. farm policy could favor Farm Bureau's wider scope.

A peek at agriculture's future

As more commodities are sold through contract and the food chain is integrated, Farm Bureau, as a general farm organization, will gain power. That's due to farm policy being more generic, rather than commodity specific, according to Flinchbaugh.

Block also believes Farm Bureau's ability to bring all producers under one umbrella will strengthen the organization. Consolidation within agriculture and organizations that support the industry will foster more cooperation in 2018.

"Maybe Farm Bureau can eventually achieve the role of the umbrella organization working with a lot of individual commodity organizations," he said. "I think Farm Bureau is positioned to take that lead."

Block believes the future also will hold closer ties between producers and processors, especially as production becomes more coordinated. The importance of that alliance will be underscored by the probability that non-farmers will set future farm policy.

"If we want to maintain our strength in the halls of government we need to bridge the gap and keep this team together," Block said. "I think Farm Bureau has that type of foresight to work toward that."

DESIGNER CROPS

Muhm also sees increased cooperation, since many farmers will plant "designer crops" for contracted buyers. He hopes new crops that require more farmers will be developed through biotechnology.

"Farmers will be fewer in number and the commodity organizations with the check-off dollars will somehow come under a big cooperative structure. Farm Bureau and everybody else will meet and develop farm policy together," he said. "It seems revolutionary, but I think it's going to happen. If Farm Bureau can't organize that, with its resources and leadership and national structure, I don't know who would."

Despite fewer farmers, Muhm says Farm Bureau can boost agriculture's impact in Washington through immediacy. Using the best communications technology, Farm Bureau will reach out to members for specific policy directives on an issue-by-issue basis.

"But, you don't ever want to lose your grassroots impact," he said.

Immediacy also will be key in telling agriculture's story. He's quick to point out, however, that it's never going to be easy to reach non-farmers.

"Let's face it, a lot of them aren't interested," he said. "That probably won't change...We've never been hungry enough to appreciate agriculture—people with dirt under their fingernails producing the food, fiber and feed. I don't want to see us get to that point before people realize the importance of farmers."

If Muhm is on target, food availability is the last thing the world will be worrying about. In 2018 he expects the average corn yield in Iowa to be 200 bushels an acre. The record corn yield will be around 350 bushels an acre.

"I just think it's going to be an exciting 25 years and I'd like to be in the saddle covering it with you people," Muhm said.

Farmers and ranchers provide food and habitat for 75 percent of the nation's wildlife.

garding wetland delineation on what is defined as "agricultural land." This definition includes conventional farming land but does not include such lands as forestlands, rangelands, woodlots and tree farms. EPA and the Corps of Engineers will continue to have primary jurisdiction over these "non-agricultural" lands.

Agency officials, in a briefing for Farm Bureau and other groups, said SCS would make wetland delineations on non-agricultural land at the request of a producer who is participating in USDA programs. SCS officials pointed out that the agency does not have the staff and resources to work on delineations of all non-agricultural land.

Delineation made by SCS would be for five-year periods and appeals would be handled by that agency's appeals system.

The agencies said the agreement will enable farmers to rely on SCS wetland maps for determining the extent of wetlands under both the farm bill (swampbuster) and Section 404 of the Clean Water Act. Previously, farmers participating in U.S. farm programs received a wetland map from the Soil Conservation Service for swampbuster purposes only. If that farmer needed a Section 404 permit for work in wetlands, the Corps of Engineers or EPA required an additional wetland delineation.

"The agreement eliminates this duplication of effort and gives the farmer one wetland determination from the federal government," according to spokesmen for the four agencies.

The policy is the result of 1993 legislation, supported by Farm Bureau, to consolidate wetlands delineations through a "one-stop shopping" process aimed at eliminating inconsistencies between agencies.

That legislation was offered by Sens. Kit Bond (R-Mo.) and Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) and triggered an interagency review of wetlands jurisdiction that resulted in the announcement of the agreement. Bond's amendment, which was offered during Senate debate on establishing a federal Department of the Environment in May, would have given the SCS—in consultation with the Fish and Wildlife Service—the authority to identify wetlands and develop restoration plans concerning agricultural wetlands.

Although it was turned down in May, the Bond plan has bipartisan support in the Senate, with 23 cosponsors.

The memorandum of agreement will go into effect when published in the Federal Register. There is no public comment period.

White House Says BST Is Safe

There is no evidence that genetically engineered bovine somatotropin (BST) poses a health threat to humans or animals, according to a White House Office of Management and Budget report. The Food and Drug Administration approved the use of BST on Nov. 5, but Congress blocked its sale until Feb. 3. In the meantime, OMB studied BST's impact on consumer attitudes and federal spending on dairy programs. The report said no significant reduction of demand for milk and dairy products is expected to result from BST use.

GRAPEFRUIT

A SWEET SUCCESS

Thanks to new sweeter varieties and improved processing techniques, grapefruit and grapefruit juice are staging a comeback. In fact, grapefruit represented 7 percent of all the fruit consumed in the U.S. last year, and grapefruit juice was the fourth most popular juice.

The good news will continue this year. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that Florida (the world's leading grapefruit producer) will grow one of the largest crops in the state's history.

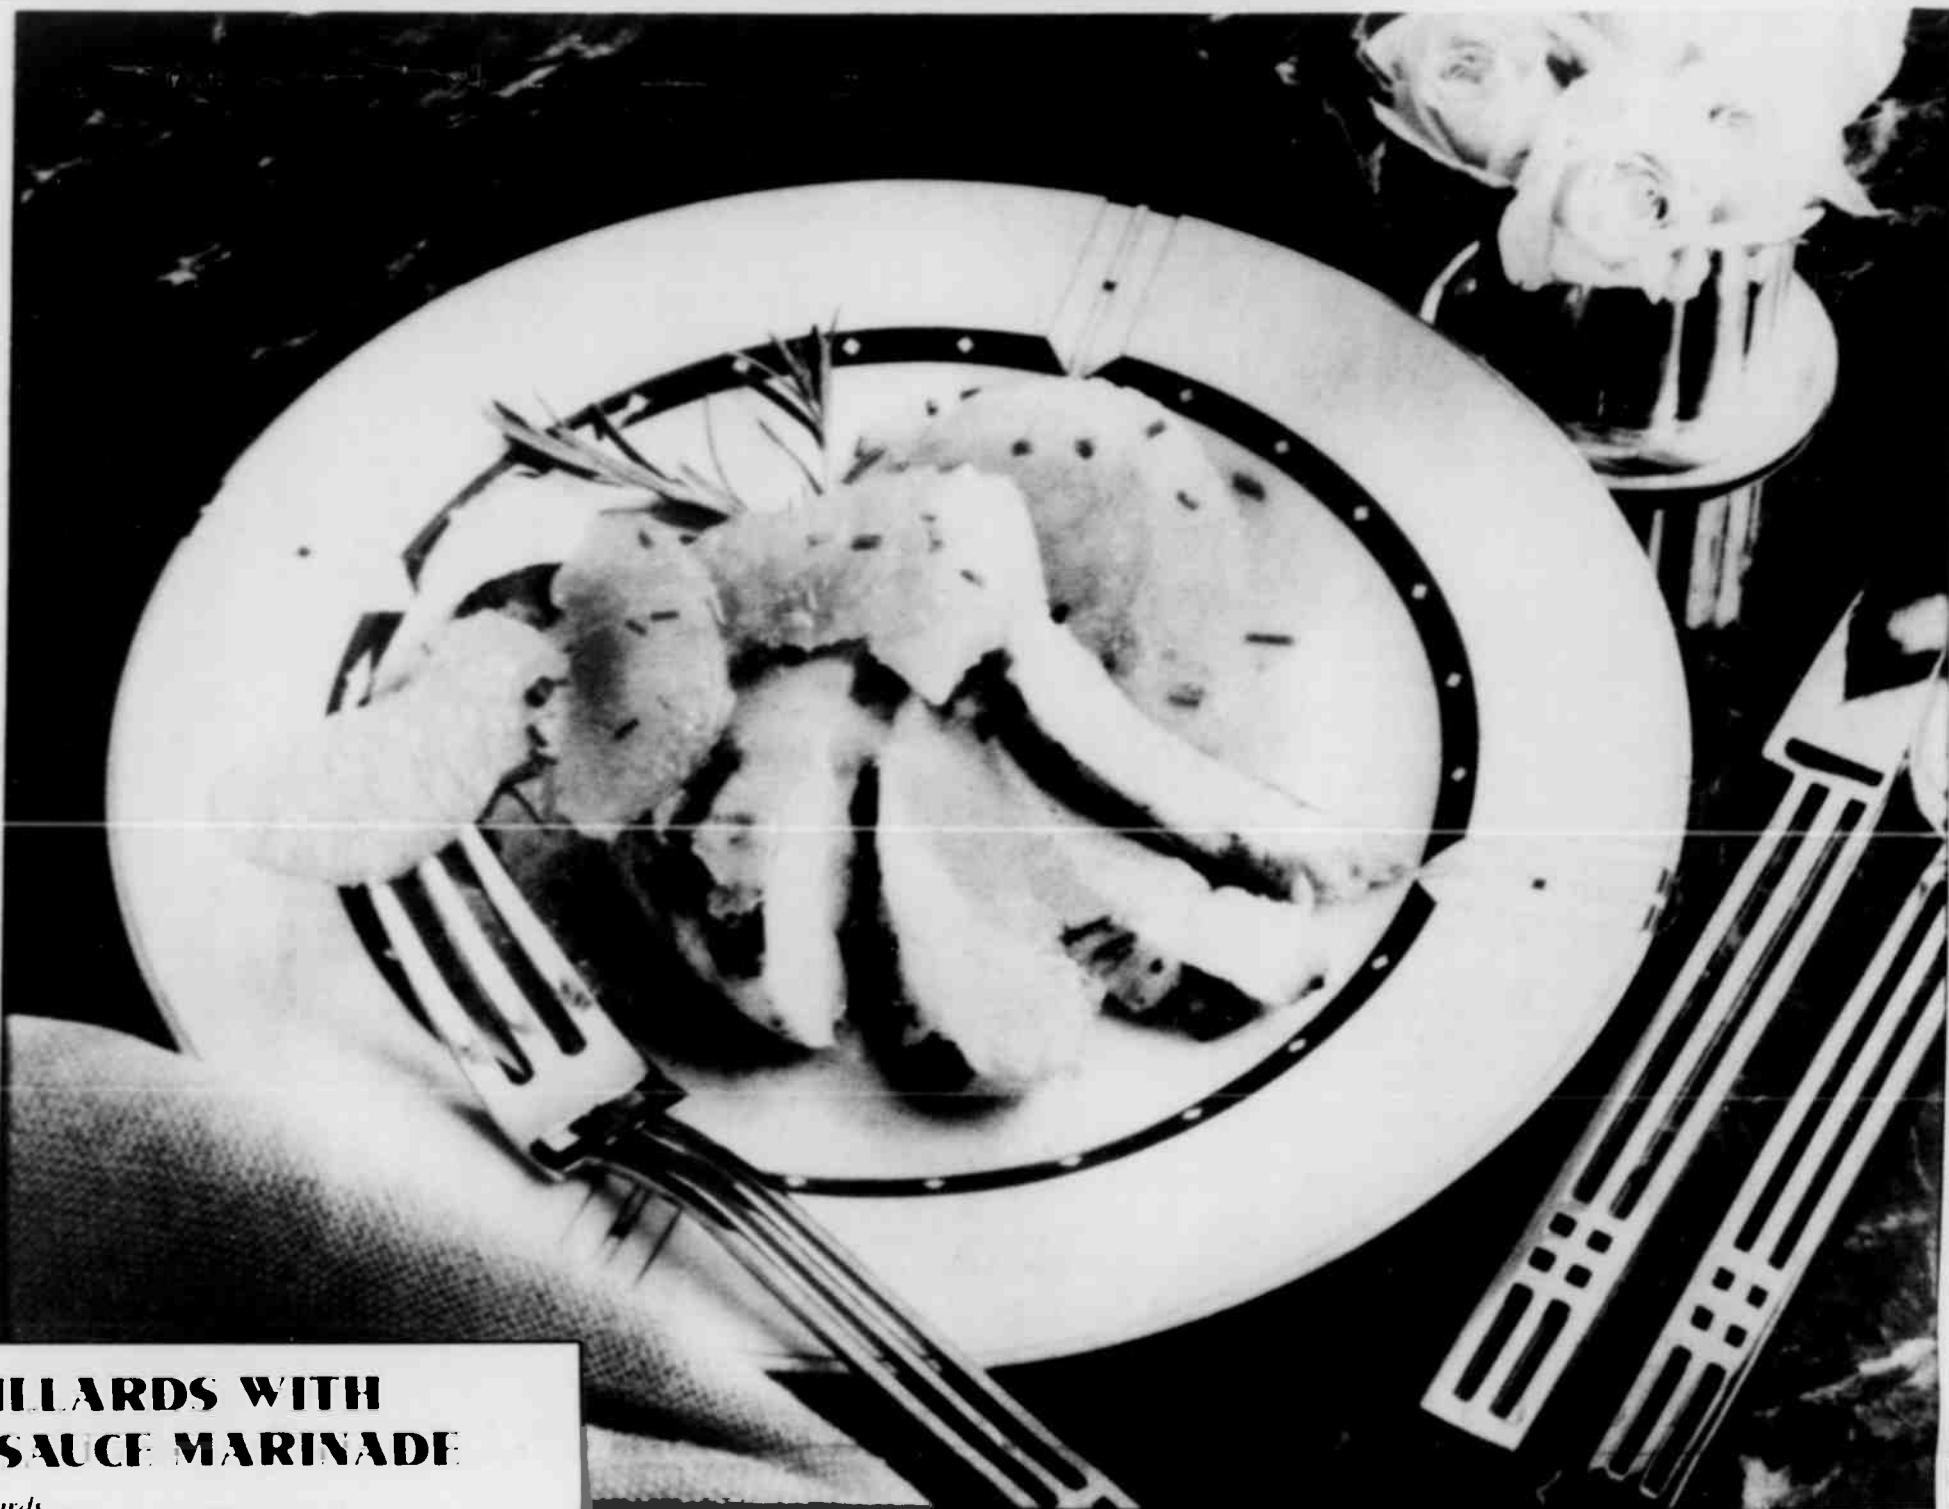

"Grapefruit will be a great value for consumers this winter," notes Daniel L. Santagosto, executive director of the Florida Department of Citrus.

Since grapefruit is most plentiful and reaches its peak of perfection in February, here are some interesting facts, recipes and preparation tips to celebrate grapefruit.

SELECTION TIPS

Because of improved growing practices, Florida grapefruit are available from September through June. When shopping for grapefruit, here are a few tips to consider:

- Color does not indicate sweetness. While Florida grapefruit may vary in color—red, pink or white—they are all equally sweet and delicious. Always select grapefruit that feel firm and are heavy for their size; this is an indication of the grapefruit's juiciness.
- Grapefruit does not ripen further after picking. When grapefruit arrive at the supermarket, they are always ripe and ready to eat. Marks on the peel are normal for juicy, Florida-grown fruit.
- Keep grapefruit in the crisper. Fresh grapefruit will keep for weeks when stored in the warmest part of the refrigerator (usually the crisper). Grapefruit juice will stay for longer periods, depending on the form of juice and packaging.

GRILLED CHICKEN PAILLARDS WITH GINGERED GRAPEFRUIT SAUCE MARINADE

Marinade

- 1/2 cup Florida grapefruit juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated ginger root or to taste
- 2 cloves garlic, minced fine
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh rosemary leaves or 1 teaspoon dried, crumbled
- 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard or to taste
- 2 teaspoons honey
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

In a shallow glass dish, combine the ingredients for the marinade. Add the chicken breasts, turning them to coat with marinade. Marinate, covered and chilled, for 2 to 4 hours. Drain the chicken, pat it dry, reserving the marinade.

Heat an oiled grill pan over moderately high heat until it is hot. Add the chicken, and grill it for 3 to 4 minutes on each side, or until it is firm but still springy to the touch. Transfer the chicken to a plate, and keep it warm, covered loosely.

Add the reserved marinade to the pan and gently simmer the mixture for 1 minute, scraping up the brown bits that cling to the bottom of the pan. Stir the broth mixture, add it to the pan, and simmer the sauce, stirring until it is lightly thickened. Strain the sauce into a bowl, add the grapefruit sections to the sauce to warm them and stir in any accumulated juices from the chicken plate. Divide the chicken pailards among serving plates, spoon the sauce and grapefruit sections over them, and sprinkle with the chives. Serves 4.

Pailards

- 2 whole skinless, boneless chicken breasts, halved and flattened to 1/4-inch thickness
- 1 cup canned low sodium chicken broth combined with 2 teaspoons arrowroot or cornstarch
- 1 Florida grapefruit, peel and pith removed and cut into sections
- 2 tablespoons snipped fresh chives or scallion tops

PINK GRAPEFRUIT AND RICOTTA CHEESE DIPPING SAUCE

- 1 cup part-skim ricotta cheese, drained in a sieve lined with cheesecloth for 15 minutes
- 1 cup nonfat cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar (or raspberry vinegar)
- 1 small pink Florida grapefruit, peel and pith removed, cut into sections. Discard the membrane and dice 1 1/2 cups
- Salt to taste
- 2 tablespoons snipped fresh chives

In a bowl, combine all ingredients, and transfer the dipping sauce to a serving dish. Serve with crudites and fresh fruit. Makes about 2 cups.

PINK GRAPEFRUIT MERINGUE PIE

Pastry

- 1 1/4 cup all purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons cold unsalted butter or margarine, cut into bits
- 3 tablespoons cold vegetable shortening
- 6 to 8 tablespoons ice water

Filling

- 3/4 cup sugar
- 5 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3/4 cup pink grapefruit juice
- 4 teaspoons grated pink Florida grapefruit rind, or to taste
- Pinch of salt
- 3 egg yolks (or egg substitute)
- 1 cup simmering water

Meringue

- 5 egg whites at room temperature
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 3/4 cup superfine sugar
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar for dusting the meringue

To make the pastry: In a bowl, combine the flour and salt; add the butter and shortening, and blend the mixture until it resembles coarse meal. Add the ice water, toss the mixture until it is blended and form the dough into a ball. Chill the dough, wrapped in plastic, for 30 minutes. On a lightly floured surface, roll the dough into a 1/8-inch thick circle, and fit it into a 9-inch pie plate. Crimp the edge decoratively. Chill the shell for 30 minutes. Prick the shell, and bake it in the lower third of a preheated 400° F. oven for 15 minutes or until it is golden. Let the shell cool.

To make the filling: In a heavy saucepan, combine the sugar, cornstarch, grapefruit juice, rind and salt. Add the egg yolks, one at a time, beating after each addition. Stir in the simmering water and bring the mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer the mixture, stirring for 3 minutes or until it is thickened and glossy. Pour the filling into the shell, smoothing the top. Let the filling cool to room temperature.

To make the meringue: In a bowl with an electric mixer, beat the egg whites with the vanilla until they hold soft peaks. Add the sugar, a little at a time, beating, and beat the meringue until it holds stiff peaks. Spoon the meringue over the filling, covering the filling and crust completely. With a spoon, form decorative swirls on the top. Sift the confectioners' sugar over the meringue, and bake the pie in a preheated 350° F. oven for 12 to 15 minutes, or until the meringue is golden. Let the pie cool. Serves 8.

PREPARATION TECHNIQUES

Although it has traditionally been eaten at breakfast, grapefruit is equally enjoyable at any time—as a lunchtime treat, dessert, finger food snack, in salads, or as an afternoon “pick-me-up.” There are many versatile ways to eat grapefruit—you can peel and section them like oranges or cut them into wedges, slices and bite-sized “points” which are great for kids and snacking at work.

Here are some interesting preparation techniques:

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT SMILES

Do not peel grapefruit. Slice grapefruit in half through stem end. From each half, slice diagonally to get three or four smiles as shown. Eat sections straight off the peel. Just pull down on both ends, and the fruit will come up just waiting to be eaten.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT POINTS

Slice grapefruit in half through stem end. Take one half and place it side down. Cut this half in half through stem end. Keep these halves together and slice the other half through the stem end. Perfect points will fall right out. Repeat with remaining half.

HEALTH BENEFITS

Grapefruit always has been known to be healthy, even when it was introduced to Florida in 1823 by Count Odet Philippe, a great grand-nephew of King Louis XVI and a close friend of Napoleon Bonaparte. At that time, grapefruit was thought to be useful in treating illnesses such as influenza (in fact, this was the reason Florida grapefruit growers started to market the fruit to people living in the northern U.S.).

Today, researchers are discovering other important reasons to consume Florida grapefruit and grapefruit juice.

One half of a grapefruit provides more than 90 percent of the U.S. RDA for vitamin C, and an eight-ounce glass of grapefruit juice provides 130 percent. Vitamin C is an essential nutrient for healthy skin and gums and may help protect against certain types of cancer.*

Grapefruit is a source of pectin, a soluble fiber that has been shown to help lower serum cholesterol. High levels of serum cholesterol have been linked to heart disease.

Fresh grapefruit and grapefruit juice are better sources of vitamin C, potassium and dietary fiber than many other fruits and beverages—and also are lower in calories. Of course, grapefruit is naturally sodium-, cholesterol- and fat-free.

The vitamin C in grapefruit and grapefruit juice helps the body absorb more iron. Young women and female athletes are at particular risk of becoming iron deficient, as are wine vegetarians. Adding grapefruit and/or grapefruit juice to meals can help bring blood iron levels up to par.

NUTRITIONAL COMPARISON OF POPULAR BEVERAGES

Both fresh-squeezed and from-concentrate grapefruit juice are better sources of vitamin C and potassium than many other popular beverages. Grapefruit juice also replenishes your body naturally, unlike many other beverages.

Beverage (8 fl. oz.)	Calories	Vitamin C (mg)	Potassium (mg)
Grapefruit juice from concentrate	100	80	260
Fresh-squeezed grapefruit juice	90	82	260
Apple juice	116	2	296
Cranberry juice cocktail	147	108	61

COVER STORY

Fox's 'Monty' marks Winkler's return to TV

BY JEFF PLASS

Henry Winkler, the man who gave the world the Fonzie, returns to television in Fox's new sitcom "Monty." The show, which premiered Jan. 11, airs Tuesdays.

Winkler plays right-wing talk show host Monty Richardson.

"He's an outrageous character," Winkler states, "and is probably 180 degrees away from the Fonzie. He is outspoken and probably very misunderstood. He is the conscience of America, and somehow people are just not getting that he actually knows how they should think."

Shades of Rush Limbaugh and Morton Downey Jr.?

"Well, he's everybody," Winkler explains. "I mean, when I was growing up there was a guy named Joe Pine on television. Monty's just a conglomeration of all the men and women on TV who have an outrageous point of view."

Winkler's decision to return to series television came after he filmed a made-for-TV movie.

"About a year and a half ago," Winkler relates, "I did a movie called 'Absolute Strangers.' And when I did that film, I realized how much I missed it. I went looking for a television show and hooked up with Marc Lawrence (who, along with Winkler, serves as executive producer of the show) whom I knew from Paramount. He was found by Gary David Goldberg and wrote on 'Family Ties,' and he's just an incredible writer. He came to me with this show, and I said, 'This is too outrageous; there's nothing to do but do it.'"

The program splits time between the studio of Monty's talk show and his home, where he lives with his wife and two sons. In his castle Monty is lord and master, ruling with an iron fist and barking out conservative propaganda like a right-wing mastiff on steroids.

And then along comes Geena.

Henry Winkler

Monty's oldest son, Greg, brings Geena home with him from Europe, where she worked as an actress in a one-character play when not busy cutting hair.

Former MTV veejay China Kantner plays Geena, the bohemian counterpart to Monty's apple-pie-and-mom schtick. Winkler describes Kantner as "an incredibly wonderful, funny young lady who plays the nemesis to my character."

Geena and Monty butt heads on issues ranging from her nose ring ("Are you married to a pygmy?") to his hair ("I can help you with that, you know.") and everything in between.

While viewers may see some of the show's gags coming from a mile away, Winkler's charisma carries it off. The lion's share of the show's laughs comes from the set of Monty's talk show, where he attacks both Democrats and spotted owls with equal venom. Monty's youngest son David, played by David Krumholtz, also provides significant humor as a hormonally driven, politically ambivalent teen-ager.

How does Winkler view his lengthy hiatus from the small screen?

"I think the time I took off allowed me to mature and grow into a better actor."

IN FOCUS

The movie is based on the bizarre true story of two young men — a college honors student and a loner with a history of arrests — each of whom confesses to the Christmas Eve slaying of a California police officer.

The district attorney must determine who is telling the truth, who is lying and why.

Hogestyn leaves fans wanting more

BY CANDACE HAVENS

While growing up in Fort Wayne, Ind., Drake Hogestyn (John Black, "Days of Our Lives") had a dream. He wanted to play baseball. After he graduated from the University of Florida with a degree in microbiology, his dream came true. Hogestyn was drafted by the New York Yankees and played third base for the farm team in Oneonta, N.Y.

Then fate stepped in. A couple of Hogestyn's baseball buddies dared him to enter a talent search contest, but Hogestyn had the last laugh. He was one of the 30 actors chosen out of 75,000 applicants.

In 1986 Hogestyn accepted the role of John Black on "Days" and quickly became one of the most popular daytime actors of all time.

"I sometimes feel like I need to slap myself when I think that on Jan. 10 I started my ninth year on 'Days,'" Hogestyn says. "The people I work with are great, and I am in the middle of some very interesting story lines right now. And it is very rewarding."

Hogestyn has also been touted as one of the sexiest men in daytime. He works out every day, but not for the reasons fans might think. "My workouts are very important. It helps my mind to physically blow myself out for two hours a day."

Hogestyn enjoys working in daytime, but the true pleasure in his life is his family. "My life outside the studio is home," says Hogestyn. He and his wife, Victoria, have tried to instill their Midwestern values in their four children, but it isn't always easy for a family living in Malibu, Calif.

"My kids have a routine of chores, and it is sometimes hard for them to understand why they have to do so much, when our neighbor's kids have everything under the sun," Hogestyn's neighbor is Mel Gibson.

Hogestyn says the daytime job were to end tomorrow, he would leave the industry. "I would pack up my family and move somewhere where I could raise the children in a more pristine environment."

"You have to be so much more upfront with children out here about the dangers of drugs and dealing with strangers. I sometimes wish my kids could have the same fairy tale type of childhood I had. But they're having their own childhood, and I'm sure they will have their own great memories."

'Blood' tells tragic tale of extreme divorce

BY TED KUSIO

Most movies depicting tragedies dwell on the horrible events, but offer nothing. However, viewers of "Bitter Blood," a miniseries airing Sunday, Jan. 16, and Tuesday, Jan. 18, on CBS, may actually come away with something.

Kelly McGillis stars as a narcissistic woman who marries a trusting man played by Keith Carradine. When the marriage ends, blenching her "perfect" life, she takes her children and joins her survivalist cousin, played by Harry Hamlin, to ruin her ex-husband's life with murder and deceit.

"What I liked most about the project was I felt that it says something about the world in which we live," McGillis says. "The reason why this tragedy actually happened was that everybody in this story enabled it to happen. Everybody knew that there was something really wrong, but nobody stepped in and said 'Hey, wait a minute,' thereby taking any kind of responsibility."

"I see that going on in our world today: You pick up a paper and kids are carrying guns to school and people are starving to death on your front porch, and everybody says, 'Well it's not my problem.'"

That idea is echoed by characters in the film. And strong performances from a good script make the viewer feel the painful results.

Although "Bitter Blood" deals with an extreme tragedy, it doesn't focus on it. Instead, it shows the source: events that sometimes take place in households, such as hatred, child abuse or lack of responsibility.

Perhaps the film will encourage people in similar situations to stop pointing fingers and take action to solve problems.

Keith Carradine, Kelly McGillis and Harry Hamlin (from left) form a twisted triangle in "Bitter Blood," a two-part miniseries airing Sunday and Tuesday on CBS.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am a big fan of David Suchet, Hercule Poirot on PBS' "Mystery" series. Please tell me where to write to him. Does he play any other parts?

—Mrs. William O. Graves, Charlottesville, Va.

A: One of England's leading character actors, Suchet initially was disappointed that his height (5 feet 8 inches), physique and thinning hair made him a long shot for conventional leading-man roles. On stage, he has played Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet" and Iago in "Othello." Films include "The Falcon and the Snowman," "Harry and the Hendersons" and "The Little Drummer Girl." On TV he played the title role in "The Life of Freud," as well as roles in "Cause Celebre," "Blott on the Landscape" and "Bingo." Write him C/O "Mystery," Goodman Associates, 1776 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Q: How many times did "Cheers" win the Emmy Award for Best Comedy Series? Which actors won Emmys for their performances on the show?

—Nicholas Babo, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A: The series won four Emmys during its run, as did Rhea Perlman (Carla Tortelli-Lebec). Three of Perlman's trophies, by the way, were back to back. Both Ted Danson (Sam Malone) and Bebe Neuwirth (Dr. Lilith Sternin-Crane) won twice. Single winners were Shelley Long (Diane Chambers), Kirstie Alley (Rebecca Howe) and Woody Harrelson (Woody Boyd). Ex-"Monty Python" cast member John Cleese picked up an Emmy for a one-shot guest appearance as a marriage counselor trying to evaluate Sam and Diane's relationship. Finally, Kelsey

David Suchet

Grammer won an Emmy for his performance as Dr. Frasier Crane, but it was for a guest appearance in that role on "Wings."

Q: In 1961, while in Manila, I saw a long movie about Napoleon, starring Jack Palance and Orson Welles. What was the name of it, and is it available on video?

—George Alva, Tucson, Ariz.

A: A-HA! You thought I was going to fall into the "Waterloo" trap, didn't you? Welles was in that movie about Napoleon as well, but you're looking for 1960's "The Battle of Austerlitz," available on video from International Video Entertainment, 15400 Sherman Way, Suite 500, Van Nuys, Calif. 91406.

Many people have been asking how to write cast members of "The Kids in the Hall." You can write to them C/O "The Kids in the Hall," CBS Television, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Tuesdays on Fox, Henry Winkler (top) stars in "Monty" as a conservative talk show host. China Kantner, David Schwimmer, Kate Burton and David Krumholtz co-star (from left).

IN FOCUS

Comic George Carlin brings his irreverent outlook on life to network television with the premiere of "The George Carlin Show," airing on Fox Sunday, Jan. 16.

Carlin plays an on-again, off-again New York City cab driver with opinions about everything and a tendency to impose them on everyone.

When not dispensing advice, solicited or otherwise, he can usually be found at the local tavern, the Moynan, fraternizing with the regulars.

CABLE OVERVIEW

'Autopsy' nothing new; Arnett returns to CNN

BY SUZANNE GILL

Most physicians hope to restore health to their patients, but medical examiners are, in the words of Dr. Michael H. Baden, "the only doctors whose patients are dead and therefore silent." Baden should know: As the former chief medical examiner of the City of New York and the current director of the forensic sciences unit for New York State, Baden has performed more than 20,000 autopsies.

"Autopsy: Confessions of a Medical Examiner," debuting Monday, Jan. 17, on HBO, presents several of Baden's most interesting cases. The title, however, is a misnomer. Baden's faults, whatever they may be, are not under the microscope. In fact, there's nothing here that a fan of "Murder, She Wrote" will find surprising. Gross-out potential is limited, too, since no actual autopsies are performed on-screen.

"Autopsy" is strictly tabloid stuff. Watch and be fascinated. Cable takes the prize in award-show coverage this week with "The 15th Annual CableACE Awards" Sunday, Jan. 16, on TNT, and "The 51st Annual Golden Globe Awards" Saturday, Jan. 22, on TBS.

Hosts of the CableACE gala are Beau Bridges, Mariel Hemingway and Sinbad.

Athletes anticipating honors at next month's Winter Olympic Games are profiled in "See You in Lillehammer," debuting Sunday on The Disney Channel.

Hamlet's mother had one solution, but what is today's woman to do when she's having an affair with her husband's brother? Bo Derek faces the challenge in "Shattered Image," an original drama debuting Friday, Jan. 21, on the USA Network. She and her sweetie (John Savage) plan to kidnap the troublesome spouse (David McCallum) and make off with the ransom money.

Before playing Perry White to Dean Cain's Superman, Lane Smith ("Lois & Clark") stopped the presses with a turn as Richard Nixon in "The Final Days," a TV movie about the last year of the Nixon Administration. "Days" returns Tuesday, Jan. 18, for a run on Disney Channel's co-stars.

The Bruce Lee legend is examined in an installment of A&E's "Biography." The retrospective of the life of the late martial arts superstar airs Tuesday. Lee's widow, Linda, and two of Lee's students, James Coburn and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, are interviewed.

Peter Arnett has written his Persian Gulf memoirs and returns to active duty on CNN Sunday with "Terror Nation, U.S. Creation." It's a report on Afghani terrorist camps.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Bo knows who did it in 'Shattered Image'

BY TED KUSIO

Sometimes too much of a bad thing can almost be good. But "Shattered Image," premiering Friday, Jan. 21, on the USA Network, doesn't have enough bad, so it merely ends up as mediocre.

Bo Derek stars as a wealthy model whose husband is seemingly kidnapped. But is she innocent? Are nasty skeletons lurking in her closet? An FBI agent played by Jack Scalia might find out the hard way.

This film is stuffed with clichés and the acting is awfully melodramatic at times. Surrounding all this are plot twists that will have viewers guessing who did what right to the end. But it's all been done before (though not necessarily in the same film), and it's been done better.

And to answer the biggest question of all: Derek isn't that bad an actress, as long as she's playing a beautiful, bored and slightly detached character.

Other television movies this week include Diana Ross in "Out of Darkness" Sunday, Jan. 16, on ABC. The film deals with a schizophrenic woman who regains her life by taking an experimental drug. CBS features Kelly McGillis as a woman who takes some drastic action after a divorce upsets her "perfect" life in the two-part miniseries "Bitter Blood," co-starring Keith Carradine and Harry Hamlin. The finale airs Tuesday, Jan. 18. And NBC presents the network premiere of the international espionage drama "The Russia House," starring Sean Connery and Michelle Pfeiffer.

Bo Derek

Two young men each confess to killing a policeman in the fact-based "Confessions: Two Faces of Evil," starring Jason Bateman, James Wilder and James Earl Jones. The film airs Monday, Jan. 17, on NBC. A woman believes an FBI agent killed her sister in "Betrayed by Love" on ABC.

TNT presents Cary Grant in the Alfred Hitchcock gem "North by Northwest" on Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Arnold Schwarzenegger plays an evil cyborg in "The Terminator," Wednesday, Jan. 19, on USA.

The tired murder theme is given an odd slant on Friday, Jan. 21, when a woman claims she is a psychic witness to a murder in "Visions of Murder." The NBC film stars Barbara Eden, James Brolin and Terry O'Quinn.

Saturday, Jan. 22, offers "Heathers" with Winona Ryder and Christian Slater on TBS. Although editing may soften the film's black humor, its sarcastic teen angst theme should prevail.

TIME OUT

Former goalie colors NHL All-Star Game

BY JEFF PLASS

It's a wonderful week for winter sports on television as the National Hockey League presents its annual showcase of talent, the All-Star Game, on NBC Saturday, Jan. 22.

John Davidson, color commentator for the New York Rangers broadcasts on the Madison Square Garden Network, will be announcing the game for NBC.

"I think it will be awesome this year in New York," Davidson remarks. "When things happen in New York, there's a little extra splendor to it. The league offices are there and everybody's quite concerned with making sure that it's a nice display. I think there will be something very special about Madison Square Garden hosting it. On top of that, the Rangers are having a very strong season, so that should also add something to it."

The former St. Louis Blues' and New York Rangers' goalie is a veteran of the NHL All-Star Game booth.

"I did one for ESPN," Davidson says. "I've done a couple for 'Hockey Night Canada,' which is on CBC, and then I've worked the last four consecutive games on NBC."

The NHL All-Star Game has undergone numerous changes over the years.

"It used to be that the Stanley Cup champions would play against a series of stars," Davidson explains. "The big thing about the All-Star Game right now is that it's become rather high-scoring. I mean double figures for both teams. And this year what's different is that there's a payoff to the winning team, winner take all.

"One year they had a different format: they played what was called a rendezvous up in Quebec City and they had the NHL All-Stars play against the Russian Red Army team. It was really good."

In addition to the game itself, All-Star Weekend includes a skills competition and an old-timers game.

"The host city will have its alumni team and bring them back, and that gives the fans that go to the games a great chance to see their old heroes. And then the team that plays against them is a mixed selection of former stars from around the league. It's very entertaining."

In other winter sports action, The Disney Channel presents "See You in Lillehammer" Sunday, Jan. 16. The program examines the history of the 1994 Winter Olympic Games' host city and offers profiles of past and present Olympic athletes as well as the history of each Winter Olympic sport.

Wegman Named GCMH Employee Of The Year

Garrett County Memorial Hospital has announced that Beulah Wegman has been selected employee of the year for 1993.

An employee at Garrett Memorial since 1988, Wegman began her career in the dietary department where she currently works as a diet aide. She has also previously worked in the hospital's laundry department.

"Support service employees, such as Beulah, are not always recognized for the job they do because they tend to work 'behind the scenes' and are not as visible as 'front line' employees. However, our hospital could not exist without their support," said Wendy Wakefield, R.D., director of dietary services at Garrett Memorial.

Memorial

"Beulah is an efficient and productive employee," she said. "When the dietary department is short staffed because of sickness, special catering functions or inclement weather, Beulah is always there to help. She is very loyal to the hospital and her department and is a very valued member of our staff."

Wegman resides in Mount Storm, W.Va. with her husband, Adam.

Swanton Girl Is Junior Winner In Wool Contest

A young lady from Swanton was the junior winner in the West Virginia Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest that was held at Camp Dawson in November 1993.

Jennifer Barnard entered the state contest and will represent West Virginia in the national competition in Reno, Nev., January 18-22.

Other local contestants were Sarah Pysell, Deer Park, and Alicia DeWitt, Swanton.

According to State Director Pat Pinnell, ten individuals entered the contest. The contestants were judged on the visual appearance and the construction quality of the garment. Junior and senior state winners advance to the National Competition.

The Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department, Preston County Wool Pool, West Virginia Shepherd's Education, and the West Virginia Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Preston County Extension Service sponsored the contest.

The purpose of the contest is to focus attention on the beauty and versatility of wool, encourage its use, offer the opportunity to compete for valuable prizes and win recognition for sewing, knitting, or crocheting skills.

The contest is open to anyone regardless of race, creed or sex, who meets age and other requirements set forth for the competition.

State Estimated Taxpayers Have Two Options, Extra Filing Time

Self-employed taxpayers and others who are not subject to income tax withholding have two options -- and extra days their year -- to make their fourth quarter estimated tax payment to Maryland, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

"Nearly 240,000 Maryland taxpayers who make quarterly estimated income tax payments have until Tuesday, January 18, to submit their fourth quarter declaration of estimated tax payment," Goldstein said.

The comptroller explained that the normal January 15 due date falls on Saturday this year, so the due date would automatically move to Monday, January 17. But since all U.S. post offices and other federal government offices will be closed on January 17 in observance of Martin Luther King's birthday, the comptroller moved the due date to Tuesday, January 18, as a convenience to taxpayers using mail service.

"The second option for estimated taxpayers is to wait and file a complete 1993 Maryland income tax return on or before Monday, January 31, 1994. Any balance due must be paid in full when filing the regular return," Goldstein said.

Generally, taxpayers who earn income which is not subject to withholding should be filing quarterly declarations of estimated tax if their state and local tax is expected to be more than $100.

In order to avoid interest charges, taxpayers must pay either 90% of their total 1993 Maryland income tax liability or 100% of their total 1992 Maryland income tax liability through employer withholding or estimated tax payments.

For more information about filing estimated taxes to Maryland, taxpayers can call Taxpayer Service in Annapolis at (410) 974-3981 or any of the Maryland taxpayer service offices listed on the back of the state tax booklet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for Maryland income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Our Most Expensive Illness

Medicines For The Common Cold
According to the "Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs," the common cold is often described as our most expensive illness. Not counting the cost of physician visits and prescription medicines, Americans spend over $2 billion each year for over-the-counter (OTC) cold and cough medicines. Other costs include losses in productivity and wages from days missed from work and school. A recent report indicates that Americans lose over 160 million days of activity each year as a result of the common cold.
Cold symptoms are caused by more than 200 viruses. Sneezing and a runny nose means that the upper-respiratory tract (nose, throat, and sinuses) is affected. An irritation of the trachea (the major air passage) can cause coughing. If the larynx (voice box) is involved, hoarseness may occur. Infection of the lungs may result in bronchitis.
Self-help measures for colds include getting plenty of rest, drinking liquids, and keeping air inside one's home moist. Nonprescription cold products may contain medicines such as the nasal decongestant pseudoephedrine to help shrink swollen nasal passages, the fever and pain medicines acetaminophen, ibuprofen, or aspirin, cough medicines such as dextromethorphan for dry, hacking coughs, and expectorants such as guaifenesin to help loosen sputum thickness.

WITH ALL OF THE HARDSHIPS brought on by the current severe weather conditions, there remains ample opportunity for enjoyment of the winter wonderland. If one has the proper equipment and adequate clothing, Bruce Smith, accompanied by his dog "Cowboy" decided to take in the scenic beauty this week by hitching up "Mr. T" to their sleigh and quietly glide along the country roads near Bittinger. Temperatures dipped to near record lows this week, with the coldest officially reported as minus 26 degrees yesterday morning at Keyser's Ridge. County schools have remained closed all this week following a snowfall of about 20 inches Sunday night and Monday. The Potomac Edison Company has issued a request that all residents and businesses conserve energy as much as possible this week, as two main generating plants have malfunctioned and the draw of electricity is increased significantly because of the cold temperatures. Some moderation is expected over the next few days, with daytime highs expected to reach the mid-20s on Saturday. Photo by Craig Phillips.

Potomac Edison Asks Customers To Conserve

The Potomac Edison Company requested this morning that all area businesses and industries and state and local government offices delay opening today. It also asked that schools in its service territory remain closed to conserve energy. Garrett County schools have been closed all week.

Potomac Edison also is asking residential customers to continue to conserve electricity, helping to avoid the possibility of rotating blackouts that have been implemented by neighboring utilities. These temporary interruptions to electric power would only be used under the most severe circumstances, according to company officials.

In Maryland, Governor William Donald Schaefer closed state offices at 3 p.m. Wednesday and delayed their opening until 10 a.m. today. Potomac Edison is asking state and local government offices and businesses in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia to follow suit.

Stress on Potomac Edison's electric system has occurred because of the extreme weather conditions and mechanical failures of two large generating units. One of the units initially was expected to come back on-line Wednesday, but remains out-of-service.

At 9 a.m. today, Potomac Edison's demand for electricity had reached an approximately all-time peak of more than 2,500 megawatt hours, exceeding its January 15 peak by more than 35 megawatt hours.

According to company officials, extremely frigid weather is creating heavy electrical demand in the eastern part of the country.

In the last 10 days, Potomac Edison and APS customers used record amounts of electricity because of the extreme temperatures, setting new one-hour peaks.

"The extended period of frigid weather has contributed to our setting new one-hour peaks three times in the last nine days," reported company officials.

THE MAJESTY OF MUDDY CREEK FALLS, the highest falls in the state of Maryland, is enhanced right now by massive quantities of hanging ice amidst the still-liquid gush of water crashing to the base of the falls. The falls, located in Swallow Falls State Park, was captured on film yesterday by Craig Phillips. Although most local parks are open, visitors are advised to dress appropriately for excursions there, as hypothermia and frostbite are real possibilities in the present extreme conditions. Approximately 100 inches of snow have already fallen this winter, creating the possibility of record-setting amounts before spring finally arrives.

Frantz Brothers Listed In Stable Condition Today

Two brothers injured in a vehicle collision that took the lives of two of their siblings last week were listed in stable condition this morning at Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Jon Bradley Frantz, 38, and James Edward Frantz, 48, both sustained head injuries and fractures in the 12:45 p.m. collision on Tuesday, Jan. 11.

Bradley, who is the director of Garrett County Emergency Management, was reportedly moved from the intensive care unit to a regular room this morning, while Edward remains in ICU, still comatose but responding to touch, according to a family spokesperson.

Paul Joseph Frantz, 45, and Pamela Rae (Frantz) Ashby, 42, siblings of Bradley and Edward, were both killed instantly in the crash that occurred on Rt. 219 north of Accident. Also injured was James Everett Frantz, 74, father of the family, who was hospitalized in Garrett Memorial Hospital until his release on Tuesday, at which time he returned to his McHenry home.

At the time of the collision, the family was enroute to Newman Funeral Home where they were to make arrangements for Elva Frantz, wife of James and mother of the family, who had died Monday, Jan. 10, after a brief illness.

The accident occurred when a laundry truck, driven by Alvin R. Lewis Jr., 23, Terra Alta, W.Va., apparently crossed two lanes of traffic and collided head-on with the Plymouth Voyager in which the Frantz family was riding. A report from the Maryland State Police this morning indicated that no charges have been filed against Lewis, but that an investigation is continuing into the cause of the fatal collision.

Lewis also sustained serious injuries in the mishap and was a patient at Garrett Memorial until Tuesday of this week, according to a hospital spokesperson.

GCSO Makes Arrest In Connection With Recent Mosser Road Break-Ins

A 27-year-old man with no fixed address was arrested last week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in connection with a recent series of breaking and entering incidents along Mosser Road, McHenry.

Paul G. Helsel is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $80,000 bond and has been charged with numerous counts of breaking and entering, destruction of property, and theft. He is accused of breaking into several unoccupied trailers located in Moor's Subdivision sometime in November and/or December. Propane gas heaters were taken from some of the trailers.

The defendant also alleged-

Six Injured In Two-Vehicle Crash Saturday

Six people were taken to area hospitals following a two-vehicle accident on Route 219 near Cove Road Saturday afternoon, according to a report from the Maryland State Police.

Frederick N. Heley, 71, of Ontario, Canada, was driving a 1985 Lincoln Continental south on Route 219 about 2:08 p.m. when he apparently lost control of the car on the snow-covered road. According to state police, the car went into the north bound lane and into the path of a 1986 Chevy Blazer driven by Roxanne D. Malcomb, 35, of Accident.

The two vehicles collided on the north shoulder of Route 219.

Malcomb's daughter, Heidi, and Heley's wife, Helen, were flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter. Heley was then transported to Shock Trauma in Baltimore and reported in stable condition Sunday. Heidi was treated and released from Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Malcomb, her two sons and Frederick Heley were all taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital. All remained in the hospital for several days and were later released.

Heley was charged with two traffic violations. The Scott MacLane investigated.

edly lived in one of the trailers for an extended period of time. The homes are mainly owned by out-of-town persons who use them for vacation purposes.

Other charges against Helsel are pending, according to Dets. Randy Shaffer and Jeff Murphy. Some of the victims in the case include Eugene Davis, Charles Rager, Don Graham, all of Johnstown, Pa., and Frances Kristoff, Florida.

In other sheriff's office news, a Bayard, W.Va., man was arrested this week, charged with child abuse and battery. Charles W. Moats, 35, is accused of battering a five-year-old male in August 1993, according to the report.

Moats has also been implicated in a case involving a stolen four-wheeler. He is accused of stealing the vehicle from Stephen P. Uphold in October 1993. The four-wheeler's value was placed at $1500.

A Loch Lynn resident was arrested for destruction of property, according to the police report. Thomas J. Meyers is accused of causing damage to an apartment owned by Leif Piper. The defendant had apparently been evicted from the residence, but before leaving allegedly punched holes in the walls, damaged the paneling, broke a vanity top, a door, and a screen.

Damage estimates were set at $500.

DOP Reported

A destruction of property incident was reported to police this week by Linda Garris, Oakland. Mrs. Garris told officers that she had parked a 1993 Mercury Villager at Southern High School last Wednesday. When she returned to the vehicle, she found that the rear window was broken out.

The vehicle is the property of J&J Ford Sales, Terra Alta, W.Va., according to the report. The repair costs were estimated at $400. There are no suspects in the case.

GCC To Extend Registration Another Week

Because of the current severe weather conditions, Garrett Community College will extend its registration period for one more week, according to Joan Crawford, representing GCC.

Registration for the spring semester will continue through February 4, instead of being cut off on January 28. The registration office of the college is open Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Proposed Budget Allots $4 Million To County For Fiscal Year 1995

Garrett County is in line for over $4 million for various projects if Governor William Donald Schaefer's 1995 proposed capital budget is approved by the state legislature. The largest portion of the funding - $1,535,000 - is to go toward the construction of a nature center and amphitheater at Deep Creek Lake State

A SPECIAL MEMORIAL SERVICE was held in Grantsville last Thursday afternoon to observe the 30th anniversary of the crash of a B-52 bomber, loaded with nuclear bombs, in New Germany State Park. Several area American Legion and VFW posts organized the service at the request of Mrs. Robert Payne, widow of one of the three crew members who was killed in the crash. Also killed in the January 13, 1964, mishap besides Major Payne were Major Robert E. Townley and Staff Sgt. Melvin Woolen. Surviving the crash were Major Thomas W. McCormick and Captain Parker C. Freeman. It took five days to find the bodies of those who died, as all three had bailed out of the aircraft in remote areas and either froze to death or died of injuries. Mrs. Payne sent a message to Grantsville officials this week that said, "I have so many cherished memories of Grantsville. I'll always treasure the hospitality and warmth and it will always be a part of us." Pictured left to right above are: William Frickey, sgt. at arms, Melvin Schwing, who played taps, Roger C. Other organizations involved in the ceremony were: Grantsville S.A.L. Park. An additional $1,487,000 will also go to the state park for shore erosion control, according to reports.

Other items and their proposed funding are as follows: Garrett County Lighthouse, $500,000; roof replacement on three buildings at Garrett Community College, $203,000; Mountain Lake Park water system work, $107,625; Chestnut Ridge sewer and Grantsville Senior Center, both $100,000; and Deep Creek water/wastewater improvements, $32,000.

With Allegany County set to receive over $50 million, which includes funding for a new state prison, Western Maryland stands to receive a great portion of the state's investment, according to reports.

Former County Commissioner Hamilton Dies

Wayne B. Hamilton, who served as a Garrett County commissioner from 1970 to 1978 and was a member of the Maryland Public Service Commission from 1979 to 1986, died Saturday, Jan. 15, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being transported there from his farm near Red House.

A retired farmer, Hamilton was also a former member of the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Tri-County Council (1973-76), and a charter member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He was also a member of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club and a 50-year member of the Garrett Lodge 113, Knights of Pythias.

He served on the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College from 1986-1992, was a former member of the Board of Governors of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and served with the Garrett County Development Corporation. He was a deacon of the Church of the Brethren and a former member of the Mountaineers Barbershop Quartet.

Born March 1, 1916, in Morgantown, W.Va., Mr. Hamilton was the son of Nella (Brooks) Hamilton, Oakland, and the late James F. Hamilton. He was

Accident Band Is Honored By Mayor, Council

The Mayor and Town Council of Accident has recognized the Accident Concert Band as the third recipient of the "Volunteer of the Year Award - Accident Community."

After a lapse of about 50 years, the Accident Concert Band was reactivated in 1989 under the sponsorship of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society. The band has a history of over 100 years, going back to the time when Accident had two bands, one English and one German. Later the bands were combined into one. The bass drum presently used by the Accident Concert Band has been played for about 100 years.

Glen Keller, tuba, is the only present member to have played in both the original and reactivated bands. The Keller family has been represented by four successive generations of instrumentalists in the Accident Concert Band.

The current band is composed of members ranging from school age to senior citizens who reside in Western Maryland and Pennsylvania. Membership is open to any instrumentalist, regardless of age or ability. Rehearsals are held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month in the Accident Town Hall.

The band has a busy 10-month season each year. They have performed in Garrett County, Allegany County, and in Pennsylvania.

The Mayor and Town Council noted its appreciation to the members of the Accident Concert Band for "their time and talent in bringing a piece of history back to Accident."

Fees Announced For Recreation Use Of DCL

By virtue of a lease agreement, approved by the Board of Public Works on Dec. 15, 1993, Pennsylvania Electric Company (Penelec) has again contracted the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to manage Deep Creek Lake. That lease gave Penelec the right to set fees for all user groups, such as the property owners and business owners dock fee schedule. Penelec has announced the proposed lake fees that will take effect beginning with the 1994 season.

There will be a public hearing on Feb. 19 in Garrett Community College auditorium at 10 a.m. regarding the fees. Persons' comments may be expressed at the hearing or can be mailed to the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area (DCLRA), Rt. 2 Box 69C, Swanton, MD 21561. The comments will be received until the date of the hearing and will be forwarded to Penelec. Any person interested in obtaining a copy of the Penelec proposal may also write to the above address.

Penelec established the proposed fees after obtaining recommendations from the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners and the Deep Creek Lake Business Association. DNR worked extensively with Penelec in an effort to keep the fees as equitable as possible and to assure that all user groups contribute in some way, according to a DNR spokesperson. Both Penelec and DNR had extensive discussions with local community groups and the Garrett County Commissioners prior to Penelec setting the fees, the spokesperson said.

After the public hearing, Penelec will finalize the fee schedule and DNR will apply it to the new dock permits to be mailed in early March.

The fee schedule is as follows:

Residential/Private: type A, $150 per permit; common dock, $125 per slip; mooring buoys, $75 per buoy; buffer strip use only (no docks) $50 per permit.

Residential/Rental: type A, $175 per permit; common dock, $150 per slip; mooring buoys, $100 per buoy; umbrella fee for general use of buffer strip and lake, $50 per residential rental permit.

Development permits will cost $1,000, and special permits will be $50.

Commercial permits: commercial wet slip, $175 per slip; access fee for day use/dry storage slips, $175 per slip; access fee for yacht clubs, $175 per slip or mooring buoy, rental boat fee, $150 per motorized vessel, gas sales fee, $500;

ramped boat/day use lake use fee, $1 times permitted annual total launches, umbrella fee for general use of buffer strip and lake, $100 per commercial permittee. A non-conforming use permit will cost $10.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

The Johnstown Region of the American Red Cross Blood Services, of which Grantsville is a part, is urging blood donors of all types to donate blood Friday, Jan. 28, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall.

"The recent winter storms cancelled or postponed several visits throughout the Johnstown Region resulting in the loss of several hundred potential blood units," Jan Kuruzovich, American Red Cross field representative said. "Therefore, we're asking all who are eligible to donate do so, particularly those donors who have a Rh negative blood type."

Anyone age 17 or older who weighs at least 105 pounds and is in general good health may donate blood. The Red Cross is urging all people who meet these donor requirements to donate blood.

"SPARKLES AND SWEETS" is the name of a special fund-raising event planned for Friday, February 18, to benefit Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Inc. The "mouth watering affair" will be held at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, beginning at 7:30 p.m. and feature top dessert treats from a number of area restaurants and baked goods establishments. Pictured above are Bernie and Bob Simmons, who are co-chairmen of the event. An $8 admission donation per person is being asked by Habitat, a non-profit, interdenominational housing ministry. More details of the "Sparkles and Sweets" evening will be announced later.

The Red Cross also reminds everyone that donor identification is important. Anyone coming in to donate should bring their blood donor card, driver's license, or Social Security card.

Pepper Couple Bestows $500,000 Gift To Friendsville Lions Club

"I think this is the largest donation ever given - nationally or even internationally - to a Lions Club," said Marlin Lawson, Friendsville Lions Club president, as he accepted a gift worth over $500,000 from Drs. Donald and Deborah C. Pepper. The Peppers recently donated that amount in the form of real estate, a hotel, house, and belongings to the local club.

The Friendsville Lions Club received publicity twice in the past year as the members worked to gather tons of food and belongings to be sent to the flood-ravaged midwest. The service organization is also known for its outdoor work in and around Friendsville, and the members' construction of a multi-use, expansive town park.

Area Boy Scouts Collect Nearly 14 Tons Of Food

The property is located along the Youghiogheny River, and was bought by the Peppers in 1983. The old Crawford Hotel was burned out at the time of that purchase, and the Peppers did a great deal of restoration work on the building. The doctors resided there for some time, but recently relocated to Grantsville. They both currently operate the Frostburg Medical Clinic, and have been practicing in the Frostburg area since 1980.

Once avid kayakers, the pair hopes that part of the property could be used to house a whitewater museum, and Lawson agreed that this could be pursued. The main use of the hotel, however, will be the construction of "sheltered care housing" for elderly citizens. The Peppers said they knew of the lack of facilities in the small town for its elderly residents, and expressed their faith in the local Lions Club for "doing the right thing."

The house is to be rented out eventually, and the larger building may also be used for a town meeting hall, which Friendsville currently lacks.

In order to receive such a gift, the Lions Club had to apply for and achieve tax exempt status. This was granted in December, but as the final paperwork was not yet completed at the time of the donation, Garrett County Community Action stepped in to serve as an interim recipient. As soon as the tax exempt status has cleared, Community Action will turn the deed over to the Lions Club.

The Family of RALPH ESTON STEMPLE would like to express their thanks and appreciation to family, friends and neighbors for the food, cards, flowers, and memorial contributions that were given at the time of his death. Special thanks goes to Southern Rescue Squad, Garrett County Memorial Hospital Emergency Room Staff & Dr. Donald Richter. Also a very special thanks to Pastors Paul Poerschke & Louise Knotts, and St. John's Lutheran Church women who served the food after the service. Your expression of sympathy was greatly appreciated and may God Bless You All.

MAJOR DONATION GOES TO FRIENDSVILLE LIONS - Grantsville physicians Donald and Deborah Pepper recently bestowed a highly valuable gift to the Friendsville Lions Club - land, buildings, and personal property worth $500,000. Pictured above is the Crawford Hotel, one of the two buildings on the donated land, which is located along the Youghiogheny River. The Peppers' hope is for the Lions to remodel the building for the purpose of housing some elderly Friendsville residents in a "sheltered care" arrangement.

CONTRIBUTORS AND RECIPIENTS - A major donation of land, houses, and personal property was recently given to the Friendsville Lions Club by Grantsville residents Donald and Deborah Pepper, both physicians. The Peppers gave the Lions approximately $500,000 worth of real estate and properties with the hope that the Club will establish sheltered care housing for the town's many elderly citizens. Marlin Lawson, president of the Club, intends to carry out the plan. See story. Pictured above, left to right, are Duane Yoder, director of Garrett Community Action; Bill Robinson, project consultant; Lawson, and Don and Debbie Pepper.

Christmas Bird Count Includes One Bald Eagle

A bald eagle was among the 5,806 birds and 63 species that were observed and counted by 20 local birders during the recent annual National Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count in Garrett County.

Ten field observers spent nearly 40 hours and traveled over 280 miles to record their results, while 10 other birders spent about 30 hours watching at their feeders.

Besides the single immature bald eagle that was observed, the other most unlikely sighting was of two common redpolls. According to The Audubon Society Encyclopedia of North American Birds, common redpolls are small northern finches that live from the southern edge of arctic tundra south into coniferous forests, from Alaska to Newfoundland. In some winters, unusually large flights move south from their northern range into the United States. The common redpoll can survive colder temperatures than any other songbird in winter.

Connie Skipper, count compiler, also reported that Canada geese were present in unusually large numbers, as were mallards and hooded mergansers. Somewhat unusual for this time of year, she said, was the presence of seven American robins.

Northern species which are irregular southward migrants observed, besides the redpoll, included evening grosbeaks, pine siskins, and red-breasted nuthatches. Also observed was a red-tailed hawk showing partial albinism, Mrs. Skipper said. It has been reported by a number of people in the Paradise Point Sand Flat area. This hawk, seen from the side and back, has totally white plumage, but its bill is yellow and its legs and feet are yellow-orange.

The species that was most numerous in the count was the American crow with a total of 1,698 spotted, followed by: mallard, 889; European starling, 663; Canada goose, 356; American coot, 348; evening grosbeak, 268; black-cap chickadee, 248; house Finch, 199; dark-eyed junco, 163; hooded merganser, 113; white-breasted nuthatch, 74; tufted titmouse, 72; and mourning dove, 52. Other single-bird sightings, besides the bald eagle, were: horned grebe, northern pintail, American wig-wagon, American kestrel, killdeer, ring-billed gull, flicker, red-winged blackbird, common grackle, and purple Finch.

Field observers, besides Mrs. Skipper, were: Ken Bauer, John Cecil, J.B. Churchill, Kevin Dodge, Dr. Chuck Hager, John Holt, Bill Pope, Fran Pope, and Judith Sconyers, while feeder watchers included: Rebecca Harvey, Harold and Frances Hoecker, Edith Jack, Jan Janssen, Gladys Savage, Beverly Serpene, Jesse Skipper, Mary K. Speicher, and Sallie Thayer.

No Injuries Reported In Morning Wreck

A wreck this morning at the intersection of Chestnut Ridge Road and New Germany Road resulted in no injuries, according to Maryland State Police.

Investigating officer Tfc. Wayne Mowbray stated that a 1980 Cadillac, driven by Norman Davis, 43 years old of Salisbury, Pa., was traveling south on Chestnut Ridge Road. At the stop sign, he pulled out to turn onto New Germany Road into the path of a 1984 Chevrolet Caprice driven by 43-year-old Guy Platter of Grantsville. Platter's wife was a passenger in his vehicle.

There were no injuries reported. Bittering Volunteer Fire Department and Northern Rescue Squad responded.

Davis was cited for failure to yield right-of-way, according to a state police spokesperson.

We Don't Know Why, But...

We have yet to touch the items on and around Pam Ashby's desk in our newsroom, and have garnered some comfort from seeing them each day since her untimely and tragic death last week. From the moment we heard of the tragedy, which also claimed the life of Pam's brother, Paul, we have naturally asked over and over, "Why?" Although we have been unable to find a specific answer to that question, it helps to ponder all that has taken place since the incident occurred.

Just yesterday we discovered a small strip of paper thumb-tacked in the corner of Pam's bulletin board, upon which were the following words: "Life begins on the other side of despair." - Jean Paul Sartre. We strongly sense that Pam led us to this discovery.

The response to the tragedy by literally hundreds, and probably thousands, of people has been unprecedented in Garrett County, and the good that has come about because of it is immeasurable. It has caused us to more greatly value life, which is so fragile. It has changed and strengthened forever so many relationships, as we have exchanged thousands of hugs and held each other, in many cases for the first time. It has caused us to be more sensitive toward each other and more aware of feelings and needs. It has brought husbands and wives, parents and children, and brothers and sisters much closer together. It has healed a number of broken relationships. It has undoubtedly caused many people to be more careful on our roadways, at least for a while.

We cannot answer the question, "Why?", and there was certainly nothing good about the tragedy itself. It was a horrifying experience, and we would trade all of the above to have Pam's and Paul's lives back again. But there is no question that out of this tragedy has come much good, upon which and from which we find the strength to recover and go on with living.

Pam clipped out and saved the above quotation because it meant something to her and was something she understood. We never dreamed that it would be her death that would make the wisdom of these words so vividly clear.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank WMSG Radio for broadcasting the funeral services for the Frantz family. We were extremely appreciative because we were not able to attend the funeral. But thanks to WMSG, we were with the family in spirit via our radio.

We would also like to make mention of the dinner held at the American Legion following the service. It was a prime example of our community pulling together in a time of sorrow and need, as it should be.

Sincerely,
Mr. & Mrs. Ed Nutter Jr.

To the Editor:

I stood at my bedroom window and looked down the street to the place where the old jail used to stand. That building held some of my best childhood memories. I realize that may seem odd, but you have to remember that it was where my cousin, Pam, lived. My uncle, Jimmy, was the sheriff then. The sheriff's living quarters were adjacent to the jail.

It was at this house that our families met nearly every weekend. The adults would play canasta, and we children would romp, play, and generally tear up the rest of Aunt Elva's house. At the center of the fun was always Pam! She and I would raid Paul's and I'd's drawers for their socks. We made sock puppets with buttons and her mom's make-up. I'm sure her brothers dreaded those visits.

One night I had stayed all night with Pam. She woke me up around 4:00 the next morning. She informed me that we were going to take our "morning constitutional." Now, being two years younger, I had no idea what a "constitutional" was, but I knew that if Pam was going, it had to be fun. When we got back, Uncle lescent girls making M&M cookies. Pam just loved them!

These and other beautiful memories came to mind as I stood there. And I had to think Pam would have loved to have reported the touching human interest story that had unfolded this week.

She would have told how people all across Garrett County came together to comfort, console and feed a family numb with shock over the passing of three family members. She would have investigated the details and added her loving touch. She would have certainly reminded us all of how the various churches, funeral homes and civic organizations worked hand-in-hand to pull together the inspiring funeral Saturday morning. She would have been so proud!

The laughter she shared with us will always be precious. But her pen is still, and her voice is silent. All the same, I know her mind still wanders among her friends, family, and her beloved Garrett County. With loving memories, Debi DeWitt Upole

To the Editor:

This letter is concerning the weather conditions of Backbone Mountain on Rt. 135.

We are concerned about having a good education for us and other children. On the other hand, when the weather is bad, kids' lives should not be put in jeopardy. On Wednesday the 12th of January, when the roads were not in good condition, the Board of Education was sending Garrett County kids to school.

We realize that the weather is different in other areas of the county. One solution to this problem is to have an official located in these areas. They should be honest enough to call the Board of Education and tell them whether or not to call Garrett County schools off.

Thank you for taking your time to read this letter.

Sincerely,
Mandy Lee and Kristy Goodwin

An Update From The Superintendent

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent Of Garrett County Public Schools

GARRETT COUNTY HIGH SCHOOLS INITIATE TECH PREP

(This article was written by Mr. Luther D. Parrack Jr., Director of Secondary Education with the Garrett County Board of Education.)

County high schools will begin implementation of Tech Prep programs in the fall of 1994 for incoming ninth grade students. The purpose of Tech Prep is to assure that all high school graduates complete a program of studies which prepares them with college entrance requirements, job entry skills, or the opportunity for continued training and education in career programs after high school.

Studies indicate that a majority of jobs in the future will not require four-year college degrees, but will require training, skills, and knowledge beyond the high school level. To meet this need, county high schools will offer programs of studies which are organized around several career paths. These career paths will give students the opportunity to explore and experience career related activities. Each career program will offer either preparation for job entry skills, advancement to post secondary training, or college entrance requirements. These career paths will be offered in the career cluster areas of arts and human services, business and financing, engineering and technology, and natural resources and life sciences.

Tech Prep is based on a student's post-high school goals. Students will need to make some general decisions about their career plans and then choose a related career path in the high school. This will assure that students who complete the program have adequate preparation to enter the world of work, continue their training, or complete the University of Maryland System entrance requirements.

One of the very important parts of Tech Prep is that many of the career programs in the high school will link directly with additional training or education at Garrett Community College or other colleges and trade schools. This will permit students to advance directly to another year or two of study which will be required for present and future careers.

To provide parents and the public more information about Tech Prep, open house meetings will be held at each middle and high school. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. on the following dates: Northern Middle School -- Jan. 19; Southern Middle School -- Jan. 26; Southern High School -- Feb. 10; and Northern High School -- Feb. 17.

What's Happening in Our Schools?

*The second grading term for all students will end on January 25 provided no more than the present three days are lost to weather. In conjunction with the end of the grading term, students will be dismissed at noon on January 26 so that teachers may complete grading and other administrative tasks.

Note: The Superintendent's Update can be heard every other Sunday on WMSG WXII Radio at 8:45 a.m. and every other Saturday on WKIIJ at 8:35 a.m.

The Mind Wanders

NOW WE ARE THREE
By Mary Sincell McEwen

There is no place like this place - our office here at this publishing company. I am Mary, a reporter. Don, the editor, is my brother. Sherry, a reporter, was Pam's sister. Pam, also a reporter, was our dear friend and we are struggling to cope with her sudden death. Pam often said she found some comfort through writing. I, too, find some solace in attempting to express the myriad of emotions, thoughts, and surprising revelations we have all felt here in the past 10 days.

It is not possible to touch on all that has run through my mind since Pam died last Tuesday. It has been a week like no other, with the days going by as they are supposed to, even though I wish they wouldn't because each one takes me farther and farther away from the last time I saw her, which was Friday, Jan. 7. She had given my little boy a red Nerf ball, knowing his second birthday was approaching. It's under my desk now, waiting for his visits.

A newspaper has been published here every week since 1877. The four of us - crammed in our 12x22 foot office every day - have been writing, fighting, sweating, pushing, laughing, and struggling together in this historic place for three and a half years. That's how long I've been here. The other three have much longer histories, but the coalition of these four personalities has been solid since 1990. All of us with a certain sense of humor, all of us politically aware and opinionated. All of us knowledgeable of the distinctive character of this county, all of us ready to defend any decision we may have made with this newspaper. We were a team, and although it would be silly to pretend we always got along and never irritated one another, I have to say that the combination of our personalities was good - productive, intelligent, caring, and - most of all - damn funny.

We had so many inside jokes, we nearly talked in code sometimes. When things got tense - which they often do in a place where deadlines are constant - Pam would jump out of her chair and say, "Come on, Sherry, let's dance." So they would do a jig and sit back down. Debates frequently sizzled over topics ranging anywhere from Rodney King to where a comma should be placed. Sometimes these hot discussions were fueled by one of our occasional visitors, Paul Frantz, brother of Sherry and Pam. He knew exactly what buttons to push to make us three women go ballistic. I think he did it for fun.

I have caught myself more than once this past week looking over my shoulder to ask Pam how to spell a word or whether she thought something should be capped or not. The re-realization that she is not going to come back is always bitter. But I must say that when I am feeling my lowest, I seem to immediately recall one of the many hilarious things Pam used to say or do. It makes me laugh again, and others in the office here report the same. Maybe she's helping us along.

One of Pam's jobs was to gather and set the obituaries for this area. She kept a little book in which she listed the names for each week as they came in - that helped us keep track of the ones we had published. Well, I had to write Pam's name in that book, and Paul's, and their mom's. I did it as if in a dream - as if in a stark, cold dream from which I longed to awaken.

Getting the paper out last week was an arduous task, to say the least. Don and I were helped out by Beth Winklevoss, a student intern, but the brunt of the writing was our responsibility. So many people offered their help, but as Don said, it would take longer to teach someone how to do something rather than to just do it ourselves. So he took on the task of writing the accident story - a story that would have been Pam's. He wrestled with it and had me read it. "Change anything you want," he said. At the end of the story, I wrote Pam and Paul's obituaries. I wanted to be sure to do them right - Pam was the master of those things, and Paul was a historian of sorts, having clipped out and saved the obituaries of many of his past relatives. He showed me some of them just a few months ago.

Each Thursday, nearly all 25 employees gather in the pressroom to get this paper published. It is a time of true manual labor (my father says it takes a strong back and a weak mind), but it is also a time of some relief. The writing is done, the pressure is off again for a few days. Last week, I plodded along, aching for the familiar presence of Pam and Sherry, who hasn't come back to work yet. During a break, I wandered out into the alley where I would always congregate with them. I was alone. Feeling desolate, I stared upward and tried to clear my mind. A nearly palpable wave of peace washed over me, and I had such a sensation of warmth. I think Pam was there, somehow, telling me she was okay and that I needn't feel so lost.

I know in time we will heal. In time we will be able to remember her without tears. We will imitate her imitations, although we will never do them quite as well. We will tell others how she made us fall off our chairs with laughter, how she cherished little babies, how she was forever in love with her sweetheart Joe and adored their three children, and maybe how life had made her cynical at times. We will defend the dignity of Garrett County in her name because she so loved this place.

Last Friday, I went to coffee with Don, which I very rarely do. That meant no one was in the newsroom. Don stopped at the front desk as we were leaving and said, "If anyone calls for the newsroom, tell them that two are at coffee, one's at home, and one's in Heaven."

In our little nest-like office in our little building in our little town, our world has been shaken in a violent way that will change our lives forever. I pray for peace to settle in the hearts of the family members so hurt by this loss, and I pray to God that the echo of Pam's laughter will never leave my memory. I lean against my brother Don and my dear friend Sherry as we piece our lives back together and find a new pathway - a pathway we never expected to take. For we were four... now we are three.

A triple funeral service was conducted Saturday at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, and, despite sub-zero weather, was attended by hundreds. The service was officiated by five pastors and was broadcast on the local radio station WMSG.

Visitations for the three family members were conducted at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland. More than 1600 mourners reportedly filed through the home to pay respects and offer support.

"In my 23 years of operation here, I have never seen so many people attend a visitation," said Mark Durst, funeral director.

Rev. Jacks To Be Chaplain At Senior Center

Rev. Ralph Jacks, Mt. Lake Park, has volunteered his services to be chaplain at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland. Adina Brode, director of the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, announced that Rev. Jacks will serve in the capacity of chaplain for a one-year term. "The Agency is very pleased that the Rev. Jacks will undertake this service," stated Ms. Brode.

An important duty of the chaplain will be visiting those seniors who are not able to attend the center due to illness, Ms. Brode said. Rev. Jacks will also visit seniors who have been hospitalized.

Rev. Jacks, a resident of Garrett County for 32 years, has pastored four churches in the past 52 years, including Sand Run; Wilson, N.C.; Spencer, W. Va.; and Rosedale Faith Chapel, Oakland, from which he retired as pastor in 1992 after serving 22 years.

Rev. Jacks was the first head chaplain at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is still active as chaplain there. He has held numerous offices in the West Virginia district and was presbyter in the Maryland-D.C. district for eight years.

Annual Meeting Held By County Fair Directors

The Garrett County Fair Board of Directors recently held its annual stockholders' meeting at the Deer Park fire hall. President Dale O. Giotfelty welcomed those present and Claude W. Wagner Jr. gave the invocation.

Directors were introduced by President Giotfelty, who gave a review of the projects completed during the year and thanked everyone for their support.

Betty Wilburn, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the ballot for election of five directors. Re-elected to serve a four-year term were: Merrell Wilburn, Raymond J. Yoder, and Roger Giotfelty Jr. Two new directors were elected, Bob Bender and Rebecca DeBerry.

Merrell Wilburn, treasurer, presented the financial statement. Eight $100 bonds were drawn with the following named winners: American Trust Bank, Kitzmillier Lions Club, Christopher Jones, Charles and Lorraine Mason, James H. Weeks Sr., and Clinton Englander. President Giotfelty

THANK YOU...

I would like to thank the staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for their care and concern during this tragic time.

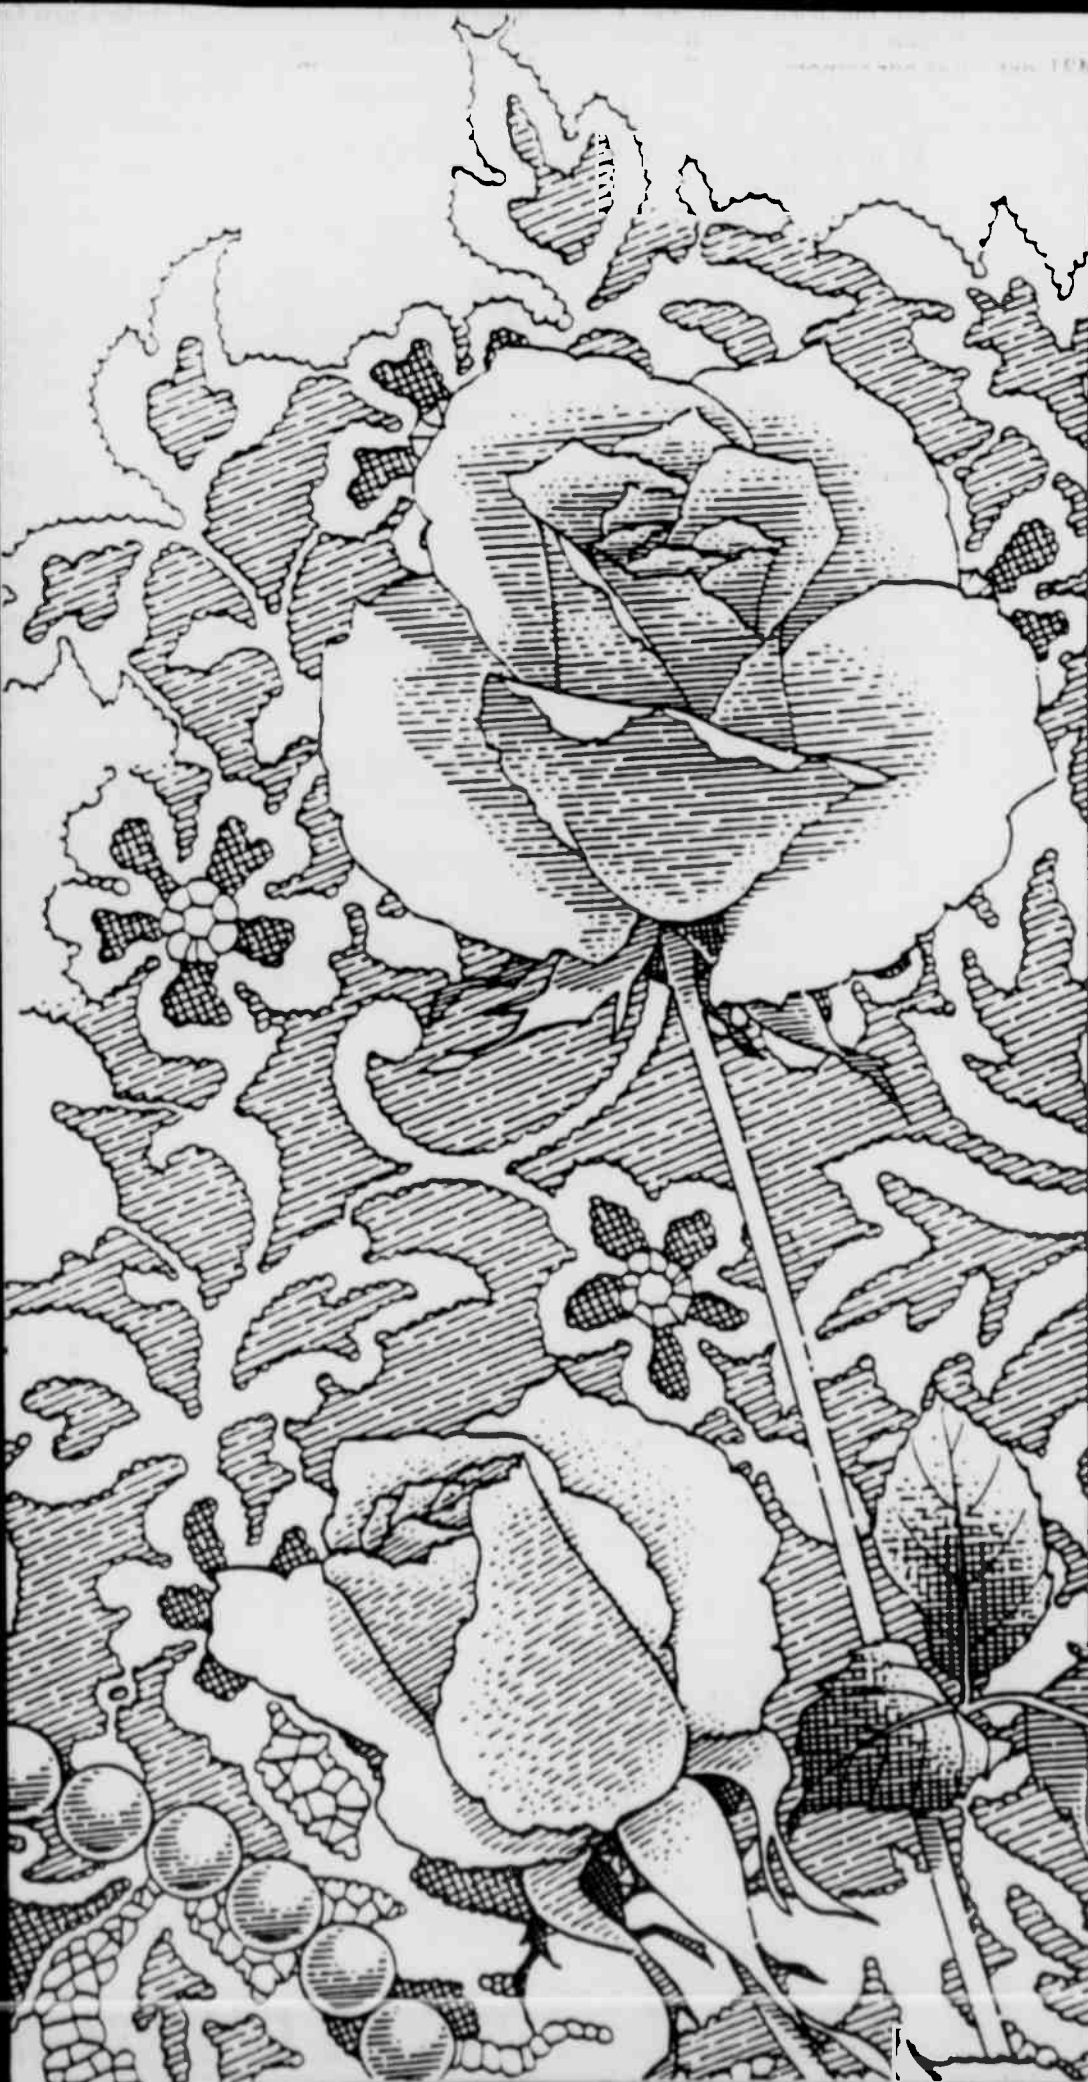

Jim Frantz

Our Sincere Thanks and Admiration

are extended to the literally hundreds of people who were with us in our time of need. We were all touched by so many who braved the bad weather conditions for up to two hours just to share ten seconds of sympathy. The number of people who brought food, came to the funeral and viewings, and even prayed for us is so great it would be impossible to name them all individually. We know in our hearts that Elva, Paul and Pam are looking out for all of us and all of you. We ask that you keep the memories alive in your hearts and in your laughter.

Our Deepest Appreciation and Thanks,

The Frantz-Ashby Family

Named To Grad School Dean's List

Gina Starr Jones Sedaghatkish, pictured above center, has been named to the dean's list at the University of Maryland Graduate School of Biology, where she is a Fellowship Student. She earned a 4.0 grade point average this past semester.

Mrs. Sedaghatkish was graduated magna cum laude from Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., in May 1993, obtaining her bachelor of science degree in biology and environmental studies, with honors.

While at Wilson College, she was awarded the Davison Greenawalt Grove Award for outstanding participation in research in the area of physical and life sciences. Candidates for this award are nominated and selected by a committee composed of the science faculty and one Science Club representative not currently involved in research.

Extracurricular activities of Mrs. Sedaghatkish included membership in the Environmental Club and service as Chief Justice of the Wilson College Government Association during the 1992-93 semester.

The student was married to Karman Sedaghatkish in June 1993, and the couple resides on the campus of the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Sedaghatkish is the daughter of Charles and Sheila Jones, Shady Side, and the granddaughter of Gene and Phyllis Helbig (pictured above), Oakland.

Help Available For DAV, Auxiliary Laid-Off Workers

Gladys Anderson, office manager for Department of Economic and Employment Development (D.E.E.D.), and M. Sue Shockey, supervisor of the Training Place (J.T.P.A. Office), announced that the Trade Adjustment Assistance (T.A.A.) will be available to those people who are laid off from the local Bausch and Lomb facility.

The additional funding is available because the Department of Labor certified that "all workers of Bausch and Lomb, Oakland, engaged in employment related to the production of sunglass lenses, who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after November 24, 1992, are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance."

Anyone interested in retraining assistance, or in need of additional information, is advised to call the J.T.P.A. Office at 334-8136 or 334-8435.

Lake Business People Convene

The Deep Creek Lake Business Association held its first general membership meeting of the year on January 10 at the Point View Inn. There were 17 members in attendance.

Topics discussed included lake management, with Bob Browning of Deep Creek Outfitters and Bill Sisler of Bill's Marine Service outlining the new lease between Penelec, and the Maryland DNR and the proposed dock fee increases for residences and commercial establishments.

Also discussed were plans to form a Western Maryland chapter of the Maryland Restaurant Association that will offer restaurant and food service owners in Garrett and Allegany counties a voice in Annapolis. The Association also offers free tapes and seminars concerning customer service and quality control to chapter members.

A five-person committee was named to organize the third annual Garrett County Job Fair to be held at Garrett Community College on April 23 and plans were made to hold a Four Seasons Raffle to benefit the Firework Fund with a drawing for prizes to be held at Winterfest.

The next general membership meeting will be held Monday, February 7, at noon at the Point View Inn. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Timothy DeWitt Earns Doctorate

Timothy L. DeWitt, assistant professor of music at Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W.Va., has recently completed requirements for the doctor of musical arts degree in performance and literature (trumpet) at the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y.

The D.M.A. degree at Eastman is a program of 60 credit hours beyond the master's degree which culminates with lecture-recital presentation. DeWitt's two presentation topics were "Franz Joseph Haydn's Concert of Keyed Trumpet," and "A Neglected Repertoire: Arias with Trumpet Obligato in the Church Cantatas of J.S. Bach." Nationally recognized musicologists Gretchen Wheelock and Alfred Mann served as advisors in DeWitt's research.

Prior to these recitals, DeWitt fulfilled the dissertation requirement for the degree through completion of four doctoral essays and presentations on topics related to music history seminars in which he enrolled. Titles of these projects were "Disguise and Disguised Voice in the Mozart-Da Ponte Operas," "Brahms's Symphonies: Overcoming the Anxiety of Influence," "Goethe's 'Erkennung': A Comparison of Settings by Schubert and Loewe," and "The Nature and Purpose of Folk Song Use in Debussy's Orchestral 'Images'."

In addition to teaching applied brass and music history, and directing the Brass Choir at Alderson-Broaddus College, DeWitt performs with the West Virginia Symphony Orchestra in Charleston. At Eastman, he was a student from the class of Charles Geyer, a former member of the renowned Chicago and Houston Symphony Orchestras. DeWitt's former teachers include Roger Sherman of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and Edwin Betts, formerly of the Rochester Philharmonic.

Dr. DeWitt graduated from West Virginia University in 1980 with a bachelor of music degree, and received the master of music degree in performance at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, in 1982. He is the son of P. Edward and Emelee DeWitt, Orchid Street, Oakland.

Church Studying Feasibility Of Starting School

The Pleasant View Baptist Church is conducting a survey in an effort to determine the feasibility in starting a Christian school in the Oakland area. The survey is designed to gauge the Christian community's interest in, as well as the support for, a school with academic goals based on sound Christian fundamentals.

According to a church spokesman, evangelical Protestant schools are among America's oldest traditions. "In fact, Christian schools pre-date state-funded public schools by over 200 years. Today's Christian schools maintain this tradition by placing the Bible at the center of a child's education, and use it as the standard for educating and training the next generation," the spokesman said.

"Strong academics, coupled with Biblical morality in education is not only part of this American tradition, but is seen as the key to America's future," he said. Students at Christian schools are known, he said, to consistently score higher on nationwide standardized tests. "In fact, 8th grade students average one year, seven months above the national average," he said.

The survey will be conducted through early February.

Copies of the survey are available at the Free Spirit Christian Book Store, located at the Bottling Plant in Oakland, or by calling Pleasant View Baptist Church at 334-8515. Pastors who would like a quantity for distribution to their congregation may also call the church to obtain a supply.

Pleasant View Baptist Church is located along U.S. Route 219, approximately two miles south of Oakland.

Citizens Reminded Of Debris Burning During Winter

Landowners outside of incorporated towns who are interested in burning brush, debris, or other natural items, may wish to take advantage of the current winter weather, according to a spokesperson from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

According to the Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, Department of Natural Resources, Subtitle .07, Maryland Public Lands and Forest Service, "Burning may occur at anytime when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to control the fire. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do some open air burning while the ground is covered with snow are still required to obtain a burning permit from the Garrett County Health Department. These permits can be obtained by simply contacting the health department, Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., at 334-8980. Once this permit has been obtained, the landowner should contact Garrett Central at the non-emergency number, 334-1929, prior to burning. This will reduce the chances of one of the local fire companies being called out on a false alarm, the spokesperson said.

Former Local Resident Earns Master's Degree

Charlotte Griffith Kiffer, formerly of Garrett County, completed a master's degree in counseling in December at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV).

Her son, Charles Griffith, received a bachelor's degree in recreational therapy in August of last year from Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W.Va., and is currently employed as the supervisor of the Recreational Therapy Department at Larmount Nursing Center, Baltimore.

Ms. Kiffer's daughter, Beth Griffith, who holds a bachelor's degree in special education from UNLV, is a special education teacher at East Middle School, Westminster.

Ms. Kiffer and her children were residents of Garrett County from 1976 to 1985. At the time of her relocation to Las Vegas, Ms. Kiffer was the executive director of the Appalachian Parent Association, which operated the Appalachian Center, the Appalachian Workshop, and the Country Oven Bakery.

In addition to now providing individual and career counseling, Ms. Kiffer will continue as a professional mediator in her Las Vegas business, Alternative Solutions. She is a founding member and the current president of the Mediators of Southern Nevada, Inc., a practitioner member of the Academy of Family Mediators; and a member of the Association of Family and Court Conciliators. Ms. Kiffer has written professional papers on mediation topics, co-authored an article in the Nevada Family Law Report titled "Mediation in Nevada," and has been interviewed about mediation on

Potomac Council BSA Popcorn Sale Underway

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, is holding its annual Council-wide fund-raiser through February 4. The Council and individual Scouts are selling Trail's End Gourmet Popcorn, the profits of which will help to finance the activities of the Council outdoor facility, Camp Potomac, and Cub Scout packs and Boy Scout troops. Profits also help Scouts defray their summer camp fees.

Trail's End Gourmet Popcorn is available only through this Scouting sale. "Popcorn is a high-fiber, low-calorie snack which is sugar and cholesterol-free and this year Potomac Council is making five varieties available," stated a Council spokesman. In addition to the traditional three-pound bucket of regular popcorn, butter and light butter flavor microwavable five-packs are available, as well as microwavable 15-packs. These include five extra bags free. Also available will be 12 ounces of the caramel corn with nuts packed in a tin designed by Scouts.

Scouts will be taking door-to-door orders in their neighborhoods. For more information, persons may call the Scout Service Center, 301-729-1300.

LIONS CLUB NEWS

The Friendsville Lions Club held its regular meeting on January 13 at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant, with President Marlin Lawson presiding.

Lawson presented a President's Award to Doug Bowser of Friendsville for providing a tractor-trailer and also driving it to the flood victims of the mid-west in Des Moines, Iowa.

An in-depth discussion was conducted about the acquisition of the property that was donated to the Lions Club by Drs. Don and Debbie Pepper. Several ideas for the property were discussed. The club gave a standing ovation to Bill Robinson for being "instrumental" in the acquisition of the Pepper property.

The next meeting will be held at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant at 6:30 p.m. on January 27. All members are urged to attend.

PERSONALS

Visitors of Miss Lucille Eike during the week were: Ms. Jane Fox, Mrs. Mary Frantz, and Ms. Jane Garlets.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Conn, Confluence, Pa., were Sunday callers of her mother, Ms. Grace Hook.

Jamey Ryan and Mrs. Victor Selby and family, Bruceton, W.Va., Mrs. Cathy Cherry, Ms. Ethel McCrobie, and Mrs. Patty Schmidt were visitors during the week of Ms. Ocie Rush.

Mr. and Mrs. David Martin and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Evans, Oakland, and Dr. and Mrs.

Oakland Aglow Meeting Canceled

The Oakland Chapter of Women's Aglow has canceled its meeting scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 22.

The date for the February meeting will be published in a future issue of The Republican.

All local women are invited to join the group. For more information, persons may call 387-9352.

Sierra Club To Hear Dr. Skelly

The Sierra Club invites everyone concerned with the health of Appalachian forests to its January meeting. Dr. John Skelly, Department of Plant Pathology, Pennsylvania State University's College of Agricultural Sciences, will talk about his research on foliar symptoms of eastern hardwood species caused by ground level ozone.

According to a club spokesperson, ground level ozone is Maryland's primary air quality problem. It is a precursor to smog and causes breathing difficulty and respiratory damage in humans.

Dr. Skelly will also talk about "Trust in Science - Where have all the diagnostics gone?"

The Sierra Club especially invites all members of the wood products industry to attend and learn about the effects of air pollutants to forests and forest productivity. The meeting will be held Tuesday, January 25, at 7:30 p.m. in Guild 104, Frostburg State University. The meeting is free and open to the public. Refreshments will follow. Persons may call Louis Bernstein, 777-3212, for further information.

DNR Announces Seedlings Now Available For Sale

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service has announced that persons may now purchase tree seedlings for planting this spring. DNR's Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery in Harman has seedlings for sale to private landowners for delivery in March or April. The seedlings from the state nursery are available primarily for planting for reforestation, windbreaks, wildlife habitat improvement, and for erosion control.

White pine seedlings are offered for sale to Christmas tree growers in limited quantities, after all reforestation orders have been satisfied. The species available this year for planting are white pine 2-0, Norway spruce, white spruce, hybrid poplar, bicolor lespedeza, black locust, gray dogwood, red osier dogwood, silky dogwood, redbud, crabapple, sawtooth oak, white ash, green ash, white oak, red oak, and black cherry. The price range is $7.50 to $30 per 100 seedlings.

The conifers (pine and spruce) may be bought in multiples of 50 to make up the minimum order of 250 seedlings. The hardwoods may be bought in multiples of 25 to make up the 100 seedling minimum. Landowners can also place orders for wildlife packets now. Each wildlife packet consists of two seedlings of each of the following species: white pine, bicolor lespedeza, crabapple, and sawtooth oak. The wildlife packets are $4 per packet, with a five-packet minimum, without an additional seedling order, and a 10-packet maximum. Wildlife packets are available to service organizations for resale in bundles of 50 packets at $2 per packet.

All seedlings and wildlife packets are offered for sale on a first come, first served basis. Landowners interested in purchasing seedlings for planting this spring can contact the DNR Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo at 301-334-3296 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, or write to DNR Forest Service, Mt. Nebo Work Center, Route 6, Box 1990, Oakland, MD 21550.

As an additional service, the nursery has installed an 800 number, so landowners can contact the nursery directly. The number is 1-800-TREESMD.

The nursery will accept payment by MasterCard and Visa.

Scout Cookie Sale Underway

The annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale got underway locally on Saturday and will continue through February 7, according to Betty Wolford and Pam Masters, service unit managers. Orders will be taken by the scouts now and the cookies will be delivered in March.

The price of the cookies is $2.50 per box, which is the same price as last year's. There are seven varieties available, including: Chalel Cakes, Sam-oas, Thin Mints, Do-Si-Dos, Juliettes, Tagalongs, and Trefoils. The new cookie is the Juliette, which is a caramel pecan cookie with a fudge coating.

The annual cookie sale is the only major fundraising event for the Girl Scouts. Monies collected through the effort go toward funding troop activities as well as to the recruitment and training of leaders. The funds raised in the cookie sale also help in the effort to give girls access to the opportunity of being a Girl Scout, a spokesperson explained.

Persons not contacted by a local scout but who wish to purchase cookies may contact Mrs. Masters at 746-4129, or Mrs. Wolford at 334-9521.

PE Asks

ported Susan Tuckwell, Potomac Edison's director of customer relations.

Potomac Edison reached a record 2,465 megawatt hours at 7 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 15. This new peak exceeded the previous one of 2,233 megawatt hours set Feb. 19, 1993.

The Allegheny Power System also set a record on Jan. 15 of 7,110 megawatt hours, following continuing high loads during the frigid weather. The new APS peak exceeds by approximately six-and-a-half percent the previous peak of 6,678 megawatt hours established Feb. 19, 1993. An even higher peak was expected to be set on Tuesday evening.

Potomac Edison emphasizes that this is a temporary situation created by the extreme weather conditions now affecting most of the eastern part of the country.

During this period of extremely cold weather, customers are asked to:

- *Turn off all unneeded electrical appliances and lighting including outdoor flood lighting.
- *If possible, lower heating system thermostat settings to lowest safe setting. Special care should be taken to protect the elderly and the ill who are susceptible to hypothermia.

*Defer use of dishwasher, clothes dryer, and water heating where possible.

*Generally, conserve as much electricity as possible

Lakers Crush Frederick For 12th Victory

The Garrett Community College Lakers coasted to their 12th win in 15 games Saturday in defeating visiting Frederick Community College, 99-72.

The Lakers, whose JUCO record is now 7-2, were to have hosted nationally ranked Hagerstown Junior College last night, but the game had to be postponed because of weather conditions.

Oliver Jones, who played just 21 minutes, led the Lakers in scoring against Frederick with 22 points, while Shane Scott finished with a 17-point performance which included three straight three-point buckets. He also recorded seven assists and four steals, while Wes Tubbs finished with 15 points and a team-high 10 rebounds.

Garrett took control of the contest early and held a commanding 45-21 lead at halftime.

The reason Jones played only 21 minutes is because he was ejected from the game for fighting, after he was reportedly kicked by a Frederick player. According to the rules, Jones will have

Soccer Assoc. Meeting Slated

The Mountaintop Soccer Association will hold its January executive meeting on Monday, Jan. 24, at 4:30 p.m. at Ruth Enlow Library, Main Branch (Oakland). The snow date will be the following Monday, at the same time and same place. Officers from Southern and Northern areas are urged to attend to begin planning spring activities.

Northern Girls Edged, 44-40, By Allegany

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team dropped a 44-40 decision to Allegany Saturday afternoon on the Campers' floor. It was the fifth straight win for Allegany, while the Huskies dropped to 3-2 on the season.

Northern's Elida Schofield was the only player on either team to reach double figures, as she pumped in 17 points. Lisa Stephens finished with nine points and Stephanie Kamp netted six.

The Campers held the lead at the ends of the first three quarters of action, 8-4, 21-17, and 35-25, before the Huskies out-scored the home team in the final stanza, 15-9.

Tina Welch led the Campers in scoring with nine points. Becca Wagoner and Jenny Twigg each scored eight points, and Wagoner also grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked five shots.

After having a number of games postponed because of weather conditions, the next regularly scheduled contest for the Huskies is Monday at Fort Hill, followed by a game at Flintstone next Wednesday.

DNR Announces Successful Fall Turkey Season

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that despite some unpleasant weather in Garrett County this autumn, turkey hunters enjoyed a successful fall turkey season, which ran from Nov. 5-10 from Interstate 81 west through Garrett County.

The DNR Wildlife Division's prediction of 370-400 turkeys was surpassed, with a reported hunter take of 427 turkeys. This is the second highest take on record. The record harvest occurred in 1987 with 580 turkeys.

This year, Allegany County reported a harvest of 227; Garrett County reported 162; and Washington County reported 38. Compared to 1992, Allegany County was up 65 birds, while Garrett County was down six and Washington County was down two.

Hunting pressure estimated by standard count routes was down slightly in Western Maryland. However, on the first day in Allegany County, more cars were counted this fall than in 1992. It is likely that hunting pressure may have been reduced because of inclement weather, Dr. Brown said.

The 1993 fall turkey harvest increase can most likely be attributed to unusually large poul production, he said. The harvest of 427 is 146 birds over the 15-year average harvest of 281, which is a significant increase.

Record Deer Muzzleloader Season Noted

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that Maryland muzzleloader deer hunters enjoyed a record-breaking 1993-94 season that began on Dec. 18 and ended Jan. 1.

The DNR Wildlife Division's preliminary survey of deer check-in stations indicated that 5,096 deer were killed during the two-week season, the highest total on record. The previous record kill was 4,743, recorded in 1991.

Garrett County led the state with a harvest of 757, although the number was down considerably from last year's 1,058. The kill in Allegany County was 716.

Check-in stations reported last month that 33,581 deer were killed by hunters during the two-week firearms season, the third highest total on record. Statewide totals for the firearms season could have been higher this year, but weather on the first day caused the number of deer harvested to be lower than expected, Dr. Brown said.

"Hunting is an essential element of sound deer management, being the only efficient and effective method of controlling deer populations. Each year, deer hunting in Maryland provides more than one million man-days of wholesome recreational activity and generates some $66 million in direct economic benefits," Brown said.

"Additionally, by maintaining deer populations at levels commensurate with habitat and human limitations, hunters provide a great service to the state," he said.

The final results of the muzzleloader season will not be determined until the information of the combined bow, firearms, and muzzleloader seasons are collected later this winter.

Ski For Heart Date Announced By Heart Assoc.

Officials of the American Heart Association -- Western Maryland Division, recently announced the Ninth Annual Ski for Heart will be held Saturday, Feb. 26, at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. Registration will be held from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. that day at the American Heart Association sign-up booth located on the lower floor.

"Ski for Heart is a special event designed to acquaint individuals with the cardiovascular benefits of skiing while raising money for the American Heart Association's research and educational programs," said Vicki Naliborski, chairman of the Ski for Heart Committee and owner/operator of Interior Collections. "The event is fun and easy."

Angie Bosley, of Bosley Construction, Oakland, co-chairman for the Ski for Heart event, added that an individual becomes a participant by obtaining a donation from individual sponsors. These donations are collected up front and turned in at the registration desk the day of the event. Skiers will then be eligible for prizes provided by Rudy's Ski Shop and the Wisp Resort.

In addition to the regular prizes, skiers will be eligible for grand prizes if they raise more than $350 in pledge donations. The grand prizes include a season lift pass to the Wisp, donated by the Wisp Resort, and two free ski tune-ups, donated by Rudy's Ski Shop.

All Ski for Heart participants having at least $5 in pledge donations will receive discounts on lift passes and ski rental, including boots, bindings, skis and poles.

"There is a twilight event this year," stated Naliborski. "The twilight ski allows you to ski from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. for a discounted price of $15 for adults and $10 for children. All participants can rent ski equipment for $7."

Skiers are reminded that Ski for Heart is not a race, and that participants should follow the skiers' responsibility code.

For more information on Ski for Heart, persons may call the AHA Allegany County Branch Office at (301) 724-4011 or the Garrett County Branch Office at 1-800-734-3769.

Registration For Casselman Valley Soccer Scheduled

After completing its first year by involving 130 youth on nine different teams in the game of soccer, the Casselman Valley American Youth Soccer Organization is planning its second season registration. Players will be registered this Saturday, January 22, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Monday, January 24, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall.

Parents may register any child, boy or girl, aged 4½ to 18 years. Parents must bring their children to sign forms, size them for uniforms, and become acquainted with the organization.

During registration, parents are also encouraged to volunteer as a coach, team parent, referee, and/or managing concessions. Registration costs are $15 per child for the first child in each family, and $14 for each additional child. Candy will be handed out to sell as a fund-raiser to help pay for equipment needs. Awards for highest candy sales will be given at the team meetings in February.

The American Youth Soccer Organization does not have tryouts and/or cuts. Teams are composed evenly according to ability, and every player is in the game for at least a half.

Dr. Pope Winner Of CC Ski Race At Alpine Lake

Dr. William Pope, Mtn. Lake Park, was the winner of the Allegheny Nordic Series cross-country ski race, held January 8 at Alpine Lake near Terra Alta, W. Va.

Pope won a cross-country ski package at Alpine Lake. Bill Aspinall, Oakland, placed second in the event and was awarded $50 cash, donated by Preston Memorial Hospital.

The third place finisher was Barry Tuscano, Bolivar, Pa., who won a set of downhill or cross-country poles from the Alpine Lake Ski Shop, plus a 12-pack of Coca Cola, donated by the Get-N-Go Market.

GOOD MOVIES

BY BEVERLY ROBIN

TOMBSTONE

Hollywood Pictures; directed by George P. Cosmatos; starring Kurt Russell, Val Kilmer, Sam Elliott, Michael Biehn, Powers Boothe, Dana Delaney, Stephen Lang and Bill Paxton.

After the politically correct uplift of Dances With Wolves and the stark, grim realism of Unforgiven, it is clear that westerns can revitalize themselves in many dynamic directions. Tombstone tries for too many at once and, in the process, loses its sense of focus.

The film's original director Kevin Jarre is great on period details and archival research. Tombstone's saloons and theaters overflow with pseudo-elegant Victorian boomtown grandeur even as drunken cowboys shoot up their shows. The famed OK Corral gunfight comes not as the film's climax but about halfway through, just as it occurred at about the middle of Wyatt Earp's life.

The Earp brothers are shown arriving in silver-mining Tombstone with their wives to make a financial killing and to leave the bloodshed of their peace officer days behind Wyatt (Kurt Russell) is particularly reluctant to pick up the badge again, even when bros Virgil (Sam Elliott) and Morgan (Bill Paxton) realize that the town can't be fit for living in until its vicious gangs are controlled.

Wyatt's tug of war between civilizing and vengeful impulses form the film's moral crux, complicated by his lustful attraction to a seductive actress (Dana Delaney in a lustreless portrayal).

Russell's Earp is intense, earnest and seething. It never seems too surprising when he cuts loose with a bloodbath or two, despite his protestations against killing to preserve order. His performance has a quiet, world-weary strength.

Not so Val Kilmer as Earp's poetic, consumptive best friend Doc Holliday. With his classical piano-playing, wry self-mockery, subtle sadism, and duelling ability (with Latin as well as pistols), Doc's every scene is a lively (if stylized) pleasure to watch. And with all his collapses and coughing up of blood, you are grateful that he lasts as long as he does.

The supporting Earp brothers are solid as you would anticipate. Their wives seem to be 19th-century precursors of interchangeable Barbie dolls. The villains (called "Cowboys" and identifiable by their red sashes) are the usual nasty assortment, with the exception of the intellectual Johnny Ringo (Michael Biehn) who acts as a foil to Doc. You can't tell the bad guys by the body count they rack up, because the Earps, under director of record Cosmatos, seem to easily match them. The film overall has a patched-together feel.

Tombstone is not one of the great ones, and it could go much farther in examining its hero as a symbol of the ambiguities in the American character. Strip it of its pretensions, and its often interesting blend of shoot-em-up elements and intriguing characters can make it a film worth seeing.

Rated R for violence and profanity.

1-10 Rating: 6. Wyatt Earp and his brothers come to Tombstone hoping to put their law enforcing days behind them, but a gang of desperados sucks them right back in.

Rural U.S. Should Be Vigilant In Health Care Debate

Rural Americans should arm themselves with knowledge about how the health care proposals will affect them, advised experts at the annual meeting.

"The bottom line for health care reform in rural America is watch out, ask a lot of tough questions and find out the answers," said Heidi Hixon, a legislative assistant to Rep. Pat Roberts (R-Kan.). "Find out how it's going to affect rural America—not just the Clinton plan but all of the proposals" because there is a major lack of understanding of rural issues.

Dr. Merrill Matthews, director of the Center for Health Policy Studies at the National Center for Policy Analysis and also a medical ethics specialist, cited some positives in the Clinton health care proposal. He said the administration wants to include portability, so employees wouldn't lose their health insurance when they change jobs. It also would prevent cancellation of policies or increasing the premiums if the policyholder gets sick. Also, it advocates using other health care providers such as physician assistants and nurse practitioners in rural areas.

Problems with the Clinton plan center on its calls for price controls, global budgets and managed care. "Price controls and global budgets are simply an attempt to try to keep providers from raising their prices," he said. "Managed care will in essence be someone looking over your shoulder and your physicians' shoulders to tell you what you need and what you can have." Also, the Clinton plan is largely "an urban solution to an urban problem created by urban people," Matthews said. "It was never intended to be an answer for rural people."

Matthews said the concept of medical savings accounts would incorporate several needed reforms into health care. Such as approach is included in about 11 health care proposals now before Congress, and is gaining support.

With medical savings accounts, "people would have a source of money for health care, but it would be their money causing them to be more prudent health care shoppers," he said. "Employees would own their own health insurance policy, and the federal government would stay out of health care."

Another component of a health care plan should be equal tax breaks for all, whether self-employed, unemployed or employed, Matthews said. Currently the self-employed get to deduct 25 percent of their health care premiums.

Hixon said the House Rural Health Care Coalition, chaired by Roberts and Rep. Charlie Stenholm (D-Tex.) and made up of about 151 members, is aimed at addressing the unique health care problems faced by rural Americans.

The latest buzzword in Congress is managed competition, she said. "Well, we don't really have the competition in rural America," she said. "We may have one doctor in three counties. Access—getting people the care they need—is a big concern."

Emergency care, equitable reimbursement for rural Medicare providers, and incentives to attract physicians to rural areas are other concerns.

Maryland Hog Inventory Down

The inventory of all hogs and pigs in Maryland was estimated at 170,000 head on December 1, 1993. This is almost six percent less than the 180,000 on hand a year earlier. The breeding inventory of 29,000 head was 1,000 fewer than a year earlier.

The number of market hogs on Maryland farms was 141,000; a decline of 9,000 from the year before. All weight classes had from 1,000 to 4,000 fewer pigs on hand on December 1, 1993 compared with a year ago.

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Kleckner Named AFBF President, Policy Adopted

At the American Farm Bureau Federation's diamond anniversary meeting, Iowa farmer Dean R. Kleckner was elected to his fifth two-year term as president of the organization.

Georgia Farm Bureau President T.M. "Mort" Ewing, a hay, small grains and cattle producer from Covington, Ga., was elected vice president. Ewing succeeds South Carolina Farm Bureau President Harry Bell, who served as AFBF vice president since 1986.

In policy action delegates expressed numerous concerns about environmental issues, began discussions on the 1995 farm bill and addressed problems associated with last summer's floods.

The delegates said they would like to see the consideration of "new concepts" in the 1995 farm bill, including the combination of "present farm programs, federal crop insurance and disaster programs." The new concepts should "allow the market" to send "accurate economic signals" to producers.

Delegates said they want new agriculture policies that ensure a stable, safe and nutritious food supply; continue to improve the environment through voluntary measures; minimize world hunger; enhance the international competitiveness of U.S. agriculture; and encourage economic development in rural areas.

While reaffirming their call to eliminate all "agricultural crop-specific federal disaster programs" in favor of crop insurance, delegates said that producers should not be required, however, to obtain crop insurance because of their participation in a federal disaster program.

The Farm Bureau members said they favor an "enhanced and extended" 092-type program for farmers who suffered flood damage in 1993 that left their land untillable.

The delegates expressed strong support for the Clinton administration's 30 percent ethanol mandate proposal and vowed to oppose any effort to overturn the proposal or to reduce the role of ethanol in reformulated gas.

Farm Bureau members expressed support for the concept of a "dairy self-help" proposal, which would provide a sensible and fair alternative to the budget reconciliation levies against milk producers.

Delegates said renewal of original 10-year conservation reserve program contracts should be a priority, with existing contract holders retaining the option to rebid once their contracts expire.

The CRP program should "provide flexibility for producers to incorporate limited production of conserving crops or other flexible management plans in exchange for reduced payment rates," they said.

On USDA reorganization, the delegates said they supported the establishment of a single farm service agency to administer programs that directly serve farmers and ranchers, including conservation activities. The delegates favored USDA retaining control of programs including meat inspection.

They called, however, for a thorough review and cost-savings actions at the agency's federal Washington headquarters before considering the closure of county offices.

They said that "every possible consideration" should be given to the continued availability of service to farmers before county offices are closed, and where possible all local USDA services should be located in the same building.

The local committee system to oversee Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and Soil Conservation Service (SCS) programs should also be expanded, and those committees should consist of farmers "elected by local farmers," the delegates said.

SCS should remain an agency within USDA and its role should be to provide "technical assistance and education." Delegates said conservation programs should be administered locally and include economic incentives and education programs.

In addressing environmental issues, the Farm Bureau delegate body voted to press for exempting land that has been cropped for six out of 10 years from wetlands requirements. While urging improved delineation of wetlands, the body also voiced its support for voluntary efforts to achieve wetlands restoration if private property rights are protected and economic growth is enhanced.

The delegates also called for a general permit under section 404 for agricultural land-clearing activities and reaffirmed their support for the protection of states' rights in clean water decisions.

"The Clean Water Act should require the Environmental Protection Agency to conduct a cost-benefit analysis before imposing any additional regulatory proposals," the delegates declared.

The delegate body expressed concern that clean water legislation be directed specifically to achieve water quality standards and not be used to pursue biological diversity goals. The farm group also declared its opposition to a national biological survey.

The delegates said the Endangered Species Act should not be reauthorized in its present form. They also said any party seeking an endangered species injunction should be required to post bond to cover the potential damage suffered by an affected landowner, the delegates declared.

Addressing last year's flooding problems, the delegates urged a national flood insurance program. They cited the need to deal with problems associated with levees designed to contain a 50-year flood.

Addressing public lands issues, the delegates called for a grazing fee based on an economic formula that reflects added costs incurred by public land permit holders.

In other actions the delegate body:

--Voiced its opposition to any value-added tax and any fuel taxes not associated with road improvements.

--Urged that the North American Free Trade Agreement be monitored to assure that it is properly enforced.

--Opposed emissions requirements on farm implements.

--Favored the indexing of estate taxes for inflation.

--Asked the federal government to pay damages for crop and other losses from wildlife.

--Voiced strong opposition to any new laws mandating specific livestock practices.

--Said if best management practices (BMPs) are required in clean water programs, they should be voluntary, flexible and established on the local level.

South Carolina Farm Bureau President Harry Bell was named to a two-year term on the AFBF Board of Directors, as were state Farm Bureau presidents Norma O'Leary, Conn.; Bob Vice, Calif.; William Sprague, Ky.; Robert Stallman, Texas; and Al Christopherson, Minn. Board members re-elected were Merlin Plagge, Iowa; Doyle Rahjes, Kan.; Wayne Ashworth, Va.; Don Waller, Miss.; Andrew Whisenand, Ark.; and Keith Eckel, Pa.

In other actions, Berta Lee White of Bailey, Miss. and Richard Owens of Salt Lake City, Utah were both honored with the AFBF Distinguished Service Award for their many years of service and dedication to the organization.

Maxine Arcy, of Mt. Solon, Va., was elected to chair the Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee.

Four members of the AFBF women's committee whose terms had expired were re-elected for another two years. They are Betty DeWitt, S.C.; Leona Dell, Md.; Margene Harris, N.M.; and Pat Baldwin, Ohio.

Roger and Susan May, of Oberlin, Kan., won the YF&R Achievement Award competition and received a new Dodge 3500 4x4 pickup.

Ken Studer, of Tro, Ohio, won the AFBF's Farmer Idea Exchange and received one year's free use of a new Ford New Holland Genesis tractor.

EPA Renewable Fuels Proposal Boosts Ethanol

An announcement last week by the Environmental Protection Agency fell short of creating a direct role for ethanol in the Clean Air Act's reformulated gasoline program, but a supplemental EPA proposal is designed to give the renewable, grain-based fuel additive a significant portion of the clean fuels market.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner expressed support for the proposal, saying that it "shows promise in creating a meaningful role for ethanol and other renewable fuels in this program." The performance standard requiring that at least 30 percent of the oxygenates blended with gasoline come from renewable sources is "good for farmers, the environment and the overall economy."

According to Kleckner, the supplemental proposal likely would result in ethanol gaining a significant share of the clean fuels market in the winter months, while the ethanol derivative ETBE would be used in the summer. The clean fuel requirements would be put in place in the nation's nine smoggiest cities by 1995.

"While the EPA announcements were not perfect, the supplemental proposal mandating the use of renewable additives will provide America's farmers expanded participation in the nation's clean air efforts," he said. "America's farmers have always believed that the use of ethanol benefits the environment—a belief supported by recent research.

"Since grain-based ethanol and ethanol derivatives make up the majority of renewable fuel additives, this is particularly good news for grain farmers."

If the supplemental measure is ultimately implemented as proposed, it would significantly increase the use of ethanol. Under the proposal, the use of ethanol-blended fuels would likely increase more than 60 percent in the next five years and would comprise nearly 12 percent of the U.S. gasoline fuel supply.

This new opportunity for ethanol will create American jobs and provide a significant boost to the overall economy," Kleckner said. "Currently, ethanol contributes about $1 billion a year to the farm economy alone, and that would probably increase by at least another $600 million over the next five years."

Increasing the use of renewable, smog-reducing ethanol also would reduce America's dependence on foreign oil, which would help agriculture further reduce the nation's trade deficit."

U.S. Hog Inventory Down Two Percent

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on December 1, 1993, was $6.8 million head. This was two percent below December 1992 and four percent below the September 1, 1993, inventory.

Breeding inventory, at 7.03 million head was down one percent from both December 1, 1992, and September 1, 1993. Market hog inventory, at 49.8 million head was two percent below December 1, 1992, and four percent below September 1, 1993.

The September-November 1993 U.S. pig crop was 22.9 million head, five percent less than 1992 and down two percent from the same period in 1991. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 2.85 million head, down five percent from last year and four percent below two years ago. Pigs saved per litter was 8.05 for the period which tied the record set during September-November 1992.

U.S. producers intend to have 2.85 million sows farrow during the December 1993-February 1994 quarter, two percent more than the actual farrowings during the same period last year but two percent below 1992. Intended farrowings for March-May 1994 at 3.11 million sows are three percent below 1993 and down eight percent from the 1992 period.

Russia Settles Overdue Debt Payments

Russia made its final $147.4 million installment at the end of the year to settle its overdue payments under USDA's export credit program. The settlement of $450 million, due under a debt rescheduling arranged in 1993, was necessary before the USDA could consider Russia for any new export credit advances.

USDA is still considering whether to extend more credit to the Russians, who say they prefer to use cash to buy additional U.S. grain and other commodities. By law, USDA can make loans to countries it considers credit-worthy and able to repay the loans. Russia faces another $1.7 billion in payments on past loans that come due in 1994.

from the hot water heater and from toilet storage tanks. Water from a heating system is usually unfit for dining or other household use. Have on hand a supply of clean containers with caps for this purpose. One gallon plastic or glass (Food Grade) containers can be used.

Toilets

If the water supply is shut off, elimination of human waste will become a problem. Toilets require approximately 5-7 gallons of water every flush. Even when pipes do not have to be drained to prevent freezing, restrict the number of times the toilet is flushed. Disconnect the chain or lever attached to the toilet to prevent accidental flushes and instruct users to put toilet paper into covered containers. Flush only often enough to prevent clogging. An alternative might be to purchase a portable camper's toilet.

Protecting Plumbing From Freezing

Drain water pipes if they will be exposed to freezing temperatures. First, shut off the water service valve which is usually located in the basement next to the water system pressure tank, or where the municipal supply line enters the structure. Open all the faucets and close the water inlet valve on all toilets. Now open the drain or the valve at the lowest point in the system to let the water out.

Drain all endangered pipes, including inoperative boilers and hot water heating pipes in rooms that will not receive emergency heat. Familiarize yourself with your plumbing layout in advance so that you can drain the pipes quickly and thoroughly. It may be necessary to install additional valves to drain only part of the system. Another option would be to add potable antifreeze to unprotected pipes.

After the pipes are drained, water will still remain in traps under sinks, tubs and showers and in toilet bowls. A cup of automobile antifreeze can be placed in each of these traps to prevent freezing.

If hot water tanks are to be drained, shut off the heat source (gas, electric or oil) to prevent an explosion from steam buildup. When the main water shutoff valve is closed, hot water tanks must be vented to the atmosphere before a free flow of water can be obtained from the drain valve. Most tanks can be vented to drain by a faucet on the hot water line; others may require disconnecting the hot water line from the tank. Know your system and its requirements for obtaining water from the tank.

Lighting

Have a readily accessible supply of candles, matches (dry), and at least one kerosene lamp or lantern with ample fuel. You should also have a dependable flashlight with spare bulbs and batteries. If these materials are used when there is no emergency, they should immediately be replenished. Be aware of the dangers of emergency lighting devices and instruct all members of the family in the requirements for safe use.

Do not use any kerosene lamp that leaks or otherwise operates improperly. Hang or place on a substantial support. An accidentally knocked over lamp or lantern may start a large fire. Keep them out of the wind, away from combustible materials and protected from damage or disturbance. Do not hang a lamp or lantern above a stove, as the kerosene in the reservoir may overheat and produce vapors that cause flaring.

Refill lamps outdoors or away from combustibles. Never fill the reservoir while the burner is lit or when there is an open flame or other possible source of ignition nearby. Be sure that the wick is properly sized; as a wick which is too narrow may permit contact between the flame and the vapor above the oil in the reservoir. This could result in an explosion.

When lighting or relighting a kerosene lamp, always grasp the lamp chimney at the base for removal. Above the flame, chimneys get hot very rapidly and can cause severe burns. To extinguish a kerosene lamp, first turn the wick down slightly and then blow out the flame from over the top of the chimney.

Food

Food will keep in home freezers, after they are shut off, for varying lengths of time, depending upon the amount and type of food, the temperature at which the food is kept and the construction of the freezer unit. Open the door as little as possible. Cover the freezer with layers of blankets to prevent thawing of the food if the room temperature is above freezing.

Stored food such as canned goods, fruits and vegetables in root cellars, and other staples with prove useful if you are isolated from normal access to grocery stores. Freeze dried meals used by campers are excellent foods which can be prepared with a minimum of heat.

During a power outage it may be necessary to improvise equipment for heating water or for cooking and cleaning. Wood or coal stoves are versatile in that they function as cook stoves as well as space heaters. Canned heat and catalytic burners usually may be used safely indoors. Fireplaces can also be used for cooking.

If you have used another unique method to make it through a cold weather spell, please share it.

FSU Chemistry Students Among Most Successful

The chemistry department at Frostburg State University fought hard last year when the University of Maryland Board of Regents proposed a discontinuation of that major. After all, they said, while the numbers may be low, the quality is high. Approximately 36 percent of the chemistry graduates have gone on to earn doctoral degrees from major, highly competitive universities.

"The quality of our program is illustrated by the high number of graduates that pursue post-baccalaureate degrees," said Dr. Paul Hunt, chair of the chemistry department. "That was a critical factor in having the program retained. Also, many schools don't offer chemistry majors and there is a critical national need for scientists and science educators."

He also stressed that the chemistry major fulfills the needs of regional students pointing out that over 60 percent of those pursuing doctoral degrees were residents of Allegany, Garrett, or Washington counties.

But now, a further study released by the University of Maryland System (UMS) shows that, not only does FSU's chemistry department produce a high number of PhD candidates, but so does the university as a whole.

According to a report gathered with data from the National Science Foundation, Frostburg was second only to University of Maryland College Park in the percent of undergraduates that successfully pursue doctoral degrees.

The information compared the number of baccalaureates awarded in 1974-78 at each UMS member institution to the number of doctorate degrees awarded from 1987-1991.

Frostburg checked in at 2.5 degrees per hundred, the highest in the peer group selected by the NSF. CASPAR data base which included several institutions of the State University of New York (SUNY) system and the University of Michigan, Dearborn. College Park and three doctorate degrees awarded per hundred baccalaureate.

"This is a wonderful illustration of the quality of the faculty members here at FSU," said Dr. Constance McGovern, provost and vice president of academic affairs. "Our faculty members are often mentors for our students, encouraging them to go further with their education."

Because the study did not include degrees in the professional fields such as medicine, dentistry, and law, Dr. McGovern also believes the faculty members serve as role models.

"Students in class are saying, 'I want to be that man or woman.' It may be an unconscious effort on the part of the faculty member, but they are showing the student you can do this as a profession."

Christopher Judge, an FSU mathematics major ('86) who was recently awarded a postdoctoral fellowship at the prestigious Institute of Advanced Study in Princeton, New Jersey, believes that the educational foundation built during his undergraduate years played an important role. Even though he feels there were "higher expectations" in his graduate work at the University of Maryland at College Park, he says he "fell right in step with my peers and did not miss a beat."

"FSU provided me with an excellent undergraduate education," he said.

Judge is one of 160 current "members" of the Institute who were chosen from over 1,000 applicants representing universities and research institutions throughout the world. The faculty of the Institute has included some of the world's most renowned scholars, such as John von Neumann and Albert Einstein.

RARE AND VALUABLE SODA-FOUNTAIN
COLLECTIBLES

Soda-fountain collectibles are in more demand than ever, and the dispensers used to serve drinks at the fountain are of special interest to collectors. They used pumps, faucets or simple ladles to serve the drinks. Many were made about 1900 before drugstores had built-in soda fountains. Later examples, often in attractive figural shapes, were made to be kept on a counter. Fruit drinks were often served from oversized orange-, lemon- or lime-shaped dispensers. Other drinks were served from ball-shaped holders marked "Cherry Smash" or "Liberty Root Beer."

Some of the oldest dispensers were cylinders marked with a name and art work. A few rare dispensers were made by manufacturers of art pottery. The most expensive dispensers are those with the most elaborate shapes or those made for the major drinks that are still being sold. Early Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, Hires Root Beer, Dr. Pepper dispensers are some of the rarities that have been sold for over $25,000 each.

Q. I have been trying to learn about a set of dessert spoons I bought in Portland, Ore., a few years ago. The spoons are marked "Montana Gold Company" and are in a box with a ribbon on the top marked "Simon Bank." The state of Montana has no registration for a company named Montana Gold Company. The Simon Bank was in Butte City, Mont., in 1896. Can you help?

A. Perhaps we can suggest another place to look for your spoons' history. Simon Bank was a jeweler and watchmaker in Butte in the late 1890s. Many stores imported silver and silver plate from England. The name "Montana Gold" sounds very American but it could be a mark used by an English silver-plate company. "Montana Silver" was a trade name used by Collings and Wallis of Birmingham, England, in the late 19th century.

The gold-colored metal of your spoons suggests that the word "gold" instead of "silver" was used as a trademark for your unusual metal spoons. Have a local antiques dealer or jeweler test the spoons to determine whether they are silver, plated white metal or copper. Then check on the English and American trade names.

Identify your antique. Go to the library and learn who made it, what it is worth, how it was made. Our leaflet tells you how to find the right books and how to use the computer networks and interlibrary loans. Send $1 and a long, self-addressed, double-stamped envelope to: How To Use the Library, Kovel, P.O. Box 22900, Beachwood, Ohio 44122. If requested on library stationery, we will send the leaflet free of charge.

Pet Care

by Cleo & Brad Conrad

Q. Last year, I adopted a 2-year-old male (neutered) cat from a shelter. I already had a 4-year-old female (also neutered). The new cat had lived his entire life in a shelter and is still very timid. To make things worse, the female bullies him. She won't let him eat until she's eaten. If he's on my lap, she gives him a look if she wants him to jump off, etc., etc. I feel so bad for the little guy. I feel he'll never really get out of his shell if she keeps doing this. Should I try to find her another home? Maybe she resents him and would be happier anyway.

A. You are attributing human qualities to the cats. While you may feel she's making him unhappy and is unhappy herself, what's going on is completely natural to both cats. She is the dominant female and she is exercising her authority. Believe me, both cats are fine with this. Try not to let it upset you. In time, you'll realize they're acting just the way they're both supposed to.

Home Tips

COFFEE FILTERS — Recently I was repotting some small houseplants and found a new way to keep fresh potting soil from washing into the pot saucers.

Inserting a coffee filter in the unfilled flower pot first will hold the dirt in while allowing for proper drainage after the pot is filled.

Elizabeth J., Houston, Texas

FIRE PREVENTION — Regarding safety precautions when barbecuing outdoors, it's a good idea to keep a box of baking soda handy in case any grease catches fire. One can't be too careful. Jeannine T., Santa Fe, N.M.

CUPCAKES FOR TWO — I love sweet potato casserole, but my favorite recipe makes too much for just the two of us. I tried cutting the recipe down but it didn't work well. So, I came up with the idea of making a batch and freezing it.

I place cupcake papers into a muffin pan and fill each one with casserole. When they are frozen, I take them out, wrap in a freezer safe paper, label and put them back in the freezer for later use. It works great for us. Amanda B., Boutte, La.

EASY REMOVAL — To remove skin from uncooked chicken pieces, I use a dry terry washcloth. The skin

Governor Schaefer Unveils Agenda For Approaching Legislative Session

Governor William Donald Schaefer last week unveiled a 27-bill legislative package to the General Assembly, stressing a commitment to reducing crime and continuing his hallmark programs emphasizing prevention. The governor, delivering his eighth State of the State address to a joint session of the legislature, pushed for continued advances in health, education, public safety, and good government to cap the previous seven years of accomplishments that he says have touched every region of the state.

"Talk to Marylanders, and they'll tell you they want the same things," the governor told legislators. "They want to be safe, on streets and in their homes. They want good health, free of disease and the threat of AIDS. They want a job, to provide for their families. And most want better opportunities for their children."

Governor Schaefer's legislative priorities propose what he calls "reasonable" gun control measures, including bans on assault pistols and 20-round magazines, and a one-gun-a-month restriction on regulated firearms. He also proposed creation of a DNA data bank to help police solve crimes, and pushed measures to crack down on vehicle theft, underage drinking, and insurance fraud. His package includes a Constitutional Amendment to protect crime victims' rights, and an overhaul of Maryland's death penalty statute to reduce lengthy state appeals.

Continuing his prevention theme, and noting that smoking-related diseases are a serious public health problem, Schaefer proposed a 25-cent increase in the cigarette excise tax to discourage smoking, especially among young Marylanders. The tax, raising an estimated $70 million next year, would be dedicated in the fiscal year 1995 budget to increase spending on educational, preventive health, and local aid programs. The increase would provide:

*$25 million for a "Mandate Relief" effort for local government to spend as they wish for mandated programs.

*$24 million for school, implementing part of the Task Force on School Funding recommendations for poverty grants, incentive grants, grants for students with limited English, and expanding the pre-kindergarten program.

*$13 million to fund the expansion in the Developmentally Disabled program approved by the legislature last year to provide community services for the disabled.

*$7 million to finance a new school for disruptive students, expand scholarship opportunities and help the elderly, homeless and the poor.

The governor's focus on children and families includes legislation streamlining adoption proceedings, expanding the state's authority to collect child support, and creating a separate family division in five county circuit courts to handle domestic issues. Schaefer also proposed a pilot welfare reform program, to be implemented in three counties, that emphasizes responsibility and requires recipients to look for work while receiving benefits.

In education, the governor proposes a non-residential school for disruptive students, targeted education aid increases, and pilot year-round school schedules.

To stimulate job creation, the governor also proposes a change in Maryland's tourism funding strategy that directs increasing sales taxes from tourism-related businesses to tourism promotion. Baltimore-Washington International Airport, coming off a banner year in 1993, would come under management of a commission to make the most of expansion plans and marketing efforts under legislation proposed by the governor.

The governor cited some specific local issues he would promote this session, including working with Baltimore city on a limited needle-exchange pilot program and proving funding for emergency response helicopters for Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore.

GOOD TASTE IN MEDICINES

Everyone prefers a pleasant feeling and pleasant smelling medication. For when we are ill, we are usually most aware of these two sensations. Somehow if the prescription does taste, smell and look good, it not only helps the body to get well, but it can help to ease the mind give a lift to the spirit and calm the emotions.

Whenever a liquid medicine is released for public use and the manufacturer has sent us our first supply, we make it a point to see what its physical properties are like before we put it on the "new drug" shelf in our prescription department. Nowadays it seems that almost everyone of them TASTES, SMELLS and LOOKS good.

DEFENSE AMIDST DANGER

Nestled among snow-laden branches is perched a defense amidst danger... a haven where God's creatures may safely hover together for warmth...where they may sleep and eat while the ravages of winter surround them. Without shelter, the spectres of death, freezing and starvation would surely conquer them. How fortunate that a kind soul knew they would need protection.

A refuge is waiting for us amidst the winds of instability that rush through our world. There we may gather to encourage one another in the warmth of God's love...to nourish our souls with the manna of sacred meditation. In 2 Corinthians 3:5 Paul proclaims, "Our sufficiency is from God."

God has provided His house as our fortress...our defense amidst danger. Paul again assures us in Romans 8:38-39, "For I am sure that neither death...nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God."

ON SETTING YOUR FACE

January 23, 1994

Background Scripture:

Luke 9:51-10:2

Devotional Reading:

Matthew 8:18-22, 9:38; 10:1-15

"When the days drew near for Him to be received up, He set His face to go to Jerusalem" (Luke 9:51).

Setting one's face is thought to have been a popular Semitic allusion to an act of deliberate resolution. The opposite of setting "his face to go to Jerusalem" would be of him to have meandered his way there. One does not go to Jerusalem by chance or luck; it takes an almost fierce resolve.

Why? Because a show-down awaited him there. Unlike his previous visits there, he knew that this time going to Jerusalem could cost him his life. To avoid Jerusalem would mean failing in his mission. His desire was not for martyrdom, but for faithfulness to the task God had given him—even if it meant sacrifice in Jerusalem.

So he had to make this commitment in the very depths of his own being. Yet, it still showed in his face.

A DELIBERATE RESOLVE
Along the way to Jerusalem, Jesus showed his followers exactly what discipleship means: setting one's face to go to Jerusalem, making a deliberate resolve that will not yield to anything or anyone that would sway us from our course. I am certain that Jesus, if he was human as we are—and he was—had to reset his face to go to Jerusalem every day on his way there, if not more often. We may be able to nail down to a specific time and place when we make our first resolve to follow Jesus, but, for most of us, it means remarking that resolve on a pretty regular basis, because along the way there are Samaritan villages that would tempt us from going on.

But I'm not at all sure that most of us want to be disciples of Jesus. For discipleship means setting our faces to go with him not to church, but to Jerusalem. It means counting the cost before we make the commitment: "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head." It means that Jesus claims our highest loyalty: "Leave the dead to bury the dead." It means focusing our life on that discipleship: "No one puts his hand to the plow and looks back..."

Maybe that is why "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few."

Our own "village of the Samaritans" is any thing or persons that tempt us to sidetrack our discipleship.

When I moved from Pennsylvania to Texas, one of the features of church life down here that was a little difficult to get used to was the Southern Methodist custom of making an invitation to Christian Discipleship at the close of each service. This is an invitation for people to publicly declare their discipleship as well as, more frequently, an opportunity for people to decide to join the local congregation. In my northeastern pastorate the invitation to join the church always followed a time of preparation in which prospective members were helped to understand the step they were proposing to make. I have come to the point where I appreciate both the pluses and minuses of both these practices.

INVITATION TO DISCIPLESHIP
But, regardless of which approach you use, I regret the popular assumption that being a Christian is synonymous with joining a church. It is not. The essence of being a Christian is the discipleship by which we follow Jesus. That discipleship usually involves being a member of a local congregation, but it is much less demanding to be a member of a church than it is to be a disciple of Christ. That also means that it is considerably easier to be a United Methodist, a Baptist, a Roman Catholic, or a Pentecostal than it is to be a Christian. If we teach Christian discipleship, we will more than likely get good church members in the bargain.

But I'm not at all sure that most of us want to be disciples of Jesus. For discipleship means setting our faces to go with him not to church, but to Jerusalem. It means counting the cost before we make the commitment: "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head." It means that Jesus claims our highest loyalty: "Leave the dead to bury the dead." It means focusing our life on that discipleship: "No one puts his hand to the plow and looks back..."

Maybe that is why "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few."

One-Half Million Bay Car License Plates Are Sold

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced this week that Maryland has sold 500,000 Chesapeake Bay license plates, raising $5 million for the Chesapeake Bay Trust and environmental cleanup projects statewide. Of the state's 3,000,000 eligible vehicles, 16 percent now display Bay plates, making Maryland the state with the largest percentage of environmental plates sold. The governor also announced that an additional $2 from 1994 Bay plate sales will benefit the Trust to promote environmental awareness across Maryland. This increase, from $10 to $12 per Bay plate, is effective through December 31, and has the potential to raise an additional $100,000 for the Bay cleanup.

"Maryland's Chesapeake Bay license plate program is one of the most successful environmental campaigns in the country, and has become a model for funding similar programs in other states," Governor Schaefer said. "Car owners can display their support for the Bay, and know that their money is being well spent to plant thousands of trees, clean up hundreds of miles of highways and streams, and improve the environmental education of Maryland's youngsters."

RETIREES HONORED -- Naylor's Hardware, Oakland, recently recognized two employees who retired during the past year. Joan Fike, left, retired after 18 years as a cashier for Naylor's True Value Hardware in Oakland. Ms. Fike started two weeks before the fire that destroyed Naylor's original building on Liberty Street. At that time, Naylor's had only two cashiers and each worked one-half day. Also honored was Ralph Keefe, second from right, who was employed as a carpenter and plumber by A.D. Naylor's Contracting in Oakland for 25 years. Keefe was a neighbor of Willie Lewis, an employee of Naylor's who retired some years ago with over 50 years of service and who recommended Keefe for employment. Also pictured are Janna Naylor, president of A.D. Naylor & Company; and Arthur Naylor, chairman of the board.

The governor will present the 500,000th Bay plate to Gilbert Grosvenor, president and chairman of the board of the National Geographic Society, and an advocate of environmental conservation. National Geographic spearheaded a recent six-month exhibit called "Chesapeake Changes," which explored the vitality and constant changes of North America's largest estuary. The exhibit attracted nearly 200,000 citizens and helped educate the public how the Bay is affected by population expansion and a variety of pollutants.

The Chesapeake Bay license plate program began in January 1991 after legislation was passed in the spring of 1990 authorizing the Motor Vehicle Administration to initiate a commemorative license plate. The Chesapeake Bay was chosen as the theme for Maryland's commemorative plate because of its rich cultural and historical value to Maryland. By purchasing a Bay plate, Marylanders can participate in the statewide effort to restore the Bay.

The Chesapeake Bay Trust is a state-initiated, non-profit organization which grants funds for Bay restoration projects to community groups, civic organizations, scouting troops, schools, and businesses. Since its inception in 1985, the Trust has disseminated $5 million for hands-on cleanup projects. The Trust has raised an additional $80,000 through the sales of the limited edition "BAY" series plates.

Citizens can purchase the Bay license plate through December of this year. For information, persons may call the Motor Vehicle Administration line at 950-1MVA.

Nelson To Speak To League Of Women Voters

John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office, will address the League of Women Voters at a luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 26. The meeting will be held at Cornish Manor in Oakland. Nelson will present a status report on the county's efforts to comply with the Growth Management Act and the updating of the county's Development Plan.

According to Nelson, the first phase of the update is the Background Studies. That phase is complete and the final report should be available for a small charge to the public in February. During this phase the consultant identified possible sensitive areas. For example, they prepared a map showing the steep slopes in the county at varying degrees. This information will be used in preparing the Development Plan update. Work on this phase is expected to begin shortly.

The Background Studies phase was done by Urban Research and Development Corporation (URDC). URDC was also the successful bidder for the second phase: the updating of the county's Development Plan.

The League meeting is, as always, open to the general public. For more information, persons may call Connie Margison at 334-9211.

Two Honored For Academic Effort

Two area students have been recognized by Alderson-Broadbent College for academic achievement during the fall 1993 semester, according to Robert Dignan, Academic Dean of the College.

Christa Updyke, Oakland, was named to the Dean's List for scholarly achievement. To be eligible for the Dean's List, students must attain a semester average of 3.6 or above on 4.0 grading scale. Updyke, a senior biology major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorris Updyke.

Jennifer Beachy, Grantsville, received academic honorable mention. To be eligible for academic honorable mention, students must attain a semester average of 3.4 or above on a 4.0 scale. Beachy is a senior nursing major at A-B. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Beachy.

Alderson-Broadbent College is a four-year undergraduate liberal arts institution offering bachelor's degrees in a wide variety of liberal arts majors. Over 800 students are enrolled at A-B, which is affiliated with the American Baptist Churches, USA. The College is located in Philippi, W.Va.

Culinary Hearts Kitchen Course Set For February

Wellness Together of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department will be offering the Culinary Hearts Kitchen course on consecutive Wednesdays beginning February 2 and continuing on Feb. 9, 16, and 23. The course will be held from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension, located at 202 South Third Street (Courthouse) in Oakland.

"The Culinary Hearts Kitchen course, originally developed by the New York Heart Association, focuses on the meals that are exciting and delicious, but low in calories, fat and cholesterol," stated Debora Nichols, Wellness coordinator.

The four-week course will cover basic principles of nutrition, food selection and preparation; ways to modify favorite recipes; menu planning at home and when dining out; and entertaining.

"Although the course is especially valuable for heart patients and their families, it is designed to teach anyone interested in leading a healthy lifestyle how to select and prepare tasty, nutritious food," said Ann Sherrard, R.D., MPH, director of community outreach and nutrition for the Garrett County Health Department.

The course, which will be co-facilitated by Nichols and Sherrard, is available at a cost of $30 per individual and $45 for two individuals from the same household.

Persons desiring more information or wanting to register for the Culinary Hearts Kitchen course may call 334-2155, ext. 408.

Tax-Aide Offers Info, Assistance

Federal and Maryland tax forms are being prepared free of charge for senior citizens and low income individuals. This service, Tax-Aide, is provided by volunteers and is sponsored by Area Agency on Aging.

AARP Tax-Aide Coordinator Bea Crocco has compiled the following reminders for Garrett County taxpayers.

On federal returns: 1) The amount of money one can earn before paying taxes has been increased from $2,211 to $2,364. To get the credit one must have worked and earned less than $2,364 and have a child or children living at home; 2) personal exemption amounts have increased from $2,300 in 1992 to $2,350 in 1993; 3) the 1040 EZ form can now be used by married filing jointly if one has no dependents; 4) effective January 1994, some social security benefits may be taxed.

"If you are married and you have a combined income of between $32,000 and $44,000, or if you are single and your income is between $25,000 and $34,000, up to 50% of your social security benefits can be taxed," Mrs. Crocco said.

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND -- THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1994 B-3

On the Maryland form: Renters 60 and over or 100% disabled, or renters under 60 with at least one dependent under 18 years of age living with them may receive up to $600 credit if they meet certain eligibility requirements.

Beginning January 25, hours for Tax-Aide are: Tuesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Wednesday, 5 to 7 p.m., at the Garrett County Community Action Center (formerly Center Street School) 104 East Center Street. No appointments are necessary. Clients are asked to bring along copies of last year's tax returns.

Additionally, upon request, the volunteers will travel to nutrition sites, nursing homes, and the homes of shut-ins.

For more information, persons may call the Agency at 334-9431.

Earn Honors At Potomac State

A number of area students achieved academic honors for the fall semester at Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va.

Among those named to the president's list for earning at least 3.70 on a 4.0 scale for the semester were Kimberly A. Conrad, freshman, Mt. Storm; and Amy M. Kifer, sophomore, COMMISSIONER VISITS SCHOOL -- Garrett County Commissioner Elwood Groves, recently spoke to the fourth grade class at Loch Lynn Elementary School. He spoke about the meaning of a county seat and the story behind how Oakland was selected as the county seat for Garrett County. He also spoke about the major county agencies, how they are funded, and their importance in county government, as well as why it is necessary to have county commissioners and what their function is in successfully overseeing county government. This activity was held in conjunction with the fourth grade curriculum study of Maryland. The teacher is Linda Martin.

Elk Garden.

Named to the dean's list for earning a GPA of 3.0 to 3.699 were: William L. Carr Jr., James W. Idleman, all freshmen and all of Mt. Storm; Carrie J. Corbin, freshman, Bayard; Geneva R. Custer and Patricia L. Jones, both sophomores, both Elk Garden; Daniel S.

Master Sergeant Donald M. Weeks, Oakland, a member of the 121st Engineer Battalion (Combat), Army National Guard, Elkton City, was awarded the Army Achievement Medal by Captain Thomas Jarvis, the Headquarters Company commander, on December 5, 1993.

Weeks received the award for "exemplary behavior, efficiency, and fidelity" in active federal military service. "Master Sergeant Weeks' conspicuous performance brings great credit to himself, the 121st Engineer Battalion, the Maryland Army National Guard, and the United States Army," his citation stated.

Weeks is a 1952 graduate of Oakland High School and a 1978 graduate of the University of Maryland. He is currently employed by the Army National Guard as the 121st Battalion Operations NCO. He had 21 years of active duty service and has been a member of the Army National Guard for 21 additional years.

PROMOTED TO SERGEANT -- Brian Richter of Oakland Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion (CBT), Maryland Army National Guard, was recently promoted to the rank of sergeant. Richter is an assistant squad leader in the 3rd platoon. He has completed the Primary Leadership Development Course, Machinist School, and Combat Engineer School. He has been in the service for over five years. He resides in Deer Park, is employed by Wolf Construction, and is attending Frostburg State University, studying art education.

provide practical resources to Maryland residents that will acquaint them with recycling activities available across the state and to encourage widespread participation," said George G. Perdikakis, director of MES.

The 60-page booklet offers information on numerous recycling programs and businesses throughout the state, accompanied by county and city maps to make locating the listings even easier. An educational section provides details on how materials are recycled into new products, why it's important to "buy recycled," waste reductions tips, and why contaminants can prevent materials from being recycled.

Taxpayers Can Support Bay On State Tax Form

With tax forms filling area mail boxes, Marylanders are encouraged by the Chesapeake Bay Trust to pay special attention to Line 63 on the state tax form.

"The Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund checkoff offers Marylanders a convenient way to support efforts to restore the Bay and protect Maryland's nongame and endangered wildlife," said Thomas L. Burden, executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Trust. The checkoff has raised over $5 million since the program began in 1989.

Checkoff funds are the most significant source of support for nongame wildlife protection in Maryland, Burden said. "Whether supporting important research on one of the 412 species listed as threatened or endangered in Maryland or paying for the construction and placement of barn owl nest boxes, checkoff funds are at work across the state," he said.

Checkoff donations are divided evenly between the Bay restoration grants program of the Chesapeake Bay Trust and the Nongame and Urban Wildlife and Natural Heritage programs of the Department of Natural Resources. The Trust returns donations to local communities in the form of grants for Bay restoration and education projects conducted by community groups, schools, and nonprofit organizations.

Trust grants are primarily for amounts of $5,000 or less and the grant process is designed to be accessible to organizations with limited grant writing experience. The Trust has supported 855 Maryland volunteer projects including: beach cleanups, tree plantings, student field trips, wetland restoration, student aquaculture projects, recycling efforts, and oyster propagation.

The Department of Natural Resources has directed checkoff donations toward hundreds of projects including: bald eagle monitoring, building and placement of bluebird nesting boxes, education programs for homeowners on creation of backyard habitat, surveys of reptiles and amphibians, and restoration of a serpentine grassland at Soldiers Delight Park.

Individuals can contribute by checking the box at Line 63 on the tax form and writing in the amount they would like to donate. The tax deductible donations are subtracted from refunds or added to the tax payment due. Additional information is available on page 25 of the tax instruction book.

Westvaco Will Establish On-Site Medical Center

Plans for the establishment of an on-site Medical Center at Westvaco's Luke mill have been announced by Roger A. Dandridge, vice president and mill manager.

The Medical Center will serve all active employees and their dependents who are covered under the Connecticut General medical plans. It will be located in the Luke mill's Training Center (formerly Piedmont High School) and will offer a wide range of medical care services, including a full-service pharmacy, at a reduced cost to employees. Dandridge stated that its use will be voluntary on the part of employees and will not affect their medical insurance.

The newer, currently unused portion of the Training Center will be fully renovated in order to accommodate the state-of-the-art facility. Construction is expected to start within the next 60 days.

The Medical Center will be managed by MediCenter, Inc., of Lawton, Okla. MediCenter will be responsible for all administrative functions of the facility and will recruit and hire the medical staff, which will initially include two family practitioners, one pharmacist, three nurses, one technician, two clerks, and one office manager. All personnel of the center will be employees of MediCenter, Inc.

Dandridge stated that the start-up of the Medical Center is expected during the summer of this year. In addition to providing medical care for employees and their dependents, the clinic will serve all functions that are presently carried out by the Luke mill dispensary as well as being able to provide emergency medical treatment and treatment for many types of in-mill injuries.

Currently, Westvaco's annual health care costs for the Luke mill exceed $10 million. Use of the Medical Center will result in considerable savings for employees and the company, Dandridge said.

On Dean's List

Among the nearly 1,500 students who were named to the dean's list at East Carolina University for the fall semester was a Garrett County student.

Joel Andrew Bremer, Rt. 2, Accident, was named to the list. He is the son of Linda Bremer Patton.

One must earn a B-plus average with no grade below a C in order to be named to the dean's list at East Carolina.

The university is located in Greenville, N.C.

COVER STORY

Responsibility the lesson in 'To My Daughter'

BY JEFF PLASS

Life can be tough. It certainly isn't always fair and the people who succeed in life are generally the ones who make the best of whatever they've got.

To 'My Daughter With Love,' airing on NBC, Monday, Jan. 24, does a nice job of proving that theory.

It's a movie about the responsibility of being a parent," says actor Rick Schroder, "the duty we have to give our children the best they deserve."

Schroder stars as Joey Cutter, a young husband and father, who works hard to support his family while building their dream house in his spare time.

Things seem to be going well for the Cutter family until cruel fate intervenes and Joey's wife, Alice, dies suddenly from an undetected brain aneurysm.

Now Joey is left alone with his 6-year-old daughter, Emily, and more responsibilities than he thinks he can handle. Between packing lunches, grocery shopping and taking Emily to and from school, all while trying to make it to his own job on time, Joey seems to be in over his head.

Joey's in-laws, Arthur and Eleanor Monroe, think Emily would be better off living with them. They can offer her the financial security and conventional home life she needs.

When Joey rolls in late for work for the last time and receives his walking papers, he knows what he must do. Still dealing with the loss of his wife, he acquiesces to his in-laws' requests and allows Emily to move in with them.

A major contributor to Joey's confusion is the fact that he goes from receiving the news of his wife's death to becoming a single dad without having time to grieve.

"He didn't mourn her death until he sat home and watched the videotape (a video family album, compiled by Alice)," Schroder states. "That's when he finally mourned and that's when he started healing. And after he was able to let that go, then he got his act together."

Schroder reflects on how he himself would have handled Joey's situation.

"I think I would have probably been a little less proud than he was. I wouldn't have minded the help; the financial support from my in-laws or my parents. Joey felt so insecure with himself, that he wasn't secure enough to ask for help."

Linda Gray does a fine job of playing Eleanor Monroe, the grieving mother-in-law who seeks to fill the gap left by her daughter's departure. Eleanor's focus comes across as inherently selfish. While citing the best interests of the child, Eleanor seems mostly interested in making sure Emily's clothes match and that she plays "nice music" on the piano. In essence, Eleanor sees Emily as an opportunity to relieve herself and raise Emily without the personality quirks that made her daughter, Alice, different from herself.

"She wanted a second chance with Emily to do things right that she messed up with her daughter," Schroder says.

By dealing with highly emotional issues without ever dipping into melodrama or sheer corniness, "To My Daughter With Love" provides the viewer with a very touching, very real bit of television.

IN FOCUS

Oscar and Tony Award-winner Walter Matthau stars in "Incident in a Small Town," airing on CBS, Sunday, Jan. 23.

Matthau portrays rumpel, savvy attorney Harmon Cobb. He is confronted with his toughest case when he comes to the aid of a young woman who is threatened by a terrible secret from her past.

The film marks Matthau's third appearance as Cobb, who was introduced to television viewers in 1990's "The Incident."

Showtime gets quirky, stylish with 'Heads'

BY TED KUSIO

Somebody's cutting off the heads of Dry Falls citizens! But, believe it or not, this is no fact-based movie, like so many others on TV. This is a stylish, quirky, though uneven film called "Heads."

Get it? Jon Cryer stars as Guy Franklin in this Showtime film, premiering Saturday, Jan. 29. Guy becomes a writer at a small-town newspaper when decapitation opens a position. His boss, played wonderfully by Ed Asner, pushes Guy to investigate other similar murders, leading to a girlfriend (the boss's daughter, played by Jennifer Tilly), an arrest and ... Well, see the movie.

Most of "Heads" is offbeat and bursting with dark humor. The small-town setting is odd, the police are dumb and macho, and Cryer plays a great geek. But trouble rears its ugly head when seriousness flattens some well-earned smirks. Perhaps blinking during these moments will keep them out of viewers' heads.

Other films this week include Susan Lucci as a lingerie designer accused of murdering a televangelist in "French Silk," Sunday, Jan. 23, on ABC. Walter Matthau reprises his role as attorney Harmon Cobb as he teams up with Harry Morgan in "Incident in a Small Town" on CBS, when a woman is threatened by an old secret. A detective tries to bring his former partner's killer to justice as NBC airs "In the Line of Duty: The Price of Vengeance," Dean Cain, Stockwell and Michael Gross star.

Fox unveils a new superhero

on Monday, Jan. 24, with Carl Lumbly as "Mantis." A woman deals with alcoholism in the ABC film "My Name Is Kate," starring Donna Mills and Daniel J. Travanti. "To My Daughter With Love," starring Rick Schroder and Linda Gray, tells the tale of a young widow dealing with single parenthood on NBC.

Martin Sheen and Sissy Spacek play teen-agers who take a murderous path to escape their repressive lives in the often imitated but never matched 1973 suspense thriller "Badlands," Wednesday, Jan. 26, on Lifetime.

For those without Showtime, cable offers other movie possibilities for Saturday. TNT presents a monstrous double feature with "Godzilla, King of the Monsters," and "Godzilla vs. Mothra." The USA Network offers Rob Reiner's tongue-in-cheek fairy tale "The Princess Bride" for the weekend. A&E airs the granddaddy of tearjerkers, "Brian's Song." Movie lovers without cable may want to consider reading a book.

'Babylon 5' joins space race with epic story

BY TED KUSIO

The first three Babylon space stations were destroyed. But "Babylon 5," a new science fiction series set to tell a five-year tale, hits syndicated airwaves between Jan. 24 and 30 (check local listings for date, time and channel).

Babylon 5 is a huge United Nations-like space station helmed by Cmdr. Jeffrey Sinclair, portrayed by Michael O'Hare. He and his staff direct the station's operations while maintaining peace among various alien governments.

"In many ways ('Babylon 5') is a novel for television," explains show creator J. Michael Straczynski. "It has a beginning, a middle and an end, over a period of five years. But each episode stands 100 percent apart and separate."

Although comparisons to "Star Trek" are inevitable, similarities are only superficial. "Babylon 5" has a unique look and feel, and is filled with interesting, believable characters. There's also a healthy dose of mystery, such as the exact fate of the station's predecessors and hidden chapters in some characters' pasts.

"If you ask questions you have to answer them," Straczynski says. "But like a Chinese puzzle box, when you open one, there's another box inside. You know what happened, the question is why did it happen?"

In addition to the grand scale of the story, groundbreaking use of computers adds spectacular special effects and space-age designs to the show.

"Babylon 5" may take a while to develop its space legs and reveal its complexity and depth, but if Straczynski's plans are realized then it'll earn a must-see-TV label.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I enjoy "Matlock" and really love the way Andy Griffith acts. Where can I write him? I hope "Matlock" plays forever. —Jackie Collins, Othello, Wash.

A: Write Griffith C/O "Matlock," ABC Television Network, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90027.

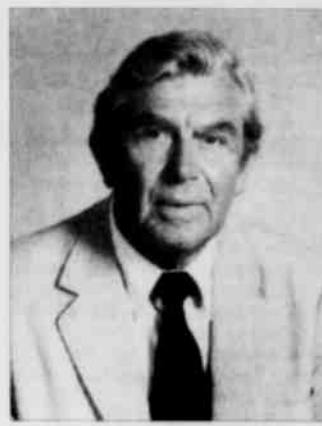

Q: Please settle a dispute. My husband believes that the actress who plays Daphne on the sitcom "Frasier" is not the same person who was the divorce group counselor on "Dear John." I say it is the same actress. Please clarify. —C. Lau, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A: Your husband is right. Jane Leeves, who formerly played Audrey on "Murphy Brown," plays daffy Daphne Moon on "Frasier." Jane Carr, who coincidentally guest-starred on "Murphy" a couple of months ago, played Louise Mercer in "Dear John."

Q: My sister and I have been having an argument about the name of the character Sally Ann Howes played in the movie "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang." Will you please tell us? Thank you. —Amy Brown, Edmond, Okla.

A: If memory serves, Howes played Truly Scumpious. Q: I would like to know more about Branscombe Richmond, who plays Bobby Sixkiller on "Renegade." Also, where can I write him? —D. Shapiro, Kingston, N.Y.

A: About many viewers assume Richmond is an American Indian just like his TV character, the actor actually is an ethnic blend of French, Tahitian, English, Hawaiian, Spanish and Aleutian Indian. The son of actor-stuntman Leo Richmond, he made his film debut at 6 in Marlon Brando's version of "Mutiny on the Bounty." Richmond has worked as a stuntman and/or actor in more than 300 TV shows and 100 feature films. Recent film credits include "Batman Returns," "Grand Canyon," "Hard to Kill," "Commando" and "Star Trek III." Write him C/O Cannell Distribution Co., 7083 Hollywood Blvd., Fourth Floor, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Q: What can you tell me about Hugh O'Connor? Where can I write him? —L.B. of West Virginia.

A: Hugh and his wife, Angela Clayton (a costumer on "Heat"), made dad Carroll a grandfather just last year. Born in Rome, Italy, on April 7, 1962, he worked as a production assistant on "Archie Bunker's Place," as well as various backstage jobs on Broadway. His TV acting debut came in "Brass," which was intended to become a series for his father after his Archie Bunker days (it didn't). Write Hugh or any other cast member C/O the show, 9211 Hazel Brand Road, Covington, Ga. 30209.

Sting and company hit ring in live battle

BY SARA BENNETT

Fans of professional wrestling accustomed to seeing their idols in taped matches are in for a treat.

Another edition of World Championship Wrestling's "Clash of the Champions" airs live, Thursday, Jan. 27, on TBS. The first in a series of quarterly matches takes place in Baton Rouge, La.

Taped events can be cleaned up during the editing process if a move doesn't go exactly as planned, but because "Clash" is live, viewers will see the raw action exactly when it's happening, for better or worse.

"Most television is all post-production," says executive producer Eric Bischoff. "Live television is all preproduction. Planning for things like power outages and people getting hurt and cameras going down and mikes not working (is usual). You just plan for every eventuality and shift gears."

The tag-team elimination event features "Nature Boy" Ric Flair and Sting against "Ravishing" Rick Rude and Vader with Harley Race.

Flair, whose signature moves include the flying knee drop and figure four leg lock, sewed up his 11th WCW World Heavyweight championship last month. Coupled with Sting's scorpion death lock and stinger splash, the duo poses quite a threat.

However, Sting isn't content with just taking care of opponents. He is actively involved with the Starlight Foundation, which makes wishes come true for critically ill children.

"The feeling is overwhelming when you see a look of joy come over a child's face," Sting says. So professional wrestlers aren't as mean as their reputations suggest.

Vader, the 450-pound megaman, and Ravishing Rick, with his patented Rude awakening, make for an equally dangerous pairing.

Cactus Jack and Maxx Payne take on the Nasty Boys with Missy Hyatt in the World Tag Team title match, and this one is no easier to call.

Jack, aptly from Truth or Consequences, N.M., was once voted the most hated man in professional wrestling. He returned to the ring last year tougher than ever after recovering from head injuries. The Nasty Boys, who weigh in at a combined 630 pounds, take their New York City upbringing into the ring, as their matches frequently resemble street fights.

Other pairings include Flyin' Brian against Col. Parker, with a humbling wager on the line. The loser must sport a chicken suit during the WCW Saturday Night telecast.

SOAP TALK

Undefined disease claimed Grainger's life

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I would like to know what exactly it was that Scott Grainger (Peter Barton) on "The Young and the Restless" died of. I don't think it was ever really mentioned on the show.

I would also like to know if Hunter Tylo, who portrays Taylor on "The Bold and the Beautiful," and Michael Tylo, who plays Blade on "Y&R," are related. —Vivian Parke, Onond Beach, Fla.

Dear Reader: Scott's illness was never defined on the show. It might be said that he died of off-contract disease.

Barton now stars on the CBS prime-time series "Burke's Law."

The Tylos are married. The couple met when they both appeared on "All My Children" several years ago. She portrayed a character called Robin, and he was Matt.

They have two boys, Chris and Mickey.

An interesting side note: The Tylos are in the yachting business with Kimberlin Brown (Sheila, "B&B") and her husband, Gary.

Dear Candace: I would like to know how the actor who played Han is doing. Is he still recuperating from his hang-gliding accident? Will he ever return to "Guiding Light"? —D.S. Okmulgee, Okla.

Dear Reader: Leonard Stabb is in a rehabilitation hospital recovering from his injuries. Doctors say Stabb is healing slowly, but they cannot give a prognosis at this time. It is doubtful the actor will return any time within the next year.

Michael Tylo

Dear Candace: I think the young actress who portrays Josie on "Another World" is beautiful. Has she been on any other soaps? She looks very familiar. Could you please tell me about her? —A.J., in Calif.

Dear Reader: Amy Carlson (Josie Framer) made her soap opera debut on "AW." She has been a guest star on several series, including "The Untouchables," "Missing Persons" and "America's Most Wanted." She also appeared in "The Babe" with John Goodman.

Carlson is from Elmhurst, Ill., and graduated cum laude with a degree in history from Knox College in Galesburg, Ill.

The young actress plays electric bass and guitar with a band called MSG. She also enjoys an active lifestyle, which includes softball, gymnastics, roller skating, and snow and water skiing.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Bates a resolute dissolute in 'Unnatural Pursuits'

BY JOHN CROOK

"You really ought to see someone," suggests the doctor. "About my eyes, you mean?" "Well, no. On a more general level, Really."

"What's a more general level?"

"A life level."

"That is certainly a very general level. Too general for me to manage just at the moment. I'm afraid. I'm very busy."

"What about a death level, then?"

"I'm sorry. Got to rush."

Alan Bates plays the intractable patient, a globetrotting English playwright hurrying off to drink and smoke and type (on, of all things, a typewriter) his way to an inner peace that's always just one rewrite of a scene away. He is the fictionalized alter ego of playwright Simon Gray, whose first play, starring Bates as an alcoholic college professor, delighted London's West End audiences more than 20 years ago.

"Unnatural Pursuits," airing Sunday, Jan. 23, on A&E, is a somewhat long and wobbly look at the territory between sanity and genius, where art is either forged or counterfeited. The first half of the two-and-a-half-hour production moves along well, with Bates' character, Hamish Partt, haunted by a better bard and a doctor who wants to sober him up. The clash of show business egos in London and Los Angeles is entertaining, and the point at which "Pursuits" becomes a musical is unexpected and charming.

By the time fortune lures Partt to Texas, "Pursuits" is long in the tooth. Genuine Dallas locations are the backdrop for cartoonish, drawing va-hoos that waste an opportunity to explore the fascinating subtleties of the Southern city dweller. And the full-circle denouement is as unproductive as a hangover.

Monday, Jan. 24, brings ESPN's coverage of Australian Open tennis from Melbourne. Monica Seles and Jim Courier were last year's champs. For those needing a pre-Olympic fix, the Vail Figure Skating Festival airs Wednesday, Jan. 26, on the USA Network.

"Foni Petty, Going Home" debuts Sunday on The Disney Channel, and Martin & Lewis' Their Golden Age of Comedy, Part 4, bows Thursday, Jan. 27.

Strolling through the corridors of power, A&E presents "The Secret Life of Chairman Mao," Friday, Jan. 28, on "Time Machine With Jack Perkins," and Saturday, Jan. 29, brings "First Ladies of the White House" on The Learning Channel.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

SOMEWHERE ON THE NATIONAL ROAD, probably in downtown Grantsville, is where this photo was taken many years ago, and the individuals in the shot were most likely posed since it shows an elegantly dressed lady handling the coach's team of horses. The photo is from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland and is published courtesy of the Society and The Republican.

SWANTON NEWS

Carolyn Snyder returned to her home in Bowie on Sunday after visiting Bob and Earl Winters for several days. Her mother, Helen Winters, who was a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital for over a week, was released Monday and is recuperating at home.

Marty, Lori, Willie and Hannah Davis were dinner guests of Lucinda, Steve, and Amber Davis on Saturday.

On Sunday, Lorena Rodheaver served cake and ice cream to family and friends to celebrate the birthday of her husband, Mark.

Sharon Lohr is recuperating at home after being a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital last week.

Jeff Sweitzer returned to Salisbury Sunday after spending the weekend here. On Saturday evening his family gathered at the home of Helen and Earl Winters to celebrate his birthday. Present were Earl and Bob Winters, Jim, Barbara, Jason and Andrea Sweitzer, Regina Welch and Carolyn Snyder.

OTTERBEIN U.M. CHURCH NEWS

The Brotherhood met at McHenry United Methodist Church on Tuesday, Jan. 11. Rev. Sam Wachter installed the following officers for 1994: president, Sam Bowman; vice president, Orval Teets; secretary, Merle Wilburn; and treasurer, Wesley Klotz. The monthly prayer breakfast will be held Jan. 22 at 7:30 a.m. at Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville. The Fifth Sunday Sing will be Jan. 30 at Hoves United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. The February meeting will be held at Hoves February 8. Attending from Swanton were Ellis Harvey, Richard Gerlach, Harley Wildesen, and Orval Teets.

The United Methodist Women met at the church Tuesday, Jan. 11. Mareva Teets was the leader. "Touched by the Spirit" was the study. President Wanda Maphis said that the Call to Prayer and Self-Denial service would be held at St. Paul's United Methodist, Oakland, on February 8 and the Spiritual Growth Retreat, Jackson's Mill, W.Va., will be April 21 and 22. The next meeting will be March 8. Barbara Rexrode will be devotional leader.

Sunday services were canceled last Sunday because of the cold weather.

OAKLAND

Mrs. Faye Nally spent Christmas with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Nally, her daughter, Mrs. Jennifer Rigby, and son Matthew, Springfield, Va.

Mrs. Nally's daughter and son-in-law, Marty and Mary Ann Daly, and son Joseph, Williamsburg, Va., also visited on Christmas day, and on Sunday, Dec. 26, they all drove to the residence of her other daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Feldman and family, Elkton City.

Mrs. Nally returned home on the following Tuesday.

Tax Deductions Possible For Forest Mgmt.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) would like to advise that forest landowners who actively manage their forests and have performed work on their properties during 1993 could be eligible for state and federal income tax deduction programs.

The Maryland forestry income tax modification program allows landowners to deduct double the cost of reforestation and timber stand improvements from federally adjusted gross income for Maryland income tax purposes on land owned or leased. Acreage owned or leased must be at least 10 acres and no more than 500 acres of forest land capable of growing more than 20 cubic feet of wood per acre per year. Only forest management practices installed on 10 to 100 acres that has been certified by a Maryland registered professional forester may receive the tax modification in any one year.

Some examples of reforestation costs include mechanical or chemical site preparation, planting of seedlings and seedling release. Reforestation must result in at least 400 healthy, well spaced seedlings per acre.

Timber stand improvements include thinning by mechanical or chemical means and pruning.

A landowner can deduct the costs in the year the practices were completed and again within two years when a final certification is finished on the work performed. It becomes a double, itemized deduction for forestry costs when filing a state income tax return.

A tax modification form must be filled out to take advantage of this program. Forms are available at any DNR Forest Service office.

The federal government also offers forest landowners a forestry income tax incentive. Public Law 96-451 permits up to $10,000 of capitalized reforestation costs each year to be eligible for a 10 percent investment tax credit (subtracted from taxes owed) and a seven-year amortization (subtracted from gross income to compute adjusted gross income).

The incentive will principally benefit landowners with moderate holdings. For instance, if a landowner spends $10,000 for tree planting costs such as site preparation, seed and seedlings and labor, a 10 percent tax credit can be subtracted from the amount of taxes otherwise owed to the federal government. A landowner also can deduct from yearly earnings the full $10,000 over a seven-year period.

For more information and to obtain appropriate forms, persons may contact the DNR Forest Service at (410) 974-3776.

Waste Ordinance Discussed At Public Hearing

A public hearing was conducted last Tuesday with the Garrett County Commissioners to discuss additions and deletions to the county's ordinance governing the disposal of solid wastes within the county. Rodney Giotfelty, director of Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, led the hearing and explained the changes and additions to the ordinance, which was last filed and recorded on July 13, 1984.

The first addition is a new paragraph in the preamble of the ordinance, which Giotfelty said was added for further clarification. The new paragraph states: "And whereas Garrett County Government operates and maintains solid waste collection, disposal, and recycling sites as a service to the residents and property owners of the county as part of the overall integrated solid waste management system."

A paragraph was also added in the first section of the ordinance to clarify the definition of "unacceptable wastes," as opposed to "solid wastes," which include garbage, rubbish, bottles, cans, paper, refuse, and other wastes produced by normal residential and commercial activities.

The clarification paragraph states: "Unacceptable wastes are wastes which if delivered in sufficient quantities may present a substantial danger to public health or safety, would cause applicable law to be violated, or is likely to materially adversely affect the operation of the Garrett County Landfill or other disposal and collection sites."

Unacceptable wastes shall include explosives, pathological and biological waste, radioactive materials, foundry sand, septage, "red bag" or other types of infectious medical waste, human remains, motor vehicles and major motor vehicle parts such as transmissions, engines, and rear ends, agricultural and farm machinery and equipment, marine vessels and parts thereof, but are hampered by lack of

School Board Gives Audience To Students As They Voice Concerns

Student representatives from the county's middle and high schools attended the most recent meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education on Tuesday, Jan. 11, and voiced their concerns about their individual schools and student bodies. The meeting is an annual invitational session established by the school board in an effort to maintain open communication with pupils.

Among the several topics touched upon by the student council representatives were maintenance concerns, bus schedules, recycling activities, advanced placement courses in the high schools, and the appointment or election of a student representative to the education board.

Speaking first was Rachel Leverenz from Northern Middle School who expressed the Garrett County Student Council's wish to appoint or elect a student to the county education board. This topic was reiterated by several students, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, told the group that the school board is ready to proceed with the issue and propose the idea to the General Assembly this year. The students, Ryscavage said, have been instructed to formulate an election process and to present that idea to the school board for consideration.

Ryscavage said another major point to be resolved concerns the student's voting rights - whether or not he/she would have full, partial, or no voting rights. One student representative suggested that the student may have voting rights only when the issue pertains directly to the schools. Another in attendance told the board that the county student council will be presenting the election process proposal to the board in the near future.

A second NMS issue voiced by Miss Leverenz concerned the school's recycling effort. The students have attempted to establish a recycling system, but are hampered by lack of storage space and other problems. Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, who was attending as an ex-officio member of the school board, suggested that the students contact Rodney Giotfelty, newly-appointed director of the county's Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, who

Four-Period Day Is Discussed By School Board

A four-period day for Garrett County schools has been investigated by a special committee for the Garrett County Board of Education, and a spokesperson for that committee gave the school board a mostly favorable report on the proposed change at the most recent school board meeting, held on Jan. 11. The board also held its yearly re-organization process and adopted a re-written paragraph to the bus drivers' drug testing policy.

In a special session this morning, the board of education voted to change the originally scheduled parent-conference day from a full day to a half day. The conferences were scheduled to take place all day on Friday, Feb. 4, with students having the day off. In light of several cancelled days in the past week because of weather, the school board opted to operate on a half-day schedule for students, leaving the afternoon open for conferences. Conferences may also be held on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 3.

Four-Period Day

"With a four-period day, students will have more flexibility in scheduling with more credits available each year, and will have a greater opportunity to take elective classes aimed at helping them complete a program related to their future goals," said Steve Cosner, committee member and spokesperson.

Cosner also said that a four-period day would affect

LEADING THE NATION in scoring in Division II women's standings is Garrett Community College's Michele Duling, pictured at left going up for two last night against Montgomery-Rockville and above right bringing the ball down the court. Duling, a former standout for Southern High School, is averaging just under 30 points per game for the Lakers and is beginning to draw interest from Division I universities. Her coach, Dennis Gibson, received a call just this week from Auburn University. She finished with 30 points last night, plus nine assists and two steals, as the Lakers recorded their third win in five starts. She was named to the second team All-Maryland JUCO last season. Water, Sewer Fees To Be Reviewed; Rates To Increase Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel reported to the Garrett County Commissioners this week that the district's financial consultant has been asked to review the district's increasing expenses and to make recommendations for rate adjustments for the operation and maintenance of water and sewer systems administered by the district.

"Because of the increases in electricity rates, our expenditures, and inflation, in general, we need to look at rate increases for the users," said Beitzel, who added that the district has not increased sewer and water rates in three years.

"We expect the increases will be fairly modest," he added. Beitzel also said that the new rates would not take effect until the next billing period in March.

He noted that the debt service of the Sanitary District has dropped to less than $2 million for all the combined water and sewer projects throughout the county.

Also this week, Beitzel finalized a recent agreement between the commissioners and the Sanitary Commission regarding partial financing for the

WHAG-TV Signal To Be Restored Saturday Morning

Local customers of Triax Cable have been unable to receive the Hagerstown television station, WHAG-TV, for over a week because of a burned-out transmission line. According to Chuck Noland, program director for WHAG, the signal should be restored by Saturday morning, "in time for the Super Bowl," he said.

The signal is transmitted from a 550-foot, 12-inch diameter copper pipe, which burned out at about the 350-foot level last Friday, Noland said. The station was then blacked out for numerous consumers in the Garrett and Allegany county area.

The new transmission line was ordered and has come in, and at first report, the station was to be on line by today or Friday. However, because of the icy conditions, Noland said, the re-installation has been delayed a few days, with the prospective restoration time now set for Saturday morning.

DNR Probing Alleged Theft Of Forest Timber

The possible theft of $425,000 worth of timber from Potomac-Garrett State Forest is currently under investigation by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), with officials from the Maryland Attorney General's office reporting that a lawsuit has been filed against Sisler Lumber Company, Mtn. Lake Park, and Sam VanSickle, Accident. The state is reportedly seeking to recover three times the value of the timber.

The alleged illegal harvest of the trees -- which included oak, maple, and black cherry, some of which were 90 years old and 100 feet tall -- took place in a remote section of the forest on Piney Mountain near Sang Run sometime during the spring and fall of 1993.

Although DNR officials are not necessarily believe there was any criminal intent on the part of the lumber company, the state does expect compensation for the loss of timber from what officials said was a tract of land with unique, biological diversity. The Potomac-Garrett State Forest Ten-Year Management Plan called for that particular tract never to be harvested because of that diversity.

VanSickle was reportedly contracted by Sisler Lumber Company to harvest the trees on the 125-acre tract. VanSickle owns property adjacent to the forest.

Oakland Town Park To Be Subject Of $40,000 Archeological Survey

A Program Open Space (POS) town park project in Oakland is currently being delayed until an archeological evaluation of the four and one-half to five-acre parcel of land can be conducted to determine if the site was once an Indian campground, according to John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning.

Nelson told the Garrett County Commissioners this week that the Maryland Historical Trust has ordered an archeological evaluation of the site because, historically, Nomadic tribes set up campsites along rivers located in floodplain areas.

The park site is located just across the Youghiogheny River along Rt. 59 on the west end of Oakland.

Nelson reported that the evaluation would take the form of linear trenching and would cost approximately $40,000.

The site was purchased about 10 years ago with POS funds.

A total of $47,691 was approved by the Board of Public Works this week for further development of the park site. The funds would go toward developing 12 more acres of the 23.6-acre park, and pay for designing a gazebo, foot bridge, walking trail, and the design and construction of a handicapped-accessible restroom and landscaping.

In other news from the planning office, Nelson presented the commissioners with a copy of the publication A Second Close Look at Garrett County, which identifies trends and problems in a variety of areas such as housing, population, transportation, and land use.

Nelson reported that several grant funding sources are being tapped in Local Child Hit By Car Sustains Minor Injuries

A 3-year-old Bloomington child sustained minor injuries when the sled she was riding on crossed the path of a car Friday afternoon. Laura Ann Windle was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital following the 3 p.m. accident and was treated for lacerations and abrasions to the face and head, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. She was released after treatment.

The child was sled riding with several other children along North Branch Avenue in Bloomington when the sled she and another child were on slid into the path of a 1987 Chrysler, driven by James McClintock, also of Bloomington. The second child managed to get off the sled before it struck the car.

The child's mother, Amanda R. Windle, had been watching the children but had apparently stepped inside her house for a moment when the accident occurred.

Cpl. Randy Sines investigated the incident and reported that no charges were filed against the driver.

Blaze Levels House Near Friendsville

An unoccupied Friendsville area house was leveled by fire early Saturday morning, the cause of which is unknown.

Volunteer fire fighters from Friendsville, Accident, Addison, and Markleysburg fire departments were summoned to the house, located along Suire Fike Road off Rt. 42, at 2:55 a.m. According to Terry Spear, chief of the Friendsville VFD, the two-story wood frame structure was "level with the ground" upon their arrival.

Spear said that the house was owned by Bernice Rodeheaver, who does have insurance on the structure. He said that there were some large appliances in the house, but it was basically unfurnished. Spear did not have a dollar estimate on the loss.

The incident is not under investigation by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office.

Approximately 40 firemen responded to the scene, along with Rural Electric Association personnel from Somerset. There were no injuries reported.

Year's First Rabies Case Is Confirmed

The first rabies case of 1994 was recently announced by the Garrett County Health Department. A skunk submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene laboratories was confirmed positive for the disease on Jan. 13.

Two individuals are currently receiving rabies post-exposure treatment after a dog which had apparently killed the skunk was handled by the owner shortly after the incident. The dog owner then came in close contact with her

PLOWS STILL PLODDING -- Crews from the Maryland State Highway Administration spent Monday afternoon on Bl. 40 in Grantville clearing the residual snow missed by snow plows. Snow had been piled as high as three feet along the streets from the last winter storm experienced in Garrett County, much of which has disappeared this week in above freezing temperatures and rainfall. Freezing rain forced a two-hour delay in Garrett County schools this morning, and more ice is expected this evening.

WATERS FROZEN IN TIME - Muddy Creek Falls at Swallow Falls State Park has been frozen in time during the past frigid days and nights, transformed into this spectacular cathedral of ice. Staff photographer Craig Phillips did some careful footwork to capture this shot, climbing inside the arrested falls for the perfect angle. Temperatures have risen in the last several days, and are expected to waver about the freezing point for several more days. The deed of winter is here, and the ground will most likely remain white for many more weeks.

Snow-Covered Roads Blamed For Accident

Snow-covered road conditions were apparently the cause of a two-vehicle mishap that occurred on Saturday, Jan. 22, in which a teen-ager was injured.

Jason R. Xander, 13, Oakland, a passenger in a 1983 Chrysler LeBaron, operated by John S. Suess, 42, Butler, Pa., was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, where he was treated and released.

According to a report filed by Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry, no citations were issued when the Chrysler, which was traveling south on Boy Scout Road, near Deep Creek Lake, collided with a 1993 Ford Explorer, operated by Eugene T. Jakiela, 62, Pittsburgh, who was traveling north. Both drivers told the officer they attempted to avoid the collision by steering toward the snow bank, and each claimed to be stopped prior to impact. Drifting snow resulted in the loss of physical evidence.

According to the report, snow drifts caused the width of the road to be reduced to approximately six feet at the point of impact.

Three other passengers in the Suess vehicle, Jacqueline L. Suess, 45, Amy L. Suess, 11, and Jerrod S. Suess, 12, all of Butler, and a passenger in the Ford, Carol A. Jakiela, 53, Pittsburgh, were apparently uninjured in the 1:30 p.m. accident, investigated by Tlc. Wayne L. Mowbray.

TWO ARRESTED
A snowboard reported stolen from the Wisp Resort on Jan. 20 was recovered Friday evening, according to a report filed by state police.

Tlc. J.L. Bentlejewski, investigating officer, arrested John P. Burns, 18, and Harry J. McMahon, 18, both of Morgantown, W. Va., who were found to be in possession of the snowboard, valued at $500. Following the arrests, police searched a vehicle, owned by Burns, and found marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Burns was subsequently charged with possession of CDS (controlled dangerous substance), possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of stolen property. McMahon was charged with possession of stolen property.

THEFT REPORTED

A red 1989 Ford F-250 pickup, valued at $7,000, and owned by Willard Wilt, Grantsville, was reportedly stolen sometime between 6:30 and 7 p.m., Jan. 18.

According to a report filed by Tlc. Randy Tarburton, investigating officer, Wilt had parked the pickup behind Grantsville Liquors. When he returned a half hour later, it was gone.

DWI ARRESTS

Barrack W. of the Maryland State Police logged two recent arrests for DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs).

Tlc. G.S. Becker charged Carlton Les Merrill, 48, Salisbury, Pa., with DWI on Jan. 21.

Terry Wayne Sharpless, 32, Frostburg, was charged with DWI on Jan. 22 by Tlc. D.W. Broadwater.

Vehicular Damage Cases Being Probed By Sheriff's Office

Two Oakland residents contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week to report incidents of vehicular hit and run. Both victims reportedly left their vehicles for a short period of time, during which unknown drivers struck them, causing up to $1,000 in damages. The sheriff's office also logged one DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest this week.

Ralph E. DeBerry, Oakland, contacted the sheriff's office last Tuesday after he discovered that his 1989 Dodge Ram Charger was damaged. He had parked the truck at Treasure Island, Oakland, at approximately 1:30 p.m., and was inside the store for a short time. An unknown driver apparently struck the passenger side rear fender area, causing $1,000 in damages.

In the second case, Janice E. Cosner, Oakland, called police on Sunday to report damage done to her vehicle. She had parked it at the Overlook Apartments on the evening of Jan. 22 and went back to it at noon on Jan. 23.

She found that someone had hit the vehicle and dented the front left corner panel, fender, and shattered the left turn signal. The damage estimate was placed at $500, according to the report.

DWI Arrest

A 34-year-old Oakland man was charged with DWI on Jan. 22. Joseph M. Baker was stopped by Det. J. Murphy on H Street in Mountain Lake Park when he apparently failed to stop at a stop sign.

Baker was subsequently charged with DWI at the 10 p.m. arrest. He later signed the citation and was released, according to the report.

IT'S SOUP! - The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is preparing for its third annual Soup Lunch, set for Friday, Feb. 4, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Fellowship Hall, Oakland. The menu includes a choice of five different soups (including a fat-free vegetarian soup), muffins, fresh fruit, and a beverage. Carry-outs will be available. In addition to lunch, a variety of houseplants will be offered for sale. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Ruth Enlow Library. Garden Club members pictured left to right are: Kathie Smith, Nancy Nemith, Sheila Helrick, and Susannah Kurtz.

Orientation Set For This Friday At GCC Campus

A new student orientation will be held at Garrett Community College this Friday, January 28, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., according to Cliff Everett, coordinator of student activities.

Following a welcome by president Dr. Steve Herman and Dr. Lillian Mitchell, students will meet in small groups to hear about various areas of the college. Everett and Student Government Association president Lora Evans will speak about student activities at Garrett Community College; Crystal Filer-Ogden will explain financial aid; Dana Shimrock will present an introduction to the library; Manning Smith will discuss the College Seminar course and conduct a campus tour; and Joan Crawford will lead a question and answer session.

All participants will be guests at a luncheon in the cafeteria following the orientation.

Small Business Survival Classes Slated At GCC

The Small Business Administration encourages anyone thinking about starting a small business to improve the chance for success by learning the basics before getting the business underway. Several short classes that have been designed to provide potential business owners with this opportunity will be starting at Garrett Community College in February.

"Introduction to Small Business" will meet February 7 and 14 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Key topics for this class will include start-up considerations, marketing, financing, management, and various types of ownership.

The second class in the series, "Records Management for Small Business," will focus on how to set up the basic recordkeeping requirements for a business. Topics will include inventory and personnel records, receipts and disbursements, and tax forms. The class will meet February 28 and March 7 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

"Developing a Business Plan and Finances for the Small Business," the final class in the series, will focus on developing a business plan, types of financing available, financial statement analysis, business taxes, cash flow analysis, and budgeting. This class will meet on three consecutive Mondays from March 21 through April 4 from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m.

According to a GCC spokesman, these classes offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. They are co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center.

All classes will be held at the McHenry Campus of GCC. Since space is limited, those interested in attending should register immediately. To register or obtain additional information, persons may call Sandy Major or Ann White at the GCC Small Business Development Center at 387-3101 or 387-3080.

Spring Semester GCC Off-Campus Courses Offered

Garrett Community College is again offering courses at off-campus sites during the spring semester for the convenience of county residents. Students may register for these courses on site the first night they attend class through February 4.

Four courses are being given at Crellin School on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. Introduction to Business (BUS 101) and Deviant Behavior (SOC 215) are scheduled on Monday evenings; General Psychology (PSY 101) and Law and Banking (BUS 295) are scheduled on Tuesday evenings.

Two sections of Introduction to Computers (CS 105) are being given at Southern Middle School, one on Tuesday and one on Wednesday, from 6 to 9 p.m. At Southern High School, Introduction to Literature (ENG 102) is being given on Mondays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Principles of Bank Operations (BUS 120) is given on Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m.

Anyone desiring further information about these or other courses may call the Student Assistance Center at 387-3044. Registration for all courses has been extended through February 4.

Registration Period At GCC Campus Extended

Spring semester registration at Garrett Community College has been extended through February 4 to give students more opportunity to enroll, according to a college spokesperson. Because of the recent severe weather and the request by power companies for businesses to conserve energy, the college has been forced to close a number of days during the peak registration period.

A special walk-in registration period has been set through February 4 on Mondays through Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Student Center. Advisors will be available to help students register quickly, and special placement testing has been scheduled. No appointments are necessary.

Although spring semester classes have already begun, instructors will permit students to enter class up until the third week and will help students make up work missed.

Students who plan to take courses at any of the off-campus sites -- Crellin School, Southern Middle School, and Southern High School -- will be able to register at the site immediately before classes. Anyone desiring further information about courses or registration may call the Student Assistance Center at 387-3044.

Food For Thought

Use a mini-muffin pan to create tiny, party-size quiche. Fit 3-inch rounds of pastry into the cups, then fill with a scant 1/2 cup of filling: chopped mushrooms and green onions, gruyere cheese and bacon bits, or smoked salmon bits and dill.

It's easy to create your own favorites. There's one constant in the recipe: egg yolks and milk to bind ingredients together.

Serve one potato two times! Micro-cook baking potatoes until tender and cut in half. Scoop out most of the fluffy white part and mash for dinner. Save the fleshy skins, cut into quarters, and top with cheddar cheese and vegetables. Bake 10 to 12 minutes at 450 degrees.

"Packaged" salmon-wrapped in foil stays moist in the broiler. Brush with melted butter and a little lemon juice and top with thin slices of onion and tomato. Crimp edges tight and broil about 10 minutes.

Add zing to apple pie-brush crust with milk and sprinkle on cinnamon sugar just before baking.

Add zing to your life eat out tonight! You'll have a good time at

Frostburg Men Found Guilty On CDS Charges

Among the cases heard recently by Judge Ralph Burnett in Garrett County District Court, was one involving three Frostburg men who pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS).

Brian P. Downey, 23, Jon Martin Pettyjohn, 21, and Richard W. Smith, 22, were each sentenced to 30 days each in jail (with all but 48 hours being suspended), fined $100, and placed on six months of supervised probation.

The arrest stemmed from an incident, Sept. 25, 1993, at Savage River State Forest, when Ranger John H. Frank, Md. State Forest and Park Services, received a complaint of a loud disturbance and shooting at a campsite. The ranger, with assistance from the Maryland State Police and Garrett County Sheriff's Department, subsequently discovered the men to be in possession of marijuana, according to court records.

In other District Court news, Michael E. McDonald, 20, Elkton, was found guilty of felony theft, involving illegal use of a credit card on Aug. 5, 1993. He was sentenced to three years in jail (with all but one year suspended), was ordered to pay $1,104.35 restitution, and placed on three years of supervised probation.

McDonald had been charged with seven counts, including forgery of private documents, theft of items valued at more than $300, and theft scheming, all felonies, and petty theft. In a plea agreement with the state's attorney, only one count of forgery-theft was prosecuted.

A fugitive from justice from Florida is being held for an additional 60 days, without bond, in Garrett County Jail, following an extradition hearing on Jan. 12. Ernest L. Lemastus, age unknown, was arrested Dec. 16, 1993, after the sheriff's office received a fax copy of a warrant for his arrest from Bay County Sheriff's Office, Panama City, Fla. He had failed to appear for revocation on charges of sexual battery to a person 12 years of age or older, and aggravated battery.

Delorous J. Wilburn, 33, Grantsville, had charges of disturbing the peace and harassment against her placed on the stet docket.

Charges of assault and battery against Paula K. Gower, 23, and Robert L. Gower, 28, both of Oakland, were not prosecuted, according to court records.

In Garrett County District Court on Jan. 13, Judge Burnett fined Clifford A. Bowman, 26, Accident, $800 plus $20 court costs for hunting deer with a firearm during closed firearm season, and $50 plus $20 court costs for failure to wear daylight fluorescent orange while hunting deer. Bowman's firearm was also seized. Natural Resources Police (NRP) Cpl. Walter May was the arresting officer for the Nov. 22, 1993 incident at Camp Minnetoska.

Also arrested for hunting deer with a firearm during closed firearm season was Patrick L. Metheny, 47, of Rt. 2, Terra Alta. He was fined $310.

Probation before judgment was granted to George V. Davis, 21, Whitehall, who pleaded guilty to possession of a loaded weapon in a vehicle, which resulted in a $140 fine. In separate incidents, Randolph J. Stottle, 41, Baltimore, and Craig R. Troutwein, 32, Oakland, were also arrested and fined $140 for having a loaded firearm in their vehicles.

One count of hunting deer without written permission from the landowner, and one count of hunting without a license were incurred by Marvin R. Yoder, 31, Accident, who pleaded not guilty to the charges, according to court records. He was found guilty and a fine totaling $590 resulted from the offenses.

Two charges of possession of imported untagged deer were handed to Timothy D. Caton, 32, Baltimore, when he was stopped by officers at the Finzel Weigh Station on Rt. 68. He was fined $310 for each offense.

Hospice Slates Annual Frolic For February 12

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will hold its annual Winter Frolic Dinner/Dance on Saturday, February 12, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Oakland American Legion. A social hour will be held from 6 until 7 p.m., dinner will be served at 7 p.m., and the dance will begin at 9 p.m. The music will be provided by Paul Mullen, DJ for WCBC Radio Station, Cumberland, who will be playing "Oldies, but goodies."

June Heselbach has agreed to serve as chairperson for the event. Others serving on the committee are: Carl Heselbach, Doris Goldsborough, Jackie Johnson, Shirley Panther, Ruth DiPaolo, Brenda Butscher, Lynn and Linda Patton, and Anna Mary Fratz.

Heselbach stated, "I consider it a privilege to work with the Hospice organization and the selfless, dedicated people who give of their time and energy to serve those in need. Our special fundraising event February 12 must have your support so that they can continue their worthy endeavor. Gather friends, family, associates and loves ones for an evening dinner, dance and fellowship. Let's have a 'generous' heart for Hospice."

Brenda Butscher, executive director, explained that the money raised from this event will be used toward paying for the renovation of the Hospice patient room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Tickets are $30 per person, persons may call Hospice at 334-5151 to make a reservation or they may send a check to Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., 253 North Fourth St., Oakland, MD 21550.

Continuing Ed. Courses Of GCC Re-Scheduled

Because of recent severe weather conditions, a variety of continuing education courses offered by Garrett Community College have been re-scheduled.

The following non-credit courses are being offered on new dates:

Friendsville To Host Bloodmobile

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Friendsville fire hall on Friday, Feb. 4, according to Esther Benedict, local coordinator. Donors will be received from noon to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Benedict stated that presently there is a critical shortage of blood and she urged all area people who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health to respond to this drive. The quota for the visit is 40 pints.

MLP Man Pleads Guilty To DWI, Driving Revoked

A Mountain Lake Park man pleaded guilty to several traffic charges in Garrett County Circuit and was subsequently sentenced to two years in the Maryland Department of Corrections.

Mark E. Whitacre, 25, had been charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), reckless driving, failure to stop at the scene of an accident with property damage, and two counts of driving with a revoked license. Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the defendant's plea of guilty to all counts, and ordered him to serve five years in the department of corrections, with three years suspended.

Whitacre was also ordered to be on supervised probation for four years following his release from jail, and was fined $500 for the reckless driving charge.

The charges arose from two separate incidents, according to the court document. In May 1993, Whitacre was apparently operating a vehicle on Rt. 560 when he struck another vehicle, driven by Robin Ridder. He did not stop at the scene, although the Ridder vehicle was damaged. At that time, he was arrested for reckless driving, failure to stop at the scene of an accident, and driving with a revoked license.

The remaining charges - including DWI - were reportedly incurred by Whitacre in June 1993 when he was stopped on M Street in Mtn. Lake Park by a deputy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The defendant was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff following the court proceedings last Thursday.

Three Persons Injured In Car Wreck Sunday

Three persons were transported to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, on Sunday following a one-vehicle mishap near New Germany State Park. Diane Johnson, 20, Woodbine, was operating the vehicle, and she and two passengers were treated for their injuries and released, according to a report from the Maryland State Forest and Park Service.

The vehicle was northbound on New Germany Road when at about 4:25 p.m. it went into a spin, traveled over a 15-foot embankment, and struck several trees.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported the patients to Cumberland.

There were no citations issued, but the mishap remains under investigation, according to reports.

ford teachers the ability to plan a complete "learning cycle" in one period, beginning with the introduction of knowledge or skills, followed by demonstration, practice, and closure. Cosner also cited that longer class periods will allow extended learning time.

The reaction of students and teachers to the proposal has been about 75% favorable, Cosner said. More investigation into the issue is planned, and the board will continue to explore the findings of the committee.

Re-Organization

The school board reorganizes annually, and conducted the process at the January meeting.

Re-elected president of the board was Beverly Murphy, who served as president in 1993. Mikal Moomau was elected vice-president, and the board voted to continue to meet every second Tuesday of the month at 2 p.m. at the education board office.

The board also voted to utilize the legal services of Eiswert and Janes, and the auditing services of Rodeheaver and Associates.

Paragraph Adopted

A revised paragraph in the board's policy for drug testing of school bus operators was passed by board members. The original wording of the said paragraph was a matter of concern to the School Bus Contractors' Association, and members of that group asked the board for a rewrite.

The original paragraph stated that an "accident or incident" shall be defined as any occurrence in which the school bus is involved that results in "death, personal injury, and/or property damage or when a vehicle has left the roadway under other than normal causes."

The new sentence states the words accident or incident are defined as any occurrence that results in "death, personal injury, and/or property damage in excess of $500, and the bus driver is issued a citation."

Remembering Wayne...

During these difficult days following the accidental deaths of our co-worker Pam Ashby and her brother, Paul Frantz, Garrett County lost another of its most outstanding citizens, the death of whom was perhaps unintentionally overshadowed by the aforementioned tragedy. We believe we would be remiss in not using this column to comment on his life and contributions.

Wayne B. Hamilton devoted many of his years to public service, not only in Garrett County, but also at the state level.

Wayne was a "mover and a shaker" who had great vision, a quality that is lacking in so many of our public servants. He was articulate and intelligent, and expended great energy in doing what he could to improve the quality of life in his county.

He was a graduate of the University of Maryland, having earned a degree in agriculture, and was a charter member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He was an agricultural scientist, of sorts, as he made his farmland available on a number of occasions for the experimental growing of certain crops by state and private organizations.

He served two terms as a Garrett County commissioner, during which time he was the key figure in pulling Garrett County out of the "dark ages" in so many areas. He brought a level of respect to the commissioners' office that had been absent for many years. Many of the changes for which he was responsible were controversial, for some required expenditure of additional tax money. This was a bitter pill for much of conservative Garrett County at the time, but many of the benefits of his courageous approach are now being enjoyed. Being a primary force in the founding of Garrett Community College, for example, was among his achievements.

Soon after completing eight years of service as a county commissioner, he served the state of Maryland as a member of the Public Service Commission, a board of only five people which, among other responsibilities, is charged with the task of approving or rejecting rate increases by public utilities. Once again, he brought distinction to Garrett County in that capacity.

Besides being a person with outstanding leadership abilities, Wayne was a man of kindness, courtesy, generosity, and great character.

Rarely does one so skilled make the decision to dive into the brutal political arena, but we are convinced that Garrett County is a much better place to live because Wayne Hamilton had the courage to take that leap. We will long remember him for that.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Garrett County is finally getting some relief from the severe weather conditions we have had. We should be eternally grateful for the excellent tireless efforts that the Garrett County road crews have performed to keep our roads in drivable condition. A special thanks to anyone that had any part in performing this difficult feat.

Also I would like to give a special thanks to two fine gentlemen who stopped and assisted me following my accident on Rt. 135S. A state road driver also stopped to assist and I sincerely appreciate all that they did to facilitate getting me aid. Also thanks to the rescue squad who so ably performed their task of getting me to the hospital.

In the tragedy that happened a few weeks ago we find out what an outstanding and caring county that we have. Many times I look out the window and say, "Thank you, God, for Garrett County."

Accident

To the Editor:

We were in California when news of the Frantz family accident reached us. After the initial shock and disbelief, we began to realize that, 5,000 miles away from Garrett County, we had never felt closer to the people in this community. Grief brings people together. When a family and a community suffer a loss the magnitude of that tragedy, we grope for understanding and struggle for words to express our sorrow. Your editorial reminded us how futile these efforts are and how frail the words. The accident has canceled our logic, we have questions, but no answers. We feel hurt and angry and terribly vulnerable.

Yet even as we grieve and reach out to members of Pam's and Paul's families with our thoughts and prayers, we celebrate the lives that have been taken from us, and are thankful for the many ways that Pam and Paul touched so many segments of this community. They were both very active, energetic young people who gave a great deal of themselves for others — their families, their churches, their friends and co-workers, their community organizations.

We at Garrett Community College were beneficiaries of their lives in many ways. I am had been a student at the college, a regular attendee and reporter of Board of Trustees meetings, and a valued member of the Tech Prep Marketing Committee. She has left us a legacy, not only of her talented writings, but of her buoyant spirit and exuberance for life. Paul was an alumnus of GCC, a former employee, treasurer of the Alumni Association and an ardent Laker fan. He seldom missed a basketball game. His integrity and his sense of good sportsmanship set examples for everyone who played ball with him and to all who knew him.

Now we say, "Hasta la vista," to these two friends, and turn to our affairs, we know we will miss them, but we will never forget.

I want to thank the Oakland Post Office for good service. I have received letters with an incorrect address, and some with a "guess address," but still they reached me.

I have lived a lot of places, including a big city and a town of 500 population. The post office here is tops.

Keep up the good work.

To the Editor:

When I heard that one of our faithful, trustworthy volunteers, Virginia Hullett had gone to her eternal reward, many thoughts of good times together flashed through my mind.

Her enthusiasm in balloon tennis, encouraging people to play, yet maintaining each person's dignity was a joy. With the same dignity, she pursued life and believed everyone else should enjoy it also.

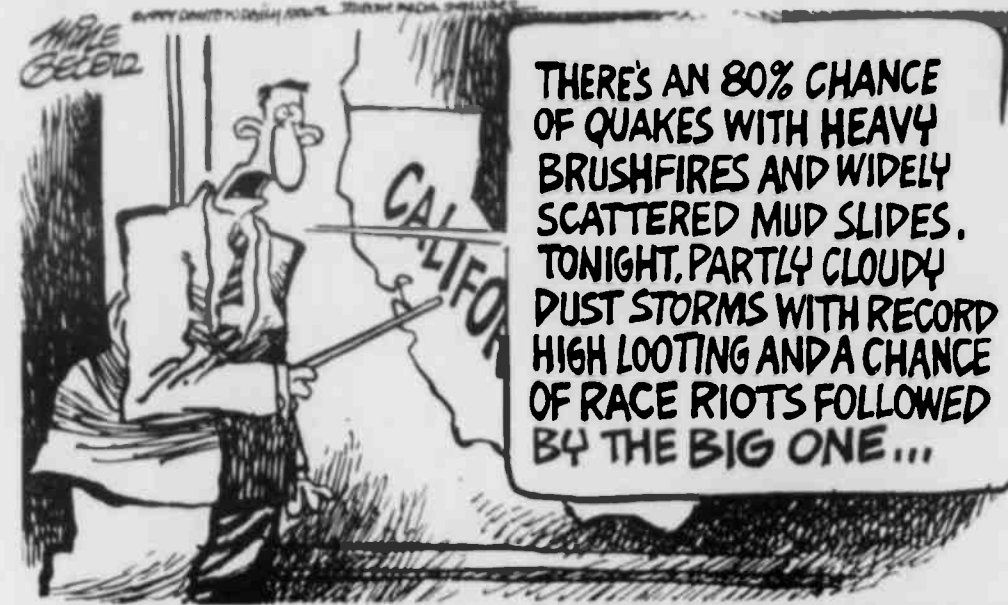

"Enjoy life," that must have been a motto with which she lived. She gave to others of her time and resources to add joy to their day.

Mrs. Hullett shared with us her quiet inner strength as she worked in crafts, helping others sew, enjoying their accomplishments as if they were her own.

"Creating at her sewing machine" was one of Mrs. Hullett's favorites. Many were the finished products that found their way to those who enjoyed them.

The Goodwill Nursing Home Community will truly miss her smile, spontaneous enthusiasm, and the caring spirit which she showed to friends, residents and staff. However, she leaves with us an example of community spirit challenging us to pick up the torch of love.

Sincerely,
Idella Bender

To the Editor:

I am not a journalist, but I would like to express some feelings.

I have known the Frantz family for such a long time. I had known and loved Paul and Pam for almost all their lives. I know Ed so well and have loved him and Ann, too. I graduated with Lynne and he and Steve shared a trailer during their first years of teaching.

I did not know Sherry, Brad, or Mary Kay as well, but Darrell talked lovingly of Brad and Mary Kay from Northern.

Paul and I worked in the church and often talked when we would see each other. I always left him feeling good. He knew just what to say and how to hit me up. I also know and love Debbie, Brandon, and Nathan.

To take nothing away from our love for the Frantz family, I also sympathize with Alvin Lewis. I feel concern not knowing what happened to him to have caused the accident. I did not know him, although I met him briefly at the hospital, but I know he suffers, too. Alvin has a long time of remembering and healing ahead of him.

Elva and Jim had to be great parents to have had these six children — a tribute to a good family.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Darrell Malone

Hamilton indicated that not every boundary line of the state forest is clearly identified and that, just recently, the Maryland Board of Public Works had authorized $17,000 to be used to determine those boundary lines.

The tract of land where the trees were cut is not accessible by road so the timber company used a utility right of way.

Approximately 150 acres of timber are cut annually in the forest by timber companies hired by the state.

The state is reportedly still negotiating with individuals who allegedly cut approximately 45 acres of trees in Savage River State Forest about four years ago. The trees were valued at approximately $34,000, according to officials.

The dog, which was previously vaccinated, will receive a rabies booster shot and will be observed for 90 days.

This case reaffirms the importance of pet owners to take precautions if they must handle their pets after they come in contact with wild animals, a health dept. spokesperson said. The rabies virus, which is spread through saliva of the infected animal, can survive for up to two hours on the fur coat of animals. If pet-owners must handle their dog or cat within two hours after they have fought with or otherwise have had contact with wild animals, persons are advised to wear protective gloves and to wash their hands thoroughly with soap and water afterwards.

proposed McHenry Sewage Storage Facility. The commissioners had agreed to back a loan secured by the sanitary commission through a local lending institution to cover interim financing of the project.

Beitzel had explained to the commissioners that interim financing would be of value during the design and construction of the storage facility during times when the work could be completed but funding sources might be lagging.

In other news from the Sanitary District, Beitzel reported to the county commissioners that a Jennings resident has been voicing concern about "a real problem with sewage running over his property."

Edgar Harman, director of the Garrett County Environmental Health Department, was on hand to explain that Jennings is an old community with sewage still being discharged into streams and, indirectly, into the Casselman River. "Basically, the community needs a public sewer system."

Beitzel then explained that various state agencies have been contacted concerning the community's dilemma, and that "numerous ideas on how to correct the problem have been received."

He outlined the three possible solutions, stating that the community could opt to petition the Sanitary Commission, appeal to the county commissioners to create a sanitary district, or the Health Department could intervene and order a solution. He also noted that grant funding would probably be available for the purpose of creating a sanitary district but that "someone would have to be the responsible agent."

Furthermore, he said, funding would not be made available for the operation and maintenance of such a system, noting that Jennings is an impoverished community whose members are, on the whole, not able to pay for such a system.

In fact, there has been no indication that support exists within the community to create a sanitary district.

Beitzel concluded that the severity of the problem needs to be evaluated before "anything else can be done."

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey then advised Beitzel to proceed with obtaining a block grant for the study.

Student Assistance Programs

(written by Lisa Bender, Marketing Instructor, Southern High School.)

In an on-going effort to combat drug and alcohol abuse, the Garrett County School System has teamed up with the local Health Department to offer the Student Assistance Program in both the middle and high schools. The program is a unique prevention and intervention program designed to assist students who are experiencing problems. Students who display poor attendance, changes in grades, behavioral changes and other at-risk indicators may be referred to each school's Student Assistance Team.

The Student Assistance Team is made up of two teachers, guidance counselors, a school nurse, administrators, and an additions counselor from the Garrett County Health Department. The primary obligation is to respect the integrity and promote the welfare of any student referred to the team. Confidentiality is consistent throughout the processes of identification, referral, and counseling of the student. Each team member receives specific training in working with at-risk youth.

The team follows a systematic approach to helping our young people who show signs of poor performance. The five steps in the program include: 1) identification, 2) date collection, 3) intervention, 4) referral, and 5) follow-up. This systematic process allows the team to gather information from other concerned professionals such as teachers, guidance counselors, bus drivers, administrators and other school professionals to see if there are patterns in a student's behavior and whether the student might be considered "at-risk."

Once a student is referred and data is collected, the team members work together to determine the best course of action to assist the student. Formal and informal interventions between the student, the team, and parents may then occur. The basic goal is to identify students with drug and alcohol problems and to break the cycle of harmful involvement. This is accomplished through the assistance of an additions counselor. The student may be asked to meet periodically with the counselor to better understand the harmful consequences of substance abuse.

The local Student Assistance Programs have recently been recognized by the Governor's Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse for their prevention efforts. The program is working effectively because both parents and school professionals accept the challenges of assisting young people who struggle with issues of independence, peer pressure, and the demands of the classroom. This program allows our local schools to continue their commitment to helping all students achieve success.

What's Happening in Our Schools?

The Maryland Test of Citizenship Skills will be administered to all ninth grade students on Tuesday, Feb. 1.

*On Thursday, Feb. 10, an orientation session will be conducted at Southern High School on the Tech Prep program which will go into operation in the high schools next year. This session is very important for both middle and high school students and their parents and will begin at 7:30 p.m. The same session will be provided at Northern High School on Feb. 17 at the same time.

Note: The Superintendent's Update can be heard every other Sunday on WMSG/WXIE Radio at 8:15 a.m. and every other Saturday on WKHJ at 8:30 a.m.

SCHINDLER'S LIST

Universal Pictures; directed by Steven Spielberg; starring Liam Neeson, Ben Kingsley, Ralph Fiennes, Caroline Goodall, Jonathan Sagall and Embeth Davidtz.

The indelible images sear your soul. A man flicks new fallen flakes of snow from his coat only to find that the air has been showering human ashes down upon him. Nurses poison their immobile patients to save them from a more hideous slaughter to come. Suitcases brim over with family pictures of owners who have been led to their deaths. A man idly exercises on his balcony by randomly picking off helpless workers with his hunting rifle as they toil on the grounds below.

This is Schindler's List and it bears enduring cinematic witness, as Anne Frank's diary did to literature, of the horrors that were the Holocaust.

Steven Spielberg has created far more than his own greatest masterpiece. He has combined his spell-binding storytelling abilities with a deeply rooted morality to produce the peak of moviemaking — technically, visually, emotionally.

No possibility here of being so overwhelmed by the magnitude of suffering that you are numb to feeling for each individual's plight. Spielberg strikes a furious immediacy. Every victim has a name and a history. Yet no opportunity for cinematic drama is ever lost.

Consider the plot. A great hero rises above his own human flaws to save mankind. Hairbreadth escapes abound. A sadistic villain vies for the soul of the hero with a saintly man. If this were an Indiana Jones sequel, some of the exploits would seem preposterous exaggeration. But this is the documented true story of German Christian Oskar Schindler's saving of 1,100 Jews under the eyes of the Nazis in World War II, and if anything, his heroism is underplayed.

Liam Neeson is suavely elegant as the industrialist, Nazi party member, master manipulator and consciousness womanizer Schindler whose feigned cooperation with, and abundant bribes to, the Nazis enabled him to save his Jewish workers from extermination at Auschwitz. Ben Kingsley is quietly marvellous as his reserved, thoughtful Jewish accountant Itzhak Stern, gently nurturing Schindler's humanistic impulses. Ralph Fiennes completes the spectacular acting trio as the vicious commandant Amon Goeth.

Spielberg's chilling black and white camera is compelling, and his touches of color exquisitely used to heighten and personalize the action. Superb acting all around, precise editing and a somberly beautiful musical score complete the cinematic vision.

But Spielberg's legacy with Schindler's List is far greater than

School Board

Aaron Jones of Southern Middle School asked the school board if new doors have been budgeted for the boys' bathroom, where there are currently none at the present time. He was informed that the doors are in the budget for next year. Another student asked if more cultural events could be staged in the schools, such as traveling artists or musicians.

Tatum Shomo, speaking for Southern High School, first expressed the students' appreciation of the newly-paved parking lot. She also noted the somewhat dangerous situation at the close of school when cars and buses are leaving the lot. Currently there is a "left turn only" policy in effect from 3:15-3:30 p.m., and Miss Shomo asked if that was the best solution to the congestion problem. Clark Sharpless, transportation supervisor, said the problem has been looked at from several angles, and as of now, the policy has proved to be the safest. He also suggested that students leaving in cars could wait until 3:30 to exit the lot.

Cyndi Savage, also of Southern, voiced the students' concern about general maintenance, citing mainly the almost constant lack of toilet paper in the bathrooms and the uncleanness of the facilities. Michael Sines, maintenance supervisor, said the problem is also the fault of the students, who do not properly use the facilities. Miss Savage reiterated that she was only voicing the concerns of students and she would relay his message. She also thanked Richard Buckingham, food service manager, for the problem-free cafeteria this year.

Amber Close, Northern High School, asked the board to consider providing students Advanced Placement (AP) courses, which are classes through which students may earn credits toward a college degree. The classes are offered in 40% of all the nation's high schools, Miss Close said, and include courses of math, science, humanities, and the arts. She explained that a student may even complete enough credits to make up an entire freshman year of college, thus she may graduate one year early. The student then offered to contact the proper authorities herself to get more information, if the board wished for her to do so.

Ryscavage informed Miss Close that the issue has been discussed, but, as Director of Secondary Education Luther Parrack explained, the local system is restricted by thin staffing and tight budget restraints. The addition of the college level courses would require specialized training of teachers, as they must teach the materials provided by AP authorities. Parrack noted that AP classes are not completely ruled out, however, and that the addition of them would take time.

Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent, asked Miss Close to continue in her quest, and to be the education board's "conscience" in pursuing the AP program.

Wrenny Smith, also of Northern, asked the board to consider a final exam exemption policy in which students could be exempt from a class final if he or she had a 94+ average in that class.

The education board members thanked the students for attending, and informed them that their concerns would be considered and discussed.

Waste Ordinance

other large equipment or machinery, and any liquid waste. Unacceptable waste shall not be delivered to Garrett County operated landfills or solid waste collection sites.

A standing provision of the ordinance disallows the placement of solid waste generated outside of Garrett County. A sentence was added to that paragraph stating that in the rare event such placement is necessary, proper monetary compensation to the county as determined by the commissioners will be a prerequisite for such permission.

"That's not to say that we're going to start accepting a lot of out-of-county solid waste," Giotfelty said. "It's just there in case the situation arises."

One topic that raised some question was the added clause concerning "commercial waste." The statement is as follows: "It shall be unlawful to deposit solid waste generated by commercial enterprises at solid waste collection sites other than the landfill. Waste generated by commercial enterprises must be hauled directly to the Garrett County Landfill when disposing of such waste in Garrett County."

Commissioner John Braskey and others in attendance asked about the exact definition of "commercial." "Does that mean every business - including very small operations that may only generate a few bags of garbage per week?" Braskey asked. Some discussion followed, and Giotfelty acknowledged that the word "commercial" is somewhat ambiguous and a further clarification would be written into the statement.

A new provision added disallows the disposal of any type of tire at collection sites or into the landfill.

"Automobile, motorcycle, truck, heavy equipment, or any other type of tire may not be disposed of at [collection sites] unless specifically allowed by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling. Tires may be taken to the [landfill] where they will be stored prior to transportation to an approved processing facility."

The ordinance also states that operating personnel at the landfill may reject the deposit of any waste if deemed unusual in amount or characteristic. This would have to be considered on a "case-by-case" basis, Giotfelty said.

Added to the ordinance is the following statement concerning fees: The Board of Garrett County Commissioners may establish fees for disposal of any type of solid waste at the [landfill] or at other collection sites. These fees will be collected by the Garrett Co. Office of Solid Waste and Recycling or its designee upon delivery of waste to county collection or disposal facilities.

Giotfelty explained that the commissioners already have the authority to set fees, and that this statement simply clarifies that the money would be paid into the solid waste/recycling

Breathe Deep SCUBA

Breathe Deep SCUBA was established in 1992 and is owned and operated by Denny Savage. The dive shop is located near Deep Creek Lake on the Mayhew Inn Road.

Breathe Deep SCUBA offers snorkeling and SCUBA diving lessons and certifications. Along with the basic open water certification, specialty courses offered are: night diver, deep diver, rescue diver, advanced open water, search and recovery, and high altitude. Classes are small to insure individual attention and the high quality of training will give the diver the assurance to encounter challenging underwater conditions. Certifications are through the Professional Diving Instructors Corp. ENJOYING A SAMPLE — Fred and Christiane Borghalm, proprietors of the French Cafe Bakery and the Le French Cafe, are among the many food providers for the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity "Sparkles and Sweets Affaire." Bob Simmons, one of the chairs of the event, is seen here "tasting his taste buds" on a chocolate rose lollipop. When asked why they are willing to participate, Fred replied, "It's a good opportunity to make a donation to a good cause and see the results in Garrett County." The Sparkles and Sweets Affaire will be Friday, February 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp. Admission is an $8 donation to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. Tickets will be available at the French Cafe Bakery, the Le French Cafe, Marvin's Men's Wear, and the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

The Art Garret

The Art Garret, an art supply and print store, has been opened in Oakland by sisters Jennifer Evans and Rebecca McClive. Located on South Second Street next to Rudy's, the store officially opened on December 1, 1993, with almost everything an artist needs, including paint supplies, screen printing supplies and much more. Custom framing is done and stock frames can be purchased at the store.

Signed prints by local artists Ken Bauer, Jessie Brobst and Mark Stutzman are available, and shows of local artists works will be featured regularly.

On display right now are works by the owners' father, Chip Evans. The elder Evans is retired from the U.S. Navy and retired from The Wisp Resort. Many of his paintings and carvings can also be seen at The Wisp. He has received awards for his work including a prestigious Cumberland water color award.

The entire family is artistically talented. Several years ago a family show was displayed at Garrett Community College with works by McClive and Evans, their father, sisters Alison Evans and Susan Smith, and brother, Joe Evans. Jennifer is a 1984 graduate of Southern High School and a graduate of the Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore. Rebecca and her husband, Doug McClive, also own and operate McClive's

In Memory of our Mother Ethel Durst who went to Rest January 20, 1983

God looked around the garden and he saw an empty space. Then he looked down from Heaven and picked you to fill the place. He put his arms around you and whispered "Come to rest". His garden must be beautiful for he only picks the best. Your memory is a keepsake which will never depart. God has you in his keeping-but we have you in our hearts.

Kellie Iden Becomes Bride Of Michael Fulmer In October Event

Kelli Renae Iden and Michael Allen Fulmer were united in marriage October 23, 1993, during a double-ring ceremony at the Loch Lynn Church of God, with the Rev. Robert Fletcher officiating.

Harrison Stewart, vocalist, sang Walk Hand in Hand and The Lord's Prayer, accompanied by Jody Fletcher, pianist.

The bride is the daughter of Gary and Sandra Iden, McHenry. The groom is the son of Michael and Susan Fulmer, Mtn. Lake Park.

Preceding the ceremony, the parents of the bride and groom lighted candles and during the ceremony the couple lighted the unity candle along with a candle for their daughter, Ayla.

Given in marriage by her ing bouquet of white roses and lilies was accented with teal, ivy, and pearl sprays.

Amy Bittering, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy Ford, friend of the bride, Rebecca Sines and Debra Fulmer, sisters of the groom. They were attired in black dresses with scalloped necklines and short puffed sleeves. The flower girl, Mariah Sines, niece of the groom, wore a white lace dress accented with teal flowers and bow. Each carried bouquets of white and teal.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails, white vest, and bow tie. Doug Lewis, friend of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Brandon Davis, cousin of the bride, Jason Dilley, friend of the groom, and Gregory Iden, brother of the bride. Each wore black tuxedos with teal cummerbunds and bow ties. The ring bearer was Jared Thorn, friend of the groom.

Shonna DeWitt, cousin of the bride, registered guests. She and Shane DeWitt, cousin of the bride, distributed bird seed.

Videographer for the ceremony was Jimmy Iden, cousin of the bride, and photographer was Carla Holland.

As a surprise for the bride, the groom arranged for them to be chauffeured to the reception by horse and carriage belonging to Ed Shoupe, Frostburg.

The reception was held at the BPO Elks Lodge in Oakland. Music was provided by "Scarecrow." The lodge was decorated with black, white, and teal color scheme. A buffet dinner was prepared by Carolyn Murray, cousin of the bride, and other family members. The wedding cake with teal flowing fountain and staircases was prepared and served by Karen Bowers, aunt of the groom.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Loch Lynn Church of God fellowship hall. A bridal shower was hosted by the groom's mother and sisters.

Following a honeymoon to Freeport Island, Bahamas, the couple established residence at Harvey's Peninsula.

The bride, a graduate of Northern High School, is attending Garrett Community College part-time working towards an accounting degree. The groom, a graduate of Southern High School, is employed by Mettiki Coal Company.

Sines Couple To Celebrate 60th

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Sines, Oakland, will observe their 60th wedding anniversary on January 27 at their home near Swallow Falls.

Edgar and Peggy were married January 27, 1934, in Clarksburg, W.Va., by the Rev. Nelson Thorn. They moved to the Oakland area from Morgantown, W.Va., in 1945.

They are the parents of six children: Walter (deceased), Richard, Stephen and Eddie, all of Swallow Falls, and Marilyn Friend and Frani King, both of Friendsville. They have 18 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Sines are members of the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, Swallow Falls.

The bride-elect, daughter of Roger and Mary White, is a 1990 graduate of Southern High School and a 1993 graduate of the Clarksburg Beauty Academy.

Her fiancé is the son of Blondell and Alice Chapman. He is a 1985 graduate of Southern High School.

A private wedding ceremony is planned for March. Invitations are being sent.

4-H Club News

NORTH STAR
by Debra Green, reporter

The meeting of the North Star 4-H Club was held January 11 at the Accident fire hall at 7 p.m. We have four new members and we talked about our projects for the coming year. Our club is going to have practice speeches at our March meeting.

We had two demonstrations, by Heather Malcomb with her ferret, Georgette, and Kista Knox with her sheep dog, Red.

We also talked about our goal for the new year. It was that every member should participate in county things and in the District show.

Our next meeting will be February 8 at 7 p.m. in the Accident fire hall.

Waste Ordinance

office. The fees have not been decided upon, he said, and various fee structures are being considered.

Robert Shaw, a spokesman from Harbison Walker Refractories, Grantsville, was present at the hearing and voiced his concern about pending costs for businesses.

"Business is bleak for us right now, and I would just like for you all to consider that when you set fees for the landfill," Shaw said.

In a later interview, Glotfelty said he understood the concerns of business owners. But he also noted that the state-mandated function of the new landfill and collection sites has to be funded in some fashion, whether it be through fees or new taxes.

A new provision was added in the enforcement section, and the fines for violators were raised. While the original ordinance stated that a violator shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, the updated ordinance proposes fines not less than $250 nor more than $2,500.

The new provision is as follows: Any person, corporation, partnership, or any other entity violating this ordinance shall also be subject to a civil penalty of not less than $75.

Any person wishing to express comments about the ordinance may do so in writing until February 1. Comments may be directed to Glotfelty at the Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, or in care of the commissioners. Interested persons may obtain a copy of the ordinance by contacting Glotfelty at 334-9337.

GETS DEGREE, NEW SON

William Patrick Denison graduated from International University in Miami, Fla., with a B.S. degree in construction management. A resident of the area, he is employed by Dade County, Fla., in county inspection.

He is the son of Doris Denison of Miami Lake, Fla., and of Frank Denison and a grandson of Maxine Hauser and Grace Denison of Aurora.

His graduation was on Dec. 20, 1993, and on Dec. 21, he and his wife became the parents of a son who weighed six pounds and has been named Patrick Neil Denison. Patrick is now at home with sister, Sarah Jean, who is 2 years old.

RODMAN BIRTH

Dr. Jack and Carla Rodman of Nashville, Tenn., are announcing the birth of their first child on Tuesday, Jan. 18, 1994. The six-pound, two-ounce daughter has been named Katherine Christine.

Mrs. Rodman is the daughter of Carlton and Jean Skipper of Kingwood. Great-grandparents are Hazel Skipper of Kingwood and Ron and Avenell Parsons of Eglog. The Rodman grandparents and great-grandparents are Michigan residents.

Luke Mill Report for January 1994, features an article concerning the Burlington Old Fashioned Apple Harvest Festival and Westvaco employee, Jeff Pyles, known as "Mr. Apple Butter." Included in the pictures is one showing Ruth Snyder of Aurora who is known as quality control supervisor of the apple butter making. Ruth is 82 and hasn't missed a day of the festival for 19 years.

Standing beside Mrs. Snyder, and pictured actually stirring the apple butter, is Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run. This article also includes an interview with Rev. Lynn Beckman, vice president for Development of Burlington United Methodist Family Services and formerly of Oakland.

SHOEMAKER DEATH

Word was received of the death of Sheridan Shoemaker, 64, of Oakland, on January 21, 1994, at the Clarksburg Veterans Hospital. He was a son of the late Hazel Shoemaker and reared by the late Eugene and Bessie Shoemaker of Brookside. He had lately made his home with the Ralph Stemple at Red House. He is survived by several aunts and uncles.

Preston Workshop Selling Tickets

During the January meeting of the Preston County Sheltered Workshop Board of Directors, the Board decided to sell 50/50 tickets. The fund-raising committee, composed of Darla Walden, local DRS counselor, Mary Jo Gregg, magistrate assistant, and Howard Dugan, assessor's assistant, prepared the campaign.

Tickets are $1 each. The drawing will be held on St. Patrick's Day (March 17) at the Sheltered Workshop.

In addition to Board members, clients, staff and part-time workers of the Preston County Sheltered Workshop have tickets to sell. This fund-raising effort will go solely to the Building Fund. For information, persons may call the Sheltered Workshop at 864-6446.

Survey For Head Start Underway

The Eastern Allegheny Council for Human Services, Inc. - Head Start Program is presently engaged in a planning process that will determine the future needs for Head Start and other child care services in the Grant, Pendleton, Hardy, and Hampshire County areas.

The final results will be reported in a comprehensive Community Needs Assessment. The primary purpose of the assessment is to determine the number of children and families living within the communities that are eligible for Head Start services.

A critical aspect of this assessment process is that all areas within the four counties are covered. Community support and involvement is critical. Attempts are being made to determine how many children, age 5 and under, live in the four counties. Since current eligibility requirements, set by the federal government, for Head Start are based upon income and the number living in the household, this information is needed to determine the number of eligible Head Start children. The goal is to provide an opportunity for every eligible child and family to participate in the program. By gathering this information Head Start will be able to develop programs based upon the needs of the communities.

Presently Head Start

serves 218 children in the four-county area. There are center-based programs in Franklin, Riverton, Petersburg, Old Fields and Romney, plus three home-based programs in Hardy and Hampshire to contribute to this process may do so by contacting, Head Start at 304-257-4853.

Kindergarten Registration Now Underway

Preston County elementary schools are in the process of pre-registering students for kindergarten for the 1994-95 school year.

School officials will pre-register students through February. "It is especially important for the schools to have these names this year for program planning," a school spokesman said.

Officials are seeking the names and birthdates of 5-year-olds to plan for the kindergarten program next year. "If you have a child, or know of one, who will be 5 years old before September 1, 1994, please contact your local school," the spokesman said.

The school will need the child's name, birthdate, social security number (if available), parent or guardian's name, telephone number, and address. Public Law 18-2-5C requires a "certified" birth certificate. A certified birth certificate can only be obtained by writing to the Vital Registration Office in Charleston. Children cannot be registered for school without the certified certificate.

Persons with questions about West Virginia attendance laws, early entrance requirements, or other questions, may contact Gary Warnick at the Preston County School Board Office. The telephone number is 329-0580.

New Coach

"Through the hard work of Coach Nesselrodt, Garrett has established one of the most stable baseball programs throughout Maryland, Pennsylvania, and the West Virginia areas. All-Americans and professional players have come from GCC, and I am thrilled to be the one who inherits the organization that has completed those achievements. I see nothing but continued success for the program. That success will begin in the classroom, extend to the community, and conclude on the baseball field. The student-athletes who come here will leave not only with success on the field, but with some very rewarding learning experiences that will enrich their lives forever. They will have GCC to thank for that."

Northern Boys Coast To Four Straight Wins; Record 8-2

Being busy seems to agree with the Northern High School boys varsity, which has played four games in just six days and coasted to victory in all four. The Huskies crushed visiting Salisbury Friday night, 73-34, breezed past Oldtown at the Cove on Saturday, 92-53, flattened visiting Elk Garden on Tuesday, 85-40, and rolled over host Flintstone last night, 61-31. The victories improved the Huskies' record to 8-2 overall, 4-0 in the Mid-Appalachian League, and guaranteed them at least a tie for the league championship.

The Huskies had little difficulty recording their fifth win of the season Friday night against Salisbury, as they broke a 4-4 tie midway through the first quarter with a 12-0 run to take a 16-4 advantage by the end of the period.

They stretched their lead to 33-10 by intermission and led 55-23 after three periods.

Derek Mason paced the Huskies with 14 points, Tim Hinebaugh scored 13, and Rob Speicher, back in the line-up after knee surgery, finished with 11 points.

Hinebaugh also pulled down 10 rebounds and Jon Hinebaugh dished out six assists.

Salisbury (1-5) was led in scoring by Jason Benning with eight points.

Northern Coach Harv Speicher not only played every one of his players, but every one of them scored in the contest.

The Northern junior varsity also won the preliminary game, but the margin of victory was just one point, 39-38. Mark Hinebaugh led the Huskies in scoring with 11 points. Rob Bates paced the Salisbury javees with 12 points.

A 35-point second quarter by the Huskies highlighted their game Saturday against Oldtown, as Tim Hinebaugh led the way with a game-high 24 points and Speicher finished with 16 points.

The Huskies started slow and found themselves behind 7-0 before finding the mark and taking a 17-13 lead by the end of the first quarter. They then went on a 35-13 rout in the second period to take a commanding 52-25 halftime advantage, and expanded their lead to 71-35 by the end of the third stanza.

five assists, and Tim Hinebaugh had five steals.

Chris Bingham scored 16 points to lead the Indians, while Adam Abe netted 10 and Joe Lease contributed nine.

The Northern junior varsity easily won the preliminary game and upped its record to 5-1 by trouncing the Oldtown javees, 55-16. Jeff Wagner scored 11 points to pace the Huskies, while David Lease netted six for Oldtown.

Tuesday's game against visiting Elk Garden was no more of a challenge for Coach Speicher's team, as the Huskies held quarter leads of 26-8, 41-20, and 64-33.

Speicher, Mason, and Tim Hinebaugh paced the Northern offensive effort with 16, 15, and 14 points, respectively, while Jason Evans led the Stags with 16 points and Mike Lyons finished with nine.

The Northern javees recorded another easy win in the first game, rolling over the Elk Garden junior varsity, 67-26. Joey Layman scored 12 points to lead the Huskies and Brian Bobo netted 12 to pace the Stags.

Speicher led the way in scoring again last night at Flintstone, as he finished with 17 points and was the only Husky to reach double figures.

Northern once again controlled the action from the early moments of the game, moving out to an 18-7 lead by the end of the first period, stretching their advantage to 39-13 by halftime, and leading 54-26 going into the final quarter.

Southern Girls Rip Allegany; Record Is 8-3

The Southern High School girls' varsity won its sixth straight game and upped its record to 8-3 by ripping visiting Allegany Monday evening, 62-32.

Back in Coach Don Stemple's line-up is last season's top scorer in the area, Carrie Newcomb, who had been sidelined for several weeks with an ankle injury. She and Emily Friend led the Rams with 18 points each to abruptly halt Allegany's winning streak at six games.

Friend also grabbed 10 rebounds and Newcomb pulled down nine, while Aaron Buser finished with 12 points and seven assists.

The Rams held leads of 18-9 and 27-19 at the ends of the first two quarters before really putting the game away in the third period when they outscored the Campers by a 19-2 margin.

"Our defensive aggressiveness in the third quarter really made the difference," stated Coach Stemple. "The girls really took the game to another level defensively and also executed well offensively during that stretch."

Stemple credited his guards, Josey Covello, Buser, Staci Kisner, and Alisha Rugg, with the outstanding

NHS CHEERLEADERS HEADED FOR STATE FINALS -- The Northern High School (NHS) Cheerleaders will travel to College Park on January 30, after having been selected as one of 16 qualifying teams, based on maneuvers, spirit, cheer, and dance routine. The cheerleaders competed against eight other schools in their category in the Maryland Cheer Classic state preliminary try-outs held recently in College Park. Coaches for the cheerleaders are Kelly Martz and Lisa Carr. Persons wishing to make donations to help cover the cost of food and lodging may do so by contacting Martz at the school. Shown in the above photo, first row, left to right, are Cyndi Kolbfeish, captain; Lisa Carr and Kelly Martz, coaches, and Kelly Friend, captain. In the second row, same order, are Jenny Rider, Angela Lapp, and Becky Uphold. In the third row, same order, are Erin Selders, Larah Friend, Lori Giotfelty, and Erin Bray (who is no longer with the team). Standing in the fourth row, same order, are Tara Braskey, Amy McKenzie, and Stephanie Friend.

Pacing the Campers (6-5) in scoring was Tami Welch, who scored 12 points.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious in the preliminary game, as Keri Cannon scored 19 points and Miranda Marple netted 15 to lead the Rams to a 44-32 win over the Allegany javees. McFarland led the Campers' scoring with 11 points.

The Rams will not play again until Monday when they travel to Bishop Walsh.

Lakers Improve National Ranking With Two More Wins

The Garrett Community College Lakers, who are now ranked 12th in the nation in Division II standings, continued to tack on victories this past week, as they upped their season record to 14-3 with a 103-88 win at Butler Community College on Saturday and then hammered Potomac State College in Keyser on Monday, 109-85.

The Lakers were to have played again last night at home against nationally-ranked Montgomery-Rockville, but the opponent did not show up for the game. The Lakers face a tough schedule this week, as they are slated to play at eighth-ranked Prince George's CC on Friday, play at Howard CC, ranked sixth in Division II, on Saturday, and then play at CCAC-South on Wednesday. The Montgomery-Rockville game has been re-scheduled for February 4.

Troy Sexton hit five three-point goals and led the Lakers with 24 points against Butler, while Wes Tubbs finished with 19 points and a dozen rebounds. Jermaine Jones scored 17 points, Shane Scott netted 15, and George Hilton chipped in with 10.

The Pioneers held a 34-29 lead with seven minutes remaining in the first half, but the Lakers erupted for a 15-0 spurt to give them a 43-34 advantage. They led 49-37 at halftime and never relinquished the lead in the second half.

The Lakers led by as many as 30 points (79-49) midway through the second half, allowing Coach Dennis Gibson to substitute freely. Butler came back to cut the lead to 13 points, 95-82, with about three minutes remaining, but could get no closer.

Jones and Tubbs were each credited with five assists and Jones also recorded four steals.

Hal Koenenmund led Butler and all scorers with 33 points, 15 of which were recorded on three-point goals. David Jones, Arnell Johnson, and Phil Rodenbaugh also finished in double figures with 18, 14, and 11 points, respectively.

Tubbs, Scott, and Oliver Jones led the way Monday night in Keyser against Potomac State, as Tubbs scored 24 points and Scott and Jones each finished Garrett (103) with 23 points. Sexton and Jones each pulled down eight rebounds and Kenny Gross dished out 11 assists and had four steals.

Garrett held a 60-46 advantage at halftime after the Catamounts (11-6) made a run at them late in the first half. Potomac State could get no closer than 10 points in the second half.

The Lakers had to play without Hilton, who was sidelined with an injured ankle.

David Thompson led the Catamounts in scoring with 28 points, Marcus Gaines finished with 13, and Chris Teal scored 11. Thompson also recorded seven rebounds, four steals, and four assists, while Gaines had 11 rebounds.

Garrett CC (109) Jermaine Jones 0-5-5, Brett Coleman 3-1-7, Jason Brenneman 30-0-7, Wes Tubbs 10-4-24, Shane Scott 8-3-23, Oliver Jones 11-1-23, Troy Sexton 5-0-14, Andy Scott 3-0-6, Kenny Gross 09-0-0. Totals: 43-14-21-109.

Duling Paces Laker Women To Win Over Catonsville, Rockville

Led by former Southern High School standout Michele Duling, the Garrett Community College women's basketball team improved its record to 3-2 with a pair of victories this past week, including a 71-51 defeat of visiting Catonsville CC on Sunday and an 88-73 beating of Montgomery-Rockville last night, also on the Lakers' court.

Duling, who is leading the nation in junior college Division II scoring, ripped the nets for 33 points in the Maryland JUCO Conference win over Catonsville, as she hit 11 field goals and seven of nine attempts from the foul line.

The Lakers jumped out to a 13-0 lead, with Duling and Missy LaRue each nailing three-point buckets. The Cardinals did not score until the 14-minute mark of the half and were down 32-18 at intermission.

Garrett came back after halftime to score 23 of the first 35 points to take its biggest lead of the game at 55-30.

Also reaching double figures for GCC were Missy LaRue with 15 points and former Northern High standout Wanda Swartzwelder with 12. Swartzwelder also grabbed nine rebounds, while former Husky Cara Wachter pulled eight. Keisha Slayton blocked four shots.

Rockville, who had only five dressed players and had two of them foul out in the second half, was led in scoring by Regina Grubb with 22 points. Noell White scored 19 and Elicia Paisley finished with 15.

Coach Gibson was pleased to record the win, but was not particularly impressed with his team's effort. "If they had had a couple more players, we would have been in trouble," he said. "Our attitude and approach to the game need some improvement."

Gibson did comment on the outstanding play of Michele Duling, noting that Auburn University contacted him about her just this week.

"She is just a great player," he said. "The coach of Catonsville said that he has had two players go on to Division I teams which both made it to the final four, and that in his opinion Michele is every bit as good as those two women. She really has a bright future."

The Lakers will host arch-rival Allegany Community College this evening in a 6 p.m. contest and then travel to Prince George's CC on Saturday and Howard CC on Sunday.

Rams Stopped By Alco, Then Top Spartans, Upset Wildcats

After being soundly defeated Saturday night by the undefeated Campers of Allegany (77-56), the Southern High boys' varsity came back to record a 50-30 win over visiting Bishop Walsh Tuesday night and then dismantled Westmar, the area's second ranked team, last night, 75-55, in Lonaconing. The results left the Rams, ranked fourth in the area, with a 6-4 record, and set the stage for the second meeting with Allegany this Friday night at home.

The undefeated Campers of Allegany proved to be too strong for the Rams Saturday night, although Coach Tom Bosley's team stayed close until late in the third quarter.

Southern trailed 18-15 at the end of the first period and was behind 35-29 at halftime, but cut Allegany's lead to just one point (40-39) with a 10-2 run in the third period, capped by a lay-up by Brian Reams with 2:38 left in the quarter.

The Campers responded, however, with a 17-point surge in just two minutes to give them a commanding 57-42 lead by the end of the period. The Rams managed just two points during that streak.

The Ram offense could not handle Alco's fullcourt trapping defense, as it turned the ball over 36 times.

D.J. Jessie and Dennis Salas led Allegany's scoring with 20 and 18 points, respectively. Jake Deremer also reached double figures.

Southern (56)
Mark Elliott 4 1-1 10, Jeremy Sanders 6 2-2 14, Joe Forsko 10-0-0 2, Mark Dawson 32-28, Brian Reams 6 1-2 13, Elise Black 0 0-0 0, Rich Skipper 1 1-2 3, Brian Carlson 1 3-5 5, Doug Copeland 0 0-0 0. Totals: 22 10-13 56.

Allegany (77)

SHS After-Prom Meeting Slated

Local residents who are interested in helping plan this year's after prom party for Southern High School are invited to attend a meeting on Thursday, Jan. 27, at 7 p.m. at the school.

Committee chairpersons are currently seeking individuals to serve with them in planning activities for this year's event.

For more information, persons may call 334-4390 after 4 p.m.

Senior Citizen Courses Re-Slated

The following senior citizens classes offered by Garrett Community College that were cancelled because of the cold weather have been re-scheduled.

Painting for Seniors (tole) is scheduled for Wednesday, February 9, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland.

Physical Education for Seniors will be held Wednesday, February 9, from 11:30 a.m. to noon and will meet on Wednesday and Friday.

Fundamentals of Applied Art for Seniors (crafts) will be scheduled on Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. This class will start if there is enough interest.

Painting for Seniors (oil) with Edna Bender is scheduled for February 11 from 9 a.m. to noon. This class will meet each Friday for a total of five weeks.

Basic Crocheting is re-scheduled for February 9 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Maryland senior citizens (persons 60 years of age or older) may attend this course tuition free, but will be charged a $12 fee. They must also supply their own materials. A fee of $15 plus a charge for materials will be charged for others wishing to enroll. Students must pre-register. For more information, persons may call Patricia Baer at (301) 334-8304 or Barbara Hornvak, Area Agency on Aging, at 334-9431.

Potomac Edison Slates Seminar For Home Buyers

The Potomac Edison Company will hold a Home Buying Seminar at the Cumberland Holiday Inn on February 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., to assist customers in making decisions when building or buying a new home. The seminars attracted 220 customers from across Potomac Edison's service area last year.

Western Division Manager Nancy Neff said, "Potomac Edison would like to help its customers live smart and build smart. They can enjoy a lifetime of affordable comfort when energy-efficient appliances, proper insulation and thermal treatment are considered at the time a home is built."

Mrs. Neff noted that Robbie Robison of Robison Skidmore Agency; Charles Goebel of First National Bank of Maryland; Allen Brinsfield of Farmers and Merchants Bank; John Lohnas of Foxcraft Home Builders; and John Emerick of Potomac Edison will all make presentations designed to help home buyers become aware of options available and assist them in making wise decisions when buying.

"These professionals will also be available to answer any questions potential home builders and buyers might have. Participants at past seminars have stated that these presentations were very useful in helping them learn the ins and outs of today's home market," Mrs. Neff said.

Admission to the seminar is free. The Holiday Inn is located on South George Street in Cumberland. Reservations are not necessary, according to Mrs. Neff, but if customers know they will definitely attend, they may call 1-800-654-3317 to indicate their interest.

Sen. Hafer Names Staff For 1994 Assembly Session

District One Senator John J. Hafer, has returned to Annapolis for the 1994 session of the Maryland General Assembly. In order to represent the people of Allegany and Garrett counties to the best of his ability, Senator Hafer has invited and encouraged citizens to keep in touch with him in Annapolis during the next 90 days, according to a spokesperson.

"Any advice and comments are very important to me and will certainly be helpful as I review legislative matters," said Hafer.

District Administrator Mary Beth Pirolozzi will be serving in the Annapolis office during the session, and Barbara Aebischer will be serving as Hafer's administrative assistant. Legislative interns will be Diane Hollern, a graduate student at the University of Maryland and Frostburg State University (FSU) graduate and Jim Bartholomew, a Garrett County resident and political science major at FSU.

The Annapolis office is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Annapolis office may be reached by calling toll-free 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3565.

Senator Hafer will be in the district office in Frostburg on Mondays for calls and appointments to discuss legislative concerns and other matters of interest. The district office will be open on Monday and Tuesday only during the legislative session from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or by calling 301-689-4666. Messages can be received at any time. The Annapolis office will be available every day of the week for assistance.

"I again encourage citizens to maintain regular contact with my office to make me aware of their positions on current legislative issues. Anyone planning to be in Annapolis, is welcome to visit my office - 406 Senate Office Building - and my staff will be happy to assist," concluded Hafer.

Postal Service Asks Customers To Clear Access

Postal workers throughout Maryland are making every effort to deliver mail, despite the adverse conditions caused by the ice, snow, and cold temperatures, according to Postal District Manager Richard W. Rudcz.

"Service will continue on schedule as conditions allow. Some streets are impassible due to the extreme weather this week. Postal patrons residing in areas where we are unable to effect safe delivery may pick up emergency shipments such as medicines at their local post office. Please call to make arrangements," advised Rudcz.

To ensure safe passage of letter carriers, customers in rural areas are asked to clear ice and snow from the area around their mailboxes. City delivery customers help by clearing their walkways and the steps which lead to their mailboxes.

Residents are advised to contact their postmaster for questions about specific delivery areas.

Thank You

The family of Erman Wesley Friend would like to sincerely thank everyone who had helped with his care before and after he passed away. We would especially like to thank Jeanie and John Thayer, Garrett County Home Health located in Swanton, Garrett County Hospice, Stevart's Funeral Home, The Glendale Assembly of God Church, Rev. Gail Hixon, Rev. Dave Goldizen, second and third floor staff at Garrett Memorial Hospital and Dr. Thomas Johnson. We greatly appreciated all of your thoughts and prayers, memorial contributions, cards and the food that had been prepared and sent.

*God bless each and every one of you,
Cora Friend and Family*

"Yes, I would like to join the bowling team. It sounds like fun; but I don't want to be embarrassed. I'm new at this. I'll just roll those awful gutter balls!"

No one ever began as an expert. It takes a lot of gutter balls to result in a strike. Without trying, you haven't a chance. Go for it!

So it is with life; every gutter ball is a potential strike, but you must read the rules.

First, get on your feet, and have faith in yourself and in God. You will be able to take a firm stand and face in the right direction. Then take aim...with some thought behind it. Lastly, get a firm grip and go for it!

Remember, everyone needs practice. Review God's Word often and you will maintain your courage as you visit God each Sabbath. The Mighty Counselor is on your team. You can't lose.

GETTING WHAT'S COMING TO YOU

January 30, 1994

Background Scripture:
Luke 15
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 40:9-11, Ezekiel 34:1-6, 11, 12, 15, 16

If you want to know what makes the Christian concept of God so unique, look at the 15th chapter of Luke.

God's love for us is like the shepherd who is not content to have with him 99 of his 100 sheep, but searches diligently until he finds that one lost sheep. He is like the woman who has lost one of her ten silver coins and with great determination searches until she finds the lost coin. He is also like the father who joyfully and magnanimously welcomes back his prodigal son from whom he has been estranged. And, like all three of these characters, he is so glad to have back those who have been separated from him that he calls all creation to celebrate with him.

The first two parables tell us about the persistent love of God, but the parable of the Prodigal Son tells us also a lot about ourselves. To begin with, "There was a man who had two sons." We might expect that for the purpose of illustration, one of them would be "good" and the other "bad." But, instead of being the epitome of good and evil, they are like us: a bit of both. Most of us can identify something with either or both of them.

The younger son came to his father, saying: "Father, give me the share of property that falls to me." Like so many of us, the basis of the rift between father and son was something material. "Give me what I have coming to me!" How many "relationships" flounder because of selfishness and greed. Yet, in today's society, some people would hail the young man's determination to get what he had coming to him. "He'll go far!" some probably said. And he did: "...into a far country where he squandered his property in loose living."

Next, Luke tells us, "And when he had spent everything, a great famine arose in that country, and he began to be in want." In the margin of my Bible is a comment I wrote some years ago: "Great timing!" Have you ever noticed that same sense of timing in your life. After you spend what's coming to you, that's when the famine comes! Disasters can come to anyone, but they hurt most those who have dissipated all their resources. One moment we may be carousing with the wild bunch or the jet set and the next we're sharing a muddy barnyard with the pigs. That's what happens when he got so far from the fathers house.

The younger son was no dummy. For the sake of staying alive, he at least had the sense to take a job no respectable Jew would touch. And, after a while, he very reasonably concludes that he would be better off as one of his father's servants. Some people don't even have the good sense to realize that. Stubbornly they continue to admit they made a mistake.

But the younger son says, "How many of my father's hired servants have bread enough and to spare, but I perish here with hunger! I will arise and go to my father, and say to him, Father, I have sinned...I am no longer worthy to be called your son; treat me as one of your hired servants." I confess that I'm not sure whether this son is penitent at this point or just hungry and clever. At any rate, he has the sense to go home and the father makes it clear that he returns, not as servant—what he has coming to him—but as a beloved son—what the father gives him out of his gracious, forgiving love.

I am reminded of the woman who told the portrait artist, "Mince you, I want you to do me justice." "Madam," replied the artist, "what you need is mercy, not justice." And so do we all.

COVER STORY

Garth faces ugly truths in 'Lies of the Heart'

BY JOHN CROOK

Jennie Garth is on a career roll. Recently returned from a promotional tour of Italy, she is widely regarded, along with Luke Perry, as the real break-out star of her series, "Beverly Hills 90210." Not surprisingly, the busy 21-year-old actress is having to use her "90210" lunch hour on a recent afternoon to promote her latest project, "Lies of the Heart: The Story of Laurie Kellogg."

The fact-based TV movie, taken largely from interviews and transcripts of a 1991 trial, airs Monday, Jan. 31, on ABC. "I did a Danielle Steel novel as a Movie of the Week ('Danielle Steel's Star,' which aired on NBC earlier this year), then two days later I went right into filming 'Lies of the Heart.' And I think about four days after wrapping 'Lies of the Heart,' I went right back into ('90210'), so I didn't have much of a hiatus last year," she says breathlessly.

In the title role of "Lies," Garth plays Laurie Kellogg, a young Pennsylvania wife and mother accused and later convicted of persuading some teen-age friends to kill her 43-year-old husband, Bruce (played by Gregory Harrison).

Kellogg, currently serving a prison term of 25 years to life, has appealed her conviction. Her defense consistently has hinged on her testimony that her late husband so cruelly abused her, both physically and mentally, that she was traumatized and incapable of formulating the intent to kill him.

Garth says she pored over reams of transcripts from the trial as well as conversations that teleplay writer Judith Paige Mitchell had with Kellogg herself. The actress says she still finds it difficult to respond to the issue of Kellogg's guilt or innocence.

"That's a difficult question," she says warily. "The only thing I can really say is that I had to play the character as if she was innocent, completely. That's the only thing I could really believe in while I was filming it for three weeks. I had to concentrate on being so in love with this guy that nothing else in the world mattered. That's how the real Laurie is. To this day she is convinced that she is innocent. She still loves Bruce and she misses him greatly. Looking back, and after seeing the movie recently, it really raises some questions about the case and about the verdict."

While Garth says she has no first-hand knowledge of friends or acquaintances in abusive relationships, her "90210" fan mail occasionally contains disturbing pleas for help.

"I have fans who have written me and in their letters they say, 'I don't know what to do. I'm in this situation.' I don't understand sometimes why they write me and ask me all these questions," she adds candidly, "but they look to me for advice. It's difficult for me to go, because I myself am going through ... growing up and finding out what life is all about."

"I try to respond to them as realistically as possible, in giving them my own ... gut instinct feeling, because I feel that I have pretty good instincts. At the same time, I don't want to tell anyone how to live their life."

IN FOCUS

After the telecast of Super Bowl XXVIII on Sunday, Jan. 30, NBC presents a Super Bowl "after party" with a special telecast of "The Good Life," starring John Capronera.

Capronera plays John Bowman, a hard-working employee of a security firm who's working to get into "the good life." Eve Gordon, Jake Patellis, Shay Astar and Justin Berfield play the rest of his family. Drew Carey and Monty Hoffman co-star as his co-workers.

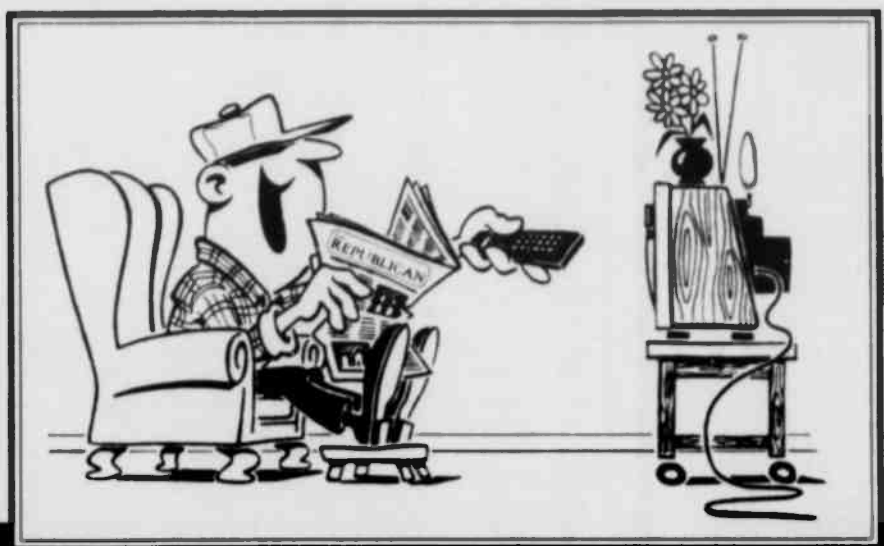

An episode of "The John Larroquette Show" follows.

Q: Both my boyfriend and I enjoyed the prime-time soap "Angel Falls." Why did it go off the air? Also, who is the actress who played Genna? My boyfriend thinks it was Lesley Ann Warren. I don't think so. —D. Smithson, Southfield, Mich.

A: I got a lot of mail on both "Angel Falls" and "Trade Winds," and the same answer applies to both. After the glory years of "Dallas," "Dynasty" and "Knots Landing," prime-time soaps are in a major slump. If a soap premieres sluggishly, its fate may be sealed. Each week the odds drop that new viewers will tune into a continuing drama already in progress. Also, soaps perform poorly in syndicated reruns. "Trade Winds" was given a limited trial run to test the waters, but won't be brought back due to mediocre ratings. CBS quickly pulled "Angel Falls" off the schedule after it premiered at the bottom of the ratings and showed no signs of building. Tell your boyfriend that was another doozyed brunette, Kim Cattrall ("Wild Palms"), as Genna.

A: While I believe he was referred to in at least one of the cartoons by an interplanetary military title, a Warner Bros. spokesman reports the character's name actually is Marvin the Martian.

Q: I think you're mistaken about the TV movie "The Long, Hot Summer." I'm fairly certain it was Cybill Shepherd, not Judith Ivey, who played opposite Don Johnson. —Sarah Alboher, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: On the chance that other readers may have been confused by this, let me clarify: Both Shepherd and Ivey were in "Summer." It was Ivey who reprised the role created by Joanne Woodward in the theatrical film of the same name.

Russell finds Alaska a tundra of fun

BY JOHN CROOK

Morty the Moose of "Northern Exposure" may have gone to his final reward, but Mark Russell still finds much to admire in Alaska. The musical satirist makes a tour of the 49th state in "Mark Russell's Great Alaska Trek," a one-hour special airing Friday, Feb. 4, on PBS (check local listings).

Russell begins his tour of Alaska just as the first Asian "tourists" did an estimated 400 centuries ago — from Siberia. His route takes him to many stops, beginning with Fairbanks, where he reveals how to recognize the local sophisticates: their wool socks match their end tables aren't ammo boxes and their fur hats are dead.

In addition to the other major population centers of Juneau, Anchorage and Nome, Russell visits Barrow, the northernmost inhabited place in the United States, and chats with the proprietor of Pepe's North of the Border, a Mexican restaurant. He also stops in Skagway ("about the 27th place we've passed through which claims to be the town ... in 'Northern Exposure,'" he says drily), where a local historian reminisces about a landmark that once served as the town's "house of negotiable affection."

The PBS hour is shorter on music than previous Russell specials, although he makes time for a ditty about amorous caribou in the shadow of the Alaskan pipeline ("We'll both get lewd beneath the crude") and two brief numbers with a baby grand atop a glacier, including a parody of "Rock Around the Clock" ("I'm gonna rock around this glacier home/I'm insured with Lloyd's of Nome"). A logistical nightmare, the segment lasts only two minutes on the show.

Musical satirist Mark Russell plays his baby grand piano atop a glacier during "Mark Russell's Great Alaska Trek," airing Friday on PBS (check local listings).

Jennie Garth plays a woman accused of persuading teens to kill her abusive husband (Gregory Harrison) in "Lies of the Heart: The Story of Laurie Kellogg," airing Monday on ABC.

IN FOCUS

Jill Eikenberry serves as host for a salute to four educators who use creative and innovative techniques in "Portrait of a Teacher III" on Lifetime Saturday, Feb. 5.

Featured teachers include Bob Moses, founder of The Algebra Project and Zoe Richards, who teaches the "Maine Coast Semester" program wherein students live away from home and operate a working farm.

Last year's "Portrait of a Teacher" was nominated for a CableAce Award.

MOVIE MARQUEE

A dating drug dealer, repeats and nasty fish

BY TED KUSIO

One of the beauties of television is that tough problems are easily solved. Too bad believability is often forsaken.

The USA Network premieres "Dangerous Heart" on Wednesday, Feb. 2. Lauren Holly ("Picket Fences") stars as a widow of a policeman who stole money from a drug dealer, played by Tim Daly ("Wings"). Although he was instrumental in her husband's death, he courts Holly in an attempt to find his money.

"Dangerous Heart" should be commended for trying to tackle a complex story, but it's too much for the script and stars to handle. Holly is stuck in miserable mode, even when she is supposedly in love, while Daly starts out nasty and magically transforms into a good guy. Believable justification for the story, which is hinted at with religion and the power of love, never materializes.

Other films this week include a haul of old movies on Sunday, Jan. 30, such as Michael Caine and Steve Martin as two con men competing for love and ill-gotten booty in "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" on ABC. CBS presents "Mrs. Aris Goes to Paris," starring Angela Lansbury, Omar Sharif and Diana Rigg. Lifetime features Dennis Quaid as '50s rocker Jerry Lee Lewis in "Great Balls of Fire," followed by the Steven Spielberg drama "The Color Purple," starring Whoopi Goldberg.

Jennie Garth stars as a woman accused of having her husband murdered in "Lies of the Heart: The Story of Laurie Kellogg."

Lauren Holly

Monday, Jan. 31, on ABC. Fox offers Melanie Griffith and Harrison Ford in "Working Girl." Michael Keaton plays a substance abuser who has a tough time becoming "Clean and Sober" on Lifetime.

PBS presents "Simple Justice" on Wednesday, as part of "The American Experience." The film deals with school segregation and the resulting Brown vs. Board of Education of Topeka court case.

Bill Cosby reunites with Robert Culp on CBS with "I Spy Returns," Thursday, Feb. 3. TBS features a double feature of frightening fish films with "Humanoids From the Deep" and "Up From the Depths."

TNT airs "Logan's Run" on Friday, Feb. 4. The film depicts a futuristic society where people do not live past 30. Perhaps it's a solution to the complicated health-care issue.

The week ends with Macaulay Culkin outwitting ditty-burglars in the Big Apple when HBO presents "Home Alone 2: Lost in New York" on Saturday, Feb. 5.

TIME OUT

No change in style for Super Bowl coverage

BY SARA BENNETT

Only a select few broadcasters are allowed behind the scenes at Super Bowl XXVIII.

During the week preceding NBC's coverage of the game, Sunday, Jan. 30, booth analysts Bob Trumpy and Dick Enberg have access to just about everything in preparation for their broadcast, as do in-studio commentators O.J. Simpson and Mike Ditka. (Incidentally, NBC's exclusive rights for a second straight year is one for the Super Bowl history books.)

"There should be some insights coming from the two of us that might be a little bit different than what everybody else is writing or reading or finding out," Trumpy says. "We're allowed to go to practice, we're allowed to talk to the players, we're allowed to talk to the coaches, and it's not in a press conference setting."

Although teams were not known at press time, Super Bowl preparation remains the same. One-sided games require more talk and information-sharing than others, which is when all the hours spent with the players becomes important.

"We refer to it as 'emptying our bucket,'" Trumpy says. "All that preparation we do — in a bad game, that's when you use it, to keep people interested."

Similarly, for Simpson to offer the viewers as much insight as he possibly can, he's wherever the players are.

"I'm at the field, I'm in the locker room," he says.

But that's where he is all season long, which makes preparation for the Super Bowl pretty similar to his daily midseason routine.

Bob Trumpy

"It's almost instinctual now," says Simpson, who likens his knowledge of his craft to a writer's instinctive knowledge of grammar and punctuation. "I follow the game on anything. I know the teams, I know the offense, I know the defense."

Despite the large audience that tunes in for the Super Bowl, Trumpy's style of analysis doesn't differ from that during regular season games.

"I think those people who are sitting down and are serious about football are listening," he says. "I think those people who are passing through the room at a party are kind of the incidental watchers or listeners. I don't think we have to worry about that. They're going to watch replays."

"I never worried about trying to somehow, in one football game for the world championship, educate one fan who was not paying attention before."

CABLE OVERVIEW

Hole-watchers' field day: golf, groundhogs top week

BY SUZANNE GILL

Groundhogs may have put Punxsutawney, Pa., on the map, but there are plenty of humans there, too. The Discovery Channel takes a look at the hometown of prognosticating Punxsutawney Phil in "The Spirit of Punxsutawney" — on Wednesday, Feb. 2, of course.

The most sublime PGA golf this side of heaven is found at California's Pebble Beach, where the annual pro-am tournament gets under way with early-round coverage Thursday, Feb. 3, on USA. Brett Ogilvie is the defending champion.

The sublime and the ridiculous show up on cable during Super Bowl Sunday, Jan. 30. ESPN offers couch potatoes warm-up and cool-down highlights from NFL films, while MTV presents a "Beavis and Butt-head" half-hour show.

Saddle up for "Adventures of the Old West," debuting Tuesday, Feb. 1, on The Disney Channel. The six-part series tells true stories of trailblazers, pioneers, gunfighters, native tribes and, yes, cowboys.

Busy Tim Daly ("Wings") played Alex Haley's grandfather last February and David Koresch in May. Now Daly takes on a fictional role, in "Dangerous Heart," a TV movie airing Wednesday on the USA Network. He plays a lowlife who wows a policeman's widow (Lauren Holly) to find out what the slain officer did with a fortune he stole from gangsters. Daly's next dramatic role finds him facing the electric chair in NBC's "Witness to the Execution."

"Teachers are the unsung

heroes," says actress Jill Eikenberry ("L.A. Law"), host of "Campbell's Portrait of a Teacher," airing Saturday, Feb. 5, on Lifetime. The second annual "Portrait" special, this edition focuses on four outstanding educators, from a cowboy who works with Montana kindergartners to civil rights activist Robert Moses, who now teaches teachers in a program called The Algebra Project.

"The point," says Eikenberry, "is really that there are hundreds of teachers around the country doing this kind of thing, not just teaching children to read and do math problems and memorize history facts but to be analytical thinkers, which is what is going to have to happen. Kids are going to have to know how to learn and to think independently because things are changing so fast."

Eikenberry, who did post-graduate work at the Yale University School of Drama, credits a high-school English teacher with bringing "literature to life" and setting her feet firmly on the stage.

Franks Announces Candidacy For U.S. Senate Seat

Delegate C. Ronald Franks, (R-36th district), recently announced his candidacy for the United States Senate, stating his intent to defeat incumbent Paul Sarbanes and the Washington establishment that "has ignored the concerns of the people of Maryland for too long."

"Enough is enough," Franks told supporters in Frederick, Annapolis, and Salisbury. "It's time we told career politicians that special interests and Washington insiders don't come before the people of Maryland."

The three locations were chosen to demonstrate Del. Franks' determination to represent all the people of Maryland. "Too often, the politicians we send to Washington forget about the people they're supposed to represent. They ignore the Eastern Shore, Annapolis, and Western Maryland. They only seem to care about what happens inside the Beltway."

Area small businesses were selected to host the announcement because, according to Franks, "they are the backbone of this country, yet Washington keeps passing legislation that makes it harder for them to survive."

"I first ran for office four years ago because I was fed up with the way government continually burdened small business owners like me," stated the Eastern Shore dentist.

As a health care provider and small business man, Franks will bring a unique and responsible perspective to a Washington controlled by lawyers and bureaucrats, according to a spokesperson.

"There are 56 lawyers and not one health care provider in the entire U.S. Senate. And look what they've done -- run up a $4.4 trillion debt. Government must live within its means," he said.

Franks was recognized by his colleagues as a "budgetary whiz" for developing a plan that, if adopted, would have saved Marylanders $36 million. He also received high marks from area businesses and was named "Legislator of the Year" in 1993 by his health care peers.

Franks is a graduate of Bladensburg High School, and attended Western Maryland College and the University of Maryland. He graduated with honors from Georgetown Dental School.

Westvaco Shuts Down Number 5 Paper Machine

Westvaco's Luke mill has begun operating one of its five paper machines on a reduced production schedule beginning this week, according to Roger Dandridge, vice president and mill manager.

Dandridge explained that adverse business conditions and mounting unsold paper inventories have made the decrease in production necessary.

No. 5 Paper Machine began operating on a 10-days-on, four-days-off schedule Wednesday, January 26. Normally, all paper machines operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

About 11 employees are temporarily furloughed this week. The number of employees affected may vary from week to week depending on the company's manpower needs, Dandridge said.

No. 5 Paper Machine was shut down totally for 48 hours prior to the new reduced operation schedule.

Dandridge stated that this reduced operating schedule may continue for the next several months.

Fire Marshal To Charge For Some Services

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced that his office will begin to charge a fee for certain services rendered. Effective February 1, 1994, the agency will begin to charge a fee for plan reviews and inspection of new building construction and fire protection and detection systems for fire code compliance.

During the 1992 Maryland General Assembly Session, the Legislature passed House Bill 1165 which authorizes the state fire marshal, as well as local or municipal fire marshals, to charge a fee for fire safety inspections and plan reviews for fire code compliance. The fee schedule which the fire marshal will charge for services has been established through the Code of Maryland Regulations (COMAR). Additionally, an information management system has been established to help track information for each plan review and inspection conducted and for the invoicing of the work performed.

All fees collected through this program will be deposited in the State General Fund.

It is estimated that during the first year the Office of the State Fire Marshal will collect more than $1 million in fees for inspections and construction plan reviews performed by fire

Keystone, Inc. Notes Fourth Quarter Results

Keystone Financial, Inc., the seventh largest bank holding company in Pennsylvania, has reported record operating results for the fourth quarter and year ended December 31, 1993.

Fourth quarter net income rose to $10,039,000, or 63 cents per share, compared to $9,368,000, or 60 cents per share for the same period in 1992, which resulted in a 5% increase in earnings per share.

Net income increased for the fifth consecutive year, rising to $39,357,000 from $36,269,000, in 1992. Performance during 1993 resulted in earnings per share of $2.49, an increase of 7% over the per share earnings of $2.33 reported in 1992.

For the 12-month period of 1993, return on average assets was 1.28% and return on average equity was 13.86%.

Assets at the close of 1993 increased to $3,151,375,000, compared with $3,071,107,000, at the close of 1992. Deposits totaled $2,480,960,000, compared to $2,542,218,000, at December 31, 1992, while loans increased to $2,105,607,000, from $2,087,698,000 noted at the end of 1992.

"We are pleased to end the year on a positive note. Registering solid performance gains in an economic climate that lacked vitality is most gratifying," Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer, said.

"We are confident that the strength of our core business and the many benefits associated with our franchise growth will allow us to sustain our momentum in 1994," he added.

After giving effect to the WM Bancorp and Elmwood Bancorp acquisitions that were completed during January, Keystone has approximately $3.7 billion in assets and seven member banks, which together operate 122 community offices in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia. The company also plans to complete, during the second quarter of 1994, the recently announced acquisition of American Savings Bank, Piquette, Pa., which has total assets of $135 million and eight community offices.

To Visit Africa

Lisa Calhoun, Albany, N.Y., daughter of Edsel and Carol Calhoun, Red House, will be leaving in February for an overseas focus tour of Alliance Women in Mission and Prayer. She will be visiting Mali, Guinea, in West Africa.

Miss Calhoun is with the Pineview Community Church in Albany where she has served the past five years as pre-school director.

- 1 tablespoon chopped capers, drained
- 1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dried tarragon
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
- 8 ounces picked crab meat

In a small bowl combine all ingredients except crab meat. Blend well, then stir in crab meat.

Serve with crusty French bread, or omit the crab and serve as a tangy dipping sauce for cooked shrimp, crab legs or raw vegetables. Makes about 2 cups or 8 hors d'oeuvres servings. Recipe may be doubled.

Nutritional analysis per serving: 29 calories, 6 g protein, 2 g total fat, 1 g carbohydrate, 27 mg cholesterol, 2 g dietary fiber, 241 mg sodium.

GRILLED SAUSAGE WITH APRICOT MUSTARD GLAZE

- 1 pound smoked pork sausage
- 1 cup Apricot Mustard Glaze (see recipe below)

Preheat broiler or outdoor grill. Cut pork sausage into 2-inch pieces. Place sausage pieces on a tray under the broiler or on the grill. Cook for 4 minutes, turn over and cook for another 4 minutes. Remove the sausages from the broiler or grill and dip each piece in the Apricot Mustard Glaze. Return them to the broiler or grill and cook for 2 more minutes until lightly browned.

Serve with toothpicks and additional Apricot Mustard Glaze for dipping. Makes 8 appetizer servings.

Nutritional analysis per serving: 242 calories, 8 g protein, 16 g total fat, 16 g carbohydrate, 30 mg cholesterol, 3 g dietary fiber, 806 mg sodium.

APRICOT MUSTARD GLAZE

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Smucker's Apricot Preserves
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Dijon-style mustard

In a small bowl combine preserves and mustard. Blend well. Makes 1 cup.

Nutritional analysis per tablespoon: 33 calories, 0 g protein, 0 g total fat, 7.5 g carbohydrate, 0 mg cholesterol, 0 g dietary fiber, 99 mg sodium.

CARNIVAL PORK STEW

- 3 pounds lean, boneless pork loin, cut into 2-inch pieces
- Salt and fresh ground black pepper, to taste
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 8 ounces smoked ham, cut into $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch chunks
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 2 green peppers, chopped
- 6 cloves garlic, minced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dried thyme
- 1 28-ounce can crushed tomatoes in their liquid
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup Smucker's Peach Preserves
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped fresh parsley
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped green onions
- 1 cup uncooked long-grain rice, optional

Sprinkle pork with salt and black pepper. In a heavy 5-quart casserole or Dutch oven set over medium-high heat, heat the oil. Add the pork and cook 5 to 8 minutes or until well browned. Remove the pork from the casserole with a slotted spoon and set aside.

Add the ham, onions, celery, green pepper, garlic and thyme. Cook over medium-high heat until the vegetables are wilted, about 6 minutes. Return the pork to the casserole along with the crushed tomatoes with their liquid, preserves, water and pepper sauce. Cover and simmer for 45 minutes.

Remove the cover and add chopped parsley, green onions and rice, if using. Stir to blend well, cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes until the rice is tender. Add salt and fresh ground pepper to taste. Makes 8 servings.

Nutritional analysis per serving (without rice): 411 calories, 44 g protein, 15 g total fat, 29 g carbohydrate, 114 mg cholesterol, 2 g dietary fiber, 205 mg sodium.

HOT PEPPER CHEDDAR LOAF

- 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 large eggs
- 1 cup skim milk
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 2 teaspoons Tabasco pepper sauce
- 8 ounces shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 teaspoon chopped jalapeno pepper, optional

Preheat oven to 350°F. Spray 9x5-inch loaf pan with vegetable cooking spray. Set aside.

In a large bowl combine flour, baking powder, salt and pepper. In a medium bowl gently whisk together eggs, milk, oil and pepper sauce. Add egg mixture to dry ingredients just until blended (do not overmix).

Stir in Cheddar cheese and jalapeno pepper. Spoon the batter into the prepared pan and place on a rack in the center of the oven. Bake the bread for 45 to 50 minutes until lightly browned and firm. Serve with Tangy Orange Red Pepper Spread. Makes 1 loaf (about 10 1-inch slices).

Nutritional analysis per serving: 242 calories, 11 g protein, 10 g total fat, 25 g carbohydrate, 66 mg cholesterol, 1 g dietary fiber, 365 mg sodium.

TANGY ORANGE RED PEPPER SPREAD

- 4 large red bell peppers, skinned and seeded or 1 15-ounce jar roasted red peppers, drained
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 clove garlic
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Smucker's Sweet Orange Marmalade
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in 2 tablespoons of cold water
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In the bowl of a food processor or blender place coarsely chopped red bell peppers, vinegar and garlic; puree into smooth paste. Add marmalade; blend.

Pour the spread in a small saucepan. Stir in the dissolved cornstarch. Simmer sauce over high heat for 5 minutes until lightly thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in the pepper sauce. Pour the spread into a serving bowl. Cool. Serve with Hot Pepper Cheddar Loaf, or along with your favorite roasted or grilled meats, poultry or fish. Makes about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups.

Note: To skin red peppers, cut in half and remove seeds. Place cut side down on broiler pan. Broil for 10 minutes or until skin is charred. Remove. When cool, peel peppers. Nutritional analysis per tablespoon: 23 calories, 2 g protein, 0 g total fat, 6 g carbohydrate, 0 mg cholesterol, 2 g dietary fiber, 1 mg sodium.

SAUTEED BANANAS WITH RED RASPBERRY SAUCE

- 4 large bananas
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 2 tablespoons water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Smucker's Red Raspberry Preserves
- 1 pint vanilla frozen yogurt

Peel the bananas and cut them in half lengthwise. Cut each half into two 4-inch pieces.

In a nonstick skillet set over high heat, melt butter. Add the bananas and sugar and saute them until golden brown, about 4 minutes. Turn them over, add the lemon juice, water and preserves. Simmer the bananas for 4 more minutes, until the bananas are soft and the sauce is smooth. (The bananas can be prepared in advance and reheated just before serving.)

For each serving, spoon two pieces of cooked banana and some warm raspberry sauce over a $\frac{1}{2}$ -cup vanilla frozen yogurt. Makes 8 servings.

Nutritional analysis per serving: 193 calories, 2 g protein, 4 g total fat, 38 g carbohydrate, 11 mg cholesterol, 1 g dietary fiber, 55 mg sodium.

In Louisiana, cuisine is a consuming passion, whether it's cooking great food at home or eating in one of many superb restaurants. The traditions of the Cajuns in the bayou country and the Creoles in New Orleans include their great pride in the dishes that grace their tables.

Cajuns are descendants of 6,000 French people, expelled by the English from Acadia in Nova Scotia, who came to southwestern Louisiana around 1765. Delicious, peppery, one-pot dishes are typical of their famous country food. Creoles, with their colonial French and Spanish heritage, settled in New Orleans and along the Mississippi River. They aspire to finer cuisine with many flavor combinations and subtle sauces.

Out of these culinary origins comes a menu for an inviting party buffet, with customary great taste but new-style dishes featuring easier preparation and less fat.

For starters, serve crab in a piquant sauce reminiscent of French Quarter remoulade, but made with low-fat mayonnaise. Dill pickle, mustard, tarragon and pepper sauce create a wonderful tangy flavor. Made from select peppers mashed and aged like wine for three years before blending, Tabasco® pepper sauce has been found on Louisiana tables for more than 125 years.

A second great appetizer is smoked pork sausage grilled with a simple but fabulous glaze blending equal amounts of apricot preserves and Dijon-style mustard. Smucker's® versatile fruit spreads add color and taste to virtually any meal, yet are low in calories and are fat free.

Centerpiece of the buffet is a lean pork and smoked ham stew simmered with chopped aromatic vegetables, livened with a delicious blend of tomatoes, peach preserves and pepper sauce. The new lean pork still has the great taste people love, but cooks much more quickly, achieving tenderness in a surprisingly short time.

Round out the buffet with crisp salad, Hot Pepper Cheddar Loaf served with Tangy Orange Red Pepper Spread, and for dessert, Sauteed Bananas with Red Raspberry Sauce. All in all, a meal fit for Neptune, Bacchus, Comus or Rex, but more importantly, easy to accomplish for your own friends and neighbors.

Mardi Gras Madness

What better excuse for a party than Mardi Gras? The exuberant culmination of the Carnival season, Mardi Gras (French for Fat Tuesday) occurs every year exactly 46 days before Easter.

New Orleanians have flamboyantly marked this day since March 3, 1699, when the French explorer, Iberville, set up camp on the Mississippi River's West Bank. He called the site Point du Mardi Gras in observance of the major holiday in France on that date.

Pre-Lenten masked balls and fetes flourished in New Orleans under French rule, but were banned by Spanish governors when they took over. The ban continued when New Orleans became an American city in 1803, but was finally lifted in 1823 by the fun-loving Creole population.

In 1837, the first official Mardi Gras parade was disrupted by violent behavior of the maskers, to the degree that the celebration was halted for two decades. Six New Orleanians saved Mardi Gras by forming The Mystick Krewe of Comus in 1857 to prove it could be enjoyed in a safe, beautiful and festive manner via a themed parade and a magnificent tableau ball.

There are now 58 other krewes with mythological names such as Bacchus, Neptune, Endymion, Momus, Proteus, Iris, Venus and Thoth. Balls and parades abound from January 6, the feast of Epiphany, until Shrove Tuesday. In 1872, a visit from the Russian Grand Duke Alexis Romanoff inspired the first appearance of Rex, who became known internationally as King of Carnival.

The official Mardi Gras colors are purple for justice, green for faith, and gold signifying power. As they wend their way along St. Charles and Canal Streets, maskers on the spectacular floats toss necklaces, doubloons, cups and other favors into the outstretched hands of the costumed crowds lining the streets for miles.

Mardi Gras in New Orleans is an unforgettable party on a massive scale, a time for great music, superb food and spectacular sights.

MCDONALD'S SUPPORTS HABITAT - Oakland's McDonald's Restaurant recently presented a donation to Garrett County's Habitat for Humanity, a non-profit, interdenominational housing ministry. The funds were realized through McDonald's 1993 Halloween certificates that were sold, the proceeds of which yielded $157.50 for Habitat. According to Jeff Haines, manager of the restaurant, a different charity or non-profit organization is selected each year as a beneficiary of the promotion. Pictured left to right above are: Irene White, assistant manager of the Oakland McDonald's; Sandy Flanagan, vice president, Habitat board of directors; and Barbara Briggs, executive director of Habitat.

highest year in earnings, the corporation earned net income of $6.01 million compared with $6.20 million in 1992. This represents $1.46 per common share, versus $1.51 per share in 1992. Stanton said that all of the difference between the earnings of these two years can be directly attributed to the merger costs associated with HomeTown Bancorp. Stanton commented, "Had we not pursued and completed our affiliation with HomeTown, we would have had our highest earnings year ever in 1993. We are, of course, delighted with the merger and believe it will provide long term benefits to our shareholders and to the communities served by the First United family of banks."

First United Corporation key performance ratios were once again above industry standards. Return on Average Assets (ROAA) was 1.42 percent as compared with 1.52 percent in 1992. Total shareholders' equity increased 7.75 percent in 1993, to $48.37 million. Return on Average Shareholders' Equity (ROAE) was a strong 12.86 percent.

Stanton attributed another good year for earnings to strong mortgage loan demand, excellent Trust Department growth, and continued expansion into non-traditional products such as the PRIMEVEST Investment Center, located at First United offices. At the same time, the Corporation focused on a stringent cost control program, he said.

He further commented, "Our earnings for 1993 are impressive in comparison to peer banks. They place us among some of the top performing banks in the nation. It is especially noteworthy when many institutions are struggling to reach a ROAA of one percent. It is very gratifying to me that the organization was able to maintain such a strong earnings in light of the substantial investments which we made for our future. Opening and staffing three new offices, while consummating our merger with HomeTown Bancorp, represented a significant outlay of funds for the Corporation. We do, of course, look for enhanced future earnings from these commitments, as well as the opportunity to serve new markets."

Paced by a favorable interest environment and vigorous sales effort, loans grew by nearly 30 million during the year just ended. Total loans registered 314.48 million, while deposits grew 2.7 million to 368.53 million. Through proper balancing of the loan and deposit portfolios, net interest income increased to 21.13 million as compared to 20.15 million in 1992.

"While growth is indeed important to support our long-term strategic goals, we remain prudent in the management of our loan portfolio. We scrutinize each loan carefully to fully understand and minimize risks. Our ongoing loan review process helps us to detect problems in their

THE CRELLIN BLACKSMITH SHOP no longer exists, but evidently was quite busy in its day, as the staff included at least six people, pictured above. early stages and prompts us to act in a timely fashion. As a result, we were able to decrease the loan loss provision to $2.7 million from $7.2 million in 1992," continued Stanton.

He added, "Some of our most impressive growth has been with our Trust Department. During 1993, we increased our assets under management by 25 percent, posting in excess of $110 million in assets. Our trust officers, utilizing all of the investment and advisory vehicles available, work closely with their clients to understand and address their particular goals. These clients continually tell us they value this relationship and actively refer their friends to us."

"Our shareholders have had an excellent year. After adjusting for the 2-for-1 split, our stock price increased $16 per share. This represents an 84.21 percent increase in shareholder value over a year ago, not including their consistent quarterly cash dividends. An additional 50 percent stock dividend, by way of a 3-for-2 split, will occur during the first quarter of 1994."

During 1993, the Corporation completed its first full year with PRIMEVEST Financial Services, which is a service offered at First United, providing full service brokerage. Investment executives sell a broad array of investment products including stocks, bonds, and mutual funds. Commissions earned from these products contribute to the non-interest income of the company.

First United National Bank & Trust opened a new supermarket banking office in the Martin's Food Store in Hagerstown during 1993. First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. opened offices in Romney and Moorefield. This brings the total community offices offered by these banks to 20. On November 30, 1993, First United Corporation merged with HomeTown Bancorp and its subsidiary Myersville Bank. This increases the Corporation's offices by three, offering facilities in Myersville, Hagerstown and Smithsburg. Later in 1994, Myersville Bank plans to open a community office north of Frederick near Walkersville.

First United Corporation (NASDAQ:FUNC) headquartered in Oakland, is a multi-bank holding company having the following banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust, Myersville Bank and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. On December 31, 1993, the Corporation posted assets of $423.38 million. As of the had 4,124,078 shares outstanding date, the Corporation standing.

First United Corp. Reports A "Strong" '93

First United Corporation announced this week that 1993 was a strong year for the holding company, which is based in Oakland.

"This past year has been an exciting and challenging one for First United Corporation. Our emphasis has been on expansion into new markets, enhancing our product and service lines, providing quality service to our existing customers and recording solid loan growth. These factors helped fuel our earnings performance. The net result was another year of very strong earnings and favorable positioning for managing future growth in the years ahead," announced Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president and chief executive officer of the corporation.

Company Mill, first built in 1881, destroyed by fire in 1902, rebuilt that same year, and closed in 1925. DeWitt said that other sites will be marked as funds become available. The cost of the signs is about $40 each.

Alzheimer's Group Meeting Regularly

Local residents are reminded that the Garrett County Family Caregiver Support Group meets on the last Monday of each month at 7 p.m., at the Garrett County Health Department in Oakland to help meet the needs of persons who suffer from Alzheimer's disease and their caregivers, family members, and friends.

According to a spokesperson for the Garrett County Health Department, over four million Americans (7,000 of whom reside in the Western Maryland area) are affected by Alzheimer's disease. This progressive, degenerative disease that attacks the brain and results in impaired memory, thinking, and behavior, develops with gradual onset over an average course of eight years from the time symptoms first appear.

Currently, scientists are still looking for both the cause and cure of this fatal disease, which is more likely to occur as a person ages. Although there is no single diagnostic test for the disease, symptoms may include difficulty with memory and loss of intellectual abilities severe enough to interfere with routine work or social activities. Alzheimer's patients may also experience confusion, language problems, poor or decreased judgment, disorientation in place and time, and changes in behavior or personality. Fatigue is also a major contributor.

Support groups are often made up of caregivers, family members, and friends of those with Alzheimer's disease or a related disorder. Meetings may focus on emotional support and sharing experiences, or education, with experts speaking on topics such as legal issues, nutrition, caregiving techniques, and community resources.

More information about the local group may be obtained by calling Donna McClintock at 334-8113 or 895-3112. More information about the disease is available by contacting the Alzheimer's Association at 1-800-696-6830.

Scout Campaign To Be Led Again By Page Shanklin

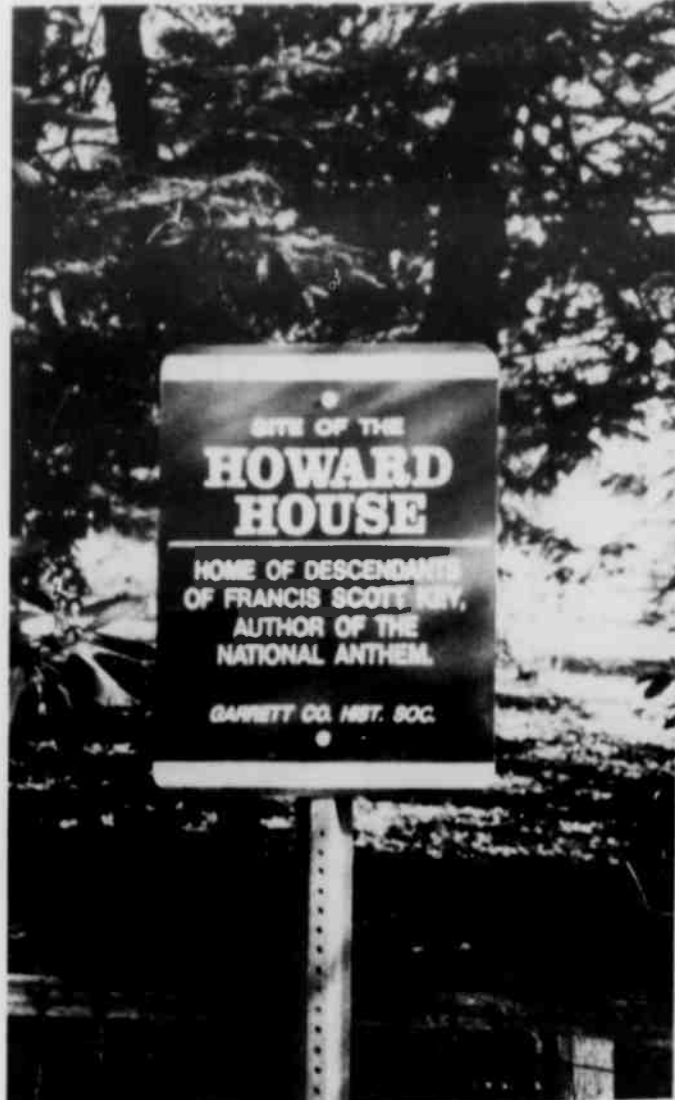

Page T. Shanklin Sr., president and director of the BGS&G Companies, will for the second consecutive year, lead the annual Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Sustaining Membership Enrollment (SME) campaign, Council Executive Brad Burr announced recently.

Shanklin will lead over 100 captains from throughout the six counties in Maryland and West Virginia served by Potomac Council.

Burr said SME contributors supply the council with a significant portion of its annual operating budget, "making it possible for the organization to provide the nearly 2,000 youth served locally with the quality programs they deserve and need to guide them toward Scouting's goals of good citizenship, sound character, and strong bodies." SME-level contributors are invited to the annual "Friends of Scouting" dinner held in the spring.

Shanklin began his insurance career with Aetna C&S. After joining USF&G as supervisor-adjutor in charge of the Cumberland office, he was promoted to assistant claims superintendent of Baltimore branch claims. He joined Beall, Garner, Screen and Geare as manager of the Oakland branch in 1975, was soon after elected vice president of branch operations and in 1983 elevated to the Board of Directors.

He is past president of Independent Insurance Agents of Maryland, Allegany-Garrett County Independent Insurance Agents Association and Tri-State Claims Association. He has served as a member of a number of insurance company agents council and holds the professional designations CPCU (chartered property-casualty underwriter), ARM (Associated Risk Management), AAI (Accredited Advisor in insurance) and AIC (associate in claims).

He received his BS degree in business administration from Glenville State College and LLB from LaSalle Extension University, and has taught various insurance courses at local community colleges.

A member of the Board of Directors for the Cumberland County Club, he is also a member of the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce, serving on that organization's legislative committee.

An active Scout, Shanklin has served Troop 10, LaVale United Methodist Church, as troop committee chairperson. He is also a member of the Potomac Council Executive Board and a member of its Endowment Committee. He and his wife, reside in LaVale and are the parents of two sons, Tom, a Life Scout and a student at Frostburg State University, and Ben, a junior at Allegany High School.

Hospice Annual Luncheon Held

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., recently held its 11th annual Recognition Luncheon for volunteers. The event was held at Will O' the Wisp with 60 volunteers in attendance. A special feature of the event was guest speaker William Besley, who is currently a Hospice patient.

Besley spoke to the group about the help he has received through the Hospice program, and talked highly of the local Hospice nurse, Judy Wilt, I.P.N., and of the many volunteers. Following his speech, several volunteers spoke about how Hospice patients and their families have made a positive difference in their lives.

The luncheon was funded by Gonder's Insurance Agency, Willetta A. Mateer, CPA; Peter's Fuel Corporation, Beitzel Corporation, Buffalo Coal Company, and Harbison-Walker Refractories. The table favors were courtesy of State Farm Insurance.

Brenda Butscher, executive director, was on hand to welcome the group, and Rev. Charles Berkshire asked the blessing. Sharon King, director of volunteers, and Wayne Johnson, president, presented awards and recognition certificates.

Alice Vitez-Sisler and Mark Durst, who recently completed their service on the board of directors, both were presented with a plaque in honor of their 11 years of service.

GRANTSVILLE BLOODMOBILE

The Bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville fire hall this Friday, Jan. 28, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. Persons who are at least 17 years old, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in good health, may donate blood, of which there is a critical shortage.

Member institutions of RESA are Allegany Community College, Allegany County Board of Education, Frostburg State University, Garrett Community College, Garrett County Board of Education, Hagerstown Junior College, Washington County Board of Education, and the University of Maryland System.

State Calendar Of Events Ready

Maryland Celebrates!, a 55-page guide to more than 900 events, fairs and festivals taking place throughout the state this year, is now available. Published annually by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, a program of the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development, this comprehensive calendar is available free to anyone requesting it.

"People who look through Maryland Celebrates! will see that in our state, there is always something to see and do," said Governor William Donald Schaefer. "We have a wide variety of events taking place throughout the state all the time. I want to encourage Marylanders and visitors alike to get out and experience all Maryland has to offer."

The governor said Maryland Celebrates! is easy to use and provides complete event information, including date, time, location, admission fee, contact name and telephone number, accessibility for people with disabilities, and a short description of the event. Events include a wide variety of activities from the week-long Preakness Celebration in Baltimore to the Cypress Festival in Pocomoke City. The guide also features hundreds of family events, including the Autumn Glory Festival in Garrett County and Tilghman Island Day on the Eastern Shore.

"This is a 'must have' publication for people planning to visit Maryland and for anyone looking for something fun to do at any time during the year," noted OTD Director George Williams.

To receive Maryland Celebrates! and a Maryland Travel Kit, the public may call 1-800-719-5900 or write to the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, 217 East Redwood St., Baltimore, MD 21202.

DNR Announces Results Of Bald Eagle Survey

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced "above-average" results of this year's mid-winter bald eagle survey.

A total of 146 bald eagles and one golden eagle were observed during the annual survey, conducted Jan. 7-9. The surveys were conducted only at the major eagle concentration areas in Maryland, including the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, the Susquehanna River below Conowingo Dam, and the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge.

Of the total bald eagles observed, 72 were adults, 59 were immature, and 15 could not be aged due to poor lighting conditions. The largest concentration was at Aberdeen Proving Grounds where 62 eagles were found. Fifty-three bald eagles and the one golden eagle were at Blackwater, while 31 bald eagles were along the Susquehanna River.

"This was an above-average year for wintering eagles in our area," Dr. Brown said. "This was the fourth-highest count on record since the survey was initiated in 1979." The highest count was in 1990 when 263 eagles were observed.

Conducted annually since 1979, the mid-winter survey is part of a national effort to monitor trends in wintering bald eagles throughout the lower 48 states. Last year, 11,985 eagles were reported from 36 participating states. National results for 1994 are not yet available.

The mid-winter survey is not an attempt to count all the eagles in Maryland

VICA STUDENTS VISIT METTIKI - A group of Southern High School students visited Mettiki Coal Company on November 17 to learn about safety in an industrial setting. This trip was organized by Jody Theriot, safety director of Mettiki, and the Southern Garrett VICA Safety Committee. Twenty-nine students and advisors attended the presentation which was given by many of the employees of Mettiki. During the presentation the students had the opportunity to learn about personal and environmental safety concerns that Mettiki addresses, had some first-hand experience with personal safety devices used by miners, and toured the mine's outside facility. The trip was organized as a project by the Southern Garrett VICA Safety Committee in order for as many of the technical students as possible to experience actual safety concerns in an industrial setting. The committee noted its appreciation to Mettiki officials for their cooperation and willingness to help with this and other safety projects.

during the winter, but is used to measure trends at the national level. Many more eagles occur in the state than are counted at the concentration areas during the survey. Only a few of Maryland's 152 breeding pairs are represented in this survey; even at this early date, they are dispersed onto their breeding territories, Brown said.

"Bald eagles are found throughout the tidal areas of Maryland and the larger reservoirs in winter," explained Glenn Therres, DNR's bald eagle project supervisor. "Some are occasionally found in the developed portions of Maryland where tidal water occurs. At this time of year the birds are seeking open water areas, free of ice, to find fish and waterfowl, which is their preferred food."

The mid-winter survey in Maryland is a cooperative effort between the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service and the U.S. Army at Aberdeen Proving Grounds. Contributions to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on line 63 of the Maryland Income Tax Form helps support efforts such as this survey.

County Residents In Fla. To Meet

1993 Dairy Refund Sign-Up In Progress

Refunds of amounts deducted from 1993 commercial milk marketings under the Dairy Refund Program (DRPP) began January 1, 1994, according to Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee. The program is authorized by the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990.

The Act calls for an 11.25 cents per hundred-weight reduction in the price received by producers for all milk produced and marketed for commercial use in calendar year 1993. "This amount was increased on May 1, 1993, to 16.35 cents per hundredweight and decreased on November 1, 1993, to 14.71 cents per hundredweight," Bachtel said. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service collects the milk assessments.

The objective of the Dairy Refund Program is to provide a method by which eligible producers can obtain a refund of the entire amount of the reduction assessed to the producer during a calendar year.

To be eligible, producers must provide evidence that their 1993 milk marketings did not exceed their 1992 marketings. "They must request refunds from our office by March 15, 1994," ASCS official Bachtel said. For more information on the DRPP, producers should contact the Garrett County ASCS Office at 334-1901.

Ag Engineer To Speak At Dairy Workshop

Dr. William G. Bickert, professor of Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State University, will be one of the five featured speakers at a Garrett County Dairy Workshop to be held on Monday, February 7 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Dr. Bickert began his career in 1961 as a researcher in the fields of electric power, instrumentation and controls. Early in his career he was a leader in research on automatic milking systems. One of his accomplishments led to the development of the automatic milking machine detector. Dr. Bickert introduced the concept of polygon parlors. In most recent years he has devoted his research in livestock facilities, leading to the introduction of transition housing for dairy calves, full wall ventilation for barns, and improved free stall design.

Speaking on quality forage and rumen function will be Dr. Limin Kung, University of Delaware. He will talk about the vital role that top quality forages play in healthy rumen function, and the ways producers can manage feeding to maximize milk production and maintain herd health.

Dr. Kung obtained degrees in animal science from the University of Hawaii, and a Ph.D. in dairy nutrition from Michigan State University, specializing in protein metabolism in high producing dairy cows. A year was spent in a post doctoral position at the U.S. Dairy Forage Research Center in Wisconsin, studying silage fermentation. He has worked for Monsanto Co. and conducted research in the areas of methionine metabolism and bovine somatotropin (BST) for ruminants. He is currently involved in a research program centered on ways to improve the efficiency of rumen and silage fermentation.

Dr. Bob Patton, of Nutri-tary Dairy Nutrition, will speak on the nutritional management of the high producing dairy cow. He will discuss new concepts and refinement of old concepts of dairy cattle nutrition.

Dr. Patton is a private dairy nutrition consultant with degrees in dairy production and ruminant nutrition from Penn State University and a Ph.D. in Ruminant Nutrition from Michigan State University. He owned and operated an 80-cow herd in central Pennsylvania; has a background as a nutrition specialist and author of numerous bulletins. His most recent work experiences include spending several weeks in Mexico over the past three years to work with farmers and veterinarians there on improving dairy herd management techniques under the sponsorship of Monsanto. He consults with individual farmers in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Michigan.

Other speakers will include Dr. Doug Carmel, Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine, on energy balance and fertility; Amy Russell, University of Maryland, on general dairy management goals; and Dr. Mark Varner, University of Maryland, on Dairy-L Computer Program.

All speakers will answer questions from the audience.

The public is invited to attend. Coffee and donuts will be served at 9:30 a.m. with the workshop beginning at 10 a.m. Buffet lunch will be available for $5.00. Additional information and reservations may be made before February 2 by contacting the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1900.

Stewardship Survey Report Presented

The Maryland Farm Bureau announced the report of an extensive stewardship survey which the Bureau completed during the past year.

The idea for the survey came about because of an increasing need for valid data concerning the conservation practices of Maryland farmers. The need for this information has intensified as farmers face more and more pressure from environmental activists and those who seek to regulate almost every phase of their farming operations. Information gathered during the survey will be used to help combat the trend towards over-regulation.

The survey was conducted by the Maryland Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board and the Chesapeake Bay Trust. The survey was conducted in a confidential manner with 15,232 surveys being mailed in August of 1993. Recipients were asked to return completed surveys by September 30, 1993. Approximately 2,600 completed surveys were returned and 2,145 were entered into a data base.

The 1993 Stewardship Survey indicates that Maryland farmers have made and are continuing to make a strong commitment in protecting the state's natural resources in particular, soil and water. The survey indicates that Maryland farmers are among the highest in the nation in their use of conservation tillage, with such practices as no-till and mulch-till being used on 55 percent of Maryland cropland, well above the estimated national average of 35 percent. Benefits of conservation tillage include reduced soil erosion by wind and water and reduced runoff of pesticides and nutrients. This all points to the care and concern that Maryland farmers have for the Chesapeake Bay and their willingness to work for a cleaner bay.

The survey confirms that Maryland farmers are leading the nation in the percentage of operators with nutrient management plans with about 18 percent of the respondents having approved or pending nutrient management plans. This has all been accomplished with voluntary programs and points that Maryland farmers are willing to employ this key tool in improving fertilizer use efficiency and reducing the run-off of nutrients into Maryland's waterways. Along with this fact more than half, 55 percent of the respondents said they have reduced their use of pesticides during the last three years.

Fifty-two percent indicated that they use alternatives to chemical controls for weeds and insects. Fifty-eight percent use crop rotation and soil testing to determine nutrient needs which are used on 60 percent of all crop acres and 45 percent of the respondents have reduced their use of fertilizers during the last three years.

The survey indicated that respondents provide more than 140,000 acres of lands for conservation uses which included, wetlands, woodlands, streams, ponds or some other wildlife habitat. The land area per farm set aside for these uses averaged 67 acres.

Survey respondents said that their three most important considerations in adopting good conservation practices were: reduced production costs, concern for stewardship and the environment, and increased yields. This statement alone, proves that the Maryland emphasis of voluntary incentive programs is the best direction to encourage good stewardship practices.

C. William Knill, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau said, "The survey shows that Maryland farmers are trained professionals who are voluntarily using technology to reduce their application of pesticides and fertilizers. It shows that they are voluntarily using good stewardship practices to save the soil and to protect our water including the Chesapeake Bay." Knill added, "The survey shows that concern for the environment is a key consideration in making management decisions on Maryland farms."

GARRETT COUNTY FARM BUREAU HONORED - Garrett County Farm Bureau was honored for program excellence in four of eight program areas during 1993. The award was presented during the recent Maryland Farm Bureau Convention held in Clinton. Brooks Hamilton, right, Garrett County Farm Bureau president, accepts Gold Star Award from C. William Knill, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Maryland farmers are professionals from the ground-up, who have a genuine concern for the land from which they make a living. The Maryland Farm Bureau Stewardship Survey confirms the farmer as a friend to the Chesapeake Bay and Maryland's other valued natural resources.

Wool Filing Procedure Announced

ASCS official Michael R. Kozier reminds wool and mohair producers to submit their 1993 sales receipts by

March 1, 1994, to qualify for a 1993 price support payment.

Eligible sales receipts for wool and/or mohair and unshorn lambs can be submitted to the Garrett County ASCS office at the Garrett County Courthouse. Producers are subject to payment limitation and payment eligibility provisions, and must certify that they are in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions.

For additional information on the wool program, those interested may contact the ASCS office at 334-1901.

A typical cow weighs 1500 lbs. and produces 40 lbs. of milk per day.

Keep local families warm this winter.

Here's how you can help the Community Energy Fund help your neighbors.

GARRETT COUNTY COMMUNITY ACTION COMMITTEE
IN PARTNERSHIP WITH POTOMAC EDISON

At a time when many deserving families may have difficulty paying winter heating bills because of temporary hardship, The Potomac Edison Company has established the Community Energy Fund.

Potomac Edison and The Garrett County Community Action Committee have formed a partnership to help those in need with winter energy expenses. When you contribute to the Community Energy Fund, Allegheny Power System stockholders will match, up to the program limits, 50 cents for each dollar donated to help pay household electric bills.

Potomac Edison urges all of its customers to consider this opportunity to assist those who need a helping hand this winter.

Through the Energy Fund partnership, your donation goes even further.

To help your neighbors in need this heating season, send your donation to the Community Energy Fund, The Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., P.O. Box 449, Oakland, MD 21550. Help local families keep warm this winter with your gift.

Why Did God Create A Cow With A Rumen?

Why did God create a cow with a rumen? Simply, so she could efficiently eat and digest forages such as grasses, legumes, corn stalks, sorghum, etc. The rumen was not given to the cow for the purpose of consuming cotton seeds hulls, animal fats, brewers grain, high powered protein sources, etc. Granted, the rumen has the capacity to handle other feed stuff than forage, but it is the forage in balance that keeps the cow healthy.

Dr. Limin Kung, professor of Animal Science, University of Delaware, will be one of the featured speakers at the February 7 Dairy Workshop. He will be speaking on the vital role that top quality forages play in healthy rumen function. He will be pointing out ways producers can manage feeding to maximize milk production and maintain herd health.

If you have not already made your reservations for the February 7 workshop at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, do so before February 4 by calling the Extension Office at 334-1990.

Broadstrike Herbicide

DowElanco has received federal registration for use of Broadstrike herbicide in corn and soybeans. Broadstrike is a new broad spectrum broadleaf herbicide offering growers flexibility in tillage and rotation systems. Broadstrike is available in two product blends. Since we do not raise soybeans in our area, the blend of interest would be Broadstrike plus Dual. This product can be applied in conventional, mulch till, and no-till fields from 30 days before planting, or after planting before the crop or weeds emerge. Fields treated with Broadstrike can be safely rotated to corn, alfalfa, small grains and other crops.

Dairy Refund Payment

It's the money out of your milk check so if you qualify take it back! Any dairy producer that marketed less milk in 1993 than in 1992 is eligible for the dairy refund payment program. Required documentation is a summary statement or monthly statements from your milk handler showing pounds of milk marketed in 1992 and 1993 by month and showing the amount of the assessment deducted for CCC during 1993 by month. It is this assessment that is refunded to you. Contact the ASCS office for additional information at 334-1901. Deadline for filing is March 15.

1993 Dairy Refund Sign-Up In Progress

Refunds of amounts deducted from 1993 commercial milk marketings under the Dairy Refund Program (DRPP) began January 1, 1994, according to Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee. The program is authorized by the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990.

The Act calls for an 11.25 cents per hundred-weight reduction in the price received by producers for all milk produced and marketed for commercial use in calendar year 1993. "This amount was increased on May 1, 1993, to 16.35 cents per hundredweight and decreased on September 1, 1993, to 14.71 cents per hundredweight," Bachtel said. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service collects the milk assessments.

The objective of the Dairy Refund Program is to provide a method by which eligible producers can obtain a refund of the entire amount of the reduction assessed to the producer during a calendar year.

To be eligible, producers must provide evidence that their 1993 milk marketings did not exceed their 1992 marketings. "They must request refunds from our office by March 15, 1994," ASCS official Bachtel said. For more information on the DRPP, producers should contact the Garrett County ASCS Office at 334-1901.

Ag Engineer To Speak At Dairy Workshop

Dr. William G. Bickert, professor of Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State University, will be one of the five featured speakers at a Garrett County Dairy Workshop to be held on Monday, February 7 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Dr. Bickert began his career in 1961 as a researcher in the fields of electric power, instrumentation and controls. Early in his career he was a leader in research on automatic milking systems. One of his accomplishments led to the development of the automatic milking machine.

Dr. Bickert introduced the concept of polygon parlors. In most recent years he has devoted his research in livestock facilities, leading to the introduction of transition housing for dairy calves, full ventilation for barns, and improved free stall design.

Speaking on quality forage and rumen function will be Dr. Limin Kung, University of Delaware. He will talk about the vital role that top quality forages play in healthy rumen function, and the ways producers can manage feeding to maximize milk production and maintain herd health.

Dr. Kung obtained degrees in animal science from the University of Hawaii, and a Ph.D. in dairy nutrition from Michigan State University, specializing in protein metabolism in high producing dairy cows. A year was spent in a post doctoral position at the University of Wisconsin, studying silage fermentation. He has worked for Monsanto Co. and conducted research in the areas of methionine metabolism and bovine somatotropin (BST) for ruminants. He is currently involved in a research program centered on ways to improve the efficiency of rumen and silage fermentation.

Dr. Bob Patton, of Nutri-Dairy Nutrition, will speak on the nutritional management of the high producing dairy cow. He will discuss new concepts and refinement of old concepts of dairy cattle nutrition.

Dr. Patton is a private dairy nutrition consultant with degrees in dairy production and ruminant nutrition from Penn State University and a Ph.D. in Ruminant Nutrition from Michigan State University. He owned and operated an 80-cow herd in central Pennsylvania; has a background as a nutrition specialist and author of numerous bulletins. His most recent work experiences include spending several weeks in Mexico over the past three years to work with farmers and veterinarians there on improving dairy herd management techniques under the sponsorship of Monsanto. He consults with individual farmers in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Michigan.

Other speakers will include Dr. Doug Carmel, of Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine, on energy balance and fertility; Amy Russell, University of Maryland, on general dairy management goals; and Dr. Mark Varner, University of Maryland, on Dairy-1, Computer Program.

Broadsheet Herbicide
DowElanco has received federal registration for use of Broadstrike herbicide in corn and soybeans. Broadstrike is a new broad spectrum broadleaf herbicide offering growers flexibility in tillage and rotation systems. Broadstrike is available in two product blends. Since we do not raise soybeans in our area, the blend of interest would be Broadstrike Plus Dual. This product can be applied in conventional, mulch till, and no-till fields from 30 days before planting, or after planting before the crop or weeds emerge. Fields treated with Broadstrike can be safely planted to corn, alfalfa, small grains and other crops.

Dairy Refund Payment
It's the money out of your milk check so if you qualify to get it back! Any dairy producer that marketed less milk in 1993 than in 1992 is eligible for the dairy refund payment program. Required documentation is a summary statement or monthly statements from your milk handler showing pounds of milk marketed in 1992 and 1993 by month and showing the amount of the assessment deducted for CCC during 1993 by month. It is this assessment that is refunded to you. Contact the ASCS office for additional information at 334-1901. Deadline for filing is March 15.

1993 Dairy Refund Sign-Up In Progress

Refunds of amounts deducted from 1993 commercial milk marketings under the Dairy Refund Program (DRPP) began January 1, 1994, according to Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee. The program is authorized by the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990.

The Act calls for an 11.25 cents per hundredweight reduction in the price received by producers for all milk produced and marketed for commercial use in calendar year 1993. "This amount was increased on May 1, 1993, to 16.35 cents per hundredweight and decreased on November 1, 1993, to 14.71 cents per hundredweight," Bachtel said. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service collects the milk assessments.

The objective of the Dairy Refund Program is to provide a method by which eligible producers can obtain a refund of the entire amount of the reduction assessed to the producer during a calendar year.

To be eligible, producers must provide evidence that their 1993 milk marketings did not exceed their 1992 marketings. "They must request refunds from our office by March 15, 1994," ASCS official Bachtel said.

For more information on the DRPP, producers should contact the Garrett County ASCS Office at 334-1901.

Ag Engineer To Speak At Dairy Workshop

Dr. William G. Bickert, professor of Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State University, will be one of the five featured speakers at a Garrett County Dairy Workshop to be held on Monday, February 7 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Dr. Bickert began his career in 1961 as a researcher in the fields of electric power, instrumentation and controls. Early in his career he was a leader in research on automatic milking systems. One of his accomplishments led to the development of the automatic milking machine detacher. Dr. Bickert introduced the concept of polygon parlors. In most recent years he has devoted his research in livestock facilities, leading to the introduction of transition housing for dairy calves, full wall ventilation for barns, and improved free stall design. Speaking on quality forage and rumen function will be Dr. Limin Kung, University of Delaware. He will talk about the vital role that top quality forages play in healthy rumen function, and the ways producers can manage feeding to maximize milk production and maintain herd health.

Dr. Kung obtained degrees in animal science from the University of Hawaii, and a Ph.D. in dairy nutrition from Michigan State University, specializing in protein metabolism in high producing dairy cows. A year was spent in a post doctoral position at the U.S. Dairy Forage Research Center in Wisconsin, studying silage fermentation. He has worked for Monsanto Co. and conducted research in the areas of methionine metabolism and bovine somatotropin (BST) for ruminants. He is currently involved in a research program centered on ways to improve the efficiency of rumen and silage fermentation.

Dr. Bob Patton, of Nutri-tary Dairy Nutrition, will speak on the nutritional management of the high producing dairy cow. He will discuss new concepts and refinement of old concepts of dairy cattle nutrition.

Dr. Patton is a private dairy nutrition consultant with degrees in dairy production and ruminant nutrition from Penn State University and a Ph.D. in Ruminant Nutrition from Michigan State University. He owned and operated an 80-cow herd in central Pennsylvania; has a background as a nutrition specialist and author of numerous bulletins. His most recent work experiences include spending several weeks in Mexico over the past three years to work with farmers and veterinarians there on improving dairy herd management techniques under the sponsorship of Monsanto. He consults with individual farmers in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Michigan.

Other speakers will include Dr. Doug Carmel, Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine, on energy balance and fertility; Amy Russell, University of Maryland, on general dairy management goals; and Dr. Mark Varner, University of Maryland, on Dairy-L Computer Program.

All speakers will answer questions from the audience. Coffee and donuts will be served at 9:30 a.m. with the workshop beginning at 10 a.m. Buffet lunch will be available for $5.00. Additional information and reservations may be made before February 2 by contacting the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1900.

Stewardship Survey Report Presented

The Maryland Farm Bureau announced the report of an extensive stewardship survey which the Bureau completed during the past year.

The idea for the survey came about because of an increasing need for valid data concerning the conservation practices of Maryland farmers. The need for this information has intensified as farmers face more and more pressure from environmental activists and those who seek to regulate almost every phase of their farming operations. Information gathered during the survey will be used to help combat the trend towards over-regulation.

The survey was conducted by the Maryland Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board and the Chesapeake Bay Trust. The survey was conducted in a confidential manner with 15,232 surveys being mailed in August of 1993. Recipients were asked to return completed surveys by September 30, 1993. Approximately 2,600 completed surveys were returned and 2,145 were entered into a data base.

The 1993 Stewardship Survey indicates that Maryland farmers have made and are continuing to make a strong commitment in protecting the state's natural resources in particular, soil and water. The survey indicates that Maryland farmers are among the highest in the nation in their use of conservation tillage, with such practices as no-till and mulch-till being used on 55 percent of Maryland cropland, well above the estimated national average of 35 percent. Benefits of conservation tillage include reduced soil erosion by wind and water and reduced runoff of pesticides and nutrients. This all points to the care and concern that Maryland farmers have for the Chesapeake Bay and their willingness to work for a cleaner bay.

The survey confirms that Maryland farmers are leading the nation in the percentage of operators with nutrient management plans with about 18 percent of the respondents having approved or pending nutrient management plans. This has all been accomplished with voluntary programs and points that Maryland farmers are willing to employ this key tool in improving fertilizer use efficiency and reducing the run-off of nutrients into Maryland's waterways. Along with this fact more than half, 55 percent of the respondents said they have reduced their use of pesticides during the last three years.

Fifty-two percent indicated that they use alternatives to chemical controls for weeds and insects. Fifty-eight percent use crop rotation and soil testing to determine nutrient needs which are used on 60 percent of all crop acres and 45 percent of the respondents have reduced their use of fertilizers during the last three years.

The survey indicated that respondents provide more than 140,000 acres of lands for conservation uses which included, wetlands, woodlands, streams, ponds or some other wildlife habitat. The land area per farm set aside for these uses averaged 67 acres.

Survey respondents said that their three most important considerations in adopting good conservation practices were: reduced production costs, concern for stewardship and the environment, and increased yields. This statement alone, proves that the Maryland emphasis of voluntary incentive programs is the best direction to encourage good stewardship practices.

C. William Knill, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau said, "The survey shows that Maryland farmers are trained professionals who are voluntarily using technology to reduce their application of pesticides and fertilizers. It shows that they are voluntarily using good stewardship practices to save the soil and to protect our water including the Chesapeake Bay." Knill added, "The survey shows that concern for the environment is a key consideration in making management decisions on Maryland farms."

GARRETT COUNTY FARM BUREAU HONORED — Garrett County Farm Bureau was honored for program excellence in four of eight program areas during 1993. The award was presented during the recent Maryland Farm Bureau Convention held in Clinton. Brooks Hamilton, right, Garrett County Farm Bureau president, accepts Gold Star Award from C. William Knill, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Maryland farmers are professionals from the ground-up, who have a genuine concern for the land from which they make a living. The Maryland Farm Bureau Stewardship Survey confirms the farmer as a friend to the Chesapeake Bay and Maryland's other valued natural resources.

Wool Filing Procedure Announced

ASCs official Michael R. Koziar reminds wool and mohair producers to submit their 1993 sales receipts by

March 1, 1994, to qualify for a 1993 price support payment.

Eligible sales receipts for wool and/or mohair and unshorn lambs can be submitted to the Garrett County ASCS office at the Garrett County Courthouse. Producers are subject to payment limitation and payment eligibility provisions, and must certify that they are in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions.

For additional information on the wool program, those interested may contact the ASCS office at 334-1901.

A typical cow weighs 1500 lbs. and produces 40 lbs. of milk per day.

Keep local families warm this winter.

Here's how you can help the Community Energy Fund help your neighbors.

GARRETT COUNTY COMMUNITY ACTION COMMITTEE
IN PARTNERSHIP WITH POTOMAC EDISON

At a time when many deserving families may have difficulty paying winter heating bills because of temporary hardship, The Potomac Edison Company has established the Community Energy Fund.

Potomac Edison and The Garrett County Community Action Committee have formed a partnership to help those in need with winter energy expenses. When you contribute to the Community Energy Fund, Allegheny Power System stockholders will match, up to the program limits, 50 cents for each dollar donated to help pay household electric bills.

Potomac Edison urges all of its customers to consider this opportunity to assist those who need a helping hand this winter.

Through the Energy Fund partnership, your donation goes even further.

To help your neighbors in need this heating season, send your donation to the Community Energy Fund, The Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., P.O. Box 449, Oakland, MD 21550. Help local families keep warm this winter with your gift.

Why Did God Create A Cow With A Rumen?

Why did God create a cow with a rumen? Simply, so she could efficiently eat and digest forages such as grasses, legumes, corn stalks, sorghum, etc. The rumen was not given to the cow for the purpose of consuming cotton seeds hulls, animal fats, brewers grain, high powered protein sources, etc. Granted, the rumen has the capacity to handle other feed stuff than forage, but it is the forage in balance that keeps the cow healthy.

Dr. Limin Kung, professor of Animal Science, University of Delaware, will be one of the featured speakers at the February 7 Dairy Workshop. He will be speaking on the vital role that top quality forages play in healthy rumen function. He will be pointing out ways producers can manage feeding to maximize milk production and maintain herd health.

If you have not already made your reservations for the February 7 workshop at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, do so before February 4 by calling the Extension Office at 334-1990.

Broadstrike Herbicide

DowElanco has received federal registration for use of Broadstrike herbicide in corn and soybeans. Broadstrike is a new broad spectrum broadleaf herbicide offering growers flexibility in tillage and rotation systems. Broadstrike is available in two product blends. Since we do not raise soybeans in our area, the blend of interest would be Broadstrike plus Dual. This product can be applied in conventional, mulch till, and no-till fields from 30 days before planting, or after planting before the crop or weeds emerge. Fields treated with Broadstrike can be safely rotated to corn, alfalfa, small grains and other crops.

Dairy Refund Payment

It's the money out of your milk check so if you qualify take it back! Any dairy producer that marketed less milk in 1993 than in 1992 is eligible for the dairy refund payment program. Required documentation is a summary statement or monthly statements from your milk handler showing pounds of milk marketed in 1992 and 1993 by month and showing the amount of the assessment deducted for CCC during 1993 by month. It is this assessment that is refunded to you. Contact the ASCS office for additional information at 334-1901. Deadline for filing is March 15.

Mrs. Harvey closed with a reading, "May this New Year be the Best," and Elizabeth McComas served refreshments in the dining hall.

Bartlett Reacts To Nomination Of Wm. Perry

Maryland's Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, a member of the House Armed Services Committee in the U.S. House of Representatives, stated this week that the nomination of William Perry as Secretary of Defense is largely positive, but some important items have not been clearly addressed.

Bartlett expressed a degree of confidence in Perry, saying, "His military technical knowledge is very solid. That is something we should be secure with in every Secretary of Defense, and the comfort level with Perry's ability to that area is more than satisfactory." Bartlett was referring to Perry's work in the 1970's on developing stealth technology weapons.

Bartlett, however, said he has some concern about the nominee's grasp of the need to "keep the military strong in an unstable, and still dangerous world." The congressman says he fears that "any Clinton nominee to Secretary of Defense will likely be expected to significantly downsize the military. To buck the President on this issue is to invite political trouble for the person in that job. Unfortunately, we already have too many rubber stamp cabinet members for Clinton, exercising enormous authority over the safety, sovereignty, and economic health of this nation."

Asthma Training Workshop Slated

Memorial Hospital and Medical Center and the American Lung Association of Maryland invite child care providers to attend a two-hour workshop on asthma. The approved training is scheduled for Tuesday, February 15, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the Cumberland YMCA.

This training is approved by the Western Maryland Child Care Resource Center for two hours in the health area. Topics will include the respiratory system, symptoms of and triggers for asthma, and management techniques.

This workshop will provide an overview of asthma and will help child care providers create a safe and positive environment for the asthmatic child, according to an Association spokesman.

Instructor Linda Trimble is a certified respiratory therapy technician at Memorial Hospital and has been working in the field for more than 10 years.

Anyone interested in attending should call Lucille Metheny at the YMCA, 724-5445. A nominal fee will be charged to cover the cost of refreshments.

For further details, persons may call the Cumberland office of the Lung Association at 777-7317.

Time To Manage Class Re-Slated

"Making Time to Manage" is a class offered by Garrett Community College designed to help persons learn how to better manage their time for work, relaxation, and day-to-day living. The class was scheduled for earlier this month, but was postponed because of inclement weather.

The class has been re-scheduled for February 10 and 17 from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. at the McHenry Campus of GCC.

According to a GCC spokesman, practical individualized learning experiences will be focused on values, goals and priorities, time management techniques, getting past procrastination and personal time wasters, increasing and using prime time, and conducting effective meetings. The class can be helpful to supervisors and others in the workplace who want to learn to use their time more effectively, the spokesman said.

Persons wishing to register for the class or obtain additional information may contact Sandy Major at 387-3101.

Life Planning Sessions Re-Set By Area Agency

Because of weather related closings of senior citizen centers, the Area Agency on Aging announced this week it has rescheduled the presentations pertaining to the Maryland Health Care Decisions Act.

Three presentations are scheduled; two at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland, and one at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident. The presentations at the Mary Browning Center will be held Wednesday, February 9, at 12:30 p.m. for regular participants at the center and Tuesday, February 15, at 1 p.m. for individuals who do not routinely participate in Agency programs. Any seniors in Oakland and the surrounding area are welcome to attend either presentation.

Seniors residing in the northern section of the county may attend the presentation scheduled at the Flowery Vale Senior Center on Thursday, February 10, at 12:30 p.m.

According to an Agency spokesman, the "life planning" presentation emphasizes the importance of making early health care decisions for oneself. In addition to showing a video which aptly depicts the need to plan ahead, the Agency will make available forms (living wills and advance directives). The forms may be used by seniors now to specify what type of life sustaining medical treatment, if any, they choose should they become incapacitated and unable to make such decisions in the future. The information disseminated will help individuals make appropriate and well thought out decisions about personal health care.

For additional information, persons may call 334-9431 or 746-8824.

"A Special Thank You For Your Cooperation During The Recent Emergency"

A message from Nancy Neff, Potomac Edison Division Manager

Last week, Potomac Edison faced the highest demand for electrical power in company history.

Continuing sub-zero temperatures threatened to cause severe service interruptions. You, our customers, recognized the emergency and the need...and you pitched in to do what had to be done by conserving electricity. Because of your efforts to cut back your personal use of energy, we were able to avoid a serious and damaging situation. We thank you and sincerely appreciate your help. We also want to acknowledge and thank our dedicated employees for their tireless efforts.

Patch Has Advantages Over Gum

According to a recent report in Hospital Formulary, nicotine skin patches offer several advantages over nicotine gum for those who want to stop smoking. Dr. John R. Hughes, professor of psychiatry, psychology, and family practice at the University of Vermont, prefers combining a nicotine skin patch with behavioral therapy. According to Dr. Hughes this combination can result in a quit rate as high as 40%. Smokers who try to quit on their own only have about a 5% success rate. Advantages of the patch over gum include more reliable blood levels of nicotine, once-a-day dosing, and decreased cardiovascular risk.

Tolliver Urges Motorists To "Buckle Up"

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel Larry W. Tolliver this week is urging all Maryland motorists to buckle up for their own safety.

Already in 1994, 39 people have been killed on Maryland's roads, eight more than this time last year. Colonel Tolliver points to lack of use and improper use of seatbelts as the number one contributor to those deaths.

"Twenty-three of the 39 deaths this year were a direct result of motorist either not wearing their seatbelt or just wearing the shoulder portion or lap portion alone," Tolliver said. "And when you take into account that six vehicle deaths were pedestrians, that means 23 of 33 vehicle deaths can be attributed to not wearing a seatbelt."

With the extreme weather Maryland has experienced this year, Tolliver said it is more important than ever to make certain that drivers and passengers alike buckle up and the babies and young children are secured properly in an approved safety seat.

Pedestrians must also take extra precautions in bad weather, he said. "Make certain that you cross only in marked crosswalks and when crossing the street to be sure that vehicles have come to a complete stop. Also do not stand too close to the roadway, in the event a vehicle loses control on a wet or icy roadway," he said.

The Maryland State Police will be observing National Child Safety Seat Awareness Week February 13-19.

WFRB To Hold Annual "Mile Of Quarters" Effort

WFRB Radio, Frostburg, is once again taking on the task of raising a "Mile of Quarters" for the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division.

The American Heart Association is the nation's largest voluntary health organization dedicated to the reduction of disability and death from cardiovascular disease and stroke. In Allegany and Garrett counties, approximately 50% of all deaths are from heart disease.

Over $274,000 has been raised by the annual Mile of Quarters event for the AHA's research, public education, and community service programs.

Each year, WFRB attempts to raise a mile of quarters, which, according to the Department of the Treasury, amounts to $16,586.39 (the quarters would be laid side-by-side, as on a table top, with the last coin being cut approximately in half).

Listeners are invited to make donations in any amount, but those of $10 or more can be in memory of a loved one, friend or neighbor. That person's name and the donation will then be included in one of the "Mile of Quarters Updates," which will air at 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday beginning January 31.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on February 10, 1994 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-333, an application made by Mr. Jimmy Rayley for Variances from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front and rear yard setback requirements for residences. Specifically, Mr. Rayley is requesting Variances to allow the construction of a residence which would extend to within 30 feet of the front property line and to within 5 feet of the rear line instead of the required 40 feet for both front and rear yard setbacks. The property is located in the Lake Forest Estates Subdivision (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-334, an application made by Hugh Umbel and Jimmy Rayley for Variances from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirements for single family residences. Specifically, the applicants are requesting Variances to allow the construction of eight new single family residences on commonly owned property which would extend to within 15 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is known as the Lakewood Resorts property located on US 219 at the Deep Creek Bridge (Zoned LR).

3) Docket SE-243, an application made by Hugh Umbel and Jimmy Rayley for a Special Exception permit to allow the establishment of a commercial indoor recreational facility (health and fitness center) on the Lakewood Resorts property located on US 219 at the Deep Creek Bridge (Zoned LR).

4) Docket SE-244, an application made by Hugh Umbel on behalf of Susan Price for a Special Exception permit to allow establishment of a nine room lodging facility in the Carmel Cove development located off the Glendale Road (Zoned LR).

has come to Garrett Co. to change the lives of local children one at a time. There are many abused, neglected and severely troubled Western MD children who now live in institutions far away from their families because there are no alternatives. The PRYDE Program drastically improves the lives of severely troubled children by training people to work as professional treatment parents in their own homes. PRYDE Treatment Parents receive payments starting at $12,500 annually as well as a wide array of support services. If you would like to commit yourself to making positive changes in the life of a troubled child call us for more information. We are waiting. Call Debbie Ambrose at 387-6209 or 1-800-304-8126.

R.A. Farmer Will Perform At Annual Conference

Award-winning pianist and vocalist, Richard Allen Farmer, will appear in concert at a "Mountaintop '94," a weekend conference for men and women to be held March 4-6 at Lakeview Resort in Morgantown, W.Va. He will perform at "A Festival in Celebration of the Wisdom of God."

Dr. Farmer travels extensively as a Bible expositor and concert artist. He has also authored a handbook on creativity, It Won't Fly If You Don't Try. "Richard Allen Farmer has been performing at 'Mountaintop' since its inception in 1987 and is always one of the highlights of this annual conference. Not only is he a gifted musician, but he has a delightful sense of humor and is an inspirational communicator. His concert is indeed a celebration!" said Anne Robinson, chairman of Living for Christ Conferences, the non-profit, non-denominational sponsoring organization.

Os Guinness, world renowned Bible scholar, speaker, and author, will be the featured speaker at this eighth annual get-away weekend. He will present the five-session seminar "Living in the American Hour" based on his recent book The American Hour.

Conference rates, including all programs, four meals, and two nights lodging, begin at $135 per person. More information can be obtained from Living for Christ Conference, P.O. Box 217, New Martinsville, WV 26155, (304) 455-1100 (5322).

Kitzmiller Man Dies Following Friday Mishap

A Kitzmiller man died of injuries sustained in a two-vehicle accident Friday, Jan. 28, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

Paul H. Coleman Jr., 59, died at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., several hours after the 8:50 a.m. accident. He had been transferred there from Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he had been transported by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

According to a report filed by Tfc. Mark Rodeheaver, Coleman lost control of his 1988 Subaru station wagon on Rt. 135 near Altamont, when the car slid on slushy/icy roads, causing it to skid sideways into the path of an east-bound 1991 Chevy Lumina van, driven by Thomas DeBerry, 55, Morgantown, W.Va.

DeBerry was taken to Garrett Memorial by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

Coleman was born May 20, 1934, in Oakmont, W.Va., a son of the late Paul H. Coleman and Rita (Hott) Coleman Uphole.

He worked as a coal miner for the Island Creek Coal Company. He was on the liver transplant list at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and upon his death, became an organ donor.

Survivors include his wife, Shirley (Greaser) Coleman; his step-father, Mark Uphole, Deer Park; one son, James Coleman, Boston, Mass.; two stepsons, William Abernathy, Elk Garden, W.Va., and Joseph Lucas, Kitzmiller; five daughters, Valerie Coleman, Cynthia Vozella, Sandra Coleman, Laura Aikens, and Paula Coleman.

Mayor Convicted Of Indecent Exposure Charge

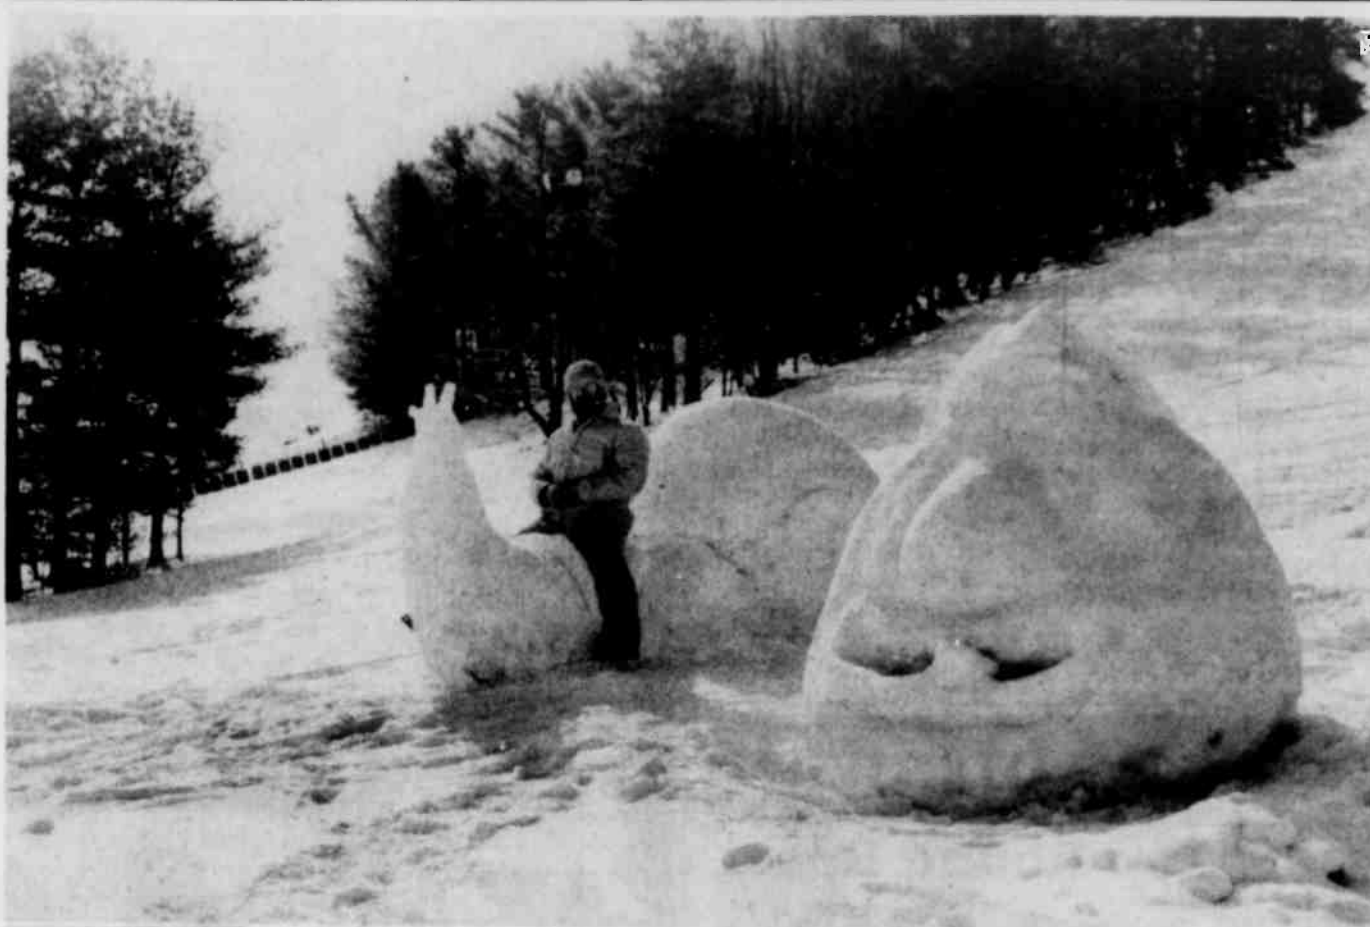

A guilty verdict was reached by a jury in Allegany Circuit Court yesterday, convicting Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle of an indecent exposure charge. According to reports, the jury reached the decision in 20 minutes.

The charge stemmed from an incident in December 1992, at which time Schlosnagle allegedly exposed himself in the parking lot of the Country Club Mall, Cumberland.

The defendant originally entered an alford plea of guilty, which meant he did not necessarily admit guilt to the charge, but acknowledged that the prosecutor had sufficient evidence for conviction. The plea was entered after the establishment of a plea agreement which stated that Schlosnagle would most likely receive probation before judgement.

However, when Judge J. Frederick Sharer later learned that the defendant had a case pending in Garrett County on a similar charge and that he had been previously convicted of battery, he informed Schlosnagle that he, the judge, may not be able to abide by the plea agreement. At that time, Sharer gave Schlosnagle the opportunity to withdraw the plea, which he did on Dec. 13.

A sentencing date has not been announced.

"THE NEVER-ENDING STORY" is what some area residents may be thinking about this winter, and may be reminded of it when they see these snow sculptures of two characters from the popular movie. The snail and the "rock biter" were built on the ski slopes of Wisp, where conditions for shushing have been nearly perfect. Somewhat unexpected snow has been falling steadily today, with substantial accumulation. Snow showers are expected "on and off" through the weekend. Taking a chilly ride on Mr. Snail in this photo is Daniel Orendorf.

Edwards Again Co-Sponsoring Bill To Abolish Legislative Scholarships

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards is, once again, pushing to abolish the state's $8 million legislative scholarship program by co-sponsoring House Bill 21, titled "Delegate and Senatorial Scholarships - Abolition." The delegate is joined by 25 other House members and a growing coalition of Senators, including District 1 Senator John J. Hafer, who have reportedly indicated they are ready to take a more scrutinizing look at the program.

Reports reveal that legislators are feeling increased pressure from constituents

Sumpter Is Promoted By Bausch & Lomb

Bausch & Lomb has announced the promotion of Butch Sumpter, manager of the local plant, to the position of vice president of manufacturing for the eyewear Division. He began his new assignment Feb. 1.

In this new capacity, Sumpter will be responsible for all aspects of production, quality, cost and delivery from manufacturing facilities in Oakland, San Antonio, Rochester/Frame Center, and Nuevo Laredo.

Sumpter joined Bausch & Lomb in 1989 as manager-manufacturing/materials and later was named manager-lens operations at the Mtn. Lake Park facility. He was promoted to plant manager at the local facility in the fall of 1991.

Prior to joining Bausch & Lomb, Sumpter held the position of vice president and general manager for an operating division of Laporte America Corporation. Prior to that, he spent 10 years with FMC Corporation, where he held various management positions to end the scholarship program -- the only one of its kind in the nation.

Edwards has been a co-sponsor of similar bills for the past few years, and has re-affirmed his position, stating, "I don't believe the legislators should be handing out scholarships because, sometimes, it irritates as many people as it makes happy."

"The program does have some pluses, but there is the general perception that the scholarships go to the legislators' buddies," he said, adding that the perception is "not true."

Edwards pointed out that the scholarship funds should stay in place, however, and be distributed throughout the districts for eligible students determined by the state scholarship board.

"Awarding scholarships should not just be based on financial need," he added. "They should also be determined by merit."

Delegate Edwards is also co-sponsoring a bill -- HB 40 -- that would shorten the length of the annual session of the Maryland General Assembly from the current 90 days to 75 days during the first year of a term and to 60 days in the other three years of the term.

If enacted, the measure would take the form of a constitutional amendment.

Edwards is the sole sponsor of a bill -- HB 131 -- that would grant immunity from personal liability to any agent of a charitable organization under a certain provision of the federal Internal Revenue Code.

Edwards explained that "charitable organization" would be added to the existing guidelines for tax exempt purposes and would provide immunity for any volunteer from lawsuits.

Nearly 25,000 Acres To Be Sprayed In Gypsy Moth Suppression Program

Through a cooperative cost-share effort, a total of approximately 25,000 acres in Garrett County will be the target of an aerial spray program for gypsy moth infestation in May, according to Jim Simms, Garrett County extension agent.

A recently unveiled map depicting the areas most affected by the infestation is currently available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library and at the Garrett County Extension Office in Oakland.

The map was drafted following a survey that was conducted last fall by state officials to determine the number and location of gypsy moth egg masses. County funds -- in the amount of $10,500 -- were used to pay for the survey.

The map indicates a high infestation rate in the north central portion of Garrett County, along the Youghiogheny River corridor, and around the Deer Park area in Potomac State Forest.

Simms stated that, since

Hospital Elects Not To Purchase Park Property

The Board of Governors of Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently voted to abandon its plans to purchase the Mountain Lake Park Camp Meeting grounds, located along G Street in the Park. The hospital had announced this past fall its intentions to buy the property and utilize it to provide a variety of community-based services.

Located on the five-acre tract are the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall and Auditorium, the oldest public building still standing in the Park, as well as a modern two-story dormitory. According to Ben Rosenthal, president of GCMH, the hospital's primary interest was in the newer structure, which would have housed, among other things, an adult day care center operated by Tressler Lutheran Corporation.

The decision was reached after the hospital received estimates of costs for necessary renovations to the newer building that would satisfy the Americans with Disabilities Act codes. Those costs would have exceeded the purchase price of the property.

BFS Officials Subject Of IRS Investigation

The owners of several Garrett County businesses, including Grantsville Ag Services and BFS convenience stores in Mtn. Lake Park and McHenry, are the subject of an investigation by the Internal Revenue Service, which is looking into allegations of 46 counts of embezzlement involving a Bruceton Mills, W.Va.-based company.

Search warrants were obtained Jan. 14 by a federal magistrate in Wheeling, W.Va., for seizure of business and personal financial records of Bruceton Farm Services, Inc., its president, Marshall Bishop, and vice president, Brad Groves (who is also Bishop's nephew), and Bishop's wife, Karen, manager of the BFS convenience stores.

According to other print media, the warrants resulted in raids last week by the IRS, which indicated an investigation of the alleged embezzlement of $1.5 million is under way. Another $3 million is suspected of

Local Missionary Couple Killed In Bus Wreck Near Capital Of Honduras

Two local Mennonites on a missionary trip in Central America were killed Monday when their bus careened over a cliff, 25 miles from Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras. Husband and wife Eli and Mary Yoder, members of the Swanton Mennonite Fellowship Church, died in the accident, and their daughters, Martha Yoder, 22, and Mary Katherine, 18, were seriously injured, according to reports.

The Yoder bus, which was an older vehicle converted into a mobile home for the family, was included in a five-vehicle caravan traveling through the country to deliver medical supplies in Honduras and visit Mennonite missions there and in Costa Rica. Two sons, 17-year-old Matthew and 15-year-old Allen, were riding in a separate vehicle at the time of the accident. Another daughter, Arlene, 20, was also injured in the crash.

The brothers and Arlene were flown to Pittsburgh last evening, according to a family spokesperson, and were brought home.

The daughters Martha and Mary Katherine remain hospitalized in Honduras, and the family spokesperson said the latest report, received last night, indicated that both have "favorably improved." Martha has been living in Honduras for approximately one year and works there in a children's home.

At approximately 9 a.m. Monday, the bus lost its brakes on a hill and ran over the cliff, according to reports. The accident was reported in several Honduran newspapers, the spokesperson said.

Mr. Yoder, 46, was the owner of Yoder & Sons Excavating, and Mrs. Yoder, 47, was a homemaker. The couple and their children left Garrett County on Jan. 12 for the mission, and after completing their work had planned to sell the bus in Costa Rica and fly home.

Mr. Yoder made several trips to Central America in the past years to take part in missionary activities and provide supplies to needy people. He and his wife were the leaders of this trip.

Visitations for the couple will take place at the Swanton Mennonite Church on Friday from 2-4 and 6-9 p.m. A service will be conducted at the church on Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. and officiated by Bishop Millard Yoder. Interment will be in the Swanton Mennonite Church Cemetery.

The church family has requested that memorials take the form of contributions to a fund established to cover travel expenses and all other costs incurred through this tragedy. These contributions may be sent in care of the Swanton Mennonite Church, Rt. 2, Swanton MD 21561.

Sojourner To Be Presented In GCC Theater

Sojourner, a one-hour play depicting the life of Sojourner Truth, who rose from slavery to become a spokeswoman for her people, will be presented by the Germantown Theatre Guild in the Garrett Community College auditorium Tuesday, February 8, at 1:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the event with no admission charge.

The play is being presented in conjunction with Black History Month, according to Beth Luers, professor of history, who said it brings to life the heroic legend of the woman who became known as a fighter for freedom and human rights.

Sojourner Truth, whose real name was Isabella, was sold into slavery at the age of 9. As she was sold from one master to another, she kept the strong belief in God and the power of prayer her mother had instilled in her. Finally, at the age of 28, she became free and went on to New York City to help the "poor and downtrodden" and to preach the word of God.

She became one of the strongest voices in the Abolitionist and Feminist movements. When the Civil War started she went to Washington to meet President Lincoln and saw the plight of the freed black families who had fled from the south. She spoke with Lincoln about her dream to give these families land in the West where they could farm and live independent lives, but Lincoln was assassinated before her dream could be fulfilled.

Although Sojourner Truth was never formally educated, she became one of the greatest orators of her time and traveled extensively through the country until her death in 1883.

The Germantown Theatre Guild is based in Philadelphia.

SPARKLES AND SWEETS -- Plans are being finalized for the "Sparkles and Sweets" event, slated for Friday, Feb. 18, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp. Pictured above, left to right, are Bob Simmons, co-chair of the event; Chef Brian Canfield, sales coordinator, and Wendy Friend, of the Will O' the Wisp. "Sparkles and Sweets" will feature sweets donated by local establishments, such as Point View Inn, Josie's Family Restaurant, Deer Park Inn, Silver Tree Restaurant, Gregg's Pharmacy, Goerling's Restaurant, Proudfoot Pharmacy, Casselman Inn, Twille's Old Mill Restaurant, The Hillman's Towne Restaurant, Deep Creek Pharmacy, and Oak Mar Restaurant. The event will also include live musical entertainment, sparkling beverages, and an auction of a number of special service and get-away packages and gift items. Items to be auctioned were donated by the Country Inn Bed and Breakfast, Presentations, Flowerloft, Gahaut's Braddock Motor Inn, Vicki Carlson Therapeutic Massage, Kathy's Furniture and Gifts, Jan Florist, Arrowhead Market and Deli, and Joanne's Flora Boutique. "The event promises to be a fun-filled evening and a suitable conclusion to Valentine's Day festivities," stated Simmons. Tickets are a $8 donation to Garrett County United for Humanity, an interdenominational housing ministry. Tickets are available at the French Cafe Bakery, Will O' the Wisp, Marvin's Men's Wear, and the Habitat office.

Four Injured In Saturday Car Wreck

Four persons were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Saturday following a two-vehicle accident on Rt. 39, west of Oakland. All four were treated and released, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, which led the investigation.

According to the report, Jennifer L. Berkeridge, 17, Oakland, was operating a 1986 Dodge four-door car westbound on Rt. 39 when she lost control of the vehicle on ice. The Dodge slid across the center line, striking a 1974 Mazda operated by Robert U. Thompson, 39, Davis, W.Va.

Both drivers and two passengers in the Thompson vehicle were transported to the hospital by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Cpl. Randy Sines of the sheriff's office said there were no charges filed because the accident was caused by the icy road.

ARC Bloodmobile Nets 128 Pints At Grantsville

A total of 128 units of blood were collected at the visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile at Grantsville on Friday, according to Lela H. Bender, Blood Program chairman, for Northern Garrett County. Six persons were first-time donors. There were nine deferrals.

Melissa Fazenbaker and Patricia Knopsnyder received one-gallon pins, and Katie Yoder received a five-gallon pin.

Volunteers assisting were: Mary Opel, Glenda Yoder, Missy Fazenbaker, Debbie Haning, Roberta Bender, Crissie Maynard, Fannie Beachy, Lula Brown, Ruth Horning, and Phyllis Durst.

A donation made to American Red Cross Blood Services, by Winnifred Cumberworth and sons, Paul, Charles, Craig, and Mark, in memory of Robert William Carl, paid for canteen supplies.

Friendsville Town Election Set For Tuesday, Feb. 8

A town election in Friendsville for mayor and three councilpersons will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 8, at the Town Hall from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. All registered voters are encouraged to participate in the proceedings.

On the ballot for mayor are the town's current mayor, Spencer R. Scholsnagle, and Joseph E. Sessa. Those running for the three council positions are Herschal Allen, Carroll M. Forsyth, Harry Hobart Griffith, and Lucile Sines.

Those elected will serve a two-year term, along with hold-over council members Mekin P. Pike, Wayne A. Friend, and James R. Spear.

Youth Seriously Injured At Wisp

A collision of two skiers at the Wisp Ski Area in McHenry Friday evening critically injured a 14-year-old boy.

Mike Witte (address unknown) collided with an unidentified student of West Virginia University on the lower part of the Squirrel Cage slope and sustained a fractured skull. The youth was treated and removed from the hill by members of the Wisp Ski Patrol and then transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. He was then transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where this morning he was listed in "serious" condition.

The WVU student was only slightly injured in the mishap and required no treatment.

According to a spokesman for the Wisp Ski Patrol, Witte apparently advanced out onto Squirrel Cage from a side trail and failed to first look up the hill to see if it was clear to proceed. The spokesman emphasized that the uphill skier has the right-of-way over any skier advancing onto the slope from a side trail.

Garrett Manufac. Employees To Get Back Wages

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (ILGWU) which represents the employees at Garrett Manufacturing in Deer Park, has reached a settlement with the company for $100,000 as a result of a civil suit filed in Federal Court against the plant owner.

According to a ILGWU spokesperson, the settlement covers arbitrations that were won by the union dating back to November 1991 and October 1992, as well as contributions owed to the workers Health and Welfare Fund that continued to cover the workers with health benefits for six months after all workers were permanently laid off in April of 1992.

The owner, James Leuthe, a central Pennsylvania businessman, reportedly was found to have violated the workers' rights and the collective bargaining agreement by laying off more senior qualified employees while continuing to work employees with less seniority, refusing to pay employees for a personal day due them under the contract. He also withheld money owed to the workers Health and Welfare Fund that provided the workers with health care benefits, according to the ILGWU spokesperson.

The back wages will be distributed to the affected workers as soon as a meeting can be arranged, the spokesperson said.

Wozniwicz Is Named CEO Of American Trust

The board of directors of American Trust Bank has announced the appointment of Robert R. Wozniwicz as president and chief executive officer.

His newly assumed position is a result of the merger of WM Bancorp with Keystone Financial, Inc., which became effective January 7, 1994. On the date the merger closed, Donald E. Stone retired as chairman of the board, president, and CEO of American Trust Bank.

Wozniwicz was previously senior vice president and director of retail banking at Northern Central Bank, a Keystone Financial member bank, located in Williamsport, Pa.

He is a graduate of American College, Sacramento, Calif., and the Pennsylvania Bankers Association School of Banking at Bucknell University and earned management certificates from the Pennsylvania State University, University of South Carolina and the Massachusetts Bankers Association.

In Williamsport, Wozniwicz was active in local community organizations which worked to increase commercial activity and enhance business opportunities throughout that area.

Wozniwicz, his wife, Mary Kay, and their son, Brandon, will be relocating to the Cumberland area in the near future.

Garrett Central Alarm Handles 21,887 Calls

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management handled 21,887 calls for assistance during 1993, according to statistics released this week by Brad Frantz, director of the office. This was a slight increase over the number handled the two previous years (21,601 in 1992 and 21,706 in 1991), but slightly below 1990's total of 21,996.

Of the total number of calls received, 12,568 of them were designated as emergency calls, with 6,920 received over the 911 telephone line. Callers seeking assistance from one of the local rescue squads totalled 2,089, while calls for help from a local fire department numbered 1,475.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was summoned on 1,257 occasions by the office during 1993, up slightly from the total of 1,203 calls in 1992. The Grantsville station of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad was alerted by the office 524 times in 1993, compared to 547 times the previous year, while the Accident station of NGCRS was called out 443 times, compared to 439 times in 1992.

The busiest volunteer fire department among the 16 area departments on the Office of Emergency Management system was the Oakland VFD, which handled 373 calls during 1993, an average of just over one per day. Deer Park VFD was called out 237 times, while Friendsville and Grantsville VFDs were each summoned 139 times.

Maryland With Pride

Numbers of calls for other fire departments were: Eastern Garrett, 106; Terra Alta, 93; Gorman, 91; Accident, 89; Kitzmiller, 79; Bittinger, 44; Bayard, 42; Mt. Storm, 18; Salisbury, 10; Elk Garden, nine; and Bloomington, seven.

Frantz noted that Bayard, Elk Garden, Mt. Storm, Terra Alta, and Salisbury VFDs are also dispatched through their own counties' dispatching centers, while Eastern Garrett and Bloomington VFDs are also dispatched by Allegany Civil Defense, the numbers of which are not included in the Garrett County office totals.

Other significant numbers of calls handled by the office and respective agencies contacted were: Garrett County Sheriff's Department, 1,347 calls; Maryland State Police, 1,095; Garrett County Memorial Hospital, 518; Home Health nurses, 338; Sanitary Commission, 282; courthouse maintenance, 263; Garrett County Roads Department, 205; animal control, 205; and Department of Natural Resources, 196.

Change Noted In Date For Visit Of Bloodmobile

The next visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland, which was slated for Friday, Feb. 11, has been re-scheduled for Friday, Feb. 25, because of a scheduling problem with the National Guard Armory. Donors will be accepted from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

According to Frances Mountain, representing the Red Cross, volunteers are needed to assist with the visit and donors are especially needed right now because of a severe shortage in the region's blood supply. Mountain, who said that the shortage is primarily a result of the recent severe cold weather, added that all types of blood are needed.

Persons who are at least 17 years of age, who weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health may donate blood. The process of donating a pint of blood takes approximately one hour.

Single-Vehicle Accident Results in DWI Charges

James P. Tuck, 26, Salisbury, Pa., was charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) and other traffic offenses last Thursday afternoon, following a single-vehicle mishap on the Finzel Road, according to a report filed by Cpl. Paugh of the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

Tuck was reportedly operating a Pontiac 2000 near Mason-Dixon Taxidermy when the vehicle slid off the ice-covered roadway and struck the concrete steps of a local business. The vehicle then glanced off the steps, overturned and slid back onto the roadway.

Tuck and a passenger in the vehicle, Donald K. Durst, 26, also of Salisbury, were both reportedly injured as a result of the accident, and were transported to Cumberland Memorial, where they were treated for back, neck and head injuries. Ambulances responded from Northern

Garrett and Frostburg THEFTS REPORTED

Thomas Knight, Great Falls, Va., reported to state police that his 1992 Jeep Cherokee was stolen sometime between 11 p.m., Jan. 30, and 8:15 a.m. on Jan. 31, from where it was parked in the Pine Greene parking lot on Deep Creek Drive.

Another vehicle was reported stolen sometime between midnight and 9:30 a.m. on Jan. 29. Bradford Ward of Lexington, Ky., had parked his red 1991 GMC Jimmy, with orange pin stripes and Kentucky license plates, in the upper parking lot at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek, and when he returned, it was gone. Tfc. Mark Rodeheaver is continuing his investigation in this case.

The third investigation involves a break-in at the Wash-n-Dry Laundromat in the McHenry Plaza. Culprits reportedly entered the establishment sometime between 1 a.m. and 7:30 a.m., Jan. 28, and forced open a bill changer. An undetermined amount of coins and currency were taken from the machine. Tfc. J.T. Ben-tkowski is the investigating officer in this incident.

HANDGUN VIOLATION

Dennis J. Snyder, 24, Halifax, Pa., was charged with a handgun violation after he was stopped for speeding (76 mph in a 55 mph zone) on I-68 at approximately 4:30 p.m., Jan. 28, according to a report filed by Tfc. S.H. Anderson.

The trooper noticed several .22 caliber bullets on the floor of the vehicle by the driver's side, and a further search revealed a .22 caliber handgun in the vehicle's console. Also located were three magazines for the handgun, each containing 10 rounds of .22 cal. bullets, according to the report.

BOE Reps Meet With Hafer And Edwards Today

Members of the Garrett County Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools Jeromie Ryscavage are in Annapolis today to discuss various issues with District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer.

Ryscavage said he will be asking for clarification of a board member expenses issue. The board members currently receive $400 per year for personal expenses, such as travel and meals. Ryscavage will ask the delegates if the amount is to be handed out in a lump sum, or if it should be doled out as board members incur the expenses. Currently it is paid once per year, Ryscavage said, although some question has been raised with the board as to which is the proper procedure.

The superintendent will also address the issue of electing a student to the education board. The Student Council of Garrett County - a joint council consisting of representatives from the local middle and high schools - has requested that a student be allowed to join the board. The council has prepared an election process, as requested by the school board, and Ryscavage will ask Edwards and Hafer if legislative action is required to carry out the proposed plan.

A third item to be reviewed will concern the funding procedure for school nurses. Ryscavage indicated that a bill relative to school nurses is up for consideration and he will seek more information about it. The local board recently hired two nurses into the school system, and more are needed.

Finally, Ryscavage will ask for more information on Governor William Donald Schaefer's recommendation for school funding. The original plan called for equity among counties, and this is a point of high interest of the local board and superintendent.

Other issues will most likely arise, Ryscavage said, as the discussion unfolds. Board President Beverly Murphy and Hannah Sincell, board member, attended committee meetings yesterday of the Maryland Boards of Education Association (MABE), and are scheduled to attend the delegation meeting today, as is Charlotte Sebold, board member.

Schlosnagle To Seek Fifth Mayoral Term

Spencer R. Schlosnagle, a native of Friendsville, recently announced his intention to seek a fifth term as that community's mayor. The youngest mayor to ever be elected in the state of Maryland, Schlosnagle is a graduate of Northern High School. He attended Garrett Community College majoring in Business Administration and Frostburg State University majoring in Political Science.

Schlosnagle currently serves as Garrett County's municipal representative on the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, Inc., to which he was appointed by the Garrett County Commissioners. He also is a member and past president of the Grace Lutheran Church Council.

Additionally, Schlosnagle is past president of the Governor's Youth Advisory Council for Maryland, a former member of the American Red Cross Board of Directors, former chairman of the Democratic Central Committee for Garrett County, and a former member of the Friendsville Town Council.

"Under my administration the town of Friendsville has realized numerous accomplishments," Mayor Schlosnagle stated. "With the assistance of the Maryland Office of Planning, the town has adopted a new Comprehensive Development Plan and a new zoning ordinance."

Schlosnagle also reported that major improvements have been achieved at the Friendsville water treatment plant through grant monies totaling over $440,000 which were received from the Maryland Department of the Environment and the Farmers Home Administration. The town also received over $800,000 in grant funding from the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program and the Maryland Department of the Environment for renovations at the wastewater treatment plant.

Another town project currently underway is the construction of a new Head Start facility for area residents. A grant of nearly $70,000 has been secured from the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program for this purpose. Town officials will be working with the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., which is providing $60,000 in additional assistance for this project, according to the mayor.

The town is currently in the process of applying for grant funding for a community center facility which is proposed as an annex to the head start building. "The community center will be for the use of groups of all ages, such as seniors, scout troops, local clubs, the local clinic sponsored by the county health department, and even community college classes. This proposed building will truly be what it is called, a 'community center,' for the use of all citizens," said Schlosnagle.

The mayor cited cooperation of the town council and local citizens as a major component in accomplishing several of his goals for the community. He also stressed that despite its relatively small size, Friendsville has received over $1,000,000 in grant monies "which should be a source of pride and accomplishment for everyone in the town," he said.

"Community pride is evident every day in our little town, but it really reaches a high point during our annual 'Clean Up, Paint Up Week' sponsored by the mayor and town council each May," stated Schlosnagle.

"I feel the town is headed in the right direction for a bright future for our citizens, and the potential is here to accomplish even more," the mayor said. "My desire is to remain as Friendsville's chief executive to follow through with my goals for the betterment of our community."

Education Board Regular Meeting Agenda Released

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regularly scheduled meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 8, and the agenda for the session was released this week.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. with the presentation of the State Championship Banner to the Southern High School boys' cross-country team.

A discussion on parent participation will follow the presentation, and then the meeting will enter executive (closed to the public) session at approximately 3 p.m.

The public session will re-open at 4:30 p.m. Topics to be covered under administrative concerns will include the following: 1993-94 school calendar, results of roof analysis, the school site selection procedure, fiscal year 1995 budget considerations, and various policy/procedure adjustments.

Instructional concerns, beginning at approximately 6:20 p.m., will include a discussion of the goals of the education board, a report on the professional development center, and recommendations from the School Activities Review/Evaluation Committee.

Public comment will be heard at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend any portion of the open session. Appropriate accommodations for individuals with disabilities will be provided upon request. Persons may call the office at 334-8901. The agenda is subject to change.

Inglese Enters Alford Plea In Sex Offense Case

Larry P. Inglese, 45, Oakland, entered an alford plea of guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to the charge of second degree sexual offense. Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation for the defendant.

Charges of child abuse, third degree sexual offense, unnatural and perverted sexual practice, and assault and battery were not prosecuted, according to the court document. An alford plea is entered when the defendant concedes that the evidence against him may be enough for conviction.

Inglese is accused of sexually molesting an 11-year-old female on several occasions in February through September 1993. He allegedly forced the child to perform sexual acts and photographed her in the process.

Thayer revoked Inglese's bail and, pending sentencing, the defendant was placed in the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff. A sentencing date was not indicated on the court document.

Sheriff's Office Arrests Noted

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office logged four arrests this week for charges including DWI (driving while intoxicated), violation of probation, and failure to make deferred payments.

Terry W. Sharpless, 32, Frostburg, was charged on Jan. 30 with DWI. The defendant was reportedly operating his vehicle on Rt. 135 at approximately 1 a.m., and apparently did not dim his headlights when passing a police cruiser. He was stopped along the roadway and was subsequently charged with DWI, according to the report. He was also charged with driving with a revoked license.

After signing the citation, Sharpless was released into the custody of a sober companion.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Everett W. Morgan, 34, Accident, according to the report. Morgan was charged with violation of probation, and apparently turned himself in on Jan. 28.

Larry G. Wilson, 31, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to make deferred payments. He apparently owed $750 into district court.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Travis L. Hartman, 21, Elk Garden, W.Va. Hartman was charged with failure to pay a deferred payment of $210 into district court, according to the report.

Oakland Man Found Guilty Of CDS Possession

An Oakland man was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and reckless endangerment, by Judge Ralph Burnett in Garrett County District Court last week.

Thomas M. Claycomb, 38, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, with all but 90 days of that sentence suspended, as a result of the combined charges. Claycomb was also ordered to serve three years of supervised probation, and submit to a psychological evaluation, following his incarceration.

Claycomb had been arrested Oct. 18, 1993, by Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy Randy P. Shaffer, on the strength of a warrant and, during a routine pad-down, was found to be in possession of marijuana and a canister containing a white horn smoking device.

Two counts of reckless endangerment against Claycomb, stemming from a domestic dispute, were among five other counts, including assault, assault with intent to murder, and child abuse. In a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office, only the charges of reckless endangerment were prosecuted.

Claycomb had also been arrested on June 12, 1993, on a DWI charge. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was handed a $450 fine, a six-month suspended sentence, and six months of supervised probation, to be served concurrent with his reckless endangerment charge. In a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office, charges of driving on a revoked license, unsafe backing, and negligent driving were not prosecuted.

In other District Court news, Michelle C. Deck-man, 23, Phoenix, Ariz., was not prosecuted on a charge of theft of items valued at more than $300 because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office.

Edward R. Schaeffer II, 25, Gorman, W.Va., was arrested by Detective J.D. Murphy of the sheriff's office on the strength of a bench warrant issued by now retired Judge Jack R. Turney. Schaeffer pleaded guilty to the July 7, 1992, theft of scrap aluminum from Automotive Machine, Mtn. Lake Park, valued at approximately $500. He then reportedly resold the aluminum to Ron's Recycling, Deer Park, according to court documents.

Schaeffer was sentenced to 18 months in jail, all being suspended but 30 days, and was placed on 18 months of supervised probation. His sentence and probation will run consecutively with charges incurred in West Virginia.

Another Gormanian man, Raymond A. Miller, 22, pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of property valued at less than $300. He was subsequently sentenced to 60 days in jail (with all but 30 days suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation by Judge Burnett. He had been arrested in February 1993 after he was arrested for destroying furnishings and effects in a room at the Town Motel, Oakland.

Kenneth W. Elsey, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, had a charge of battery against him placed on the stet docket. Charges of disturbing the peace against George Hilton, 19, Oliver L. Jones Jr., 21, and Wesley R. Tubbs, 19, all of McHenry, were also placed on the stet docket. At the request of the state's attorney, a charge of battery against Jones was not prosecuted.

Charges of burglary with intent to steal, and theft of items valued at less than $300 against Evangelista T.

THAYER SWORN IN AS MASTER - Lisa Thayer is pictured above as she is sworn into office as Garrett County Circuit Court Master by David Martin, clerk of court. Thayer has assumed the duty previously performed by W. Dwight Stover, who recently retired from the position. On approximately four days each month, the master hears child support and other domestic cases and makes recommendations to the judge, according to Martin. Thayer also serves as the assistant state's attorney.

Scott, 23, Hagerstown, and Kenneth D. Gross, 19, Prince Frederick, were not prosecuted, at the request of the state's attorney, according to court records.

Michael W. Dever, 21, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of CDS and was handed a 30-day jail sentence, with all suspended but 48 hours. He was fined $150 and placed on one year of supervised probation.

A warrant was issued for Dever's arrest in July 1993, following a report that he was growing marijuana plants in his backyard. He was arrested by GCSO

Deputy J.D. Murphy and subsequently charged with the offense.

In a report from Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Officer K.E. Christensen, Steve A. Friend, 28, Friendsville, was cited for having a loaded weapon in his vehicle, Nov. 27, 1993, at the Youghiogheny Corridor, near Friendsville. He was fined $120. DNR Officer J.H. Frank cited Jeffrey L. Bachtel, 23, Smithsburg, for the same offense on Dec. 27, 1993, at Savage River State Forest. Bachtel was also fined $120.

Child Support Bill In Trouble

A bill submitted by the Schaefer Administration to bolster the collection and enforcement of child support payments is reportedly off to a somewhat rocky start with the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, whose members voiced concerns about various aspects of the measure.

Senate Bill 312 seeks to collect the $500 million in unpaid child support owed by parents in the state, and sponsors claim the measure is crucial in welfare reform efforts.

Women's Coalition Backing Safety Bills For Women

The largest coalition of women ever to support a diverse legislative agenda before the Maryland legislature has recently unveiled its 1994 priority bills aimed at women's safety issues. The newly formed Legislative Agenda for Maryland Women (LAMW) includes 305 separate women's groups and individuals representing Maryland women from every county in the state. LAMW teams women who may not normally be involved in the legislative process with those who know it well, using a series of planned advocacy activities.

The emerging theme of this year's legislative agenda is "Safety for women -- in their homes, their workplaces, their schools, and their bodies." The agenda group is supporting the 1994 Domestic Violence Act and the 1994 Fair Employment Practices Act.

The first is a multi-part measure with several safeguards to protect women and children from violence at home. It includes provisions to require written notice of shelter locations and the legal remedies available to domestic violence victims; requires the arrest of Civil Order of Protection violators; includes mental injury in the state's child abuse statute; establishes a battered child defense; compels a victim to testify against a spouse who has criminally injured him or her.

The second measure is aimed at ending discriminatory workplace practices by letting individuals sue privately in state courts or seek redress through certain state agencies. The coalition also supports adoption of state policies that would require gender equity training in state schools and restore Medicaid funding of abortions.

The coalition's guiding body is the Maryland Statewide Agenda Steering Committee, which consists of volunteers representing the participating women's groups and commissioners of the Maryland Commission for Women. Coalition is open to any individual or established group for women wishing to promote the welfare of women and children through legislative action.

Co-founders include the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence, the Anne Arundel YWCA, Maryland NOW, Women's Alliance of Maryland, American Association of University Women, Displaced Homemakers' Program, the Maryland Federation of Business and Professional Women, the League of Women Voters, the National Coalition of 100 Black Women, and the Maryland Commission for Women.

Schaefer Proposes Cap On Welfare

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer last week submitted a welfare reform package that would include imposing a cap on welfare benefits if a recipient has another child and ending benefits altogether for recipients who refuse to look for a job or perform community service.

The so-called "family cap" is currently only used in New Jersey, and fewer than a dozen states currently impose the second part of the welfare reform package submitted by the governor.

Opponents of the cap point out, however, that 77% of the state's welfare recipients have no more than two children and claim that punitive actions are ineffective. Proponents believe the state is sending a message to welfare recipients that they must act responsibly.

Any such measures will also likely benefit from the public's growing demand that the welfare system undergo significant reform.

Hafer Sponsoring Two Family Bills

District 1 Senator John J. Hafer is sponsoring two bills during the Maryland General Assembly session that seek to protect the rights of children of divorce and custody disputes.

Senate Bill 206 would require couples who plan to seek a divorce to obtain counseling beforehand and to include any children in the counseling process. Senate Bill 207 would make it a misdemeanor for a parent to take a child from another parent or a grandparent who has court-ordered visitation rights.

"These bills are geared toward the family," said Hafer. "So little time seems to be devoted to the victims of divorce -- the children. They should be able to have counseling so they know what's going on."

Both bills, said Hafer, have received widespread support in committee.

SB 206 requires that the parties to an action for divorce obtain counseling prior to the entry of a decree for divorce; requiring parties that have children to include the children in the counseling session; prohibiting a court from entering a decree of divorce unless the parties have received a certain amount of counseling from certain sources; and providing for the payment of counseling required under the Act.

Hafer is co-sponsor of Senate Bill 84 which seeks to prohibit a person from keeping "a bottle, can, or other container in the passenger compartment of a motor vehicle while that vehicle is on a highway if that bottle, can, or container contains alcohol and is open or has had its seal broken or its contents partially removed."

Hafer explained that "the bill was introduced 'to clarify what everybody already thought was the law.' The current law, however, pertains to only the driver of the vehicle.

The measure does exempt motor homes or camping vans that meet certain requirements.

Comm. Proposes Salary Raises

An independent state commission recently recommended a six percent salary increase for the state's delegates and senators. The salary commission also recommended that benefits be enhanced.

Reports indicate, however, that the proposal will probably not survive election year politics, as legislators have not forgotten the unpopular actions by members of the U.S. Congress who approved significant raises for themselves two years ago.

New Cigarette Tax Proposed

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer has proposed that a new 25-cent tax be imposed on each pack of cigarettes sold in the state, reasoning that increasing the cost of the habit would deter smokers. The measure reportedly has a fair chance of survival.

Revenue from the proposed tax (estimated at about $70 million) would be used to fund state programs such as aid to local governments, schools, scholarships, aid for disabled individuals, the elderly and the homeless.

PYRDE Expands To Serve Garrett County Families

The Pressley Ridge Youth Development Extension (PRYDE) of Maryland has recently expanded its family programs to serve the Western Maryland area, providing a variety of services to Maryland children and their families, especially in the areas of home family preservation and specialized foster care.

The organization provides services through trained professionals and foster parents who place an emphasis on keeping families together, and in keeping children close to their families when they are unable to remain at home.

PRYDE is currently able to serve 48 children in Maryland, and has programs in Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. The program began as a traditional orphanage in the 1800's.

PRYDE is already responsible for placing a Garrett County child in specialized foster care in the county after he had been institutionalized. PRYDE professionals train foster parents to provide individual motivation systems to re-educate children in the areas of relationships and behavior. The family provides in-home treatment and serves as educators for the child and his or her birth family.

The organization works with the public school system and other local organizations and agencies in providing for the foster child.

Local families who quality for in-county care of a child are currently being recruited by PRYDE, and persons interested in obtaining more information are asked to call Debbie Ambrose at 387-6209.

Gretchen Rush Earns National Banking Award

Gretchen D. Rush, First United National Bank & Trust's Personal Economics Program coordinator, has received this year's PEP Banker Award for Outstanding Contributions.

The Personal Economics Program is a program whereby volunteer bankers, working with professional educators, give their time to educate students and community groups on the fundamentals of personal finance. Presentations are tailored to the appropriate age and grade level and cover concepts such as the differences among deposit accounts, how to establish and maintain a good credit record, and successful money management techniques.

Mrs. Rush, the third First United banker to be named with a national PEP award, was specifically recognized for her effort in developing innovative programming for various groups. In addition to participating with established programs such as the Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System (ACES), she created a series of programs which were offered to the Diesel Institute, a local truck driving school, programming for the College & Me program, enhanced partnership programs with Burlington Elementary School, and served on the education committee for the Allegany County Board of Education.

The ABA Education Foundation offers publications and audio-visual items for use by volunteers in their presentations, but encourages PEP bankers to develop materials geared to the needs of their local communities. Mrs. Rush uses items she has created to explain how banks can be helpful to other businesses, the concept of money, and how to go to college. During this last year, Gretchen made 105 presentations, reaching 4,218 students.

"This is a very prestigious award given by the American Bankers Association," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer for First United Corporation. "Gretchen was selected from a national field of nominees for her involvement in our local PEP program. We're extremely proud of her quality programming, and pleased to see her 'singled out' within the nation."

Mrs. Rush, a long-time employee of the Bank, began her First United career in 1979 as a customer service representative at the Bank's Lake Office in McHenry. In 1989, she was named senior customer service officer. She was named senior customer service representative at the Main Office in Oakland in 1992. Rush assumed her current position of Personal Economics Program (PEP) coordinator later in 1992.

Gretchen and her husband, Barry, reside in McHenry. They have two sons, Jason and Josh.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

TEXAS CHURCH CENTENNIAL. Bethel (Texas) United Methodist Church at Horse Shoe Run will be observing its 100th anniversary in 1994. A centennial celebration has been planned for May 22, 1994, at the church. A commemorative booklet is being planned and it is asked that any friend or former resident submit a short anecdote, poem, short story, or recipe which expresses his or her memory of the Texas Church. This is to be sent to Mrs. Grace Bachtel, Rt. 1, Box 317, Horse Shoe Run, WV 26769 by Feb. 25. The memories will be compiled and available for all.

DOMIRE DEATH. Alma Parks Domire, 87, of Kittanning, Pa., and formerly of Morgantown died at Kittanning Jan. 24, 1994.

Mrs. Domire was born at Eglon July 22, 1906, a daughter of the late James Wilbur and Laura Sweitzer Parks. She was preceded in death by her husband, Julius Domire.

She is survived by one son, Jack Domire of Kittanning, Pa., one brother, Frank Parks of Vindev, one sister, Mabel Friend of Grantsville (Goodwill Menonite Home); two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday, Jan. 29, at the Deering Funeral Home in Morgantown with interment following in the Beverly Hills Memorial Gardens there.

PERSONAL MENTION. Clyde Harsh was admitted last Wednesday to Garrett County Memorial, but returned Saturday to his home on Stemple Ridge.

Alta Staubaugh of Horse Shoe Run fell Sunday at her home as she and her husband, Junior, were leaving for church. She is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she underwent surgery for repair of a hip fracture.

Lester Hauser became ill at his Stemple Ridge home last week and was taken to the GCMH emergency room but returned to his home.

Doyle and Helen Roth, Glenn and Norma Lantz, all Ohio, attended funeral services Saturday in Morgantown for their aunt, Alma Domire, and visited in this area overnight. The Lantzes were guests of Keith and Delores Douglas at Aurora and the Roths spent the night at their Eglon home. They visited with Ron and Avenell Parsons in Eglon before returning Sunday to their home.

David and Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run visited Saturday in Pittsburgh with her brother-in-law and sister, Bob and Eileen Rembold.

A birthday party for family members was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Gary and Frances Roth, Aurora, for their daughter, Lauren, who was 8 years old January 25.

Those attending were her brothers, Chris and Jason, her grandmothers, Elizabeth Loughrie, Ron and Avenell Parsons, and Dennis and Janice Loughrie and son, Chad Bishop, Bill and Sandra Hauser, Wade, Joe and Beth, Bruce and Mary Rembold, Shawn and Craig. Attending the Domire funeral Saturday in Morgantown from Eglon were Jim, Cheryl, and Cynthia Parks and Mrs. Ruth Parks.

Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Ron and Avenell Parsons were John and Shirley Parsons and Steve of Aurora, Ruth Parks of Eglon, and Carlton and Jean Skipper of Kingwood. The Skippers had just returned from visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, and new granddaughter, Dr. Jack, Carla and Katherine Christine Rodman, in Nashville and shared their pictures with the family.

Mike and Tammy Markwood and Alexis of Horse Shoe Run visited recently in Florida with John Markwood, his grandfather, and Willard Markwood.

Citizen Group Backs Levy For Preston Schools

Preston County voters have until March 5 to make up their minds rather to vote in favor of, or against, the continuation of a special funding levy for the county school system.

During this time, a group of Preston County parents plans to work to provide what they believe is the most accurate information available as to why the tax dollars in question will be needed during the next three years.

The group has been organized as P.E.P., which stands for People for Education in Preston. This organization resulted from a meeting held soon after the last levy was voted down, when parents and teachers came together to discuss whether or not they should accept the consequences that would result from that vote, or to try again to raise what they consider to be "vital funding" for the county's school system.

The officers of P.E.P. are: president, John Zuercher; vice president, Frank Pyles; secretary, Mary Miller; and treasurer, Pam Hinton. According to a P.E.P. spokesman, hundreds of people throughout the county have indicated they will support the new plan and want to work to gain the support of others as well.

Efforts of the group to date have included fund-raising and the preparation of a video, which members hope will be viewed by as many Preston County voters as possible during the coming weeks. Zuercher said the entire emphasis of P.E.P.'s work, and the video they are preparing, is to show the quality educational program now provided to county students, and to also show how the levy funds are used throughout the program.

Zuercher also stated that this group believes many of the voters who voted no during the last ballot on the levy were either misinformed or not adequately informed on how the tax system works. He believes the voters who listen to what P.E.P. members have to say and will then support the levy on March 5.

"We think most Prestonians are willing to help pay for the quality education students are receiving within the system, but because of current economic conditions and frustration with various other tax situations, voters want to be assured their tax dollars are being used wisely," Zuercher said. "Voters need to understand that continuation of this levy will not raise their taxes. During the next three years, their taxes are due to be decreased when the bonds for the new high school and the hospital are paid off."

The informational video will be available by February 6 to civic and community groups throughout the county. P.E.P. members, as well as central staff members and board of education staff members, will be available to show the video and to participate in question and answer sessions. To arrange a date for a video presentation, persons may call Zuercher at (304) 329-3329 or 329-1024.

"We hope all Preston County citizens will keep an open mind regarding this issue and will attempt to learn as much as they can about the true facts and figures Preston County has a very good educational system and we strongly believe that this is not the time to take more than $3,000,000 from the budget and cause the current level of academic excellence to decline in any area," Zuercher said.

Donations are being accepted to help with the cost of advertising and other expenses relating to P.E.P.'s effort. Persons may forward checks payable to P.E.P., c/o Pam Hinton, Rt. 2, Box 262, Horse Shoe Run, WV 26769.

VITA Available In Terra Alta
